Casino bets on face lift to gain competitive edge

By Nate Wisneski

The Oneida Tribe broke ground on a $27.9 million casino expansion project in hopes of capturing even more of the area's gaming customers and maintain their competitive edge over the other 15 gaming facilities in Wisconsin.

The expansion and renovation will upgrade the main casino along with the Mason Street Casino. Changes to the main casino include more space allocated to slot machines, approximately 5,000 square feet of smoke-free gaming, relocation of the smoke shop to the gaming floor and a food court with three separate restaurant selections. The main casino will be the new home for the poker room and also host a 10,500 square foot sports bar and grill. The Mason Street location will add a 100-seat country themed bar and grill. The facility will expand by 8,000 square feet on the northwest side. More slot machines will be added with poker moving to the main casino.

The improvements were based off focus group results with Oneida Fun Club members.

"We are going to reinvest in ourselves," said Gaming General Manager Louise Cornelius. "Our vision is to ensure all customers have a positive entertainment experience each and every time they visit. The Oneida Gaming Division is headed for an incredibly exciting year with this expansion. We are energized and excited to put the plan of action in motion for development of expansion of gaming, entertainment and dining experiences."

Chairman Ernie Stevens feels modern and guest focused gaming facilities benefits all tribes.

"People come to our facilities to spend their recreational dollars and it's not always about a slot machine. Whether it's good music, good food or just a different experience, in today's gaming world, there are a lot more options out there," Stevens said. "So competition is a good thing and today, the Oneida Nation steps up

Insurance leaders detail uncertainty of overhaul

By Scott Bauer

Kalihwiwaks

dwalschi@oneidanation.org

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ It will be a tough task implementing the online health insurance marketplaces that are required of each state under the federal health care overhaul, and there will no doubt be consumer horror stories about trying to navigate them, insurance company executives warned Tuesday.

The insurance exchanges will offer private coverage to the uninsured and subsidies for low-income consumers. They're supposed to be open for enrollments by Oct. 1 and operating fully by Jan. 1.

"There's a great deal of uncertainty almost everywhere you look," said Mark Moody, the president and chief executive officer of WEA Trust, which offers insurance to Wisconsin school districts, state health plan members, and local units of government.

Just like when Medicare Part D was implemented, using the exchange will be stressful and chaotic for months before things settle down, Moody said.

"There will be horror stories, stories of so-called train wrecks," Moody said at the panel discussion organized by Wisconsin Health News. "It will be a difficult process to get the exchanges started. ... I think fundamentally the Affordable Care Act is on the right track but it's going to be a long, slow process."

How Wisconsin's exchange will work under real-life conditions is untested, said Mike Hamerlik, the president and chief executive officer of WPS Health Insurance, which covers about 164,000 people through health plans sold to individuals and small employers.

"It is dependent on proper execution," he said. "How this is rolled out is going to largely define at least the pace at which it is adopted."

Neither WEA Trust nor

WPS are participating in Wisconsin's exchange, at least initially, because of all the uncertainty.

Gov. Scott Walker declined to have Wisconsin construct and run its own exchange, instead ceding that responsibility to the federal government. Walker, who like most Republicans staunchly opposed President Barack Obama's signature health care law, also rejected a federally funded expansion of Medicaid.

Instead, Walker's proposed budget would restrict the income eligibility requirement for qualifying for the state's BadgerCare Medicaid

Students build own computers

Elvis Bartlett walks students through a software update, the final step before they can take their computers home.

By Travis Cottrell

Computers play a major role in everyday life, making knowledge of computer components a valuable skill in today's technological world. The newly formed Technology Club at the Oneida Nation High School gives students the opportunity to develop that skill by piecing together their own computer.

The club began with expertise, spearheaded by Elvis Bartlett and James Sommerfeldt, and spare equipment offered to the club by the Management Information Services (MIS) department.

"I gave them the parts and sort of walked around to make sure everyone was working. They work well with each other, I would show one student how to install a hard drive another how to put in some RAM and then they kind of showed each other how to put them together," said Bartlett.

The actual construction of the computers inner workings proved to be the most difficult task. Once those components were working together properly then the students were able to update the computer's software.

"I handed out packets of information on how to regularly clean your computer, just basic maintenance stuff; I figured that would be the easiest way to start learning the computers," Bartlett said.

The students used computers that were donated by the MIS department after they were replaced by newer models.

"We try to salvage laptops that were just going to be disposed of otherwise. That's a great place to start working is on scrapped equipment," Bartlett added.

Meeting one to two times a week for the past four months has given students a chance to get involved in a subject that has accumulated much interest.

"It was really fun getting to do something like this. We learned how to take a computer apart and put it back together. I was always interested in computers so I joined the club to get to learn about computers and build my own," said junior Vincent Webster.

Once the students have their computer built and running on updated software their project is complete and they will be able to take their computer home.

After the popularity and success of this new club there are hopes of expanding the club in the future.

"Hopefully in the near future we can offer this as part of the curriculum. We can have Elvis come in, or others from the MIS department, for assistance and we could include certifications from the Career Center," said math teacher Michael Hanke, whose classroom serves as the meeting and building room. "A lot of our students play sports so they don't have time to commit after school to learn these things. That's where we would again benefit from a classroom setting."

Aside from the possibility of offering computer technology classes, subjects such as computer graphics and building web pages are also being considered. Subjects that would further update the curriculum, bringing it into the information technology age.

In Loving Memory

Missing you on Father's Day
Norman J. Elm

February 1, 1931 – January 30, 2013

You never said "I'm leaving"
 You never said "goodbye"
 You were gone before I knew it,
 And only God knew why.
 There are no words to tell you,
 Just what I feel,
 The shock, the hurt, the anger that is all inside.

A million times I need you
 A million times I cried

If Love alone could have saved you

You never would have died

In Life I loved you dearly

In death I love you still

In my heart you hold a place

That no one could ever fill

It broke my heart to lose you

But you didn't go alone

For part of me went with you

The day God took you home

Things will never be the same

And although it hurts so bad

I will smile whenever I hear your name

And be proud you were my Dad.

That is why on this Day I am remembering you in every way.

I miss you and love you forever.

OTIE sponsors Club Invention

Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises LLC (OTIE) is pleased to announce the sponsorship of the 2013 Club Invention summer camp program for Oneida Nation School System students entering grades 1-6.

OTIE will sponsor more than 20 children to attend Club Invention so that Oneida children have the opportunity to learn more about math, science, engineering and technology in a safe and familiar environment.

Club Invention will take place at the Oneida Nation Elementary School from June 10-14 and June 17-21, 2013, under the direction of ONES administration and teaching staff that have helped coordinate the Club Invention program through OTIE sponsorship.

Club Invention is a summer series program of Invent Now, Inc., that is dedicated to finding new ways to promote creativity and technology. The program was created for children in grades 1-6 to provide fun, educational activities based on math and science.

This is the first year that Club Invention is being brought to the Oneida community as part of the OTIE education outreach program, and is part of OTIE's commitment to providing education enrichment opportunities for Oneida children and their families.

If the program concept is successful and effectively plants the seeds of engineering and science interest in the minds of Oneida children, OTIE will continue to expand this program or a similar program over the next few years.

OTIE is an engineering, science and construction management services company owned by the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin.

To the plate."

Stevens also pointed out Indian gaming is accomplishing what it was designed to do.

"We were in the process of doing what exactly tribal government gaming does, expanding and building into our education system and our tribal government system. That is the true reason for gaming and that's really what we are all about," he said.

It is anticipated that the opening of the new food venues will create approximately 145 to 175 food and beverage jobs. The main casino construction is set to be completed in April 2014 while work at the Mason Street location is slated to be finalized in May of 2014.

The expansion plans were approved by the General Tribal Council (GTC) during a November 2011 GTC Budget meeting.

"We have a great work force that continues to move our casino forward. We have the support of the Oneida Business Committee and most importantly more than 2,000 of our General Tribal Council that supported this expansion (and) gave us support and approval to move forward," added Cornelius.

Behind the Naming of Structures in Our Community

Embracing the Life Achievements of those Honored

Anna John

One of the catalysts of progress on the Oneida Reservation during a time when we experienced the most progress, was Anna John, nee Christjohn. Anna was the eldest daughter of Lucy and Mose Christjohn. She was born and raised on the Oneida Reservation during an era that brought hard times on Oneida people. Anna was raised by her Grandmother Louisa Christjohn. She married Noran John and they had eight children, four sons and four daughters: Richard, Emily, Darrel, Carlton (Beaver), Darwin, Brenda, LuAnne, and Rosemary.

Anna spent her life pursuing her personal vision to improve the quality of life on the Oneida Reservation by bringing the standard of health care, education and elder services to a higher quality. She had a strong work ethic and often times did much for her community through her church and through the Oneida Tribal Council. She was a strong advocate for providing resources for our Oneida people to acquire the skills needed to help themselves. She was staunch in her position about Oneida who needed to pick themselves up by the bootstraps when they were able and just as driven to help those who could not pick themselves up.

Anna was a fluent speaker of the Oneida Language and was also a consultant to the Oneida Language program and always willing to lend her ears to make sure pronunciation and diction were correct. Students of the Oneida language always knew they had support of these native speakers.

Anna worked with many other leaders in this community to improve the quality of life in a community that had dirt roads, outdoor toilets, no running water and old wood stoves for heat. She lived in an era when women hung their laundry out to dry and ironed clothes for their family. She knew what it was to actually cook meals for her family, three times a day. She made sure her family made it to school, work and church. Her values were strong family values, a good work ethic and dreams of education of her children in a healthy environment. She had a dream not only for her family, but for all Oneida families to live in decent homes, have jobs and go to school.

Later in life Anna developed a passion for taking care of our elders and meeting their health care needs. Somehow she and others got this idea that we could have our own nursing home to take care of those elders who didn't have the means to stay with family or needed medical attention that couldn't be provided at home. She and a host of other strong willed Oneida women began to take their talk one step further to fruition.

Anna combined her efforts with Priscilla "Budgie" Manders, Audrey Doxtator, and together these women began to meet and seek out the resources needed to identify funding for their new project.

Anna and Priscilla Manders were affectionately called Oneida's first cigarette girls. They were bound and determined to see their vision of a nursing home for Oneida elders come to fruition. They began to sell untaxed cigarettes weekly at our bingo games in the civic center out of a storage cabinet. The revenues went to a fund for the nursing home.

Oneida Government was a tool for Anna, she was quite adept at influencing the General Tribal Council. During Anna's lifetime it was not easy to get a quorum for our annual and semi-annual meetings of the General Tribal Council. The fact that we might one day pay each person to attend would most likely have shocked Anna. She would most likely rather see that money used for increasing and improving elder services and education. Very seldom was Anna John not in attendance at a GTC meeting.

She had strong opinions and was well respected in the GTC as well as the Oneida community. When Anna spoke, people knew she spoke from the heart, with wisdom and she had the best interest of the Oneida Tribe at heart.

So who was Anna John, and why did we name a Nursing Home in her honor? Anna was a strong outspoken Oneida woman who was hard pressed to ever take no for an answer. She was dedicated and motivated to improve conditions on the Oneida Reservation to make a better life for her people. She was a woman driven to help when someone needed a hand, she was an inspiration to many people and a devoted Oneida woman who worked tirelessly without stipends and per capita checks. She was in truth a remarkable Oneida woman.

I wonder why Anna did so much for our community when she didn't have to do a thing. Perhaps because she knew she could improve the quality of life for those who could not help themselves, or perhaps because she knew she could be the voice for those who could not speak for themselves. Whatever the reason, I'm glad she chose to challenge herself and those around her to make the Oneida Reservation a better place to live a good community to raise a family.

Seven Generation Visionaries

This is a series I am composing to profile our past leadership for their contributions to the Oneida Nation and their efforts that will impact our lives for the next seven generations and perhaps beyond. These are recollections that I have about the people I have known throughout my life, my earliest recollection is Oscar Archiquette who was my first teacher of the Oneida Language. Others include, Irene Moore, Lee McLester II, David "Sonny" King, Norbert Hill and others.

The first in my series is Anna John, an elder whom I respected and admired for many years. Her grandson Allen, entered a comment on facebook about the new Anna John Nursing Home and felt there was very little attributed to the namesake of that beautiful state of the art facility. That inspired me to begin to write short recollections about all the Oneida people who have places named in their honor. We need to keep their memory alive, but more importantly, Oneida people need to know the spirit that lived in each of these leaders which inspired them to create a better quality of life on our reservation.

I hope you enjoy my memories.

Practice fireworks safety while celebrating Independence Day

The Oneida Eye Clinic urges you to protect your eyesight this July 4th

The Fourth of July is a widely celebrated holiday nationwide, and a large part of many Fourth of July celebrations is the novelty and fun of fireworks. As we celebrate this national holiday in honor of our nation's independence, however, we must not forget the danger that fireworks may pose to our eyes and to our vision. During this year's Fourth of July holiday celebrations, we urge all citizens to exercise caution and safety when enjoying the spectacle of and in the using of all types of fireworks.

Outside of injuries to the hands and fingers, eye injuries are among the most common injuries which result from the improper use of fireworks. According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC -

<http://www.cpsc.gov/>, an estimated 9,600 fireworks-related injuries were treated in 2011. In a study conducted by CPSC staff of fireworks injuries from June 17-July 17, 2011, injuries to the eye were the second most common fireworks-related injuries as measured, accounting for nearly 1 in 5 cases.

While fireworks-related injuries typically result in burns on other parts of the body, hits, cuts, and embedded foreign bodies are common in terms of fireworks damage done to the eye.

Of concern in this study are results showing that children and young adults under 20 years of age accounted for over 30 percent of all estimated injuries caused by fireworks, and over 1 in 4 children under the age of 15 suffered fireworks-related injuries in this time period. Topping the list of injury causes were sparklers, a favorite among children and generally thought to be reasonably safe in the minds of many parents and adults. The young, who tend to be especially attracted to the spectacle of using fireworks, are suffering the greatest negative impact as a result. In terms of gender, males are overwhelmingly impacted, comprising 68% of fireworks-related injury occurrences.

"As adults and parents, we must take the reins in promoting the safe use of fireworks to everyone within our circle of family and friends," advises our Optical Director and optometrist, Dr. Lisa Slaby. "As an eye doctor, I have seen firsthand the devastating results of fireworks-related accidents to the eye. Most of these injuries could have been avoided."

The purchase and use without a permit of some consumer fireworks is legal in Wisconsin. However, we remind everyone that no private use of fireworks is completely without risk, and therefore, we urge people to attend fireworks displays conducted by professionals. If you do choose to use fireworks this Fourth of July, please follow common sense safety guidelines; provide adult supervision to all children at all times, instruct children to leave the area immediately if their friends are using fireworks without adult supervision, do not allow young children to play with or ignite fireworks, never shoot off fireworks in metal or glass containers as these materials can explode and release shrapnel, never try to relight or pick up fireworks that have not ignited fully, and always keep a bucket of water on hand in case of a malfunction or fire.

If an accident does occur, minimize damage to the eye and help potentially save a person's sight by following these guidelines:

- Seek medical attention immediately, even for seemingly mild injuries. "Mildly" damaged areas can worsen and end in serious vision loss or even blindness.
- Shield the eye from pressure. Tape or secure the bottom of a foam cup, milk carton or similar shield against the brow, cheek, and bridge of the nose.

- Do NOT rub the eye or apply pressure. If any eye tissue is torn, rubbing might cause more serious damage.
- Do NOT attempt to rinse out the eye. This can be even more damaging than rubbing.
- Do NOT give aspirin/ibuprofen (or other non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs) to try to reduce the pain. These medications thin the blood and might increase bleeding.
- Do NOT apply ointment or any medication without consulting a licensed eye doctor.

Letters & Opinions...

The Ugly Truth

Sherrole Benton's letter in the May 30, 2013 Kalihwisaks could be dismissed as the ravings of an uninformed OSGC fangirl if it wasn't so blatantly defamatory.

For the record, my presentation at the May 5, 2013 GTC Meeting was factually correct and scientifically accurate, made no false claims about anyone, and neither I nor the equipment I used are at fault for any technical problems experienced by OSGC.

In fact, Tribal Information Officer Brenda John-Stevens and PM Productions owner Pat Metoxen can attest that they were having difficulty with their equipment before I even walked in, as can the many witnesses who arrived early and saw it for themselves.

Sherrole should presumably know better than to try to besmirch me with lies and here-say given that she's bragged on State Senator Dave Hansen's Facebook page that she's an award-winning journalist, which means she should be held to journalistic standards that she betrayed.

Did you notice how Sherrole's letter slyly attempted to smear me with accusations that are actually true about

OSGC and herself?

It wasn't I but Brown County Judge Marc A. Hammer who determined that many of OSGC's claims about its incineration project were 'factually incorrect' and 'didn't add up.'

It's not "character assassination" to point out that someone else is committing 'character suicide.' To the many GTC members who thanked me for my presentation and for clarifying details regarding certain relationships, you're welcome.

What is "character assassination"? Using one's OBC column to falsely accuse opponents of dioxin-emitting incinerators of being nothing but racists, especially when you previously voted for a resolution to ask the U.S. Government to pursue ending the production of dioxin everywhere because it harms indigenous people.

Likewise, Oneidas belowing "Racist! Racist!" at Green Bay public hearings toward people who share the same misgivings as well-known Native American activists. What was the nickname given that group again? The Ugly Squad?

Shining a light and holding up a mirror to expose ugly acts doesn't make you responsible for the reprehensible reflection of reality.

I asked Editor Dawn Walschinski to retract Sherrole's letter and acknowledge that the Kalihwisaks' staff has no basis on which to believe or publish any of her false claims, but Dawn declined my request.

Therefore, I ask that you – the reader – contact Dawn and her supervisor, Joanie Buckley, as well as Chairperson Ed Delgado, and ask that no section of the Kalihwisaks be used to publish falsehoods about facts and people. Having an opinion is one thing, but lying is dishonorable and unacceptable.

We deserve better if we demand better.

Instead, Walker's proposed budget would restrict the income eligibility requirement for qualifying for the state's BadgerCare Medicaid program to no more than 100 percent of poverty. People currently on Medicaid who earn up to 200 percent of poverty would instead purchase their insurance through the exchange.

Walker assumed that 93 percent of the people who would lose BadgerCare coverage would still buy insurance through the exchange. But the nonpartisan Legislative Fiscal Bureau said that estimate was "unreasonably optimistic."

Linda Hoff, the president and chief executive officer of Physicians Plus Insurance Corp., said during Tuesday's panel that she believes navigating the exchange will be difficult, and healthy young people won't even bother trying. Physicians Plus covers about 105,000 people in south central Wisconsin.

"We're going to see an uptick in the uninsured coming through the ER," Hoff said. "That's only going to put more pressure on costs going up everywhere else."

Walker's budget includes a $73 million payment to hospitals to help defray the anticipated costs of more uninsured people seeking coverage at hospitals.

Lon Sprecher, the president and chief executive officer of Dean Health Plan, said his biggest concern was that only high-risk people will end up joining the exchanges.

The panel focused largely on the implementation of the exchange, but also touched on other elements of the health care law, including whether it will save money and provide people with better options.

The key to transforming the nation's health care system is for everyone involved to be more transparent about the true cost of care, Hamerlik said. The cost of health care is one of the most controlling factors in people's lives, and you can't have a true marketplace unless all prices are published, he said.

"The whole purpose of this is to provide consumers with a choice," he said.

Dental Day at SEOTS

By Deb Ushakow

Oneida Tribal Member Susan Brandstetter a registered Dental Hygienist visited the Elder on Senior Day. Dental Hygiene is so important for everyone, no matter what age. Growing up for most people at the age of 50 or 60 years of age, most of us just went to the dentist if we had a toothache. I myself never knew anything about flossing.

Susan talked about the best way to take care of our teeth. She brought different dental instruments, and gave us information on how to brush your teeth, choosing your toothpaste and even a choosing a good toothbrush. We learned that we should not choose an unknown brand from the dollar store, due to the fact that the tips of the brush may not be cut correctly. The tips of the brush should be rounded so the teeth are not damaged or your gums are not damaged when brushing. Fluoride protects our teeth and flossing is important to do on a daily basis.

Susan talked about the fear of going to the dentist and for us to be sure and tell your dentist, so he can assure and help you through that fear.

Taking care of crowns and bridges is as important as taking care of your natural teeth. It is important that the dentures fit well and they must be kept clean to prevent inflammation of the gums and if not cleaned properly can cause infection.

We learned as we age, so do our mouths. Susan expressed the importance of good dental health, because it can affect your overall health, especially if you are a diabetic or have heart problems. Gum disease (gingivitis) is 100% preventable for everyone.

So the bottom line is: Brush your teeth twice a day, floss and it is suggested to see your dentist every 6 months for a good cleaning!

So keep brushing and keep Smiling!

Thank You Susan for your great presentation! And by the way, thank you for joining us for lunch!

SEOTS Building Project

By Mark W. Powless

In 1992, Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) was established as an off-reservation office in the Milwaukee-area to provide services to all Oneida tribal members in the six counties of southeastern Wisconsin. The mission of SEOTS is: Strengthening our cultural connection and providing services and programs to enhance the well-being of Onayote?aka in southeastern Wisconsin. Twenty years of resourceful and innovative collaboration have allowed SEOTS to provide many services to other tribal members and their descendants as well.

SEOTS offers many services and programs, including youth and elder activities, medication distribution, cultural education, Oneida language classes, referral services and much more. The population of Oneida Tribal members residing in southeast Wisconsin currently stand at 1,976. During fiscal year 2012, SEOTS' total client interactions was about 11,500. A client interaction includes office visits as well as phone calls received.

In 2004 the Oneida General Tribal Council directed the Oneida Business Committee to provide assistance to SEOTS to locate long term facilities for the SEOTS program, whether rental or purchase.

In 2010 the Oneida General Tribal Council approved a $38 million bond package that included $2 million for the purchase of long-term facility for SEOTS. From the on-set, SEOTS has considered buying an existing facility or building a new facility. SEOTS recently viewed an existing facility that meets many of the criteria established for the building search.

There are two main reasons for the purchase of building (instead of continuing to lease).

One reason is financial. According to loopnet.com, an online resource for commercial real estate, average office lease rates for Milwaukee city are approximately $14 per square foot. SEOTS current lease rate is $14.50 for a 7,100 square foot facility. That places our yearly lease payment at approximately $103,000. As with all lease or rent payments, there is no way to recoup those expenses.

Purchasing a building will pay for itself over time, when taking into account inflation and increased efficiencies.

In addition, SEOTS has oping a long-term relationship with southeast Wisconsin, the Oneida Tribe positions itself to take advance of more opportunities and strengthens its relationship with a significant population of Oneida Tribal members thereby taking one step closer to the Oneida vision of strong families built on our ways and a strong economy.

As we move forward, we hope to maintain the support of the Oneida Tribal community in all endeavors. After all, Oneida Tribal members have traveled to the Milwaukee for decades in search of opportunity and development, some, choosing to make a home in the area, others choosing to return home to the reservation. This is a trend that does not appear to be changing and SEOTS can be a resource for the community for generations to come, as we preserve our cultural connections and develop economic opportunities for the Oneida Tribe.

For Tribal members who desire more information, feel free to contact the SEOTS office, Monday-Friday, 8:30am-4:30pm.

Leadership Development & WWGP

Oneida adventures partnered with Wise Women Gathering in helping their high school students develop leadership skills. High school students attending Wise Youth Group, led by Jen Schanen, took the facilitator role in Oneida Adventure's break out discussion groups and experiential activities, leading the middle school student group. Many of the high school students committed their time to consistently leading the middle school students on the once a month scheduled time frame with Oneida Adventures. The leadership activities included: mask making activities focusing on trust building, outdoor hiking and adventure stations focusing on an anti-bullying initiative, and challenge course/high ropes climbing. High school students recognized the importance of the leadership role and challenged themselves to engage with the middle school student on a new level to earn their respect and trust.

Oneida Community Integrated Food Systems

Why Buy Local?

Food comes to most of us now through a global food system which is destructive of both natural and social communities. In this unstable, post-modern world, our food can be one way through which we reassemble our fragmented identities and reestablish communities. We find this vision of people living well and responsibly with each other and with the land on which they are placed to be deeply appealing.

Local businesses and farms produce more income, jobs, and tax receipts for local communities than big box stores do. Local businesses and farms are more likely to utilize local ads, banks and other services. Local businesses donate more money to nonprofits and are more accountable to their local communities. Supporting local businesses preserves the economic diversity of our communities and the unique character of our neighborhoods.

Supporting local businesses and farmers is good for the environment, because it cuts down on fuel consumption. Buying locally produced goods reduces the need to ship goods from thousands of miles away and also cuts down on the distance shoppers travel. Vine ripen - not truck ripen. Many of our foods are picked when they are not yet ripe and then ripen in the truck on the way here, or worse yet sprayed to look like they are ripe when they get here.

The Oneida Nation Farm operates a cattle and bison operation, from our farm to your table. No steroids, hormones, antibiotics, or animal byproducts are used. The Oneida Nation Farm features a "Point-of-Origin" cow-calf pasture, a beef feedlot, and pastured Bison herd. The Apple Orchard has 34 acres of orchard with 36 different varieties. In addition they have fresh produce such as: strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, sweet corn, squash, pumpkins.

Tsyunhehkwa program is a culturally and community based agricultural entity of the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin. The program consists of two components, Agricultural & Cannery. The Cannery processes not only our products, but items produced by other areas of the Nation and the Community.

Organic 80-acre site, which provides grass-fed beef, free range poultry, farm fresh eggs and organic produce. The Cannery processes not only our products, but items produced by other areas of the Nation and the Community. They work to be your educational resource in food security and pursuit toward self-sustainability.

So buy your natural Black Angus meat, your fruit, and your certified organic produce from the new ONEIDA MARKET located at 501 Packerland Drive in Green Bay.

Be sure to check out the Oneida Farmers' Market starting on June 27 near the Post Office in the Oneida Business Park.

Wis. Senate OKs outdoor fees for Purple Heart vets

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The Wisconsin Senate has approved a bill that would offer wounded veterans steep discounts on the state Department of Natural Resource's catch-all outdoor activity license.

The bipartisan measure would allow Purple Heart recipients who reside in Wisconsin to purchase a conservation patron license for $10. The licenses currently cost state residents $165.

Purple Heart recipients who live outside Wisconsin would pay $161 for a license; out-of-state residents currently pay $600 per license.

Conservation patron licenses authorize the holder to participate in a range of hunting, trapping and fishing activities.

The bill also would offer out-of-state Purple Heart winners individual outdoor licenses at cheaper state resident prices.

The Senate approved the bill on a unanimous voice vote on Tuesday with no debate. It now goes to the state Assembly.

UW looks at 2 options for flexible degree program

MILWAUKEE (AP) ~ University of Wisconsin System regents have been presented with two choices for working adults hoping to finish college degrees with the systems' new Flexible Option program.

The flexible degree program being introduced in the fall will allow students to earn college credit by demonstrating knowledge on tests. That knowledge may come from on-the-job training, military experience or coursework.

Under a proposal the UW Board of Regents was expected to discuss at its Thursday meeting, students would be able to learn as much as they could in three months for $2,250. The Milwaukee Journal Sentinel reported it would likely include two to four classes, depending on how quickly students worked and passed the tests.

Assuming students completed three terms per year, the $6,750 cost would be comparable to undergraduate resident tuition at UW system four-year campuses, system officials said. The all-you-can-learn option would include access to financial aid, advising, tutoring and other support services.

The fee for the second option, an assessment for college credit, has not yet been set. It would not include financial aid or student services.

"The beauty of the program is it could cost them very little if they take the pretest and test out of coursework," said Ray Cross, chancellor of UW Colleges. "When they are admitted, they work with an admissions adviser to sort out the exact competencies where they may be deficient, and work only on those."

Wisconsin lags the national average in the portion of its residents with a college degree.

Currently, 26 percent of Wisconsin adults have one, compared to 28 percent nationally. The flexible degree program is aimed at boosting that number and, in turn, improving the state economy.

The first Flexible Option degrees will be offered in areas where officials say skills are most needed: health care, information technology and business.

The program will start this fall at UW-Milwaukee and the two-year UW colleges. It will expand to other UW campuses over the next several years.

Coalition still battling against Mich. wolf hunt

LANSING, Mich. (AP) ~ A coalition that opposes hunting wolves in Michigan is still making its case even though officials have scheduled a hunt for later this year. The Keep Michigan Wolves Protected campaign is holding forums this week in Kalamazoo, Clarkston and Woodhaven. Organizers say they'll focus on the ecological and cultural value of wolves and provide information about the hunt.

But legislators rushed through another measure that would make the referendum meaningless by allowing the Natural Resources Commission to establish a hunt. The commission last month scheduled an Upper Peninsula hunt for Nov. 15 to Dec. 31.

Health groups unite against ban on sugar bans

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Six health groups have united against a provision in the Wisconsin state budget that would prohibit local communities from banning sugary foods and drinks.

The groups on Tuesday called on the Legislature to remove the provision before passing the budget later this month.

The ban was added by the Joint Finance Committee last month, with Republican supporters saying they didn't want government infringing on their ability to buy large sodas.

But the health groups say the ban will have a much wider unintended impact, including limiting employee wellness programs.

Groups calling for removal of the provision are Health First Wisconsin, the American Cancer Society Cancer Action Network, the American Heart Association, the Wisconsin Council on Children and Families, the Wisconsin Primary Health Care Association, and the Childhood Obesity Prevention Collaborative.

Interior allows more comments for drilling

By Matthew Daly
Associated Press

WASHINGTON ~ Companies that drill for oil and natural gas - and their critics - will have 60 more days to comment on a new rule regulating hydraulic fracturing operations on public lands.

Interior Secretary Sally Jewell called the rule a "common-sense update" that increases safety while also providing flexibility and improving coordination with states and Indian tribes. Drilling regulations were last changed in 1982.

Comments on the drilling proposal will be accepted through late August.

UT gets letter handwritten by George Washington

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)

The University of Texas at Austin has acquired a letter handwritten by George Washington that school officials say "sheds light" on the first president's view on Native Americans.

The letter written in 1769 describes the killing of three members of the Mingo tribe by white settlers. In the letter, Washington described the deaths as "villainy" and demanded "justice." He also wrote that the killings were murder "for it deserves no other name."

The university's Dolph Briscoe Center for American History acquired the letter. Briscoe Center Executive Director Don Carleton said the letter "sheds light on Washington's views on Indian relations and his care for his family."

UT accepted the letter as a donation from Dallas oil and gas businessman and major UT donor Barron U. Kidd.

Feds toss Michigan complaint to ban Indian mascots

LANSING, Mich. (AP)

A federal agency has dismissed a complaint seeking to ban the use of American Indian mascots in Michigan's K-12 schools.

In February, the Michigan Department of Civil Rights cited 35 Michigan school districts for discrimination, saying their mascots reinforce stereotypes and hurt American Indian students' self-esteem and learning.

But the U.S. Education Department's Office of Civil Rights denied the state's complaint last week. Federal officials say Michigan officials provided no specific examples of racial incidents or American Indian students suffering specific harm because of the reported discrimination.

The state civil rights department said Monday it's disappointed by the ruling and is considering its options.

Michigan's complaint to the federal government has drawn criticism from Republican lawmakers who say it was misguided and done without input from communities.

US poisons invasive Lake Michigan lamprey larvae

EAST BAY TOWNSHIP, Mich. (AP) — Federal wildlife workers will go after one of the Great Lakes' greatest invasive pests this week when they poison the larvae of sea lamprey in a stream feeding Lake Michigan.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service plans treatments for Tuesday through next Sunday in the Mitchell Creek stream bottom. The creek flows through Traverse City State Park before entering Grand Traverse Bay's east arm. The park is in Grand Traverse County's East Bay Township, east of Traverse City.

"The larval sea lamprey in these rivers is at its most vulnerable life stage," said Alex Gonzalez, a fish biologist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Ludington office. "For us to get the adult lamprey in the lakes would be impossible."

The treatments are 95 percent to 99 percent effective in killing the parasite at this stage, Gonzalez told the Traverse City Record-Eagle.

Lampreys have been sucking the blood from lake trout, salmon and walleye for decades.

Gonzalez said the lamprey control program has helped control the parasite's Great Lakes populations for 50 years and keep native fish populations viable. Treatments are typically done every 3 to 5 years, he said.

Heather Hettinger, a fisheries biologist with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said most local waterways that connect with Lake Michigan - such as the Betise and Platte rivers - have been regularly treated.

ed for sea lamprey for decades.

The lampricides don't pose an unreasonable risk to humans or the larger environment, but people are encouraged to limit their exposure as the treatments are underway, Hettinger said. She said the chemicals biodegrade quickly.

Adult sea lampreys, which reach lengths of 2 to 3 feet, resemble eels but behave more like leeches. With round, disk-like mouths and sharp teeth, they latch onto fish and suck out their blood and other bodily fluids, killing or severely weakening the hosts. Although native to the Atlantic, they can live in fresh water and migrated to the Great Lakes through shipping canals. By the late 1940s, the prolific invaders had decimated trout, whitefish and other sport and commercial species across the lakes.

The fight against lamprey has cost more than $400 million over five decades. The lamprey population has dropped by about 90 percent since researchers perfected a way in the late 1950s to kill lamprey but not other species.

Comparing Cultural differences, similarities

By Yvonne Kaquatosh

The Oneida Nation Museum was the location for one of the stops for a group study exchange team as part of their month-long mission to the United States. The visitors from Australia included members of Rotary International District 9750, DG Bill and Christie Salter, based in New South Wales Australia; Team Leader Richard Booth, retired Superintendent of Liverpool School District (2002); Rescue Team Leader Anna Habeck, who served eight years in that capacity for the Kiama unit of the New South Wales State Emergency Service and is currently earning her PhD in fluvial geomorphology from the University of Wollongong; Solicitor Kate Gould, an attorney with Marsdens Law Group; Health Policy Officer Alexander Lynch, whose role focuses on extensive planning, developing and advocating initiatives to various levels of government in relation to the health sector; and Teacher Ben Cook, who is a member of a two person teaching team for an organization called Father Riley's Youth Off The Streets for the homeless and disadvantaged teenagers in the Sydney region.

Oneida Nation citizens on hand to address key programs or areas of interest in the community were Marty Antone, Director in Charge of Emergency Management/Homeland Security; JoAnn Ninham, YES Program Advisor; Terry Cornelius, CFO Advisor; Randy Cornelius, Cultural Heritage; as well as Oneida Business Committee Council member Brandon Stevens.

The guests were interested in learning more about Native American tribes in this region and the Oneida were happy to accommodate.

Topics touched on were in the area of history, environmental, health, education as well and farming practices to name a few.

The group traveled to locations in both Michigan and Wisconsin. They also met with members of the Potawatomi Tribe.

Rita Lara, Museum Director, coordinated the event and provided a traditional lunch for the guests.

Mr. Booth of the Australian group said it best when comparing the two communities – Oneida and the Australians, “Two completely distinct cultures coming together.”

Household Clean Sweep offers elders curbside pick up for unwanted items

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihiwak
dwaschi@oneidanation.org

Environmental specialist-pollution prevention Amy Spears would like to know if she'll ever see the end of old television sets.

"It feels like at some point we're going to have to start decreasing with the amount of stuff, especially with the TV's, I just can't believe how many TV's people have. Every year, there's just more and more electronic waste," said Spears.

It was in response to a 2010 ban on electronic waste that the Oneida Environmental Health and Safety Department (EHS) started the annual Household Clean Sweep where Oneida citizens could unload unwanted TVs, appliances, tires, household hazardous waste and other unwanted items for free disposal.

"We've had our service agreement with Brown County for quite a few years, and our tribal members can use the household hazardous waste facility on Broadway free of charge," said Spears. "They keep track on their end of people who show their tribal ID ... we were having extremely low numbers. So we're paying this service agreement to them but our tribal members are hardly using that service."

The Household Clean Sweep had been planned to be a one-time event.

"We had such a great response, an awesome response, that we decided to keep doing it," said Spears.

Last year's event had 315 registered people and recycled 35 tons of material, according to Spears. Like last year, this year's clean sweep brought out Habitat for Humanity Restore, Goodwill, and a metal scrapper to find a home for items that can be reused or recycled.

EHS partnered with the Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) and Oneida Elder Services to expand the clean sweep. Along with a $10,000 grant from the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection, the Oneida departments have teamed up to offer curbside pick-up for Oneida elders on the reservation.

"It was really something that came about because I was getting calls from people asking for this," she said.

Spears said the teams collected waste from 80 homes over two days.

"Ninety-five percent of the people that we're picking up from have big TVs," said Spears. There are plans for a second pick-up in August.

As workers from OHA loaded up her refuse into a trailer, Marlene Ninham expressed gratitude for the service.

"I would have to hire someone with a truck to take this stuff to the dump for me. This is a really good idea," she said.

New Oneida ID Cards Available

Beginning June 1st there will be a new Oneida ID card available at Enrollment office. The new card looks much like the old cards with one exception, it will have a bar code on the back of the card. This bar code allows for faster Gas Tax exemption service for the customers at the Oneida One Stops. It also a more accurate way of tracking the transactions so the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin can be reimbursed from the State more efficiently.

In the future it will also assist with the processing of tribal members who attend GTC meetings. Getting a new card today will require a fee of $3.50 or $1.50 if you are over 55. The only exception to the bar coded cards are youth 15 or younger who will not receive bar coded ID cards.

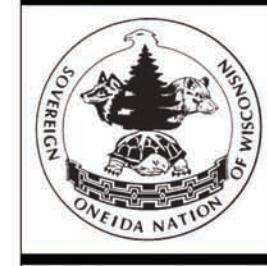

A new ID card can be obtained during regular business hours at the Enrollment office with the exception of Mondays – No ID cards are processed on Mondays between June 1-Sept 2.

If you do not need a new card right now, you may opt to wait until October 1, 2013, at which time, you may exchange your old card for a new card with bar code at NO cost to you.

Purpose: Small Business Project 2000 Amendments.

The purpose of the amendments to the Small Business Project 2000 Policies and Procedures (Policy) is to change the Policy into a law and revise the terms under which small business loans are provided to eligible Tribal borrowers. The amendments include:

- Increasing the borrower's minimum contribution from 5% to 15%.
- Removing a flat 5% loan interest rate and authorizing the interest rate to be set through resolution by the Oneida Business Committee.
- Expanding the maximum term of a real estate loan from 15 to 20 years, and allowing loans to be amortized over 30 years, instead of 25.
- Requiring the Loan Fund Manager to provide a borrower with 20 calendar days written notice of the documents that the borrower must bring to the closing.
- Revising the default provisions to provide the borrower with more information on how to cure a default, and to require a minimum of 30 calendar days following such notice whereby the borrower can cure the default.
- Updating the format of the Law.

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Oneida Tribal Treasurer

Recently a request was made for an external audit of the Department of Land Management (DOLM). After much discussion, the Business Committee (BC) approved this request with the stipulation that all land acquisition will cease until the audit is complete. There were many reasons why the suspension of land purchases was initiated. To name a few, farm land is purchased and not developed, homes are purchased and torn down, the quality of some of the purchased homes is questionable and there appears to be no relevance to long range plans based on housing needs.

Regardless of the rumors around the community and what is being said about me or the Finance Department, I did not make this decision alone. Five (5) BC members voted for the suspension of purchases, two (2) voted against and one (1) was not present. The Chairman only votes in the case of a tie. The BC members made the decision together. Personally, I felt the decision was appropriate. An audit was called for into the purchasing practices of DOLM. If there are problems, we should not continue to make purchases and it is that simple. The suspension is in place until the audit is complete and the appropriate responses are made either by DOLM management, the Land Commission or both entities.

Having been in the market to buy a home, I am aware of what is available within our reservation boundaries. Having been to many open houses I have seen both the good and the bad. Out of the houses I have seen, it is unfortunate that some of the worst ones are the homes offered through our DREAM program. I have been informed that there are policies and procedures in place that prohibit DOLM from just going out and purchasing homes, that the home owner has to contact DOLM or the home needs to be on the market for so many days before DOLM will consider it. I am not sure if these reasons are accurate because I have never seen a policy or procedure that addresses this issue. The question looms, why would we restrict ourselves to these types of constraints? This is housing for our people and making quality homes available for our buyers must be a requisite.

With this in mind who is responsible for choosing the homes we purchase? Is it DOLM or the Land Commission? Now that there is a suspension in place, are there other tasks for staff? I would ask these questions myself but when I do, I am accused of being involved with day-to-day decisions and am told "it is not within my purview to ask". As Treasurer the authority to ask questions on behalf of the General Tribal Council (GTC) is my responsibility. Perhaps it is time DOLM made a presentation to the GTC and address these issues. This would be a great opportunity to get membership feedback.

Since I am on the subject of housing, the five (5) duplexes located within the Green Valley Subdivision are still not complete. The last tour I went on was in late February and at that time, we were told they would be finished in two weeks. It is now three months later and still there is no siding on any of them, the driveways are not complete, and no landscaping has been completed. At least one does not even have an official front door. This is very disturbing considering again the Finance Department and I are rumored to be the blame for these units not being complete. I and the Finance Department do not have any control over how these homes are built. If the approved policies and procedures are adhered to then approval for payments are made.

I will continue to support the Finance team and address relevant issues. Regardless of what people believe I am one person and do not have the authority to act alone. I stand behind the decisions I make and have no problem defending my position on issues. My job has always been to look out for the best interest of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin as a whole and to ensure our purchases are appropriate.

In doing so, I get blamed a lot but I am willing to rise to the challenge.

In retrospect, the Anna John Nursing Home (AJNH) celebrated their ribbon cutting on February 8, 2013 in anticipation of moving into their new home. The AJNH residents have reported they will be moving to the new Anna John Resident Centered Care Community (AJRC-CC) on June 12, 2013. Although official word has not been received by the BC and it has been four months since the ribbon cutting and I am hopeful this move will occur on schedule. This is great news and I hope the entire BC will join me in welcoming the AJNH patients to their new home.

Happy Father's Day to all the Dads and Grandpas. You are all needed and encouraged for the wellbeing of our families. Spring is supposed to bring renewal and I am still hoping that will occur for all of us and our organization. Until next time I wish everyone health and prosperity.

OBC Forum...

I hope as we head into summer that you and your family are doing well. My office has been working on various policy matters and I have remained interested in seeing room in the budget for pay raises for the Oneida employees and new homes constructed for the homeless.

We have also been working on trying to tackle a few tough internal issues. One such issue is the Land Management changes which are occurring. The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) on Wednesday, June 6, 2013 took action to appoint an Interim Director for the Department of Land Management in response to the resignation of the previous Land Management Director. This issue and that department have been under an on-going audit so I cannot comment at this time on where this is all going. I will say the OBC is interested in seeing a newly updated set of policies for the department to emerge through this process. Stay tuned.

The Duck Creek International Carving Competition is coming to Oneida on August 2nd through August 4th. This is a great event for our community as a minimum of 100 hotel stays will be realized throughout the event weekend. I want to thank Michelle Danforth, Mike Metoxen and Richie Figueroa for their work on this event.

Turning my attention to some internal politics, I wanted to share a correspondence I released on a few areas that continue to be controversial, I call the piece "Choices." Strangely there seems to be an under-current of criticism and a lack of support for new housing, even though we need it, and various budget choices seem up in the air, even though we are financially at risk. Also, SEOTS has been a subject of debate even though it was approved by the last OBC and supported by the GTC. It seems politics runs so heavy here that progress cannot occur, and truthfully, that is a choice.

"CHOICES"

All I can say is, we are years behind on housing, and we're missing real opportunities for the Oneida people to capture new business and jobs for our people. Also, investors whom at one point may have viewed us as a worthy investment opportunity are now shying away. If choosing not to build SEOTS makes people happy and solves some larger problems then that is a choice we can make.

There are three things that drive some of these larger issues we're taking about. I feel the larger issues are the "prosperity" of the Oneida people and the vibrancy of the Oneida economy. I will also touch on the SEOTS Building issue below.

1) Budgets: We have to get our budgets in a better place. This requires a major change which we seem unable to pursue. Wage increases and other real opportunities for the Oneida people are not possible in the current financial environment. If we do not care to reset our economic path, that is a choice. Restructuring is one of those matters which need attention; I have developed a memo with suggestions on the subject, which was released to the OBC in January of this year.

2) Housing: We've missed bringing well over $70,000,000 million dollars here over the last few years for housing. We should have advanced programs for our people so that we could offer significantly more financially sound housing solutions. We have a 24 year housing plan which we are totally out of compliance with.

Housing equals economics power to our people, if Oneidas do not want professional housing delivered in a more timely fashion, than that is a choice. Actually, room for improvement here?

Vince DelaRosa
Councilman

4) SEOTS: This was asked for by the bosses, the GTC. The idea of buying, leasing, or renting, can be debated along with the economics of it however, the last OBC supported building a building; we, as tribal members, supported that idea, now it's controversial? The building project was supposed to have been built last year, nothing has been done. We were only trying to move a project that the last OBC was trying to move on. On the Indian preference issue, they have already been met with, compliance will be assured there. On using some departments, they have had years to complete the project; it is projected that a staffer will be used.

If SEOTS moved forward, it would be positioned to possibly help advance the cause of Indian health care in Milwaukee for our people (2,000 plus), the potential is there. But if none of that matters, let's not build SEOTS.

Before I close, the people that want to complain about my work, that is one approach. But, if this same level of energy was put towards offering ideas and solutions that might be more helpful. List those ideas and solutions and submit them to someone. All I am hearing about are the attacks and I choose to believe we are better than this.

In closing, I guess none of these things could be addressed. Maybe none of this is important. The future here can be what the past has been; "falling behind in all the major categories that a society needs for vibrancy!" Housing, new money, business growth, new jobs and pay raises for our employees, maybe none of that is worthy of addressing. We can make the choice to advance towards prosperity on all fronts or we can choose to do more of the same.

I am trying to come at these various issues from multiple angles for the benefit of the Oneida people. We have choices to make here and if we choose to do nothing that is a choice! Thanks for reading.

Respectfully,
Vince DelaRosa

Issues

Milwaukee Oneida Community Issues: On May 20th, two petitions were submitted to the Tribal Secretary's Office. The first petition is asking the General Tribal Council to eliminate the Milwaukee Polling site in Milwaukee. The second petition is requesting the General Tribal Council to (1) review, amend or overturn its 2004 decision to provide a more permanent home for the Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) program and, (2) to review possible violations of Tribal law by the Oneida Business Committee in its attempt to build a new SEOTS facility.

Regarding the Milwaukee Polling Site, for many years, the Business Committee would go to Milwaukee for support and informational reasons. The people would request that they be able to vote, in Milwaukee, once every three years in the tri-annual elections. They said that a polling site in Milwaukee would greatly improve their ability to vote in that it takes five hours to travel back and forth from Milwaukee to Oneida and back home. The Business Committee would always agree that such a polling site would be a good thing, but that the Constitution prohibited it in that the Constitution said that in order to vote for the Business Committee, one must present themselves at the polls. Tribal member Fred Muscavitch, at one of the meetings in Milwaukee, then provided a simple solution.

Chairman's Report

By Ed Delgado
Chairman

The solution was to create an election site (poll) in Milwaukee. Soon after, that site became a reality and now Milwaukee area residents can now more fully participate in the selection of Oneida Tribal elected leaders. In 2011, more than 200 Oneidas voted in Milwaukee. That, I believe, is a good thing as the decisions we make have an impact on all Oneidas.

Regarding the petition to review, amend or overturn General Tribal Council's directive to create a more permanent home for the SEOTS program and to review possible violations of Tribal law in the attempt to build a new facility, I offer the following: Since 2004, the Tribal officials, including SEOTS board members and staff, have been on a search for a more permanent home. At one time, it was thought that the facility at 6811 Morgan Street would work, but it was soon found that to repair the aging facility would be far too expensive. So the search continued for years. There were other facilities that were looked at but they were in unsafe neighborhoods, too far away from where the majority of Oneidas lived, or simply the facilities were in poor shape or too small. By 2010, the decision to build a new facility was explored that would be funded by issuance of a bond. To date, not a cent of that bond money has been spent, not for construction, not for land purchase, not for any contract to build.

On June 11, the Milwaukee Oneida community met to discuss the petitions. The Milwaukee Oneida community is a strong and tight community. I've attended weddings there, and I've attended funerals there. Often the life for Indians living in Milwaukee is hard. In a passionate presentation by Oneida community member Deb Ushakow, she described the many needs of so many Oneidas living in Milwaukee. "We have families living in their cars, we have Oneidas in need of counseling for addictions, we have Oneidas needing help finding jobs, and we have so many elders in need of medical services and prescription drugs." She asked, she pleaded, for support for her community.

Thank you for reading this.

Blackjacks start strong in summer season

Special to Kalihwisaks

As the standing champions of the Northern Lights Football League (NLFL), the Green Bay Blackjacks continue a winning streak into the 2013 season. They are 4-0 as of Memorial Day. They are now in their sixth week of their season and coming off a bye week. The Blackjacks home field, BS's Bar, 4054 Shawano Ave Green Bay WI, about three miles north of the Thornberry Golf Club.

A semi-pro team, the Blackjacks has 12 Native American athletes on its roster of 54 players. There are 10 Oneida men with one on Injured Reserve, and 2 Potowatomi men. The Native players are on both sides of ball in positions from QB, RB, TE, LB, OL and DL. The Oneida members of the team are: Dylan Benton, Joe Christjohn, Roland Christjohn, Bobby Danforth (IR), Joshua Easlick, Jason Laluzerne, Tyler Laluzern, Aaron Mancheski, Isaiah Smith, and Kyle Smith. Other Native athletes are Kyler Hartl and Sapatis Menomin both Potowatomi. Head Coach Paul Mertens is confident the Blackjacks are an even better team this year. "We have a lot of good talent on this team. A lot of other teams folded last year, and we got a lot the best talent from those teams," Mertens said. At the end of their season, last year, they were 6-2 and won the league championship game. Many of the Blackjacks were selected to play in the All Star game last year.

There are 6 teams in the NLFL including the Blackjacks, Esacanba Bandits and Milwaukee Co. Renegades in the northern division; and Janesville Nighthawks, Milwaukee Mayham, and Lake Co. Honey Badgers in the southern division.

The Blackjacks hold on to their raveling trophy against the Joliet Buccaneers from Illinois because the Buccaneers cancelled their trip for the May 27th game. This inter-league rivalry will go on next season.
