

State Supreme Court rules in favor of OSGC

By Nate Wisneski Kalihwisaks Sr. Reporter nwisnes@oneidanation.org @Nwisneski_Kali (920) 496-7319

The legal battle between the City of Green Bay and Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC) may be near its conclusion as the Wisconsin Supreme Court upheld a lower court's ruling that the city improperly revoked a conditional use permit (CUP) for OSGC's waste to energy project.

"We conclude that the city's decision to rescind the conditional use permit was not based on substantial evidence. We determine that based on the evidence presented, the city could not reasonably conclude that the statements by OSGC representative to the city government regarding the proposed facility's emissions and hazardous materials, its stacks, and its technology were misrepresentation," the ruling said.

In March of 2014 a State Appeals Court ruled the city improperly pulled the CUP after Brown County Circuit Court Judge Marc Hammer sided with the city. OSGC's plant was to be located at 1230 Hurlbut Street on the city's northwest side.

The plant received the CUP from the city in March of 2011. After growing disapproval, the city rescinded the permit in October of 2012.

The waste to energy facility was designed to take municipal waste that would otherwise be placed into a landfill, sort it, and put nonhazardous, non-recyclable materials through a gasification process. It was to generate power, which would have been sold to Wisconsin Public Service.

OSGC sued the city in November of 2012 after the permit was revoked and in January of 2013 Judge Hammer ruled that OSGC misrepresented plans for their waste to energy facility when obtaining the CUP from the city. OSGC filed their appeal two months later.

Oneida Tribal Chairwoman Tina Danforth was pleased with the ruling.

"We are pleased with the Wisconsin Supreme Court's decision that reaffirms the City of Green Bay's revocation of the conditional use permit for the Oneida Seven Generation Corporation's facility was without merit. "The OSGC and Green Bay Renewable Energy Bay Renewable Energy, LLC spent millions of dollars on the due diligence of the energy project's design, testing, outreach, land acquisition and permitting process. These costs were incurred based on the issuance of the Conditional Use Permit by Green Bay," said Danforth

"It is unfortunate the Wisconsin Supreme Court ruling was decided at a great cost to both parties. The Oneida Business Committee and OSGC will continue to evaluate its options and in light of the decision will provide an update at the July General Tribal Council Semi-Annual meeting"

It is unclear what the next step is for the Oneida Tribe and OSGC. The General Tribal Council (GTC) voted to dissolve OSGC in December of 2013. That process has yet to be completed.

The embattled tribally owned corporation had faced tumultuous times as it focused on a proposed waste-to-energy facility. The plant temporarily found homes in Hobart, Ashwaubenon, Green Bay, and Oneida before ultimately being shelved after the GTC voted it out of reservation boundaries.

OSGC fully owned and operated seven limited liability companies (LLC) and had partial ownership of five others. Between those 12 LLCs there were 15 properties under OSGC management.

Raise passes during Special GTC Meeting

By Nate Wisneski

Kalihwisaks Sr. Reporter nwisnes@oneidanation.org @ @Nwisneski_Kali 9 (920) 496-7319

For the second time in four years the General Tribal Council (GTC) directed the Oneida Tribe to raise employee wages during a Special GTC meeting on Monday, June 1.

The $0.99 raise will include capped casino dealers while excluding employees making $65,000 or more annually. An attempt was made to have the raise encompass all tribal employees but the amendment failed. The motion called for no layoffs and a start date of October 1,

GTC also passed raise of $0.50 in 2011

In July of 2011 the GTC passed a $0.75 raise for all employees less than $60,000.

A two-year wage increase plan presented by the Human Resources Department did not receive action. It called for increases for all employees of $0.50 in FY2016 and $0.45 in FY2017.

The wage increase will raise salaries of 2,597 employees at a cost of $5.75 million.

A petition seeking the creation of a support system to assist tribal members if they become engaged with the Oneida Judiciary was tabled.

Petitioner John Powless gave a spirited account of his battle with diabetes and dialysis in his effort to get assistance in the establishment of a dialysis center in Oneida.

Statistical research shows that about 10 Oneida Tribal citizens require dialysis treatment with 317 total dialysis patients in Brown and Outagamie Counties. Both counties have a total of six treatment centers.

A common concern expressed by Powless and other GTC members where extended waiting times for transportation to and from appointments along with overall care provided at the treatment centers.

Powless' petition language called for the construction of the facility and was voted down in favor of more research.

A study will be conducted to determine the cost of building and running a dialysis center in Oneida verse utilizing centers from surrounding communities. The Oneida Business Committee has also been directed to address appointment transportation issues.

A team will also be assembled to examine the quality of care community members are receiving at area centers.

Longtime character focus of Toonen's book Rain doesn't damper fishing

By Nate Wisneski Kalihwisaks Sr. Reporter nwisnes@oneidanation.org @Nwisneski_Kali (920) 496-7319

You could say author Janet Toonen and the Sidney, the main character in her book Sidney the Bear, have grown up together.

Toonen has been drawing, sketching, molding the character since her early in life.

"I always wanted to be an animator. In my early teens I started drawing Sidney," she said.

When she would draw the Sidney the bear Toonen would get a common response.

"Ever since I've drawn him people always questioned if he was a bear, he doesn't look like a bear," Toonen said.

As Toonen got older she would draw Sidney at art fairs.

"I would be surrounded by kids when I would draw. I decided I wanted to write books with him," she said.

"It's basically him trying to decide who he is and what he is. It's also about him finding his new best friend who helps Sidney find out who he really is. In the end he just realizes he's just happy being himself," said Toonen.

Toonen self published the book and it's available hardcover, softcover, and Kindle. It will soon be available on Nook and iPad.

Unlike the normal book development process, Toonen handled the writing and illustration of the book.

"Most of the time the writing and animation are separate. I like to do both. I'm trying to give him his voice the way I see him, not someone else's interpretation," she said.

Along with producing books Toonen is an accomplished fine artist and graphic designer. She owns Stay Toon'd Publishing.

She was steered toward writing in school.

"I was told in college I should be an English Major, I was told I have a knack for writing. I said I just really want to draw. I like to have fun with whatever I'm doing. When I draw the cartoons I feel happy when I do it," Toonen said.

Sidney the Bear has been on the shelves for only about a month but Toonen's second book, The Eggsaspecial Family, is ready to go.

"The story is about a goose couple that can't have any eggs. There's another goose who's injured and can't really care for her egg. The little one hatches and she is adopted by the other family. It's based on the story about some friends of ours, they asked me to tell their story using my animal characters," Toonen said.

Also, a Sidney sequel called, The Great Caterpillar Caper is well underway.

Sidney the Bear is available online only at Barns and Noble and Amazon. For additional merchandise related to Toonen's book visit www.zazzle.com/staytoond.

Amendments to the Motor Vehicle Registration Law

On April 22, 2015, the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) adopted amendments to the Oneida Tribe's Motor Vehicle Registration law, which will become effective June 1, 2015. The changes include:

- ⇒ Removing specific fees that are listed the Law. Instead, the OBC will adopt a fee schedule by Resolution, based on recommendations from the Oneida Licensing Department. (This change is being made so that in the future, the fee schedule can be amended without needing to amend the entire Law. At the time this Resolution was adopted, the Oneida Business Committee also adopted the existing fee schedule by Resolution.)
- Tribal members that reside on the Reservation are no longer required to register their motor vehicles with the Tribe, as long as the motor vehicles are registered in another jurisdiction;
- The Law will be enforced through the issuance of citations by law enforcement.
- Additional minor changes were made to update the Law, including removing language address the processes used to implement this Law.

The amended Law will be published on the Oneida Register (www.oneida-nsn.gov/laws). To obtain a copy of the amended Law, please contact Tonya Webster, Oneida Licensing Department at (920) 496-5311, or by e-mail at TWebster@Oneidanation.org.

First Lady and DCF Secretary Recognize Oneida Foster Parent Gerald Doxtator

In recognition of Foster Care Month, First Lady Tonette Walker joined Department of Children and Families Secretary Eloise Anderson to honor foster parent Gerald Doxtator for his incredible commitment to the children of Brown County who have needed a temporary, safe place to call home by honoring him with the 2015 Governor's Foster Care Award.

"Foster Care Month gives us an opportunity to thank the families who care for the vulnerable children in Wisconsin who have to be removed from their homes," said Mrs. Walker. "Foster parents play a critical role in helping these children take the first step of their journey towards healing and recovery."

A foster parent for more than 20 years, Mr. Doxtator has become a statewide resource for Wisconsin's Native American population, and has fostered youth from tribes in Menomonee, Manitowoc, Milwaukee, Outagamie and Brown Counties. He has often been asked to provide shelter for the most difficult to place young men, who are struggling without a father figure or have had past run-ins with the juvenile justice system. Gerald is often not only these boys' foster parent, but often serves as advocate and champion, making sure that they are receiving the help they need in school and beyond.

"For those times when children cannot remain at home, foster families step in to keep them safe, nurture them, and give them a place to call home," stated Secretary Anderson. "I know the joys and challenges of being a foster parent can be significant, although the joys far outweigh the challenges."

Mrs. Walker and Secretary Anderson recognized Mr. Doxtator, along with other outstanding foster parents throughout from Wisconsin, at a ceremony this morning at the state Capitol.

The event also highlighted the need for additional kind, responsible parents to step forward and care for foster children. Today in Wisconsin there are more approximately 7,000 children living in out-of-home care. For more information on becoming a foster parent, please visit dcf.wisconsin.gov/children/foster.

Oneida recognizes same sex marriages

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) voted unanimously to recognize same sex marriages at the Wednesday, May meeting. OBC 27 Councilman and Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) Chairman Brandon Stevens said they received a lot of community support for the change.

"We knew it was right, we knew it was well overdue," said Stevens. The language in the law changed the definition of marriage as between ``husband and wife" to ``spouses" effective June 10.

"A small thing to do, but a major impact for those who wish to marry, and we wanted all individuals to be treated equally," he said. Originally, the phrase

"husband and wife" was added to the Oneida law to be in compliance with Wisconsin law.

"(The state) told us we couldn't pass a law that would be contrary to state law, or it wouldn't be recognized," said Stevens. "We could still do marriages, but the big thing was we wanted to be recognized ... everywhere."

The US Supreme

Court struck down language in the federal Defense of Marriage Act that defined marriage as a union between a man and a woman. According to Stevens, the ruling renders references to "husband and wife" mute.

"We're going the extra effort to say yep, all individuals have this ability, too," said Stevens.

Oneida citizens Chad Wilson and Lisa Liggins welcomed the change.

"People can marry whom they want to marry, not what people thing is the social norm. I was very proud to see that it did go through," said Wilson.

"I think it's a move in the right direction, and I hope other tribes follow

Register Now for Third Annual Native Food Sovereignty Summit Oct. 26-29

First Nations Development Institute (First Nations) and the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin will co-host the Third Annual Food Sovereignty Summit in Green Bay, Wisconsin, October 26-29, 2015, at the Radisson Green Bay Hotel and Conference Center. At the event, Native American communities come together to learn from one another in order to promote Native health, wellness and food sovereignty.

This conference sold out well ahead of time the previous two years, so be sure to guarantee your attendance by registering now at www.firstnations.org/su mmit. Previously the conference was held in April, but this year it will be held in October incorporate the to Oneida Nation's traditional white corn harvesting.

This year's event will feature three tracks: Applied Agriculture, Community Outreach, and Products to Market. Native farmers, ranchers, gardeners, businesses, policymakers and other practitioners from around the U.S. will share information, program models and tools to meet growing and marketing challenges, as well as provide inspiration, mentoring and networking opportunities.

Among special features of this year's summit are Experiential Learning Field Sessions (farm practices, food preservation, food handling, organic certification, etc.), a Chefs' Corner (culinary creations from various tribal regions), and a "Connect the Dots" session to connect mentors and mentees with the goal of building healthy Native communities.

As in the past, the Sovereignty Food Summit is generously supported by the W.K. Kellogg Foundation.

Get the Most out of your Money: Tips for First-Time Homebuyers in a Seller's Market

By Dianne Zubella Bay Bank

While interest rates are still near record lows, supply is tight and properties are moving fast, making it a seller's market. In fact, it's not uncommon for а Wisconsin seller to receive three or four offers the day their house is listed. So, if you're looking to take advantage of great rates and buy your first home, make sure you prepare with today's real estate market in mind. Here are a few tips to get you started on your journey to homeownership:

Know your budget. The first – and most crucial - step in home buying is to determine how much you're able to spend. That includes knowing how much of your savings you're willing to apply to the down payment and how much you can afford each month for your mortgage payment. In general, housing costs (including property taxes, utilities, maintenance and homeowners insurance) should not be more than 28 percent of your pretax income. If you can afford it, negotiate for a larger down payment or a shorter loan term to reduce overall interest costs.

Get preapproved. То improve your chances at getting a lower interest rate on your mortgage and have the flexibility to move quickly once you find a house you want to buy, ask your bank to preapprove you first. A free service at most banks, loan pre-approval will boost your credibility with real estate agents and sellers because it shows you're able to get financing and are serious about buying. It will also make the process of applying for your mortgage faster, especially if you obtain the loan from the same bank that preapproved you for credit.

Shop around for vour mortgage.

Just like you shop around for the perfect house, make sure you shop around for the perfect mortgage. Don't only compare the interest rates, however. Look at loan origination fees, administrative fees, title insurance, settlement charges and any other costs added to the price of the house. It's also helpful to have an established relationship with the bank you're getting the mortgage from. They'll have a better understanding of your financial goals and be able to recommend the best mortgage product for your circumstances.

Find a great real estate agent.

Once you've selected the bank you'll be getting your mortgage from, ask your mortgage banker for recommendations for a buyer's agent. They work with agents on a daily basis and will have a good idea of who will work well with you and

Why is there still restrictions on referrals for Purchased and Referred Care

Purchased and Referred Care PRC (Formerly known as Contract Health Service) The Purchased and Referred Care (CHS) Program is for medical/dental care provided away from an Indian Health Service (IHS) or tribal health care facility. PRC is not an entitlement program and an IHS referral does not imply the care will be paid. If PRC is requested to pay, then a patient must the residency meet requirements, notification requirements, medical priority, and use of alternate resources.

PRC funds are limited to the medical or dental services considered medically necessary and listed within the established Area IHS medical/dental priorities. A copy of the Area IHS medical/dental priorities is available at the local IHS/Tribal health centers and hospitals including Priorities or Care section of the IHS w e b p a g e www.IHS.gov/chs . An individual medical need at the time of services must be within the medical priorities being funded at that time.

In 2013, when the govshutdown ernment occurred, the Business Committee in conjunction with the Oneida Comprehensive Health Division recommendation was made to restrict PRC care to only a Priority 1A which meant that only Emergency-Threat to Life, Limb, Senses which would result in a life or death situation was approved. When the Government Shutdown was resolved, there was still grave concern over the budget and the impact the shutdown had on our basis. The reason for the ability to provide services continued restrictions was since our IHS dollars based upon the continued were impacted by cuts at budget concerns within the Federal level. In coordination with the Business Committee, Comprehensive Health early March each year) of Division made the recommendation to only lift the Health Division budget restrictions for PRC services to a Priority 1B the potential for another which means that most referrals that had the potential to become life threatening but were not an immediate emergency were covered. This included most diagnostic referrals such as MRI's, CT Scans etc.

When BC resolution (02-12-14-B) passed there was still а Cost Containment within the organization the Comprehensive Health Division made the recommendation to continue to restrict the PRC services to a Priority 1A and Priority 1B and implemented a Utilization Review Committee which reviews the priority levels of referrals as well as challenges to denied referrals on a regular mendation to continue to restrict the PRC services to a Priority 1B for Fiscal year 2015. Since the onset of FY 2015, denied referrals based upon priority which have been challenged have been reviewed by the Utilization Review Committee which for the Comprehensive Health Division includes: of Nursing, Director Medical Director, Director of Operations, PRC Supervisor and/or designees from these specified areas.

We are currently in the process of preparing for the FY 2016 Budgets, the decision to lift the restrictions or to continue the restrictions will be vetted by the Oneida PRC area as well as the IHS funding for FY 2016 for the Oneida Tribe as a whole.

The decision to restrict PRC services is not an easy decision to make and as the Division, we realize the impact that restriction referrals has on our community. The long term impact that began with the Government Shutdown, Cost Containment and the continued Budget Shortfall for the Tribe are the primary reasons for the continued Priority Restrictions.

Keshena, WI Commencement ceremonies on Saturday, May 30, represented a special milestone for the College of Menominee Nation. The 111 students eligible for graduation from CMN's Keshena and Green Bay campuses brought the College's total number of alumni above the 1,000 mark. Candidates received Bachelor's and Associate degrees, technical diplomas, and the certificate of mastery in 15 programs of study

Among those in the Spring 2015 graduating class are members and descendants of 11

American Indian tribes and residents from 28 communities in Wisconsin, Michigan and North Carolina. In addition to the Oneida Nation, graduates in the class identify as belonging to the Bad River Chippewa, Brotherton, Cherokee, Crow, Ho Chunk, Lac Courtes Oreille Ojibway, Menominee, Mohican, Potawatomi and Stockbridge-Munsee tribes.

Joining CMN President Verna Fowler in the program were Dr. Alton (Sonny) Smart as guest speaker; Trenton Miller, Sr., who spoke on behalf of the graduating class, and Justin Gauthier, a 2011 CMN graduate who welcomed the new graduates to the ranks of alumni. Dr. Smart, of the Bad River Band of Ojibway, is a member of the Social Work faculty at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point and was one of the first four instructors at CMN when it opened in January 1993. ceived. After earning his Associate Degree at CMN, Gauthier enrolled at UW-Madison and has recently completed his baccalaureate there in English.

A special President's Award was given during ceremonies to Loretta Webster of the Oneida Tribe. Webster was recognized for her aid in the 1992-93 academic year in the establishment of College the of Menominee Nation while she served as Associate Vice Chancellor for Cultural Diversity at UW-Stevens Point. President Fowler cited Webster for facilitating discussions with the Stevens Point Chancellor that led to a credit-transfer agreement as CMN began offering classes. Webster, who is a UW Law School graduate, subsequently served as Management Land Attorney and in other capacities for the Oneida Tribe. More recently, she has practiced and fostered traditional arts. The award commended her work on behalf of American Indian students and communities.

Professor Ruth (Cyndi) Pyatskowit of the College's teacher education program received the 2015 American Indian College Fund Teacher of the Year Award. Ms. Pyatskowit is project director and principle investigator on several education and literacy grants at the College focused on young children. By Gloria Lusis Dagan's Loving Do-Do

Christmas Eve, 2013, was a monumental time for the Karl Lusis Family. My grandson and Oneida Tribal Member, Dagen Lusis, wasn't feeling his usual self and was missing out on the family holiday festivities. The previous days had seen his demeanor change and a period of rapid weight loss. Given that he had just been fitted with a permanent retainer on his upper palette, there was no reason to be concerned about his weight loss or excessive thirst because he was breathing through his mouth due to the new apparatus. His uncle, Rick Lusis, is an internal medicine doctor and had advised us to take him in to his doctor once we cleared the Christmas holiday. As his parents monitored Dagen that night, it became apparent that there needed to be immediate action to be taken and Karl took him to the Emergency Room at Children's Hospital in Milwaukee. It took all of 30 seconds to diagnose him with Type 1 Diabetes! Excessive lethargic thirst, demeanor, high frequency of bathroom visits and quick weight loss were signs right in front of his parents but were masked by the presence of his orthodontic device. His blood sugar was 729 when he arrived in the Emergency Room at 2:00 a.m. on Christmas This Morning. is extremely high but not the worst case they had seen. Newly diagnosed patients often arrive unconscious, or incoherent, to the circumstances around them. He was immediately admitted. This typical 90 pound boy was just 68 pounds at the time of his admission!

The first few days of his diagnosis saw him being constantly being pumped with IV fluid to rehydrate the body and get his weight back up. I believe it took five bags of fluid to get his body regulated and the color back into his face. He responded quickly to insulin injections and amazed all of the staff by quickly relating to his new "normal". The first few days all families are inundated with a wealth of information to how to care for themselves and their loved one. It is amazing how life changing this event is once diagnosis has been made.

He was out of danger but needed a few days under a doctor's care to recover to a healthy level and a give all a chance for all to learn how to care for him. Dagen's acceptance of his new normal was just short of amazing! He was giving himself his own insulin shots by noon of the following day! Dagen ultimately spent three days in the hospital and was released after meeting certain criteria for weight, diet calculation and a general understanding of the factors influencing diabetics.

It has now been a year and a half since his diagnosis and life for Dagen is relatively similar to

By Oneida Trust and Enrollment Committee

This series of articles is designed to inform Oneida citizens about enrollment issues. The total number of Oneida enrolled members is expected to decline within the next 10 years. The goal of these articles is to generate community conversations about citizenship and belonging so that we may explore our options.

On Nov 19, 2013, the White Earth Nation did something historic. They voted to change their tribal constitution and scrap their ¹/₄ blood quantum rule. The rule, which was adopted in 1963 by the Minnesota Chippewa Tribe, of which White Earth is a member nation, was changed in favor of citizenship based on family lineage.

Today there are many Native nations talking about changing their constitutions, but only a few make it to ratification (make it official). Paying close attention to how issue is important. So how did White Earth do it? And what lessons can we bring to Oneida? In this article, we will take a closer look at the process used to change the White Earth constitution. White Earth is an example of an inclusive, community-led grassroots effort. In her 2007, State of the Nation address, White Earth Chairwoman Dr. Erma Vizenor called for a constitutional convention to start the process. In preparation for the convention, Dr. Jill Doerfler, a descendent of White Earth who has researched identity and tribal citizenship, began writing newspaper articles to stimulate community discussion. Advertisements were placed in the tribal newspaper asking for members to participate as constitutional delegates. Everyone who applied to be a delegate was accepted. From the outset it was established that citizens, not the tribal government, would make this decision. The government helped create an environ-

A Case Study for Change other Native nations ment for change, but avoided dominating the are handling this discussion.

Reform efforts centered around four constitutionconventions, held al 2007-2009. between Constitutional delegates engaged in extensive debates over criteria for White Earth citizenship. There had been earlier efforts in recent decades in which constitutions were drafted, but no action was taken.

In the first convention in 2007, delegates discussed the need for reform, the history of tribal citizenship and blood quantum. They tied everything into core Anishinaabe values and cultural practices. During the second convention in 2008, delegates asked, 'What are Anishinaabe values?' 'How can they be applied to our consti-Delegates tution?' reviewed a list of citizenship requirement alternatives that were previously created. "Many delegates seemed ready for change, but some were hesitant to let go of the blood quantum requirement due to concerns about resources," according to Doerfler.

The third convention in tribal council unanimous-2008 focused on tying constitutional reform to cultural revitalization. Traditional Anishinaabe stories were used to move people forward. At this point, delegates decided to no longer consider any blood quantum citizenship criteria. Chairwoman Vizenor designated a constitutional proposal team to draft a new constitution based on the conventions.

White Earth (Anishinaabeg):

At the fourth convention in 2009, a new proposed constitution was presented to the delegates. According to Doerfler, "It requires lineal descent for citizenship and also addresses concerns about resources and a larger population by separating services and entitlements from citizenship. It states that services and entitlements will be regulated by a range of laws and policies." After considering the entire constitution, delegates ratified it by a vote signaling that it would move forward to a referendum where all White Earth citizens would have the chance to vote for or against the document.

In August 2013, the ly passed a resolution calling for a referendum vote on the proposed Constitution. On Nov 19, 2013, 80% of voters approved the new constitution, which lays out three distinct branches of government with a set of checks and balances among the branches, several advisory councils, and a lineal descent citizenship requirement.

So what are the takehome lessons for Oneida?

1) Know your government.

We must understand both our traditional governance systems and the origin stories of our current tribal constitutions. This knowledge is necessary so that we are in the right frame of mind to begin discussing constitutional change.

2) Define citizenship.

This is one of the most fundamental activities a nation must undertake. It is a difficult because citizenship can be an emotional issue with many different opinions. However, redefining citizenship requirements can offer possibilities to transform what it means to be a "sovereign" nation.

3) Keep core Oneida values at the center of the debate:

This helps motivate community members and encourages group thinking.

4) Change takes time.

Several of the White Earth delegates had been involved in different efforts for reform over the past 30 years. So persistence is key to getting things accomplished!

Ultimately, these are critical conversations we must bring to Oneida. Trust The and Enrollment Committee is exploring currently opportunities for the Oneida people to be heard on these issues.

Legal Notice

To Native American Farmers or Ranchers or the heir of one who was denied a USDA farm loan or loan servicing between 1981 and late 1999

Some funds paid in settlement of Keepseagle v. Vilsack remain unclaimed and will be distributed in accordance with a process established by the Court. The case claimed that USDA discriminated against Native Americans who applied for or tried to apply for farm loans or loan servicing. The Court seeks input from class members about how the remaining funds should be distributed. Of the $680 million paid to settle the case, approximately $380 million remains. The Settlement Agreement approved by the Court directs that unclaimed funds be given to non-profit organizations to serve Native American farmers and ranchers.

The deadline to file a claim has passed. There is no new claims process.

Who is included?

The Class includes all Native American farmers and ranchers who:

- Farmed or ranched or attempted to do so between January 1, 1981 and November 24, 1999;
- · Tried to get a farm loan or loan servicing from the USDA during that period; and
- Complained about discrimination to the USDA either on their own or through a representative during the time period.

The class does not include individuals who:

- · Experienced discrimination only between January 1 and November 23 1997; or
- Complained of discrimination only between July 1 and November 23, 1997.

Proposed use of the Funds

There are several competing options for how to distribute the funds.

First, Plaintiffs propose to modify the Settlement Agreement, subject to Court approval, to distribute the funds as follows:

- •$342 million distributed by a Trust, overseen by Native American leaders, to non-profit groups to serve Native farmers & ranchers over a 20 year period.
- •$38 million be distributed quickly to non-profit organizations serving Native farmers & ranchers, identified by Class Counsel and approved by the Court.

The Trust would make grants to organizations providing business assistance, agricultural education, technical support, or advocacy services to Native American farmers and ranchers, including those seeking to become farmers or ranchers, to support and promote their continued engagement in agriculture. The USDA has agreed with this proposal.

Second, Marilyn Keepseagle proposes to distribute all remaining funds as additional damages paid to successful Track A claimants alone. The USDA opposes this proposal.

Third, other class members have asked to use the funds to pay claims that were initially denied or to permit new claims to be filed.

Fourth, the Choctaw Nation has argued that no changes should be made.

How can I share my views?

If you want to tell the Court of your support of or opposition to any proposal for use of the remaining funds, you may submit written comments, postmarked no later than June 15, 2015, to:

Chambers of the Honorable Emmet G. Sullivan U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia 333 Constitution Avenue N.W. Washington, DC 20001

The Court will hold a hearing on June 29, 2015 at 9:00 AM EDT in Courtroom 24A at the address above. If you want to speak to the Court in person, you may attend the hearing. Your written comments will be considered by the Court even if you do not attend the hearing.

Budget-writing committee unlikely to finish work this week

By Scott Bauer Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Gov. Scott Walker's hopes are fading for a quicker-than-normal passage of the state budget, even as Republican legislative leaders met privately Tuesday with individual lawmakers to try and broker a deal on outstanding issues including roads funding and financing a new arena for the Milwaukee Bucks.

Walker, who was in Florida on Tuesday for an economic growth summit and will be in Iowa on Saturday, has said he won't announce his expected run for the presidency until after he signs the two-year budget.

Walker set the expectation for fast action back in November, the night he was re-elected to a second term, saying he wanted to move quickly on the budget to show the country that the process works more smoothly in Wisconsin than Washington.

"We're going to be even more aggressive now because I think we have an even stronger ally in the Legislature," Walker told his Cabinet on Nov. 5

In 2013, Walker signed the budget on June 30. This year, he released his plan in February, 17 days earlier than two years ago and urged fellow Republicans to move swiftly to get done sooner.

But the Legislature hasn't followed through. The budget-writing Joint Finance Committee, a 16-member panel controlled by Republicans, had hoped to complete its work last week. But it doesn't have agreement on an arena financing deal or a way to pay for state roads and highway projects.

Both Republican Senate Majority Leader Scott Fitzgerald and Assembly Speaker Robin Vos were in meetings with lawmakers all day Tuesday. With those talks continuing, "it is looking unlikely" that the budget committee will meet this week, Fitzgerald spokeswoman Myranda Tanck said.

Sen. Tom Tiffany, a Republican from Hazelhurst on the budget committee, said he left a meeting with Fitzgerald on Tuesday not knowing when the panel will meet again.

"It doesn't sound to me like we'll have an agreement this week," Tiffany said.

He said Fitzgerald had been discussing the situation with Vos, whose spokeswoman, Kit Beyer, said only that negotiations over the Bucks stadium and transportation funding were continuing. She also said it was unlikely that the budget committee would meet this week to vote on any agreements.

In 2013, the Joint Finance Committee passed the budget on June 5. Even if it doesn't get done until next week, the Senate and Assembly could still pass the budget by the end of the month. Then it's up to Walker to decide how long to take to sign it and issue vetoes.

At an appearance

Monday, Walker downplayed questions about whether he was spending enough time focused on getting the budget done while also traveling around the country laying the groundwork for expected White the House run.

"The budget is a priority for us," he said. "We talk about it every day."

still enjoys basketball, soccer, baseball, golf and guitar. Different activities affect his blood sugar levels differently so he must monitor himself more religiously with more vigorous sporting activities. Soccer will make him higher during games but will drop his levels significantly about three hours later. For those who do not know, having a low blood sugar level is extremely dangerous so careful attention should be paid after activities. those Especially at night!

Many of Dagen's activities have helped him cope with his diagnosis and he can often be found playing guitar and writing songs to show this disease does not own him. He is also an A-Honor Roll student at Eisenhower Middle School in New Berlin, Wisconsin and has used his love for math to help him cope with diabetes. It is a skill set he uses every meal to determine his carbohydrate intake and factor in how much insulin he should inject with EACH meal. His family is fortunate enough to have purchased a Dexcom which is a constant glucose monitoring (CGM) device. This device assists him throughout the day to give him a snapshot of where his blood sugar levels are and if he should do anything to bring it down or raise it up. These devices typically last about 10 days and Dagen is able to attach this device by himself through a quick injection process. It is amazing to think about the number of times diabetics must either prick their fingers to test or inject themselves with needles if they do not utilize a pump. If you consider he has checked himself six times a day for the last year and a half, he has pricked his finger 3,270 times and injected himself AT LEAST 1,635 times! We can only imagine those diabetics who have had this disease for so much longer and what their fin-and accepting the responsibility to maintain a normal lifestyle. It has also inspired his parents to actively work to towards finding a cure and become very active in volunteering for the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (JDRF). His mother, Michele, was instrumental in raising over $4,500 for diabetes research and was recognized as a Silver Level Donor for her efforts. She also is on the JDRF Walk Planning Committee which is being held at Miller Park on September 12, 2015.

His father, Karl, is working on a charity golf event to be held at The Fairways of Woodside in Sussex, Wisconsin that same day after the walk. Please see www.DoubleDivot.com for registration. All proceeds go the to Southeastern Chapter of JDRF where over 70% of money donated goes to actual research and diabetic support services. One amazing event which Dagen will soon be experiencing comes from the Kids Wish Network. Through this charitable organization, he was selected to receive an experience that would make his diagnosis a little easier to take.

One of his favorite television shows is Parks and Rec and the fine folks at Kids Wish arranged for Dagen to meet one of the their stars, Chris Pratt! You might know Chris from Park and Rec, Guardians of the Galaxy or the voice of Emmitt from The Lego Movie. The venue to meet Chris will be in Los Angeles, CA where he will walk the Red Carpet at his movie premiere of Jurassic World! Dagen and his family will be flown out to Hollywood where they will tour L.A. and attend the first ever showing of Jurassic World. He has even been fitted for a tuxedo courtesy of the Kids Wish Network.

What does the future behold? Dagen will be getting an insulin pump soon and hopes that this will bring a little more stability to his diabetic journey. The pump will be attached to him constantly and will administer small doses of insulin throughout the day, acting more like a pancreas instead of injecting large amounts over longer time frames. He will adapt to this new part of his diabetic program and like all diabetics, work to maintain a normal lifestyle while dealing with this life changing disease. Some developments on the horizon are the artificial pancreas which will monitor, and administer, insulin just as a normal body would and developing medicines to disguise insulin from attacking

Committees take up 20week abortion ban in emotional hearing

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Two Wisconsin health committees took up a fast-tracked bill that would ban abortions after 20 weeks Tuesday, hearing testimony from doctors about when a fetus can feel pain and from women who've had abortions. Under the bill, doctors who perform an abortion after 20 weeks in nonemergency situations could be charged with a felony and subject to up to $10,000 in fines or 31/2 years in prison. The committees are expected to vote Thursday. If passed, the bill will be taken up by the full Senate and Assembly as early as next week. Supporters of the bill, co-authored by Rep. Jesse Kremer, R-Kewaskum, and Senate President Mary Lazich, R-New Berlin, argued in the hearings that 20week-old fetus can feel pain. "The medical literature is exquisitely clear that the structures exist (that allow a fetus) to feel pain at 20 weeks," said Dr. Donna Harrison, executive director of the American Association of Pro-Life Obstetricians & Gynecologists.

But Dr. Tosha Wetterneck, speaking on behalf of the Wisconsin Medical Society, said that research is inaccurate. The American Congress of Obstetricians and Gynecologists has said evidence suggests that a fetus can't experience pain until the third trimester begins at 27 weeks. As written, the bill doesn't provide an exception for pregnancies due to rape or incest and requires that physicians performing abortions in situations in which the mother's life is in danger do so in a way most likely to ensure the child's survival. Wetterneck said the bill wouldn't serve women's medical needs, because doctors would have to weigh legal repercussions with possible care options.

Wisconsin's 11 American Indian tribes is trying to develop a series of TV shows that will highlight the reservations as attractive places to visit. tive director of Native gers look like.

Some good has come out of all of this and we are always amazed about how well Dagen has adjusted. He has quietly become a role model for taking what life deals you > anti-bodies. We hope you learn a little about the symptoms of diabetes, what could be expected if you, or someone you love, is diagnosed and that there is a full, rich life that can be lived with diabetes. Jim Thorpe's sons ask Supreme Court to allow reburial

By Micheal Rubikam Associated Press

Jim Thorpe's surviving sons asked the U.S. Supreme Court on Tuesday to allow them to pursue reburial of the famed athlete on American Indian land in Oklahoma.

Thorpe was laid to rest in Pennsylvania more than 60 years ago. Bill and Richard Thorpe have been fighting to move the body to Sac and Fox land in the state of Thorpe's birth, saying their father wanted to be buried in Oklahoma.

The sons, along with the Sac and Fox Nation, asked the Supreme Court to decide that the town of Jim Thorpe, which named itself for the athlete in a deal with his third wife, falls under a 1990 law intended to rectify the hisplundering toric of American Indian burial grounds. Such a ruling would allow them to pursue repatriation.

"This case represents a long struggle by Indian people and tribes to have their religious practices, burial customs, culture and beliefs respected," one of their lawyers, Stephen Ward, said Tuesday.

The town has found support from Jim Thorpe's grandsons, who say it has done right by him. And Jim Thorpe borough's attorney said Tuesday that many of the claims in the sons' Supreme Court petition are "folklore rather than facts," with well-established estate law giving Thorpe's wife the right to decide where he should be buried.

It's far from a certainty the Supreme Court will hear the case. The justices service and sent it to n o r t h e a s t e r n Pennsylvania. She struck a deal with two merging towns - Mauch Chunk and East Mauch Chunk to build a memorial and name the new town after him.

His remains are kept in a roadside mausoleum surrounded by statues and interpretive signage. Jim Thorpe throws a Jim Thorpe birthday bash every year, celebrating his legacy as one of the 20th century's greatest athletes, and the high school's athletic teams are named the Olympians.

In 2013, a federal judge gave Thorpe's sons a victory in their quest to have Thorpe moved to Oklahoma, ruling the town amounted to a museum under the repatriation law.

But an appeals court in Philadelphia said in October that Thorpe's body should remain in Jim Thorpe, determining that U.S. District Judge Richard Caputo misapplied the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act.

The law requires museums - defined as any institution or state or local government agency that receives federal funds and federal agencies possessing American Indian remains to return them upon request of the deceased's family or tribe. Lawyers for the sons warned Tuesday that if the ruling by the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals is permitted to stand, other towns and institutions that hold American Indian remains could use it to justify keeping them.

The ruling threatens to "drive a hole" in the repatriation law, said Brian Wolfman of Stanford Law School.

41 people indicted in alleged heroin ring on reservations

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) ~ Federal and tribal law enforcement authorities said last Thursday they've taken down an interstate drug trafficking ring that was the largest source of heroin on two Minnesota American Indian reservations.

The 41 defendants named in the indictment unsealed Wednesday face charges of conspiracy to distribute heroin and other drugs. Several also face firearms charges.

U.S. Attorney Andy Luger said at a news conference Thursday that the ring was led by 37-yearold Omar Sharif Beasley. The arrests have shut down a major pipeline that spread heroin across the Red Lake and White Earth reservations, as well as Native American communities in North Dakota, Luger said.

"We didn't want to just take down the head of the organization or the people bringing the heroin into the state of Minnesota," Luger said. "We wanted to make it as difficult as possible for somebody to come in and pick up where this organization left off."

The indictment alleges that Beasley recruited drug sources, managers, distributors, facilitators, couriers and drivers to bring heroin and other drugs to the reservations. It says the drugs came from Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and elsewhere.

Investigators tracked the ring for the past year and confiscated 2 kilograms of heroin, 1 kilogram of cocaine, hundreds of pills and numerous weapons, Luger said. The operation netted the traffickers millions of dollars, he said.

"With Beasley out of business, there will be less heroin sold in Minnesota," he said.

Online court records don't list an attorney for Beasley, who has been in the Anoka County Jail since his arrest last week, according to jail records. The defendants are making their initial appearances this week in federal court in St. Paul. Tribal authorities who appeared with Luger said drug use on the reservations has become epidemic and is tearing families apart.

White Earth Public Safety Director Randy Goodwin called the ring "a criminal organization that prospered from poisoning many people on the White Earth Nation. Many lives, families and communities have been damaged or destroyed from this poison.""

Red Lake Public Safety Director William Brunelle said the indictment sends a clear message that drug trafficking will not be tolerated on reservations.

Heroin use is rising and causing more overdose deaths than at any time in the past decade, according to the National Heroin Threat Assessment released last week by the Drug E n f o r c e m e n t Administration. Deaths involving heroin more than tripled between 2007 and 2013, from 2,402 to 8,260.

Thorpe was a football, baseball and track star who won the decathlon and pentathlon in the 1912 Olympics. He died without a will in 1953 at age 64.

After Oklahoma's governor balked at the cost of a planned monument to the athlete, third wife Patricia had Thorpe's body seized by police during his Indian funeral

But William G. Schwab, Jim Thorpe's attorney, said that Patricia Thorpe made the decision with three of the athlete's daughters and was well within her rights to do so. Their argument simply turns centuries of state family and estate law on its end. The 3rd Circuit simply found family and spousal rights superior to tribal rights. I would expect the Supreme Court will do likewise," Schwab said.

Video helps anglers avoid the trap of ghost nets

Every year, thousands of recreational boaters and anglers take to the waters of Lake Michigan and Lake Superior. And every year, a handful of them run afoul of commercial and tribal fishing nets, even though those trap and gill nets are often marked with flags and buoys. In rare cases, boats can become swamped, putting lives at risk.

Now boaters have a new safety tool to help them avoid damage and disaster, in the form of an educational video produced through a partnership between Wisconsin Sea Grant, the Apostle Islands Sports Fisherman's Association (AISA) and the Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission (GLIFWC). "Our main objective is to protect our natural resources, the water and all our animal relatives that depend on the water. With this video, we hope to promote safety and responsibility that allows for everyone to enjoy the Great Lakes for future generations," said Heather Naigus, outreach officer for GLIFWC. The 13-minute video, filmed and produced by Wisconsin Sea Grant, features Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Warden Amie Egstad describing the ways in which fishing nets are marked using specific types of flags and buoys. It also provides detailed safety tips on what boaters should do if they run into trouble. "What we're giving anglers and boaters is the tools to say 'I see these buoys, and I think I know what that means," said Titus Seilheimer, Wisconsin Sea Grant's fisheries outreach specialist. 'Now I can avoid entanglement."

Anchored nets are only one of the net-related safety hazards about which boaters must be aware. Ghost nets, commercial or tribal nets that have become unmoored due to strong currents or storms, can also create a dangerous situation. No longer marked, these ghost nets continue to drift on the water's surface or in its depths, presenting an unseen hazard that can easily entangle unwary boaters.

ghost nets is obviously, what do you do?" said Seilheimer. "The video outlines several action steps. First, you want to free yourself right away, especially if weather conditions are threatening. Then, if possible, we'd like boaters to be able to mark the location with a GPS system and a float. That helps a lot with recovery." The video instructs boaters who become entangled in a ghost net to call a Wisconsin DNR tip line (1-800-847-9367) or visit the website greatlakesghostnets.org to report the location. "Addressing the issues of safety around nets, as well as lost or missing nets, can save lives, save precious natural resources and removes debris that degrades the environment of the Great Lakes," said Al House, AISA board member.

"The key question with

Graduation Set for Friday

By Shayne Skenandore ONHS Thunderhawk Times

It's hard to believe that the seniors have just a couple of days left at Oneida Nation High School. Graduation Ceremony is Friday, June 5 at the Radisson in the Wolf Room.

During the day, there will be a breakfast from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. and then, after the breakfast, graduating seniors are to report to the Wolf Room for rehearsal. This should only take about thirty minutes, if everyone is on time.

Later that evening, graduating students are to return to the Radisson Wolf Room by 5:15 p.m. to get lined up.

This year's valedictorian is Ruby John and this year's salutatorian is Byran Halona.

The posting of the colors will be by the Oneida Native American Veterans Association.

The processional will be by the Buffalo Creek Singers.

Senior Angelica Schuyler will do the Oneida opening and Nation School System Administrator Sharon

Every school year has its ups and downs. Some memories you will cherish forever, some you would just as soon forget.

One way to remember the good times is with the 2014-15 Oneida Nation High School Yearbook.

Art instructor Becky Anderson has been working on our high school yearbooks for more than fifteen years. She says work on the yearbook is "rewarding and interesting."

I asked Becky what makes a great yearbook and she said, "a lot of pictures and when everyone turns their things in on time."

Students who worked on the yearbook with Becky included Ruby John, Grace Powless and Sheila Stevens. She also had help with some photographs from Angelica Schuyler and Quentin Sundquist who were in true and it's just so her photography class. One of the challenges funny."

This year's book will cost $15 and is available

now. Becky added, "The yearbook isn't a moneymaking thing, it's more of a learning experience for the kids who are involved. People like to look back on the year. I even bring books to graduation so parents and grandparents can buy them."

Done!

By Kasey Counard

I'm finally done. I finished all of my school work.

It didn't always look so good. When I found out I wasn't going to graduate on time, I was devastated. I didn't know what I was going to do. I had 10 credits and I needed 13.5 more to graduate.

Then, I had a meeting with Oneida Nation High School and they were willing to help me with my credits.

I've been going to ONHS for six months since I came home. They put me in an alternative program. It's called the 13-credit program for people who have struggled with school or who have been put in difficult situations where they couldn't do anything about schooling. In that program, I needed three more credits to get a diploma.

I am glad I got this opportunity to catch up on my school work and earn those credits. This has really helped me a lot in life. I earned my three credits and now that I am finished with high school, I want to go to college for Human Services. I want to help people and talk to them about their problems. I would like to be a therapist or a counselor.

ONHS Lacrosse Season is Wrapping Up

By Michaela Welch ONHS Thunderhawk Times

We know it as the Creator's Game, which makes it different from other sports played here and at other high schools.

Like so many years before, this year, ONHS has put a team on the field to represent the school and the community.

Most of the players on the team are students at ONHS. However, they have been joined this season by Cameron Skenandore, who attends Seymour High School, and Emerson John, who is in eighth grade at the

Seth Charles added that being a part of this team,

"shows leadership skills" because you're representing the school and also the Oneida community.

The coaches this year are Curt Summers, Butch Summers and Dana Isaac. The team's record is 2 and 6 as of this writing.

ONHS Thunderhawk Times

There has been a lot of talk about whether Oneida Nation High having School is Summer School and the answer is, "Yes."

But summer school doesn't look like it did in the "old days."

You don't even have to leave your house to go to summer school if you don't want to. That's right, it's the 21st Century and it's about time that we use the technology around us.

This summer, ONHS is putting online Odysseyware courses to work to help students who need to recover credits. These are the same courses used by the school during the regular school year. And the fact that it's online means that a student can do school work from home while still enjoying their summer. They just have to fit in the time on their classes.

Online courses are available any time of day and any day of the week, making summer school more convenient than ever.

In the past, getting up and going to summer school was a little bit overwhelming to some, but these days summer school changes that for the better.

Secretary's Report

Lisa Summers Secretary

She kú kyáta,

It is a pleasure to bring you this most current update of activity happening from the Tribal Secretary's office. In this article, I am going to touch on the following topics: various community activities; continued good governance related practices; the Secretarial Election; the Semi-Annual reports to GTC, and lastly, my annual commitment to reach out to the membership.

Community activities – It is often difficult to attend every events taking place around our community, so many people put in hard work to make the Oneida reservation a better place. In addition to the opening of the Oneida Lake and Headstart Graduation this month, I attended two other events I would like to share.

The first, Oneida High School's Athletic Banquet, was held on Thursday, May 28. It was inspiring to see the great number of parents, coaches, and family members in attendance to support our student athletes, especially the young ladies who have chosen to hang tough with the guys, playing football and lacrosse. Awards were provided to Mr/Ms Defense; Most Improved and Most Valuable Player – reflecting the awards provided by the conference Oneida will be participating in next year, the MCO conference.

3rd Annual The Oneida Lacrosse Classic also took place on May 30 & 31. Five fields were in play as the 11u, 13u and 15u teams competed with players from around the state of Wisconsin, including Wauwatosa, Kettle Moraine, Wausau, Appleton, Green Bay and Oconomowoc to name a few. Be proud Oneida, the Creator's game was well played by all of our Oneida teams with the 15u taking 2nd place and the 13u keeping the traveling trophy at home with a championship game victory. The event drew an estimated 1.000+ attendees over the two day period, making it one of the most successful tournaments held so far. Congratulations to all the participants and the community volunteers and parents who organized and operated the event.

Good Governance-Related Activity – One goal for this term is to integrate good governance principles into activities and decisionmaking for the Tribal Secretary's Office. Transparency isn't just a buzzword to be used with a negative connotation; it is the very real principle of making information accessible and ensuring the government is making decision(s) in a manner that follows the rules and regulations. True transparency efforts create an environment where information is freely available and accessible to those affected by such decisions.

Additionally, the team I work with has been phenomenal in taking on projects which make adjustments in the office to create transparency, like processing and responding to requests, or managing information in a way which makes it more useful for the OBC. One example of the team's achievement is the creation and implementation of an OBC travel dashboard. This information is updated monthly and allows us as your elected leaders, to see at a glance what remains in our travel budgets, what travel is reconciled at accounting and what travel reports have been completed. at-a-glance This approach to reviewing our travel is assisting us in achieving self-regulation in accordance with the Tribe's Travel and Expense Policy.

Secretarial Election Update - Oneida made history when we approved five proposed constitutional amendments on May 2, 2015. five changes The include: lowering the voting age to 18 yearsold; changing our name "Oneida Nation"; to being able to hold the Annual and Semi-Annual meetings on any day in the months of July and January; constitutionally embedding the Judicial branch of government; and, most importantly, removing the Secretary of Interior from an oversight and approval role for the Tribe.

The next step is to wait

The Third Annual Oneida Lacrosse Classic also took place on May 30 and 31. Five fields were in play as the 11u, 13u and 15u teams competed with players from around the state of Wisconsin.

for the Department of Interior to declare the election results after all appeals of the election is completed. There was one appeal filed by a tribal member; this means none of the approved changes voted on by the membership will go into effect until this appeal is complete. In the meantime, there is an internal team working to prepare all of the necessary logistical steps which must be completed in order to implement the changes. When started, implementation will take time; however, I am confident the team is prepared for this challenge.

Semi-Annual GTC Report – A different strategy to receive more information relating to the Annual and Semi-Annual GTC reports was introduced during the January 2015 Annual GTC meeting. GTC approved these reports, so the strategy was continued for this year's semi-annual reports. As a reminder, in order to provide as much comprehensive information as possible, all areas required to report have done so in their quarterly reports. The quarterly reports are posted on the Tribe's website for your review at any time, and GTC still receives an Annual and Semi-Annual report. By making this adjustment, the good governance goal of effectiveness and efficiency is supported. Please visit the reports page of the tribe's website: www.oneidansn.gov/reports.

Door-to-door – I made a commitment to the community when I ran for office that I would solicit comments and concerns each year, not just during campaign season. In order to honor this commitment I have already begun door-todoor visits to listen to concerns and answer any questions, and will continue to do so through the end of June. A few topics rising toward the top of list include: Boards, Committees & Commissions, GTC stipends, and expanding family court's function to include divorce. The information I gather during these six weeks will assist me in formulating my goals for the next year (August '15 -July '16). If you'd like to schedule a visit or have suggestions, please contact my assistant, Lisa Liggins at 920-869-4434 or lliggins@oneidanation.org. You may also send me information in "Summers the for Secretary" group on Facebook, or send an email to asliskwetbear@gmail.com.

Volunteering Events –

The annual clean sweep is scheduled for June 3, 2015, and a small team from my area was there in the afternoon to help out. It was great to see all of the participants. The work done as a result of this event helps to create a better environment for the Oneida reservation. Also, the 2015 Woodland Indian Art Show and Market is scheduled for June 12-14, 2015, at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center. Again, a small team will be on hand to assist where we can, and we encourage others to lend a helping hand at all community events when possible.

David Jordan Councilman

Shekoli, Liaison Duties

As I continue to get reacquainted with some of the duties of being a Council Member, I have also resumed some of the liaison duties I had last term.

I have been reappointed to the Community Development Planning Committee; the Legislative Operating Committee; the Oneida Gaming Commission; Audit Committee; and Head Start/Early Head Start.

I have also been appointed as a liaison to the Library Board and Oneida Personnel Commission as an alternate; Finance Committee; Department of Transportation Tribal Consultation Team; and Bay Bank.

To date I have had meetings with several of these boards and on an ongoing basis will continue meet with the remaining entities. I will strive to represent the Business Committee as best I can with these entities and the employees and members who sit on each respective board, committee or commission.

Utilities Rate Increase

Within the past few weeks, the Business Committee granted the Oneida Utilities Department the authority to increase water and sewer rates 12% effective October 1, 2015 in accordance with the Sanitation Ordinance.

The Oneida Utilities Department did conduct a study utilizing equal population per capita to the Oneida Reservation. This is the first increase in rates since 2004 and is considered to be consistent with municipalities that have comparable number of customers within their service area.

Oneida Lake

The lake is now open for everyone to enjoy from dawn to dusk. This project is still a "work in progress", so there are some restrictions on what you can do and cannot do. Canoes and kayaks are welcome, however the launch is closed to trailered boats until later this summer and only electric motors are allowed on the lake.

At this time the lake is "trash in, trash out", which means any items you bring with you, please take any remains of that item with you. Place all your trash in a container while you are at the lake and when you leave, take that container with you.

Pets are not allowed at the lake. Please do not bring your dog or other animals with you when you visit the lake.

Also, at this time the bath houses are not complete, so port o' potties are being used until later this summer.

This recreation spot was made for you, Tribal members and their families, to enjoy, so come on out and spend the day picnicking, fishing, and strolling around the grounds or whatever else you may think of. It is all here.

The Oneida Lake is located on the west side of County U between West Adams Road and Crook Road.

Again I want to thank you, the general membership, for taking the time to read these articles and as always I am available to meet with you, should you so desire. I can be reached at 869-4483 or you can e-mail me at djordan1@oneidanation.org.

Protect the forest by leaving your firewood at home

Rhinelander, Wisconsin ~ Campers and recreationalists visiting the Chequamegon-Nicolet National Forest are reminded to leave their firewood at home. The Forest has firewood restrictions in place to slow the spread of emerald ash borer (EAB), an exotic beetle from Asia that kills ash trees. The restrictions prohibit visitors from bringing firewood to the Forest from any distance greater than 25 miles away.

Since 2002, EAB has spread to 22 states, including Wisconsin and two Canadian provinces. In spite of state and federal quarantines that limit the movement of wood products and nursery stock, the insect continues to be discovered in new locations. Movement of infested firewood is the likely cause of new infestations beyond normal dispersal patterns of the insect.

In addition, other pests and diseases such as gypsy moth and oak wilt often hitchhike on firewood, too. The best advice? Buy it where you burn it!

Acceptable firewood to bring to the CNNF includes:

- Wood gathered from within the Forest with a valid permit
- Firewood purchased from a vendor within 25 miles of the National Forest destination or brought from home that same distance
- · Wood that has been certified by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (certified wood can be brought into the Forest from a distance of more than 25 miles)

The Forest Service's Eastern Region includes 20 states in the Midwest and East, stretching from Maine, to Maryland, to Missouri, to Minnesota. There are 17 national forests and one national tallgrass prairie in the Eastern Region. For more information, v i S i t www.fs.usda.gov/R9.

The U.S. Forest Service manages 193 million acres of public land, provides assistance to state and private landowners, and maintains the largest forestry research organization in the world. Public lands the Forest Service manages contribute more than $13 billion to the economy each year through visitor spending alone. Those same lands provide 20 percent of the nation's clean water supply, a value estimated at $7.2 billion per year. The agency has either a direct or indirect role in stewardship of about 80 percent of the 850 million forested acres within the U.S., of which 100 million acres are urban where forests most Americans live. Our service for tilling your food production garden needs has been going well this year! We have had about 70 people/families sign up so far and about 90% have bene completed so far. We still have some areas/sites to go. The normal delays we monitor and try to address are that the areas need to be clean and clearly marked out, not too wet and availability of resources in staff, tractors and tillers. Remember our new process for this year has been the service being based on time and NOT the 1/4 acre we did in the past.

Patience pays off for Seymour's Alicea

By Nate Wisneski Kalihwisaks nwisnes@oneidanation.org @Nwisneski Kali

It's the classic sports story. Seymour basketball's Jose Alicea rode the bench behind superstars knowing he was good enough, waiting for his shot.

As Alicea sat and watched stars Sandy Cohen and Dakota Oskey eat up potential minutes during his junior season he knew his time would come. With Cohen now playing at Marquette University and Oskey playing at St. Norbert College Alicia exploded as a senior.

The 6'1" guard averaged 16.9 points per game in conference on his way to being named All State – Honorable Mention, Bay Conference -First Team, and a spot on the Division 2 North All-Star Team.

"It was difficult for the first couple of years. I thought I was good enough to play and I just had to wait and stick with it. I just wanted to prove my senior year I could actually play. I just waited and it all worked out," he said.

Alicea led the Seymour Thunder to a 22-3 record, best in the Bay Conference, while reaching the

Sectional round of the WIAA tournament. "People thought that we didn't have Sandy and Dakota and we wouldn't be very good.

I thought we could do some things and I think we did," Alicea said. "A lot of our guys knew we were good enough to play but didn't get a chance. We wanted to prove we could do something and compete."

Alicea is now preparing his freshman year on the Concordia University basketball team and has kept his goals basic.

"I want to get some playing time, and from there I haven't really thought about it a lot. I feel like I can play there," he said.

Along with success o n t h e basketball court Alicea excels in other aspects of his life. He played soccer in the fall, where he also earned All Conference honors, and golf in the spring. He accumulated a 3.3 grade point average and logged hundreds of hours of community service.

"I helped out with our church, doing brat sales and mowing the lawn. I at the volunteered Oneida Relay for Life a few years in a row and I did a lot with youth camps in basketball. It's always nice to help someone out," he said.

Alicea's advice is simple to people who might find themselves in similar situations to his own.

"Stick with it, don't get discouraged with your situation and prove yourself when the opportunities there," he said.

Cornelius vaulting to state championships

By Dawn Walschinski Kalihwisaks dwalschi@oneidanation.org @dwalschi_kali

Marcus Cornelius is using his track skills and math skills to jump ahead of the competition.

Cornelius will be heading to the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) State Track and Field Meet June 5-6 at the University of Wisconsin - La Crosse to compete in Division II pole vault and 110 meter hurdles.

The Seymour High School senior stated he's participated in track and field since seventh grade.

"I like the freedom of sport," the said "Whatever Cornelius. you feel like doing, you can go and do it."

The Seymour team took second at conference for both boys and

"We had a young team, but it was excellent, I think it will come along in the next few years," he said.

Cornelius stated that the track and field coaches were great.

"They try and get everybody involved. They try and put people in places where they think they'll help the team the most, and they give everybody chance," he said.

Cornelius plans to continue his sport when he attends the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

"That's going to be a big step up since it's a D1 school, bigger school, more competition," he said.

Cornelius' love of math has led him to major in actuarial science.

"Math is my favorite subject," he said.
