Suggestions for a Safe and Happy Holiday Season!

Do special things for others – but take care of yourself, too!

Happy Holidays!
Holiday Bill of Rights

You have the right to take care of yourself - eat right, exercise regularly and get enough rest and relaxation.

You have the right to feel mixed-up emotions around the holidays; happy, sad, frustrated, afraid and thankful.

You have the right to spend some time alone thinking, reflecting and relaxing.

You have the right to say no to dinner party invitations.

You have the right to ask for help and support from family, friends and community service agencies.

You have the right to say no to alcohol and drugs . . . and seconds on dessert.

You have the right not to ride with a drunk driver, to take their keys away, and to call a taxi for them.

You have the right to give presents that are within your holiday budget.

You have the right to smile at angry sales people and/or rude drivers and give them a peace of your mind.

You have the right to enjoy your holiday the way you want!
Checklist for Holiday Planning

Holiday planning can be a breeze if you know how to establish priorities. The list below can help!

CROSS OUT all the items on the list of holiday activities that are NOT things you do regularly.
ADD any extras in the blanks provided.
GIVE EACH ACTIVITY a number in order of its importance to you, BEGINNING with 1 for the most essential. LIMIT the final number to about 20.
Take a REALISTIC LOOK at your time and energy...then, to the rest of the items, say MAYBE NEXT YEAR!

HOLIDAY BLUES

How to Survive the Holidays

Has the holiday season arrived without you? Since we cannot control the season's arrival, it is not unusual for adults to feel out-of-synch with the holiday crowd. These tips might help you pick up your spirits and see you through.

Start New Traditions
Since the carrying on of tradition is one of the hallmarks of the holidays, you might feel most acutely sad if it is not possible to carry out some of your usual traditions. If you have recently lost a loved one, if the holiday season is the anniversary of such a loss, or if your living situation has changed in the past year and you are away from loved ones, remember that you can start new holiday traditions. They may not seem like much at first, but if you are able to repeat them over the next few years, they will begin to feel comfortable.

Participate When You Can
If you are feeling blue, it is difficult to have much enthusiasm for social expectations such as gift-giving or party-going. Participate at a level that feels comfortable to you, but try not to isolate yourself entirely. A little participation might pick up your spirit.

Take Care of Yourself
Holiday media messages can be overwhelming at the height of the season. This might be a good time to spend evenings with a good book or quiet music instead of watching television. Write letters to friends and loved ones instead of sending cards. By staying involved in some activity, you might find your mood lifting a little.

Volunteer Your Time
There are many social service programs for people in need over the holidays. Taking time to participate, if only for a few hours, can be a good way out of the holiday doldrums and help bring season's greetings to others.

Talk Things Out
Many adults experience holiday blues. If you are not able to compensate for it in some other way or feel that the blues might be drifting into depression, get professional help through your physician or your community mental health agency.
Quick-Fix Stress Management

All year around!

Deep Breathing

Works to relax all systems affected by stress

Cardiovascular - drops blood pressure and heart rate

Digestive - diaphragm moves and massages digestive organs (three deep breaths recommended before eating to signal digestive system to begin working).

Muscular Tension - the exhale signals muscles to relax.

Brain Power - increased oxygen results in increased ability to concentrate and think more clearly

1. Sit in a comfortable position - allow your shoulders to relax.
2. Close your eyes.
3. Take all those busy thoughts and do your best to leave them outside your door.
4. Focus on yourself.
5. Exhale completely - chest and abdomen area will collapse and fall inward,
6. Inhale slowly through your nose making the abdomen rise. Chest, rib cage and shoulders should not move at all. Only the abdomen swells as the lower lungs fill with air. In this type of breathing the stomach goes out to inhale and is sucked in to exhale.
7. Sequence is as follows:

   Inhale slowly to the count of 4
   Hold to the count of 4
   Exhale slowly to the count of 8
8. Practice for 3 to 10 cycles.

9. When this feels comfortable to you, you can practice it as you sit, stand or walk.

Deep Breathing is especially helpful:

- Before meals
- Before bedtime - helps you to sleep
- Anytime you feel stressed out!!
Enjoying your Golden Years

Perhaps you have looked forward to your retirement years with mixed feelings. But as they now approach, there are things you can do to replace some of your doubt or dread with fact and positive action. An average retiree can plan to live 14 to 16 years past retirement. Many live 20 and more years. You will want to live those years with all the health and happiness you can. How can you keep your golden years glistening?

Secrets of a Long Life

Research finds the following common characteristics among long lifers: they eat a healthy diet, are physically active, know how to work hard, but prudently manage their stress positively, follow their body’s intuition, do not abuse alcohol or drugs, are optimistic, spiritually alive, socially and intellectually active and tend to live orderly lives. They also tend not to be worriers, have a strong sense of purpose in life, and enjoy laughter. They do not consider themselves old and used up.

Building Your Golden Years

Use your time now to build a healthier and happier life. Your diet is healthiest if low in fat, salt and sugar, and higher in fiber, low-fat dairy products, fruits, vegetables and complex carbohydrates.

Walking is the safest and easiest form of exercise. If the weather is bad, walk in a mall, health club or your home. Your interest in a healthy, active lifestyle can help spur your social life. Building a full and rewarding social life with family and friends is one of retirement’s great opportunities. When you worked, you could not easily meet old friends for coffee and stay out late at a dance. Now you can take the time to have fun and sleep late.

You can also take time to develop your skills and talents. Perhaps you will focus on completing some goals for which you have no time until now. Try to paint, learn to play the piano or write a journal. You will enjoy the challenge and achievement, and you may develop a wonderful gift to be shared with others. You need not feel the fear of failure. You should select things according to the pleasure you get in trying.

You can donate your time as a volunteer in places that are in great need of your talents and experience. Children will love you, hospital patients will thank you, and your church or temple will grow deeper spiritually from receiving your gifts.

When to Seek Help

If you find the idea of retirement distressing, and you find it difficult to find friends or activities to brighten your expectations, you may want professional help. A professional counselor may help you make some major changes you may feel are needed in your life. You may need help in accepting your situation.

Perhaps you are adjusting to the loss of a loved one or are dealing with other life stresses that have left you depressed or distraught. Sometimes, recognizing your need and looking for help from outside resources can be just the boost you need to put the shine into your golden years.
Healthy Holiday Tips

Be Realistic about your health goals during the holidays. Accept weight maintenance vs. weight loss

Be Active. Keep moving, even if less than usual. Take a walk or dance the night away.

Simplify. Don’t feel you have to do it all. Rely on family and friends to help and share the fun.

When Eating:

- Snack before you go
- Don’t skip meals to compensate for a party
- Socialize away from the buffet table, bar or kitchen
- Take moderate portions of specialty foods you really love
- Take a dish to pass that you know is healthy
- Watch the alcohol, try spritzers
- Remember, too much sugar is more likely to rob you of energy than give you energy
- Keep your perspective...occasional indulgences. Do not ruin your attempt at a healthy lifestyle
- The key is to remind yourself of your overall health goals and get right back on track after the holidays are over!
Make the Most of Today

To realize the value of ONE YEAR
ask a student who failed a grade.

To realize the value of ONE MONTH
ask a mother who gave birth to a premature baby.

To realize the value to ONE WEEK
ask the editor of a weekly newspaper.

To realize the value of ONE HOUR
ask the lovers who are waiting to meet.

To realize the value of ONE MINUTE
ask the person who missed the train.

To realize the value of ONE SECOND
ask the person who just avoided an accident.

To realize the value of ONE MILLISECOND
ask the person who won a silver medal in the Olympics.

Treasure every moment that you have!
And treasure it more because you shared it with someone special, special enough to spend your time with.

And remember, that time waits for no one.
Yesterday is history. Tomorrow is a mystery.
Today is a gift. That’s why it is call the PRESENT!
