GTC meets for Semi-Annual meeting

With the Oneida Nation constitution officially amended the General Tribal Council (GTC) welcomed 18, 19, and 20 year-olds to the July 6 Semi-Annual Meeting.

After some minor shifting, the GTC heard detailed reports from the Joint Marketing Team and Chairwoman Tina Danforth detailing the Lambeau Field gate contract between the Oneida Nation and Green Bay Packers.

After the reports the GTC approved a process change that will have all Packer merchandise and tickets obtained through the contract be processed in the Gaming Accounting area. Prior, checks and balances over how the items were distributed were handled by multiple departments.

The GTC then approved meeting minutes from November 15 of last year, January 19 and February 9 of this year. Minutes from December 15, 2013 remained on the table.

Discussion regarding the Tribal Treasurer's Report was dominated by a proposed wage increase of $0.99 per hour to employees making $65,000 or more annually. During a special meeting on June 1 the GTC bumped the pay of employees' who earn less than $65,000 annually by $0.99 per hour.

Concern was expressed during the meeting as an amendment to include employees earning more than $65,000 was voted down at the June 1 meeting. The report was accepted and the GTC moved onto the semi-annual reports.

After discussion a motion was passed that mandates administration staff from the Oneida Judiciary attend GTC meeting to provide a report. Currently, Judiciary staff does not attend meetings to avoid any potential future conflicts of interest.

A GTC meeting law was the final item of the night. The law will provide a schedule of meetings, develop a structured agenda for each meeting, outline the petition process, set a standards for meeting conduct, outline support staff duties and responsibilities, along with requiring the analysis of the Chairpersons requests to be included on the agenda.

The law was sent back to the Legislative Operating Committee for adjustments and public meetings will be conducted to allow comments. The law will be brought back for approval with notice going to all GTC members.

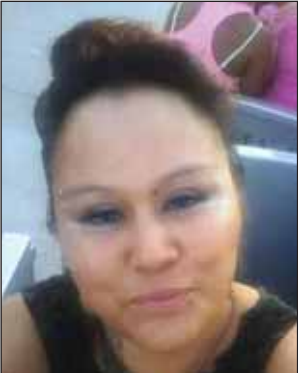

The remaining items on the agenda were tabled and will be forwarded to a future GTC meeting.

Percy N. Sims

Krystal Torres-Smith

A 26-year-old Milwaukee man is being held in the Brown County Jail on a $1M cash bond on charges of first-degree intentional homicide, armed robbery, and being a felon in possession of a firearm.

Percy N. Sims is suspected in the death of Krystal Torres-Smith, 39, of Green Bay, who was found shot multiple times in an SUV near the Lambeau Cottage on the campus of UW-Green Bay in the early morning hours of June 8.

Brown County investigators believe Sims travelled to Green Bay from Appleton with the intention of robbing Torres-Smith of two ounces of marijuana, but ended up shooting her at close range with a handgun instead. Investigators do not believe the shooting was provoked.

Investigators later found a blood-stained t-shirt that Sims was identified as wearing on the night of the incident. Those blood stains were later positively identified as having come from Torres-Smith. Sims was also found in possession of Torres-Smith's cell phone in the days follow-

Sims does not have legal representation at this time, and the balance of his initial appearance has been re-scheduled for 2:30 p.m. on July 29

Statement from the family of Krystal Torres-Smith:

“Krystal was a beautiful loving spirit inside and out. She was a gem that brought laughter and smiles to all her friends and family. She was a dedicated mother who loved her children more than anything. We are heartbroken that she had to be taken from us this way.”

DOJ Files Lawsuit against Federal Government over Drug Testing Requirements for Welfare Recipients

Madison — On behalf of the State of Wisconsin, Attorney General Brad D. Schimel today filed a lawsuit against the federal government seeking clarification that the State can require certain welfare recipients to undergo drug testing to satisfy the work requirement for food-stamp benefits. The lawsuit was filed against United States Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin.

“This lawsuit seeks to provide clarity that the State of Wisconsin has the authority to require drug testing for FoodShare recipients,” said Schimel. “In previous communications with the State of Wisconsin, the federal government has taken the opposite position despite the clear statutory language in federal law.”

Following is a summary of the lawsuit:
Name: State of Wisconsin v. Vilsack

Parties: Plaintiffs are the State and Kitty Rhoades, Secretary of Wisconsin Department of Health Services (DHS). The Defendants are the United States Secretary of Agriculture (USDA), Tom Vilsack, and his subordinate managers of the USDA federal food-stamp program.

Court: Eastern District of Wisconsin

Summary of Lawsuit
 • FoodShare is the Wisconsin version of the federal food-stamp program.

- FoodShare is administered by the State and local governments, but paid for by the USDA.
- The USDA sets conditions of eligibility and other requirements, which are imposed on the states.
- The recently enacted biennial budget bill (2015 Wisconsin Act 55) signed by Governor Scott Walker) includes a new law requiring DHS to screen and, if indicated, test and treat certain individuals for controlled substances who receive FoodShare in Wisconsin as a condition of eligibility.
- Not all FoodShare recipients are to be tested – only able-bodied adults without dependents who meet the FoodShare work requirement through participation in the FoodShare Employment and Training Program (FSET). These individuals account for about a quarter of all FoodShare recipients.
- While the Wisconsin Legislature was considering this legislation, the USDA sent an email to DHS indicating that drug testing was not permitted in the FoodShare program.
- It is Wisconsin’s position that FoodShare recipients may be drug tested as a condition of eligibility. Wisconsin bases its position on a 1996 federal law that provides as follows:
 - o “Notwithstanding any other provision of law, States shall not be prohibited by the Federal Government from testing welfare recipients for use of controlled substances nor from sanctioning welfare recipients who test positive for use of controlled substances.”

- It is Wisconsin’s position that FoodShare recipients are “welfare recipients” and therefore may be tested and sanctioned for the use of controlled substances.
- Because Wisconsin and the Obama administration disagree about the meaning of federal law, Wisconsin is asking the federal court to declare that Wisconsin’s position is correct, and to issue an injunction preventing the federal government from applying their standards in an unlawful way.

Carr Carries Special Olympics Torch

The 2015 Special Olympics will always hold a sacred place in the heart of one particular Olympian. Oneida Tribal member Marissa Carr, 21, helped carry the Special Olympics Flame of Hope on July 4 as it made its way through Arizona on its journey to California ahead of the 2015 World Summer Games.

More than 10,000 people helped carry the Flame of Hope from May 26-July 10 along its nearly 2,800-mile Unified Relay Across America route from Miami, Fla. to Los Angeles, Calif. The games are scheduled for July 25-Aug. 2 in LA.

Carr, of Glendale, Ariz., was part of a group

Oneida tribal member Marissa Carr proudly carries the Special Olympics Flame of Hope on July 4 in Glendale, Ariz. of approximately 12 Peoria Chapter of the Special Olympics who carried the torch along a quarter-mile stretch of road through Glendale before handing it off to another group of handlers. “I did this to support two friends who are going to be competing in the Summer Games,” Carr said.

Carr was born prematurely and with microcephaly, a rare neurological condition in which an infant’s head and brain is significantly smaller than those of other babies of the same age and sex. Laura Carr, Marissa’s mother, said not only has her daughter survived her quality of life prognoses given by doctors, she has far exceeded them. “When she was born the doctor told me that she was blind, that she was deaf, that she was a vegetable,” Laura said. “He told me that she would never be able to walk and that I needed to find a facility to put her in.”

Refusing to give up on her daughter so soon after birth, Laura sought different medical advice and began therapy with Marissa when she was 18 months old. Twenty years later, Marissa’s resilience is visible on a daily basis. “Granted she needs glasses to see, but she can see,” Laura said, “she does have some hearing loss but she can hear, and not only can this girl walk, but she can run, and she also loves to sing!”

“My favorite games to play are basketball, soccer, volleyball and track,” Marissa said. And while she won’t be actively participating in this year’s World Summer Games, Marissa said carrying the Special Olympics Flame of Hope in support of two Team Peoria friends who are is an honor she will never forget.

“She’s just a pleasure,” Laura said. “She’s just the sweetest girl and always willing to help. She loves animals, and she’s everything I ever wanted in a daughter, and she’s nowhere near being a vegetable!”

Marissa is the daughter of Laura Carr, of Glendale, Ariz., and granddaughter of Lou Ann and Jim Green, of Oneida.

July Public Health Awareness Topic: UV Safety Month

Submitted by Kala Kimberly Cornelius, MSN, RN

Oneida Community Health Nurse
UV Related Facts:
• The main source of ultraviolet radiation (UV rays) is the sun, but they can also come from tanning beds, UV lamps, and welding torches
• UV rays most often damage your skin and cause skin cancer, but may also severely damage your eyes
• Skin cancer is the most common type of cancer, but it is also the most successfully treated if found early
• UV rays can damage your skin in as little as 15 minutes
• Sun screen does expire: be sure to check the expiration date, most brands have a shelf life of 3 years. Old sunscreen or a bottle that has been exposed to high temperatures is not as effective in preventing UV damage

• Approximately one American dies every hour from skin cancer, and this year alone there will be an estimated 68,000 new cases of the most serious form of skin cancer: malignant melanoma
Ways to Protect Your Skin and Prevent Skin Cancer:
• Use broad spectrum sunscreen to protect against UVA and UVB rays, with SPF 15 or higher
• Apply 1 ounce of sunscreen 30 minutes prior to sun exposure, reapply every two hours (even if “water-resistant”) and after swimming or excessive sweating

• Limit sun exposure during peak burning hours of 10 AM and 4 PM, when UV rays are the strongest
• When out in the sun, wear protective clothing that covers most of your skin: long sleeve shirt, pants, hats, and sun glasses. If you can see through the fabric, UV rays can get through as well
• Don’t be fooled by a cloudy day: UV rays can still penetrate through the clouds and burn your skin (sunscreen still needed when sun is not visible)

• Children under 6 months should be kept out of direct sunlight as it is not recommended to wear sunscreen until 6 months old

• Check your skin monthly for any abnormalities or changes in moles

On June 18, 2015 the Oneida Higher Education Department sponsored it’s annual College Fair for Busy Adults at the Skenandoah Complex Cafeteria.

This event is designed to be a “meet and greet” with colleges that offer flexible learning formats designed for busy adults. On-line, accelerated, blended, and night/weekend formats were all represented.

Sixteen Colleges attended offering degrees ranging from technical diplomas to law school. Approximately forty seven attendees got the opportunity to visit with school representative and pick up information on programs to help them reach their educational goals, while still allowing time to balance other priorities such as family and work.

All who attended got to enjoy some light snacks and the chance to win door prizes such as school logo apparel, water bottles, inspirational books and more.

The grand prize winner of a seven-inch-tablet and case was Lisa Behringer. As always this was a fun event, making it known that no matter what-there are always options to help you meet your educational goals!

5th Annual Short Play Festival: We Are Family

Selected short plays will be performed during the Autry National Center’s American Indian Arts Marketplace in Los Angeles. This year’s theme: What is family?

Today there are many variations on what it means to be a family. Your play on the family story might focus on the more traditional, extended family story (parents and children residing with other family members); or perhaps the so-called nuclear family; or maybe it’s a story of a mother (or father) raising their children; or a brother, his sister, and her children; or maybe you want to explore GAP family stories (grandparents raising grandchildren); or an adopted or created family story. What does all this mean to the Native American family and identity? Are we born into a family for life, or do we surround ourselves with adopted “family members” as we grow older? Whether a family is biological or chosen, it has shaped our identity and formed our histories. Native Voices seeks short plays (5-16 pages long) that address the many ways a Native American family forms and functions. Plays may be a celebration of family life, or an examination of complexities and issues in Native families. Alternately, plays may dramatize traditional family stories or family histories. Specific topics can range anywhere from coming-of-age stories to foster care or adoption stories; the discovery of shared heritage to the cycle of historical trauma. Both comedies and dramas are always welcome.

evaluated by a national reading panel comprised of Native American theatre artists and community members along with nationally-recognized theatre artists. They will select 5 to 8 plays for the festival based on the creative use of the theme, originality, theatricality, and execution. Selected plays will be given a staged reading on November 8, 2015 as part of the Autry National Center’s American Indian Arts Marketplace. A panel of celebrity judges will select the 2015 Von Marie Atchley Award for Excellence in Playwriting, a $1,000 cash prize.

- You must use a standard playscript format (observe one-inch margins, use a #12 Times or Courier font, number all script pages).
 - Include a title page with full contact information (mailing address, phone numbers, email address) and a draft or revision date.
 - Include a character breakdown.
 - Provide a biography of 75–100 words. Please label attachment as follows: Bio_Author’s Last Name, First Initial (Example: Bio_Doe, J.doc).
 - Provide development history for the play. Label attachment as follows: DevHistory_PlayTitle_Author’s Last Name, First Initial (Example: DevHistory_MyNewPlay_Doe, J.doc).

UW Extension to reduce staff amid $5.2M cut in state funding

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The University of Wisconsin Extension is making plans to reduce staff and leave vacancies open amid the largest cut in state support it's ever faced.

The $5.2 million reduction is part of the state budget signed by Gov. Scott Walker. It represents an 8 percent cut in state funding for UW Extension, a university system whose mission includes educating communities that lack a four-year campus.

Under the new budget, the agency's Cooperative Extension division could lose 10 percent of its positions. But the changes likely won't surface until the beginning of next year.

"We will do the best we can to retain people; about 7 percent of our positions are already vacant," said Rick Klemme, dean and director of the Cooperative Extension, which includes agriculture agents.

Every county in Wisconsin has at least one UW Extension agent, specializing in areas such as agriculture, 4-H youth development and family living programs, the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel (<http://bit.ly/1HZMnJW>) reported. Now more counties will probably have to begin sharing agents to provide expertise but without as much individual attention.

"Less does mean less. We know that we cannot sustain our staffing level," Klemme said.

Although the impact of the $5.2 million-cut will be deep, according to officials, they had anticipated that it would be worse.

"But even if we don't have to eliminate that many positions, we need to ask our people to do more. It's going to have an effect," said Cathy Sandeen, chancellor for UW Colleges and UW Extension.

The state's counties cover about 40 percent of the UW Extension staff who work on a county level, allowing local officials to have more say in the kind of programs they receive.

Some counties already are sharing positions across borders, which is a move that makes sense, according to the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, the state's largest farming organization.

"It's the kind of flexibility we are seeking," said Farm Bureau spokesman Casey Langan.

One of the programs that was hit hardest by the budget cuts was Wisconsin Media Lab, funded through the Educational Communications Board, which lost all of its $1.1 million in general purpose revenue. Since then, no new production has been planned and only two of eight people assigned to the program will be retained, said Gene Purcell, Educational Communications Board executive director.

"It has basically gutted our ability to operate Media Lab," he said.

Welcome 18-to-20-year-olds to your first General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting, or as it's otherwise known to the rest of the world - Festivus.

Yes, that non-religious holiday featured in the sitcom Seinfeld may have taken inspiration from our large get-togethers. But instead of Feats of Strength and a Festivus Pole, we tend to get stuck on the traditional Airing of Grievances. So many grievances.

The worst part is not everyone gets to participate in this cathartic practice. We end up with four hours of the same people crying over the same grievances again and again. Sure, everyone gets to groan when they see certain individuals approach the mic, but it's not the same.

Therefore, to increase productivity and reduce headaches and ad nauseam, I recommend that our GTC structure itself more like a full Festivus celebration.

First there's a meal. Of course, there's no money

Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks
Managing editor

for this meal, so it will be potluck. Whoever brings a dish to pass gets first crack at the mic. And it can't be a bag of chips, we want casseroles.

Once everyone who brought something home-made gets to speak, we will open the mic to chips and soda bringers. After that, people will have to perform feats of strength to get to the mic; perhaps wrestling or maybe something a little more non-contact, but less fun to video. Yes, this may be problematic for the elderly, but they more than likely brought a glorified rice dish, so they've aired their baggage.

Finally, there will be the declaration of the Festivus Miracle or in this case GTC Miracle. Perhaps it will be "people actually read their GTC packet" or "we approved the agenda in under an hour." Either occurrence would be glorious.

Unfortunately, there doesn't seem to be a structure that encourages people to be civil and productive at our meetings (other than Robert's Rules of Order, Iroquois philosophy of having a good mind, and common courtesy). No, we are apparently a ship adrift on the raging seas of discontent with only facebook to collectively complain about people's behavior. It's just a shame that regular GTC attendees couldn't behave a little better for the influx of new attendees who by all reports were quiet and respectful. Or in total shock and staring in wide-eyed horror at how their elders were behaving.

The July 6 meeting set the tone for all meetings to follow as far as these young people are concerned. If this is the expected behavior, then expect our young people to follow suit in being disruptive and dismissive of their fellow GTC goers. And expect this behavior to continue for a very long time.

Registration open for Don Schneider Memorial Challenge Run

De Pere, Wis. ~ The fourth annual Don Schneider Memorial Challenge Run will be held at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 19, and is part of the college's "SNC Day" activities. New this year is a kids' challenge race with special obstacles for kids ages 6-10.

The 5k course will begin and end on campus, looping south on Lost Dauphin Road and through Schneider Stadium. Obstacles are not extreme and will include climbing the stairs at Schneider Stadium, hurdles, crawling under ropes and climbing hay-bale hills.

Registration is $15 and runners will receive a commemorative long-sleeved T-shirt. Medals will be awarded to the top three finishers in each division.

The late Don Schneider was a longtime trustee, adjunct professor and generous friend of St. Norbert College, as well as an avid runner. Proceeds from the race will benefit the Don Schneider Memorial Scholarship at St. Norbert College. Register at <http://www.snc.edu/sncday>.

Showers and food/refreshments will be available in Schuldes Sports Center for runners after the race.

SNC Day is a campus "open house" held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Race participants can stay and enjoy boat rides on the Fox River, three stages of entertainment, food, loads of children's activities, mini-lectures by St. Norbert faculty, and interactive science activities for kids.

Jr. Miss Oneida 2015-16

During my experience throughout the pageant I have learned many things from my elders and the other contestants. In order to do my traditional talent I learned more about the cornhusk doll. I had already know the basic stuff but I wanted to go in depth. So my grandmother and my mother thought it would be a good idea to go to an elder's house and see if I could learn more from her. I went to Emilia Cornelius's house where she taught me how to make a cornhusk doll along with some other useful things. Emilia was such a big help I couldn't have done it without her knowledge and her helpfulness.

I had a very good experience with my other contestants. They were all very helpful throughout the days we spent together. I got to learn more about them and each of their platforms. The platform that I wanted to know more about was language. I already knew that we didn't have many people who could speak our language, but what I didn't know was that our language could soon be lost forever because so few people speak it. I am happy that my other contestants informed me more about this issue.

The other contestants taught me to how have confidence when I speak and just to believe in myself. I think we all became good friends and most of us still talk even though the pageant is done. My overall experience was very fun, I got to make many new friends, learn more about the issues we face as a people, and learn more about my culture. I am very grateful that I had so many people helping me, not only the other contestants, but also my parents, family and friends.

Spotlight focused on female veterans at powwow

All female veterans were given a special honor before the beginning of the annual Oneida Powwow on Friday, July 3. The female veterans were recognized for their sacrifices they made and are often not given the same accolades as their male counterparts. The powwow also had an eagle release shortly before the grand entry. The Bay Beach Wildlife Sanctuary nursed an injured bald eagle back to health and released it in the arena.

Pre-planning Benefits, FAQ's answered

Sheku Swakweku (Hello Everyone)

Now that the fireworks are extinguished and the Fourth of July festivities are over for another year - it's back to taking care of business. As I sat and watched our family firework show and saw the skies lit up - I couldn't help but reflect upon my own dad, my son and all those pre-deceased and wonder if they see the same beautiful skies we did here on earth! Which immediately brought me to "WHY I DO WHAT I DO". It's a very simple answer - I'm here to help educate the membership about OLIPP and the importance of the membership completing their Oneida Beneficiary Designation form.

When your loved one is called back to Sky World, I'm here to guide you through a difficult time when it comes to dealing with the death of your loved one and navigating the paperwork process.

Having suffered the death of my own 19 year- old son leaves a lasting impact on any parent who has had to bury a child. I've learned so many life lessons along that grief journey and the greatest lesson is: everyone you ever loved will travel with you; they reside in the home of your heart and continue to guide you each and every day.

Secondly, even in death, my son has taught me "Mom, you can't go back, you can't stay in the midst of unresolved grief and you must go forward-and that is WHY I DO WHAT I DO."

ONEIDA LIFE INSUR-

ANCE PLAN PLUS (OLIPP)

- OLIPP can work for you — but you need to take responsibility and complete the Oneida Beneficiary Designation form. Form can be found at www.enrollments@oneidanation.org website or call me and I can mail you one or just stop in at Enrollment Office.
- OLIPP can relieve your family of the financial burden of funeral expenses.

DOES OLIPP AUTOMATICALLY PAY MY FUNERAL EXPENSES?

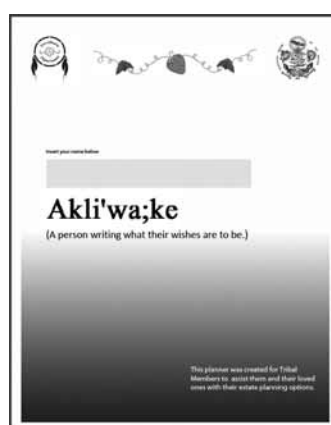

- NO, if you don't have an Oneida Beneficiary Designation form on file-then EPIC Life Insurance decides who gets the proceeds thru a naming sequence. Now you run the risk will that "someone" receiving the benefit actually use it for its intended purpose?
- OLIPP will pay your funeral expenses if you select the box on the form in Section B—designating Oneida Enrollment Department as a primary beneficiary.

YOU CAN BEGIN FUNERAL PRE-PLANNING NOW

- Funeral prices vary from one funeral home to another and state to state. It's important to shop around.
- Casket prices are the most expensive individual item you will purchase. Caskets don't have to be purchased directly from the funeral home, you can pre-purchase from another business or on-line.

- Oneida Enrollment Department created our own planner for membership entitled "Aklihwáke" which translates to "A person writing what their wishes are to be".
- You can request a free copy be mailed, download it at enrollments@oneidanation.org or it's in fillable format on website or just stop in and pick one up.

WHAT TO DO WHEN A LOVED ONE PASSES ON

- First and foremost take care of your family members upon notification of a death.
- Inform Oneida Enrollment Department of member's passing (920-869-6212). You have 365 days to file a life claim.
- Decide on a funeral home to handle your loved ones arrangements.

WHAT CAN I EXPECT IN MEETING WITH FUNERAL HOME DIRECTOR

- Providing personal information of the deceased which gets reported on a death certificate.

- Providing information to produce an obituary.
- Deciding on casket burial or cremation burial.
- Deciding if you want wake/funeral or all in one day.
- Average person can make about 40-50 decisions on entire funeral pre-planning process.

ONEIDA CEMETERY UPDATE

The Oneida Tribal Cemetery has been officially renamed "Oneida Sacred Burial Grounds". This official name change is the result of Cemetery community meetings held last year and community members expressed their desire to change the name. The Oneida Land Commission approved this action on May 20, 2015 in regular session and the original translation of TSI> TYEYA>TALIH still translates into "The place where one puts bodies in". See Resolution #05-11-15-J.

Our next step will be to replace the existing signs to reflect the new name change. At this time, I can't give an exact time frame of when that will occur.

Tribes seek to change name of Devils Tower

By Laura Hancock
Casper Star-Tribune

Devils Tower National Monument, Wyo. (AP) – Chief Arvol Looking Horse travels here, to this formation of igneous rock that juts nearly 900 feet into the sky, to pray.

He prays for peace and harmony. He prays for people to reverse their mistreatment against Mother Earth. He prays for future generations.

But before the spiritual leader with the Lakota, Dakota and Nakota Great Sioux Nation can focus on prayer, he must first pass through the national monument's entrance gate, where park rangers welcome him to Devils Tower. They offer him a map of Devils Tower. In the car he glances at signs pointing to Devils Tower.

That name is offensive, the chief says, and invokes anxiety and anger among American Indians who consider the site sacred. It can interfere with their ceremonies and praying. People need to pray with a good heart and mind – free of drugs and alcohol, with purity, holiness, reverence, respect and no ill will against others, he says.

He is leading the effort, backed by spiritual leaders of 20 tribes and two interfaith groups, to change the name of Devils Tower to Bear Lodge, a place where Sioux have prayed and gathered for spiritual ceremonies for 19 generations, and where other tribes worshipped before them.

Devils Tower is not the name any of the tribes use for the area, he says. There is no equivalent concept in Sioux spirituality of the Christian devil. A tribal resolution in support of the change argues the Devils Tower moniker “equates cultural and faith traditions practiced at this site to ‘devil worship,’ in essence equating indigenous people to ‘devils.’”

“It almost gives me an anxiety attack,” says the chief, who is tall and thin, ties his long hair in a ponytail and answers questions by sharing the teachings of his people. “All the people who come here don't know the energy of the sacred site. I pray people have enough respect to just come here with a good mind.”

Although tribes have petitioned the government to change the name since the 1920s, it is now urgent: Sioux prophecies of environmental destruction are coming to fruition, he says.

“This is a very important time in our history,” says the chief, who lives on the Cheyenne River Reservation in South Dakota.

He is calling for his people to return to sacred sites, including the tower, to pray. The current name of the tower does not reflect its sacredness and makes it hard for people to visit. It must be changed, he says.

But many in Wyoming say the name change is impractical. Not far from Devils Tower, there are mountains and an area of national forest named Bear Lodge. Changing the name will create confusion and even lead to fewer tourists to the state, they argue.

“Over several decades of trying to build the Wyoming brand, we don't want to get that taken away,” says Chris Mickey, spokesman for the Wyoming Office of Tourism. “We've worked so hard to build it up to the point where we are now, the amount of tourism we have and the spending, we are at a record high for visitors and for visitor spending and local and state tax gatherings as well.”

Chief Looking Horse has submitted two requests for name changes.

He wrote a letter to President Barack Obama to change the name of the national monument, which would require a presidential executive order or an act of Congress. He has also asked the U.S. Board on Geographic Names to rename the geographic rock and the nearby community, both called Devils Tower.

In early 2016, the U.S. Board on Geographic Names, comprised of federal employees who mostly live in the Washington, D.C., area, will decide whether to change the name, based on the tribes' arguments and recommendations from the Wyoming Board of Geographic Names, which is meeting Nov. 19 to make its decision, based on public opinion, including the opinions of people in Crook County.

The chief thinks the Sioux have a strong case. Tribal documents argue the U.S. board has a policy prohibiting words considered derogatory to any racial, ethnic or religious group. The board is authorized to change a name if it's based on incorrect information.

The Devils Tower name originated with U.S. Army Lt. Col. Richard Irving Dodge, who wrote in journals he got the name in 1875 from an Indian scout. The tribes argue Dodge was incorrect.

The tribes have agreed to the name of Bear Lodge using English words because they speak different languages, the chief says. All the tribes have different creation stories about the site that involve a bear.

Chief Looking Horse is not interested in delisting America's first national monument or shooing away non-Indians from visiting the tower.

“I think we can all work together,” he says. “But respect us, too, you know?”

The tribes have amassed historical documents and other evidence to support their case. They note names of several national monuments have changed, such as Denali National Park in Alaska, which used to be called Mount McKinley National Park. There isn't a documented case of decreased tourism or economic impact due to a name change, according to the tribes' materials.

Chris Mickey, of the Wyoming Office of Tourism, says he hasn't seen the tribes' data to comment. But there is a concern there will be fewer tourists if Devils Tower gets renamed, he says.

Foreign tourists who don't know much English often plan their vacations by first seeing Wyoming's iconic images - the Grand Tetons or the tower, for instance - and then learn their English names. If the tower were to be renamed Bear Lodge, tourists may become confused and not visit, Mickey says.

State Sen. Ogden Driskill has a family ranch and a campground, shops and a restaurant at the base of the tower. His family were the first settlers to the area, arriving 140 years ago from Austin, Texas.

While Chief Looking Horse says 19 generations of Sioux have prayed at the site, the Driskill family also has an oral and written tradition that suggests American Indians avoided the area, Driskill says.

He cites the writings of Dodge, the Army colonel who visited the area in 1875. Dodge wrote that the tribes stayed away from the tower because they believed evil spirits occupied the area.

“The Indians call this shaft ‘The Bad God's Tower,’ a name adapted, with proper modification by our surveyors,” one of Dodge's books reads, explaining how the name became Devils Tower.

The tribes have argued in documents to the government that Dodge was wrong and his interpreter possibly mistranslated.

But Driskill believes Dodge was correct. Dodge loved the American Indians and his journals meticulously described their ceremonies and lives. He respected their way of life, says Driskill, who is friendly with Chief Looking Horse.

He thinks it's a leap in logic to associate American Indians with Satan based on the name, and Christian groups have not objected to it, he says.

“No one jumps to, ‘This is a bad place,’ or, ‘It's where the devil lives,’” he says.

Driskill points to a number of maps that call the area Devils Tower. The Sioux, too, have maps from the 1800s that they've posted to a website, bearlodge.us, in which the area was called Bear Lodge.

While the spiritual leaders of 20 tribes, including the Eastern Shoshone and Northern Arapaho in Wyoming, have signed on to the name change proposal, Driskill says a spiritual leader is not the same as tribal political leadership, which should be the group requesting the name change.

Driskill plans to fly to Washington, D.C., to attend the U.S. board's meeting on Devils Tower next year.

“I will tell you this area is sacred to me,” he says.

Chief Looking Horse's title is 19th Generation Keeper of the Sacred White Buffalo Calf Bundle, which contains an ancient sacred pipe. The tribes believe the pipe came from the Great Spirit, he says.

A long time ago, a spirit-woman known as the White Buffalo Calf Woman visited the Earth as people were starving and sick, having fallen astray from living in peace and harmony, the chief says. The White Buffalo Calf Woman presented the pipe at Devils Tower and showed people how to pray using the pipe. She taught them how to perform ceremonies and sacred rites such as marriage.

The 18th bundle keeper was the chief's grandmother, who died in 1966. On her deathbed, she named him as the next bundle keeper and warned that if people don't improve their ways, her grandson would be the last bundle keeper.

His grandmother's warning coincides with a Sioux prophecy for the world, he says.

“The White Buffalo Calf Woman says 19 generations ago, someday when people abuse Mother Earth and all the living things, there is to be a time when the white animal is about to show its sacred color,” he says.

The first white buffalo calf was born in Janesville, Wisconsin, in 1994. It is the sign man has gone too far, the chief says.

“What we are faced with in the world today, in this global community, is the earth changes, the climate changes,” he says. “That's what the prophecies were all about.”

Chief Looking Horse says people can change course by praying. He's not in the conversion business - he considers himself a man of prayer who cares for the scared pipe - but is calling on all people to gather at their sacred sites, such as in churches, synagogues or mosques, to worship in their traditional ways.

For the Sioux, Devils Tower is one of the sacred sites.

“We are at a crossroads,” he says. “. How many people are going to die before we acknowledge Spirit?”

Lew sticking with plan to put woman on $10 bill

By Martin Crutsinger
AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) – Treasury Secretary Jacob Lew is sticking with his plan to replace Alexander Hamilton on the $10 bill with a woman.

Lew announced last month that as part of a redesign of the $10 note, he hoped to put a woman on the bill. The department called for the public to weigh in on who should be honored. He said he expects a final decision soon.

“I think we have waited long enough,” Lew said of the move to put a woman on U.S. paper currency for the first time in 100 years. He made his remarks Wednesday during an appearance at the Brookings Institution.

The initial announcement to remove Hamilton triggered a public outcry.

Critics of the decision complained that Hamilton, the nation's first Treasury secretary, should be left on the $10 bill. Instead, they argued, a woman should be featured on the $20 bill in place of Andrew Jackson, who many historians view less favorably because of his treatment of Native Americans.

Former Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke wrote in a blog post that he was “appalled” by Lew's plans to replace Hamilton, calling him “without doubt the best and most foresighted economic policymaker in U.S. history.”

Asked about all the controversy, Lew said that he wanted to move quickly to honor a woman and that the next bill scheduled for redesign to improve anti-counterfeiting features is the $10 bill.

Lew said that Hamilton's image would be retained in some way on the redesigned bill. But his position has drawn fire from Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Rodham Clinton, who said a woman should not have to share the $10 bill with a man.

Treasury has said that once a woman is selected, it will aim to complete the redesign by 2020, the 100th anniversary of the passage of the 19th amendment giving women the right to vote.

Calling all enrolled Oneida artists 18 years and older!

The Oneida Nation is looking to create a visual representation of who we are. This can be considered a “Logo” contest. We are currently looking for Oneida artists who can design a creative, innovative, professional design that is easily recognizable and promotes the Oneida Nation in a positive manner.

Our goal is to have a design that promotes “A good mind, a good heart and a strong fire”.

- Brand Essence: Nurture the fire within the self. Support the fire in all others.

A strong brand identity for the Oneida Nation should be our face to the world. It should be easily recognizable, evoke trust, integrity and convey a sense of who we are. Because we are such a broad and diverse nation, we cannot expect it to tell our entire story. We want a logo to create a strong positive disposition.

Please read on for more details about our logo design.

How to enter the Contest

The contest will begin immediately and submissions will be accepted until the close of business, at 4:30 p.m. on August 13, 2015. The winner will be announced on our Oneida Nation Facebook, Webpage and in the Kalihwisaks. In order for your entry to be submitted for judging it must be:

Theme: The design must promote the brand of the Oneida Nation of “A good mind, a good heart and a strong fire” The design must also include a representation or icon of a stone, as per the General Tribal Council directed that as the people of the standing stone, the stone be represented. Cultural elements are encouraged that reflect our clans, our history, and our core values. Artists may, if they choose include a description not more than 100 words.

Color

There are no color requirements, however the purple hues in traditional Oneida Wampum belts is a color that has been associated with many Tribal representations. However the reproduction of the design must also look good in black and white. Ideally, there will be no more than three colors.

Integrity

Logo designs cannot contain any copyrighted material that does not belong to the Oneida Nation. The design should be easily transformed for large and small reproductions from business cards to billboards.

Winners will be selected by a panel of judges. Artist will assign all ownership rights to the Oneida Nation, including all intellectual property rights to the logo design for all use. In addition, the Oneida Nation reserves the right to alter, modify or revise the logo design as is necessary to meet the needs of the Nation. Prize

The winner will receive $300 and will be featured in the Kalihwisaks and other Tribal social media outlets.

In Conclusion

The logo selected will not replace the official seal of the Oneida Nation on government documents. It will be used, however, as the Oneida face in all other applications including communications, marketing and signage and promotional materials. There will be a transition period for the complete implementation of the logo across Tribal operations. The period of three years is expected to bring all tribal entities in alignment with the new brand and logo.

Premiere Night for WI First Native New Play Theatre

The premiere of two original Native American plays will be held in the spectacular Woodland Bowl amphitheater in Keshena, WI, on Weds, July 29, 2015. A second performance is scheduled for Thursday, July 30, 2015 in the future home of the Cultural Heritage Amphitheatre, 3703 Hillcrest Dr, Green Bay, WI.

The Oneida Nation Arts Program (ONAP) is collaborating with the College of Menominee Nation (CMN) Theatre Dept. to present the two new plays. Both plays are presented under the guidance of Ryan Winn, Director, and April Beiswenger, Technical Designer, and student and volunteer cast members, co-directors, and technical crews.

The premiere event will begin with the CMN production of, "It's Your Turn to Listen, Governor Focker," written by CMN students, will begin at 6:00pm, Weds, July 29th. This play was co-written by Louis Cottrell, Amelia McGeshick, and Sheila Shawanokasic.

"A Summer Round Dance," by Dawn Walschinski, is a new play that won accolades from the panel of the first WI Native Playwright Festival last spring. The premiere production begins at 7:30pm in the Woodland Bowl and Cultural Heritage Amphitheatre.

The playwright, Dawn Walschinski, said "A Summer Round Dance," is an adaption of Charles Dickens' story, "A Christmas Carol." In her new play, Ebenezer Skrewjadore is visited by the spirits of Summers Past, Present and Future to reconnect him with his family and community. The play is set in the 1980's.

Beth Bashara, director of ONAP, said "It is very exciting for us to partner with the College of Menominee Nation in the First Native Wisconsin Playwright Festival. Stories are such an important part of culture and community. We look forward to a long and fruitful relationship for stories and theatre productions by Wisconsin Native American people."

Lead actor Chris Powless looks forward to the play's opening night.

"Dawn and I have worked well together in the past and I'm really excited to be part of it. We are looking forward to the community being able to see what all of us have been working on the last few months," said Powless.

The WI Native American Playwright Festival mission is to find, encourage, and cultivate new plays written by Native American people living in Wisconsin. The festival encourages and supports Native American playwrights in the creation of new works to sustain Native American theater as a vital artistic and dynamic and storytelling form.

This project is co-sponsored by the Oneida Nation Arts Program, the College of Menominee Nation Theatre Dept., and the Duck Creek Community Theatre. The WI Native New Play Festival is supported in part by a grant from the Wisconsin Arts Board with funds from the State of Wisconsin.

sin, the National Endowment for the Arts, Art Works, College of Menominee Nation, and the Oneida Nation Arts Program.

In the event of bad weather (lightning), alternative locations will be announced on Facebook and ONAP website by 5:00pm. For more info, visit the ONAP website at www.oneidanationarts.org, or Facebook at <http://www.facebook.com/oneidaarts>

upcoming episode

Madison, WI – Wisconsin's 11 sovereign nations and their unique traditions, languages, arts and culture star in the upcoming Discover Wisconsin episode "Celebrating The Past & Future—Native American Culture," airing July 25-26. Wisconsin Tourism Secretary Stephanie Klett, a Discover Wisconsin host for 20 years, returns to the show to film this special episode, which reaches more than 500,000 viewers in eight states across the Midwest.

"The Department of Tourism has a strong partnership with Wisconsin's 11 tribes. We've made a commitment to work together to bring greater promotional efforts to Native American tourism," said Klett. "It was an honor for me to be a part of this episode, to tell their stories and promote the tribal tourism experience. Our 11 tribes, their history and the experiences they offer, are a huge differentiator for us."

Viewers will discover the different traditions, languages, arts, and cultures that distinguish each of Wisconsin's tribes. Klett and the Discover Wisconsin crew explore several Native American attractions including Frog Bay National Tribal Park on the Red Cliff Chippewa Reservation, the first public Tribal National Park in the country; the Forest County Potawatomi Cultural Center, Library and Museum; as well as the largest native festival in the country, Indian Summer in Milwaukee.

Klett interviews tribal members, who share insights into their native languages, history, art and more. One of the featured artists is renowned sculptor Truman Lowe, an emeritus professor of art at UW Madison and the first curator of the National Museum of the American Indian in Washington, D.C. The interior work includes molded doors, cabinets and countertops, vinyl floorings, sheet rock, thin coat plaster, oak wood trims and paint. Ceilings are vaulted to roof top clerestory windows. The two interior units of each building also feature a loft bedroom and large storage room. Site work and landscaping are modest.

This week I was able to attend the White House Tribal Youth Gathering in Washington, DC. Representing our youth were Gavin White and Adrianna Pelky. In 2014, President Obama launched the Gen-I initiative which focuses on improving the lives of Native Youth through engagement. With this new focus it is important that our tribe be represented. Not only should our youth be active in this program but our leaders need to be involved as well. It is important that our youth see our encouragement of their endeavors and know they can count on our support. I was truly honored to be a part of this Gathering and was pleased that two of our young people were able to attend as well.

Engaging our young people is important so they can develop a clear vision of their future. Some know at an early age what they want their career path to be while others take their time trying an array of things to discover where their passion is. We should encourage them all as they will become our future leaders and professionals. They will inherit the Tribe we leave for them and will continue to move us forward.

For many months my office collaborated with the Recreation and YES programs to take a group of Oneida middle and high school students to Washington, DC for leadership development and governance mentoring. When the request was brought before the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) for funding it included the purpose, intent as aligned with the four (4) Strategic Directives of the OBC, and a complete budget. Despite presenting a complete packet of information in collaboration with the YES program the request was denied and the group was told to resubmit the proposal next year. If we as a government and community do not nurture our children and allow them to experience new things we are failing in their development. Our children, our elders, our disabled, and our families do not have a voice in the budget process. These are the areas that seem to get hit the hardest simply because the groups do not rally and question the changes that will be made to the programs and services they rely on. This is an unfortunate reality.

Children and families are extremely important to me because I know what it is like to raise a family while attending school, working full time, and trying to be everywhere all at once. It is not easy even with two parents to balance time and costs. With this in mind, the Airport Daycare was built to address the childcare needs of our casino and retail workers. Extended hours and a reduced rate was exactly what our families needed at the time. While the hours have changed the reduced rates have stayed in place so all our young families can afford quality daycare with Oneida teachings while making lower wages. If the Airport Daycare no longer existed, where would our Oneida children go? Is this something you would agree to sacrifice?

Like our children, our elders, are pretty quiet when changes are made to the programs and services they are accustomed to having. One such program is the $10,000 lifetime home improvement benefit.

Some of our elders live in outdated homes and need help repairing and/or maintenance. With a limited income and without this benefit, what would they do if they needed a new roof, windows or something structural happened to their home? Are you willing to tell an Oneida Elder you will not help them when they are in need? Are you willing to give up your weekends to work on an Elder's house? I would be if we had a program similar to Habitat for Humanity where supplies are provided and we are assured our work is sound and in compliance with building codes.

While there are many things we can do as a community to rally around and help each other, we are not in that place yet. Volunteer groups cannot do it alone or to the extent of need in the community. It will take initiative by some of our departments to develop programs that will not only save us money and other resources but also provide us with volunteer opportunities that are meaningful. There are many needs on our reservation that are unmet and I would like to see our Division Directors utilize their time by developing new ideas for us as a community to get excited about.

Thank you for all the warm wishes and prayers during my brother Eugenio's (Geno) battle for life. He was a sweet, caring, person with a great sense of humor who enriched the lives of everyone he came in contact with. He will be greatly missed.

As a reminder, there have been a lot of complaints regarding the trash around the new Oneida Lake. If you are utilizing the lake, please take your garbage with you and only fish in the designated fishing areas. We want Oneida Lake to be a place for everyone to enjoy. Tribal resources have been used to the benefit of all community members; so now we need everyone's help in taking care of it. May the remainder of your summer be safe, relaxing and memorable.

July 6, 2015 was a historical moment in time for General Tribal Council (GTC), as 18, 19, and 20 year old members attended their first GTC meeting. I personally want to say yaw^ko to those who took the time to attend and learn more about our Nation. GTC is the supreme governing body of Oneida Nation and important decisions are made at every meeting. I encourage you to take the time to read the materials sent to you, take the time to do your own research and reach out to your elected officials before the meeting, should you have any questions. Our doors are always open.

I also want to apologize for the behaviors you had to witness at your first GTC meeting and please know this is not how meetings should be conducted. Family, relatives and friends I encourage you to stand up and speak up, if this behavior continues. Your voice does make a difference. As Ukwehuwe, we are taught to live with a good mind and respect our elders, our family and one another. We are also taught to carry on intelligent discussions that allow for disagreement in a respectful manner. That was not the behavior that was displayed at this meeting and this type of behavior needs to stop for us to move forward as a Nation united.

At no point should the GTC be the judge and jury. Always remember there is always more than one side to a story, and if a story is brought forward to GTC in the form of a presentation, all sides must be heard and discussed. If a person or area is being accused of any type of behavior, that person or area must be allowed to respond to those accusations. In all fairness, Joint Marketing should have been allowed to respond. Michelle Danforth should have been given the opportunity to respond to the Chairwoman's presentation. I also believe that the elder that stated that Michelle Danforth should have been allowed to respond, should have been allowed to finish her statement, especially because the one thing we constantly hear GTC say over and over is to respect our elders.

Tehassi Hill
Councilman

My office continues to work closely with issues around food sustainability, land, and the Legislative Reference Office regarding many laws and policies that must be put into place. The GTC Meeting Law was presented for information at the July GTC meeting. I hope to hear plenty of ideas and suggestions from the membership, as to how we can improve our GTC meeting process, so any and all decisions can be informed and well thought out decisions.

It has been brought to my office's attention that employees of the Oneida One Stops are receiving resistance when asking members for their tribal ID as they pay for gas. Some members have gone to the extent of being rude and very disrespectful. We ask everyone to remember that the employees at the One Stops are only doing their job when asking to see your tribal ID. The Business Committee adopted Resolution 01-14-09-F Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Exemption for All Oneida Tribal Members which states: that effective April 1, 2009, Oneida Retail shall apply motor vehicle fuel tax exemption to all Oneida Tribal members, regardless of residence, provided that the Tribal members complete a motor vehicle fuel tax exemption application on an annual basis and provide a valid Tribal ID card at the point of purchase. These employees at the One Stops are Oneida. They could be your son or daughter, sister or cousin. Would you want them, a family member, treated with disrespect for doing their job? Please support our Oneida One Stops and respect the employees who service you.

The Nation is now at a point where generating more revenue is needed to maintain the services that are provided to our citizens. The Oneida Business Committee has asked management to eliminate the structural deficit that the Nation has been facing year after year. Oneida Nation provides over 500 direct services to our citizens. It is time for us, the Nation to ask ourselves, what are the most important services to our citizens? Without addressing these two very important issues of generating more revenue, and narrowing the scope of services, the Nation will struggle.

Thornberry Creek at Oneida (TCO) General Manager, Josh Doxtator, has been in contact with the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA). TCO has an opportunity to host a televised LPGA event for at least three years. TCO GM and staff are currently working on verifying potential revenue for all of the Nations properties and businesses that could benefit from hosting this event. LPGA has visited TCO, and feels it is a great golf course. They have examined the businesses in northeast Wisconsin and strongly believe our market will support this event. LPGA estimates at least 40,000 people will visit TCO over this week long event. These visitors will need parking, food, lodging, and other entertainment to make their trip memorable. We can provide much of what is needed to capture a large amount of the market. This event will bring millions of dollars to our region, filling many of the hotels and restaurants in the Green Bay area. Please watch for more information as it becomes available, and the presentation for GTC.

Should you have any questions or suggestions, please send them to: rhill7@oneidanation.org or my assistant dwilson1@oneidanation.org. Yaw^ko for your time and support, Councilman Tehassi Hill 920.869.4420

Gas Exempt Status

As a convenience to Tribal members both on and off the reservation, Oneida Retail extends the opportunity to purchase fuel without having to pay the state's tax on this fuel.

To receive this discount, you must pay inside the store and not at the pump. However, when receiving this discount you are required to show your Tribal ID to verify you are entitled to the discount. This does not mean you send in your child or non-tribal spouse to pay for your purchase. Tribal members 16 and older are authorized this discount.

There have been some instances where individuals are getting confrontational with the sales staff when asked for your Tribal ID. Please refrain from raising your voice, questioning why the ID is needed, and/or being abusive through your actions or your language.

Other establishments throughout the reservation offer tax exempt purchases and either have you fill out a form, have an ID number affixed to the back of your card or allow you to just show your card. You aren't confrontational in these places, so don't be at Retail.

If you persist in any of the above mentioned activities, Retail staff is authorized to contact the security officer, if one is available at that location or call the Oneida Police Department.

Please be courteous to your fellow Tribal members as Retail is one of the few divisions where 100% of the employees are Oneida enrolled. Thank you for your cooperation and understanding.

Thornberry Creek at Oneida

Within the past few months, Thornberry has been contacted by the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) to possibly be given the opportunity to hold one of their events at our golf course for the years 2017, 2018, and 2019.

Next week several of our golf course professionals will be attending an event in Grand Rapids, Michigan to see firsthand how a golf tournament this large is managed and the planning involved to make this a premier event for both the golf course and the community as a whole.

David Jordan

They will be attending several activities that showcase the inner workings and the management skills needed to prepare both the golf course and the events associated with an LPGA Tournament. Once they have concluded their observations and prepared their findings, they do plan on presenting to the General Tribal Council to get their approval for something this large to go forward. Look for more on this in the future.

Budget Preparation

The time is fast approaching for everyone to be presented with our annual budget for the Oneida Tribe. Divisions have been very diligent in finding ways to pare down the budget, but at the same time making sure that services are not

All Oneida artists are encouraged to make a submission in our logo contest for the annual OnΛyote'a·ká· Gathering. The winning design creator will be awarded an Apple iPad mini and their work will be part of all marketing and promotional items associated with the event.

The purpose of the OnΛyote'a·ká· Gathering-A Family Reunion is to share backgrounds, build relationships, bridge traditional knowledge with contemporary practices and interpret our role and responsibility as a younger brother in modern day society.

We bring people from around the world together through fun, educational, cultural and healing activities to promote the Oneida by putting into practice our core values to strengthen Yukwahwa'tsile' (Our Family and our Nation) and ultimately brightening Yukwatsistay· (Our fire, our spirit within each one of us). Additional knowledge of who we through Ka'nikuli'yo (The openness of the good spirit and mind) we build new or reignite old friendships or family relationships. The quality of each cannot be measured by numbers but it can be measured by experiencing Kanolukhwa'sla (Compassion, caring, identity, and joy of being) and Kahletsyalu'sla (The heartfelt encouragement of the best in each of us) as we continue to learn about our culture and hear the Oneida Language. We also build Ka'tshtst'sla (The strength of belief and vision as a people) with the use of Kalihwi'yó (...good words about ourselves, our Nation, and our future).

This book begins with the Oneida Creation Story and quickly moves forward through time. Other topics include the Oneida Thanksgiving Address, Clan System, Iroquois Confederacy and Great Law, European Colonization, the American Revolution and the Oneida migration to Wisconsin and more. Wrapping up with reservation life in Wisconsin and a snap shot into the present, this book offers a great introduction to anyone who wishes to read and learn about the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin. (8.5 x 11 inches, 32 pages, black and white, © 2013, Oneida Nation of Wisconsin).

This short book is a reproduction of a booklet that was originally printed 110 years ago. Tribal Historian Loretta Metoxen researched and wrote summaries to accompany the 38 black and white photographs depicting the Oneida Reservation and its inhabitants at the beginning of the 20th century. Topics include Churches on the Reservation, Oneida Families, Boarding Schools, Industries on the Reservation and more. (5.5 x 8.5 inches, 32 pages, black and white print, © 2001, Oneida Nation of Wisconsin).

From 5A/David Jordan

Oneida Tribe. Divisions have been very diligent in finding ways to pare down the budget, but at the same time making sure that services are not hindered for our Tribal members or employees are not placed in a layoff position.

As of this writing though, there is approximately a $3.6 million dollar shortfall in balancing the budget. The Business Committee is also looking into areas where some cuts could be made and/or reorganizing several areas so there wouldn't be a duplication of services.

All in all, the budget should be ready to be presented to the GTC on September 21st at a General Tribal Council Meeting.

Pow Wow

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Lloyd Powless and the rest of the Oneida Pow Wow Committee, as well as the many volunteers who helped make the 43rd Annual Pow Wow a success this year. I know a lot of hard work and long hours went into the planning and preparation of this event as well as handling the logistics needed to make sure that everyone was where they were supposed to be on the three days of the Pow Wow. Again, thank you for a job well done.

Again I want to thank you, the general membership, for taking the time to read these articles and as always I am available to meet with you, should you so desire. I can be reached at 869-4483 or you can e-mail me at djordan1@oneidanation.org.

Lady T-Hawks prep for M&O Conference

For most high school kids summer break is time to relax but the Lady Thunderhawks basketball team had a different plan.

The team just finished an intense four-day camp to not only develop their basketball skills but to create the ever important team chemistry.

With the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association's (WIAA) statewide conference realignment putting the Oneida Nation High School in the Marinette and Oconto (M&O) Conference the competition's level of talent has jumped.

"The purpose of the camp was to get the ladies mentally, physically, and spiritually prepared for competition going into the M&O Conference," said Head Coach Jamie Better.

The Lady Thunderhawks do a three-on-three drill during their four-day basketball camp.

"Not only are we moving into a conference, but we also have ladies transferring in so it was a must to get all the ladies together to get to know one another before school and season starts."

A typical camp day had the team up and moving at 8 a.m. for drills, team meals, and chemistry building activities such as yoga, and presentations. A team class at night ended the camp's day around 9:30 p.m.

"We brought in Tina Ama to talk about nutrition as an athlete which gave us great insight into what we should be consuming and how much to get us ready for a hard practice and competition. We also brought in Alebra Cornelius and Heather Lee to share with us some techniques we could use to keep us focused before a game, during the game, and even on the free throw line," said Better.

"Then, Dom Danforth was brought in to slow us down with yoga and then to get us moving with cardio with spin and boot camp workout."

Though a large chunk of the camp was focused on basketball skills, Better realizes games are won with more than just talent. With a limited amount of coach contact days that's why she elected to hold a camp verse entering her team into a tournament or league.

"As a coach, I have learned more about the value of team chemistry and team dynamics more than what my teams stats are and who we play. Team chemistry is everything so we didn't believe it would benefit our team if we used our contact days for tournament play," Better said. "There was too much to teach them because of their different skill levels then to just throw them in a game. We want to be known for how hard we work as a team on and off the court not by how many tournaments and leagues we are in. It does us no good to just play because there is so much to teach them about the game."

After Oneida Nation was placed in the M&O Conference a few of the conference schools objected to the addition. They were concerned that Oneida Nation didn't offer the same amount of sports and extra-curricular activities as the other M&O schools.

But Better is focusing on the positives of having a home conference. For many years Oneida Nation has been an independent that struggled to fill their schedule with schools willing to play them.

"We now can more effectively scout games to prepare for the night's competition instead of relying on just stats because it's incredibly hard to drive to Milwaukee and then Sturgeon Bay to get ready for the week," said Better. "Our athletes will now be recognized individually for conference awards which helps with their own individually scouting for college level."
