OCHC gets visit from Congressmen Ribble and Price

By Dawn Walschinski

Kalihiwisa

US Representative for Wisconsin's 8th Congressional district Reid Ribble [R] and US Representative for Georgia's 6th Congressional District Dr. Tom Price [R] took a tour of the Oneida Community Health Center (OCHC) and met with administrators and Oneida Business Committee (OBC) Vice Chairman Greg Matson and Councilwoman

Melinda Danforth on Friday, March 30.

Rep. Ribble invited Rep. Price on the tour as he serves on the Subcommittee on Health.

The tour led by Comprehensive Health Director Debra Danforth highlighted some of the OCHC strengths such as having the busiest pharmacy in Brown County.

Later, the representatives sat down with the OCHC administrators and OBC members to discuss current issues and concerns facing Native American communities. One of the concerns brought up by Councilwoman Danforth was how an upcoming Supreme Court decision on the Affordable Care Act will affect the Indian Health Care Improvement Act.

"If the repeal of the entire law comes into effect, there's a possibility Indian Health Care Improvement Act is attached to that," she said.

Rep. Price stated that her question was very timely.

"We're actually beginning to put together - if the courts strike it down - a stop gap bill," he said, stating it should be ready to go mid-June in time

Bonin garners Teacher of the Year award

By Nate Wisneski

Kalihiwisa

Craig Bonin could of taken his teaching degree to a less challenging district but his choice to educate children in the Milwaukee school district led to an honor dedicated to the city's best.

Bonin was named Teacher of the Year at the 95th Street Elementary School by the Metropolitan Milwaukee Alliance of Black School Educators, Inc (MMABSE).

MMABSE's goal is to establish a coalition of

Craig Bonin

African-American educators to improve educational opportunities for African-American people. Each year they present individuals with recognition consistent with their goals.

"It's a nice feeling. It kind of makes you feel that people are recognizing what you're doing and the good you are doing," said Bonin, who teaches fifth grade. "It recognizes my ability to work with kids that may come from a challenged background to be motivated to do things that they may think they can't do. I feel that this award recognizes my ability to not just teach but work with people to do the best they can."

Due to budget cuts in the Milwaukee school system Bonin teachers the core subjects while also being his classes' physical education and art teacher.

Bonin keeps a positive attitude that he thinks translates to his students. He also believes in utilizing the Golden Rule.

"If I'm in a bad mood my students will be in a bad mood," he said. "Do what you can with what you got. I've been able to take my students, turn them into a team. I try to create a family atmosphere. We aren't going to get along every day."

Bonin has been teaching in the Milwaukee school system for the last 10 years. He grew up in Manitowoc, WI and graduated from Carroll University in Waukesha, WI and earned his Master of Education in Curriculum and Instruction from

Top BIA official resigns to take LDS Church post

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) ~ The top official for the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs is resigning to accept a full-time leadership position with The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, ending three years with the department that Church's third-highest governing body. The announcement from the church came Saturday during its semi-annual general conference in Salt Lake City.

President Barack Obama appointed Echo Hawk, 63, to oversee the BIA in 2009.

"With Larry Echo Hawk's leadership, we have opened a new chapter in U.S. relationships with American Indian tribes.

Larry Echo Hawk, the assistant secretary of the Interior for Indian Affairs, is being appointed to the Quorum of the Seventy, the Mormon President Ken Salazar says "opened a new chapter" in U.S. relationships with American Indian tribes.

During Echo Hawk's tenure, the Interior Department settled a $3.4 billion class-action lawsuit with Native American landowners over mismanaged royalties. The settlement reached in late 2009 is under appeal.

Salazar said he would work with Echo Hawk to ensure a smooth transition within the BIA. It was not clear who would be appointed to oversee the BIA after Echo Hawk's departure.

Echo Hawk, a member of the Pawnee Nation, was elected Idaho attorney general in 1990, the first Native American to be elected to the position in any state. He ran unsuccessfully in 1994 for Idaho governor as a Democrat.

Elder care community continues to take shape

By Travis Cottrell

Kalihiwisa

As the spring season begins the construction of the Oneida Resident Centered Care Community (ORCCC) continues to make strides toward the facility's completion.

"So far the construction has gone very well, as good as can be expected when you're working on building a facility of this size," said Assistant Project Manager Alan King.

Currently crews are laying down concrete in the interior, forming the parking lot, and securing walls and ceiling trusses.

"There are a lot of workers all working on different areas of the building at the same time. It all comes together in the end," said King.

After the ceiling trusses are in place then the roofing and the siding can be put into place.

Workers construct the pillars and the decorative stone work that will form the entrance to the ORCCC facility. The entrance will lead to a reception area which features a handful of large windows for viewing.

OBC debates housing proposal

By Dawn Walschinski

Kalihwisaks

Debate over a proposed housing plant flared up during the Wednesday, March 28 Oneida Business Committee (OBC) meeting during the add-on's session.

Present: Chairman Ed Delgado, Secretary Patty Hoeft, Council members Melinda J. Danforth, Vince DelaRosa, David Jordan, Paul Ninham, Brandon Stevens

Excused: Vice Chairman Greg Matson, Treasurer Tina Danforth

Councilman Vince DelaRosa asked for the OBC to approve moving ahead with the planning process for a joint venture with Homeway Homes of Peoria, Illinois to build a construction plant in Oneida that will manufacture modular houses. According to DelaRosa, the plant will create 30 jobs and would create houses for Oneida tribal citizens.

"(Homeway Homes) builds at an incredible level. These guys are highly rated," said DelaRosa who stated he's toured the Peoria plant two to three times as the OBC housing liaison.

OBC Chairman Ed Delgado said that the manufactured homes could be used to address a waiting list of 220 requests for Oneida housing, and stem the tide of non-Oneidas moving into the reservation boundaries.

"The local municipalities, Brown County, they have anticipated that by the year 2020 the population growth coming out of Green Bay, Ashwaubenon, Freedom and Seymour, 40,000 additional non-Indians coming into our area. Are we going to do something about it, or are we just going to let it happen?" said Delgado.

Other council members expressed support for the plan; however, they wanted Chief Financial Officer (CFO) Larry Barton to look into the proposal first.

"I have yet to see a project plan, and the contract to be approved at the finance committee level," said Councilman Brandon Stevens. "I don't want to be painted in the corner to have to do this."

"We are getting overrun, we can't even support tribal small businesses on this rez, it's a disgrace," said DelaRosa.

Other council members expressed support for the plan; however, they wanted Chief Financial Officer (CFO) Larry Barton to look into the proposal first.

"The individual has a responsibility to build their own place, or the individual entrepreneur to build that apartment building," said Hoeft. "The tribe needs to get out of the business of building, and owning and controlling everything. Our job is to develop the infrastructure, identify the places and the vision of those places of what we want it to look like and then recruit the Ed Delgado's and the Melinda Danforth's to come in and build your house there."

The OBC sent the concept to CFO's Barton's office for financial review to come back within 30 days. DelaRosa voted against the measure.

"We have people who need housing now," he said.

At the beginning of the

it, I absolutely do, but when you talk about wanting someone to bring forth a business plan, an operational plan about the project that they're supporting and you bring me two memorandums that are five pages long that doesn't have a project plan ... doesn't have a financial forecast for the entire project ... there's no plan, where's the plan?" asked Danforth.

Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) Director Dale Wheelock stated that the manufactured homes might not win the bid process required by the US Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

"This is HUD money, we're going to have to bid it out," said Wheelock. "This isn't going to happen overnight unless you put a lot of money up front."

"On the sole source issue, if this committee can't agree that we would sole source to a plant that we construct, then we've got a whole bunch of problems," retorted DelaRosa. "In terms of more housing, and where it's going to go and so forth, costs, that's part of your work product that we're waiting for, Dale ... you're diverting your work to be up here to oppose this project."

DelaRosa said that the manufactured houses would not necessarily be paid for by federal housing grants but by Oneida funds. He stated a target of 40 houses a year over the next three years.

"We're going to have to in the first time in our history ante up," said DelaRosa.

OBG Secretary Patty Hoeft questioned the role of Oneida's government trying to be all things to all citizens.

"The individual has a responsibility to build their own place, or the individual entrepreneur to build that apartment building," said Hoeft. "The tribe needs to get out of the business of building, and owning and controlling everything. Our job is to develop the infrastructure, identify the places and the vision of those places of what we want it to look like and then recruit the Ed Delgado's and the Melinda Danforth's to come in and build your house there."

The OBC sent the concept to CFO's Barton's office for financial review to come back within 30 days. DelaRosa voted against the measure.

"We have people who need housing now," he said.

At the beginning of the OBG meeting, Hoeft gave oaths of office to Gary Jordan and Michael J. Skenandore for the Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation, Richard Moss and Kevin Shilka for the Oneida Personnel Commission and to Jeff House, Butch Rentmeester and Jackie Zalim for the Oneida Engineering Science and Construction (ESC) corporate board of directors.

The committee approved the minutes from the March 14, 2012 OBC meeting.

Resolutions

The creation of the Oneida Tribal Health Board was deferred.

The OBC approved a resolution to continue Oneida Tribe Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) Program for 2012-2015.

Directors and Managers quarterly reports

Division of Land Management (DOLM) Director Fred Muscavitch reported his department would be celebrating its 35th anniversary this year with an open house in August.

One of the items Muscavitch highlighted was the change in the interest rate that Dream Homes can be financed at went from 5 to 6 percent to 3.5 to 4 percent, and that current Dream Home owners can refinance at the lower rate within 30 days.

He also called attention to a memo from the Department of the Interior that states houses on trust land could be considered personal property and could be taxable.

"It would be a disaster in Indian country," said Delgado.

The OBC accepted the DOLM report as well as a report from the Development Division.

Boards, Committees and Commissions

The OBC appointed Richard Baird, Judy Cornelius Hawk, Gerald Jordan and Tom Oudenoven to the Environmental Resource Board. It also appointed Sylvia Cornelius and Nicolas Reynolds to the Oneida Arts Board.

The committee deferred a report from the Oneida Election Board and accepted reports from the Oneida Library Board and the Oneida Police Commission.

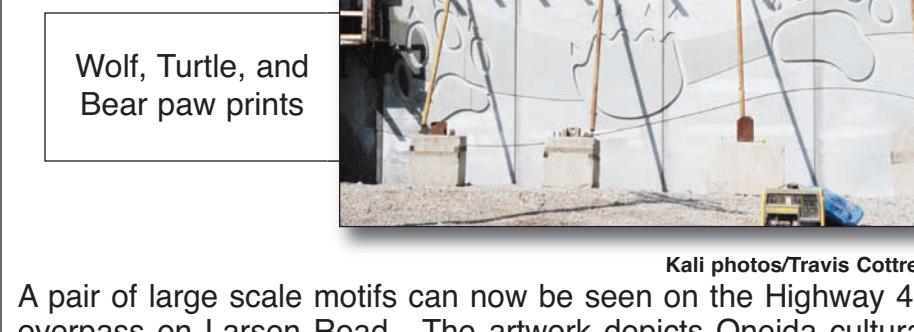

Oneida Police Commissioner Sandra Reveles was asked by DelaRosa to prepare a statement for the Semi Annual General Tribal Council (GTC)

Young University law professor for 14 years before leading the BIA.

After his appointment, Echo Hawk said in a speech in Salt Lake City in 2009 that he wrestled with the decision to accept a position that would make him a "face" for a federal government that has had a sordid history of mistreating Indians. He finally reconciled his hesitation by vowing to be an "agent for change" instead of a mere caretaker.

"How do you reverse 200 years of struggles?" he said then. "It's not going to be easy."

Bureau of Indian Affairs Director Michael S. Black announced that he has named Hankie Ortiz deputy bureau director of the BIA's Office of Indian Services at the bureau's headquarters in Washington, D.C. Ortiz is an enrolled member of the Kiowa Tribe of Oklahoma with Caddo and Comanche ancestry as well. She had been serving as director of the Office of Tribal Self-Governance at the Indian Health Service (IHS) since September 2007. Her appointment with the BIA became effective on March 26, 2012.

From 2A/March 28 OBC meeting meeting addressing the non-binding referendum question "Should the Oneida Chief of Police be an Elected Position?"

Delgado also referred to a recent accident in the Three Sisters housing site where a young girl was struck by a vehicle and called for stricter enforcement of speeding laws within the reservation boundaries.

"I would like to see us come down hard on people who speed in the housing sites," said Delgado.

The OBC posted one position for the Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee. The OBC also approved three additional meetings for the Powwow Committee and extended Mike King's appointment until a new committee member is selected.

Standing Committees

The OBC approved the Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) minutes for meeting held February 13 and March 9. The committee also approved a May 1 public hearing date for Canons of Judicial Conduct.

The OBC approved

emergency amendments to the Oneida Indian Preference Law in regards to Indian Preference in Contracting with projects involving Indian Housing Block Grant (IHGB) funds. It was found that giving preference to Oneida descendants was not in compliance with IHGB Indian preference requirements.

The OBC approved a resolution concerning the Division Directors and the Grievance Process.

March 23 meeting minutes for the Finance Committee were accepted by the OBC.

Unfinished business

A request to access the Tribe's vendor list for 2012 sponsorship opportunities was declined and forwarded to the Finance Committee to create a standard operating procedure (SOP) for such requests.

New business/requests

The OBC decided that Tsy' Niyukwalihóta translates to "Ways of the Oneida people from the Creation story to the present day," rather than a "standard of life for our community" in regards to the National Scorecard.

The OBC declared May 2012 as Older Americans Month. It deferred a memorandum of agreement (MOA) between the OBC and the Trust/Enrollment Committee.

Travel

Travel reports were accepted for the 2012 State of the State address and Minority Community Collaboration Meeting attended by DelaRosa and Delgado January 26.

Also accepted was a travel report for a meeting between Attorney Leonard Fineday and DelaRosa in Minneapolis January 12-13.

The OBC approved blanket in state travel for the Oneida Tribal Judicial System for training.

The committee allowed the Comprehensive Health Division to convert one vacant physician position to two mid-level positions such as nurse practitioner and/or physician assistant. The change will allow for more patients to receive health care for around the same salary as hiring one doctor.

OBC Forum...

I would like to take this opportunity to update our community about the media attention on the Oneida Seven Generation Corporation Biomass Project. You may have seen the protesters on television opposing this project. What the media doesn't communicate is that this project has gone through extensive approvals by various state, federal and local government agencies. After nearly 2 years of study and permitting the project is near completion of every level of acceptance. The permits issued by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources include all applicable air and waste requirements. The US Dept. of Energy issued an impact statement that indicated no significant negative environmental impact would be caused. The BIA also conducted their own assessment to determine their approval. The Green Bay City Council approved this project based upon a recommendation by the Green Bay Planning Commission. Finally, and most importantly, our Oneida Business

Committee and General Tribal Council have supported this venture.

Prior to my election to the Business Committee the past administration passed a resolution in 2010 to enthusiastically support OSGC in this venture. As an elected official, I stand behind that action and I have reviewed Resolution 12-8-10-B which identifies the many issues in reference to this project. Amongst the important issue of advanced technology and production of renewal energy is the creation of jobs. This project will create 45 new construction jobs and 30 full time jobs to run and maintain the facility once it becomes fully operable. Those who have done their homework will also find this IS NOT AN INCINERATOR! The vocal opposition continues to use the misguided terminology to lead people to believe this is an incinerator, when in fact it is not. This project will generate approximately 4 to 10 megawatts of electricity for 3000 to 5000 residential homes. I support these efforts to decrease our dependency on fossil fuels and utilize alternative energy sources.

Last week we were delivered a petition signed by several hundred people, however the signatures have not been verified by the enrollment office. At any rate, a petition with signatures that are a fraction of what our General Tribal Council consists of, carries little weight with me. As far as I am concerned, the Oneida people have spoken and I respect the voice of more than 2000 Oneida General Tribal Council members over a small group of anti-Indian protesters. In my heart I believe the foundation for this petition is not about the environment, but rather it is founded on racial undertones. If the activities of these folks were truly people protesting about the environment, they would bring forth scientific and certified proof, not run around and get signatures on a petition that doesn't have factual or trustworthy information on it. All we have to do is look at who is behind the petitions, and the anti-Indian movement they stand for to come to this conclusion.

I am a person of who cares deeply about the quality of our environment, and I would not support anything that I felt would harm the people. With the multitude of tests, studies, and processes of approval that have been done to date, there is no reason for me to stand down or even reconsider my support. However, I just want to bring your attention to more of the story, and hope you do your own research, if you are truly interested, and not rely on the unsavory antics and untrustworthy information being promoted through these petitions and actions of the opposition.

67th Anniversary of Iwo Jima

By John A Scocos

Secretary, Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs

Greatest Generation, masked the reserves of strength and resolve that America's enemies never counted on.

Marine veterans received slightly more than one third of the total Medals of Honor awarded to the Marine Corps in the entire Second World War during the thirty-six day Iwo Jima campaign. More medals for heroism in combat were awarded at Iwo Jima than at any other battle in U. S. history. Two out of every three Americans who fought on Iwo Jima were killed or wounded. "The heroes of Iwo Jima," John Bradley told his son, "are the guys who didn't come back."

From the vantage point of more than sixty years later, we can take pride in the accomplishments of the Greatest Generation's veterans. They showed us the way. It is up to our generation to live up to the example of service and sacrifice they set. We owe the veterans of that time, and since, a debt of gratitude.

The unforgettable image remains an icon forever associated with American valor and it became the basis for the Marine Corps Memorial in Washington DC. John Bradley of Antigo, Wisconsin helped raise the flag on Iwo Jima. John Bradley never spoke to his family of the photograph or the Navy Cross he had been awarded during the war. An unassuming hard working small town Wisconsinite, Bradley lived a simple life—he married his third grade sweetheart; opened a funeral home; helped raise eight children; joined the PTA, the Lions, and the Elks. But Bradley's quiet ways, like those of so many of his comrades in the

Shekoli,

In the March 15 Kalihwisaks, my eye caught the Treasurer's report by Mrs. Christina Danforth. Wow, the $18 million deficit the tribe is facing in 2013 was very disturbing because it affects me directly being here (prison). I depend on my mother and other family members for financial support. But what got me through my isolated time here is the fact that they are safe and healthy in the free world. Anyway, Mrs. Danforth's commitment to our nation's prosperity and its continued economic growth is very assuring in these years of uncertainty. She along with other tribal leaders have the toughest gig of all directly in the front line of the struggle. Mr. Vince DelaRosa's and his dedicated assistant Mrs. Cathy Bachhuber's dealings with pressing issues (see OBC Forum March 15) gives me hope.

Even though I'm a convicted felon, I am still a thinking and ever struggling father of four beautiful children. I have dreams, ambitions and rolls I have to play. As I rot away in this correctional facility, ideas for change and plans of redemption come to my mind. Aside from atoning my violent transgressions on a family of native people, I make plans to make my little piece of the world a better place to live and thrive in.

I was once a young thug on a destructive mission to conquer and corrupt every thing and person I could, this being the end result to my thugish malicious ways. I could have met my Creator, but was given a chance to learn a few life lessons and turn my young life around with the possibility of me being given a second chance by my Creator, and hopefully my people. I am able to brainstorm and create tons of ideas on tribal improvements and upgrades:

Look into creating living environments for our single native men who are impoverished and on the verge of homelessness.

Create programs for convicted felons to actually reunite with community members, build their trust up to a respectful, honorable individual status. Make a hands on program with consequences like license suspension, and rewards like dinner and a show, community congratulatory benefit luncheon/dinner, acknowledgement in the

Kalihwisaks

Offer tourist packages year round.

Snowmobiling and cycling, sightseeing, golfing, casino and educational, heritage and history, fishing, trial walking

At-risk youth and real life reformed convicted knuckleheads like me, cleaning and fixing up tribe for community service, court fees, tribal fees and truancy.

Create bus plan for tribal travel services

Use Norbert Hill powwow grounds for GTC meetings and vote by text messages

Use computers to broadcast GTC meetings to tribal members physically unable to attend. Use Skype for membership participation.

Create a tribal jail to house offenders who commit crimes in our boundaries

Department by department evaluation of employee needs vs. wants

Make accountability for one's conduct on the job more direct

May per capita payments via debit cards or direct deposit

Create a temporary living place on the reservation

Family first,

Willie Adams

Public Hearing Notice

11:30 a.m. • Norbert Hill Center, 2nd Floor - (BCCR)

April 17, 2012Purpose:*Legislative Procedures Act

The intent of the Legislative Procedures Act (the Law) is to provide an improved lawmaking process to replace the lawmaking provisions currently found in the Administrative Procedures Act (APA). The Law also re-charters the Legislative Operating Committee's (LOC) role in the lawmaking process. The Law provides a streamlined lawmaking process, which includes:

- Fiscal Estimates. A fiscal estimate would be required for each legislative proposal, which would estimate the total fiscal year costs associated with the legislation. This would include items such as: startup costs, personnel, office, documentation costs, legislative mandates, as well as an estimate of the amount of time necessary for an individual or agency to comply with the law after implementation.

- Legislative Analysis. An analysis describing the important features of the legislation, impact to the Tribal operations, as well as the general public would also be required for each legislative proposal.

- Holding a public comment period and requiring an actual public meeting only be held when determined necessary by the LOC or OBC. Currently, public hearings are required to be held before any legislation is adopted on a permanent basis. Public meetings would now only be required to be held if the LOC or OBC determines a public meeting is in the best interests of the Tribal membership. A public comment period will be noticed before any legislation is considered for adoption on a permanent basis and written comments received during this time will be considered before moving forward with the legislation.

- Creation of an Oneida Register. The LOC would be required to post agency regulations, proposed legislation and notices, and the Oneida Code of Laws in the Oneida Register.

- Notice requirements would be the responsibility of the LOC (and no longer the Tribal Secretary). The LOC would be required to give specific notice of all public hearings to the Tribe's managers and directors, who would be responsible for informing Tribal employees of the public hearings. The managers and directors would direct that written or oral testimony be provided by Tribal employees who have special knowledge or expertise on the subject of the public hearing. Under the current APA, notice of public hearings is the responsibility of the Tribal Secretary.

- Adoption of emergency legislation. Emergency legislation would still be able to be adopted for six months, with the option of renewing the adoption for an additional six months. A legislative analysis of the emergency legislation would now be required before it is adopted.

- Repeal of the Format for Laws. The Format for Laws would be repealed and the relevant portions of that law would be incorporated into the Legislative Procedures Act.

Public Hearing ProcessI. Testimony:

A. Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.

B. Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or to the Legislative Reference Office Paralegal, Tonya Boucher, at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

Small explosive damages WI Planned Parenthood

GRAND CHUTE, Wis. (AP) — A Wisconsin police chief says no threats had been received by a Planned Parenthood clinic in eastern Wisconsin where a small homemade explosive caused minimal damage over the weekend.

Grand Chute Police Chief Greg Peterson says a bottle containing a chemical was placed on the clinic's outside window sill about 7:40 p.m. Sunday. A small fire broke out when the bottle exploded, but quickly burned itself out.

Planned Parenthood of Wisconsin CEO Teri Huyck (HEYEK) says there was minimal damage to an exam room and that the clinic will reopen Tuesday. No one was in the building at the time.

The Grand Chute Fire Department responded to the clinic's fire alarm and alerted police after finding the bottle.

Peterson says the FBI is helping investigate. No suspects are in custody.

Wis. utility seeks 9.2 percent electric rate hike

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — A Green Bay utility wants to increase electric rates 9.2 percent for its customers in northeastern and north-central Wisconsin.

Wisconsin Public Service Corp. filed its rate plan with the state Public Service Commission.

Under the new rates, a typical electric customer would pay $7 more a month.

The company says the proposed increase follows four years of rate stability. Rates were unchanged for two consecutive years and then went up less than 1 percent the past two years.

The Milwaukee Journal Sentinel (<http://bit.ly/HgjNy7>) reports a WPS official says the company is forecasting a decline in electricity sales in 2013 compared with its sales in 2011. That's one of the biggest factors driving the rate request.

A final decision on the rate case probably won't be reached until November or December.

WI gov signs text solicitation ban

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Scott Walker has signed a bill that extends no-call prohibitions to text messages.

Currently, telephone solicitors can't call numbers people place on Wisconsin's no-call list. The ban doesn't include nonprofit organizations, calls made in response to a request for solicitation or to a solicitor's current customers.

The bipartisan bill bars solicitors from sending texts to numbers on the no-call list.

The Senate passed the measure in October on a voice vote. The Assembly passed the measure 94-0 in February. Walker signed it Monday afternoon.

The bill's author, Sen. Van Wanggaard, a Racine Republican, says the extension will save people money on their cell phone bills.

BIA Director Black Names Ms. Hankie Ortiz Deputy Bureau Director of Indian Services

WASHINGTON — Bureau of Indian Affairs Director Michael S. Black today announced that he has named Hankie Ortiz deputy bureau director of the BIA's Office of Indian Services at the bureau's headquarters in Washington, D.C. Ortiz is an enrolled member of the Kiowa Tribe of Oklahoma with Caddo and Comanche ancestry as well. She had been serving as director of the Office of Tribal Self-Governance at the Indian Health Service (IHS) since September 2007. Her appointment with the BIA became effective on March 26, 2012.

"I am pleased that Hankie has accepted this challenging opportunity to lead the BIA's Office of Indian Services," Black said. "Her background as an experienced senior executive is proven and extensive. Her knowledge and experience in management from her previous work with tribes at the Indian Health Service makes Hankie a strong addition to my team."

"I am happy to have the opportunity to become a member of a progressive and vital agency like BIA," Ortiz said. "I am looking forward to working with Director Black and Assistant Secretary Echo Hawk in carrying out the BIA's trust responsibilities and services to the tribes."

Ortiz began her federal career in the IHS's Office of the General Counsel (OGC) in Rockville, Md., in 1997 where she analyzed legal issues and applied legal principles to advise the IHS director and other headquarters staff. In June 2000, she became the Assistant Regional Attorney in the OGC. In that capacity, she provided legal advice to the IHS as the lead attorney for the agency's Phoenix Area and the California Area on legal issues related to health care in the broadest sense and represented IHS headquarters and areas in litigation.

In July 2006, she took on dual duties as the director of the Division of Regulatory Affairs (DRA) and acting deputy director of the Office of Management Services (OMS). Her positions later switched she became the acting director of DRA and the OMS deputy director. Both positions involved significant duties ranging from serving as the liaison with the OGC on such matters as litigation, regulations, and related policy issues to overseeing day-to-day operations relative to the administrative, personnel, and fiscal functions of OMS, including monitoring OMS budget expenditures, personnel levels and contractor costs, and workflow between nine OMS divisions and staffs.

Ortiz became director of the IHS Office of Tribal Self-Governance in September 2007. Her primary responsibility was for the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (ISDEAA) as it pertained to the IHS Tribal Self-Governance program. She served as the principle advisor to the IHS director on tribal self-governance issues and as an effective proponent for tribal governments within the agency on the development and implementation of federal self-governance policy in accordance with IHS priorities.

Prior to starting her federal career, Ortiz served as a research attorney with the Native American Rights Fund (NARF) from January 1997 to July 1997, and as a research attorney for Charles B. Morris & Associates from April 1996 to September 1996. In addition to these positions, she was also a law clerk and research attorney for F. Browning Pipemaster & Associates from October 1995 to April 1996.

Ortiz holds a Bachelor's degree in Psychology from the University of Oklahoma in Norman (1991), and a Juris Doctor degree from the University of Montana School of Law in Missoula (1995).

The deputy bureau director of Indian services reports to the director of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and is responsible for all headquarters activities associated with support for tribal people and tribal governments by promoting safe and quality living environments, strong communities, self-sufficient and individual rights, while enhancing protection of the lives, prosperity and well-being of American Indians and Alaska Natives.

FTC targets alleged payday scam, race car driver

By Jennifer C. Kerr

Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — A payday lending operation that offers quick cash over the Internet to desperate people, and the race-car driver allegedly running it, are under federal scrutiny after more than 7,000 complaints to authorities.

The Federal Trade Commission filed a complaint Monday in U.S. district court in Nevada against driver Scott Tucker, his brother and several Internet-based lending companies, including AMG Services, Inc.

Tucker has raced in the American Le Mans Series. The FTC charges that he and others controlled lending companies that piled on undisclosed and inflated fees — in some cases more than triple the amount borrowed — and then collected on the loans illegally by threatening borrowers with arrests and lawsuits.

In one example, a consumer was told that a $500 loan would cost him $650 to repay. Instead, the FTC says, the defendants attempted to charge him $1,925 to pay off the loan. The agency says he was threatened with arrest if he didn't pay that amount.

Payday loans are typically small, short-term loans with extremely high interest rates that are effectively advances on a borrower's next paycheck.

According to the FTC, the payday lending operation involving Tucker has claimed in state legal proceedings that it is affiliated with Native American tribes and therefore immune from legal action. Tribal affiliation does not exempt Tucker and others from complying with federal law, the commission says.

Over the last five years, more than 7,500 complaints about the operation have been filed with law enforcement authorities.

Tucker and his brother, Blaine, are accused of transferring more than $40 million collected from payday loans to consumers to another company, Level 5 Motorsports, which is controlled by Scott Tucker. The FTC says the money was transferred as "sponsorship" fees for Tucker's racing career.

Tucker did not immediately respond to a request for comment to his office email.

McLester Davis named Outstanding Teen

By Dawn Walschinski

Kalihwiaks

Lauren McLester Davis added another tiara to her collection winning the 2012 Miss Green Bay Area's Outstanding Teen crown on February 26.

"The pageant was really fun because I got to meet a lot of girls that were participating for the teen pageant, but also for the Miss pageant," said McLester Davis, referring to the other participants as pageant sisters.

The pageant was open to young ladies ages 13-17 living in the Green Bay area and organized by Miss America Organization. Pageant winners receive college scholarships.

"That's really important to me because I know I'm going to have a lot of schooling because I want to become a doctor someday," she said. "I want to help in the burn units of metropolitan hospitals."

McLester Davis got to meet the current Miss America Laura Kaeppeler at a homecoming event.

"She's just a really amazing and down to earth person, and I think it really inspires a lot of girls here in the state that ... people from anywhere can do anything," she said.

McLester Davis is a fan of Kaeppeler's singing, and enjoys adding her own voice to the Oneida Hymn Singers on Sundays. She participates with her grandparents Thelma and Wendell McLester. McLester Davis' mother Joan McLester says the grandparents are a moral compass for her daughter who's Oneida name Yo we luh was handed down to her by Wendell.

"Her grandparents are directly in her life everyday," said McLester.

McLester Davis skipped a year in school and is a freshman at Notre Dame Academy where she takes honors level classes.

"She's continuing getting highest honors which we're thrilled with," said McLester.

McLester Davis enjoys sharing her love of reading through First Book of Greater Green Bay which helps buy books for economically disadvantaged children. She first became interested in the issue when she was a volunteer reading buddy.

"I asked my child that I was tutoring what books do you read at home for fun, and he said 'I don't have any book to read at my house,'" she said.

Walker signing wolf hunt, youth concussion bills

By Scott Bauer and Todd Richmond

Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP)

Wolves could be hunted in Wisconsin for the first time and schools would have to do more to prevent youth concussions under a pair of bills Gov. Scott Walker signed into law Monday.

Walker held three public bill signings across the state, the first at an elementary school in Wausau and the last at Lambeau Field in Green Bay. He signed the wolf hunt bill at a dock maker in Woodruff.

The new wolf hunting and trapping season will run from mid-October through the end of February. If applications exceed the number of licenses, the Department of Natural Resources would issue half of the licenses at random and the other half through a preference point system.

Wisconsin wolves came off the federal endangered species list last year, freeing state officials to manage them as they see fit. Walker said in a statement the state's wolf population has grown to more than 800 animals and a hunt will help farmers protect their livestock.

"The DNR is ready to put the rules in place that will allow them to reduce the herd to a healthy, sustainable level," the governor said.

Walker signed the youth concussion bill, which has the support of the National Football League, at Lambeau. The measure, which passed the Legislature with bipartisan support, requires that athletes who suffer apparent head injuries during games or practices be immediately removed and not allowed to resume playing without the written clearance of a health care provider who has examined them.

It also requires the state Department of Public Instruction, in conjunction with the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association, to develop guidelines and other information to educate coaches, athletes and parents about the risks of concussions and other head injuries.

The NFL has been lobbying states to pass similar laws even as it is being sued by former players and others blaming the league for concussion-related dementia and brain disease.

Earlier this year, when the bill was stalled in the Senate, longtime Green Bay Packer offensive lineman Mark Tauscher came to the Capitol where he joined high school athletes, doctors and others to push for passage.

The Wisconsin bill was modeled after

Washington state's 2009 "Zackery Lystedt Law," which was named for a middle school football player who sustained brain damage after he suffered a concussion and returned to play.

Other bills Walker signed included:

EDUCATION REFORM: Walker

signed a measure that requires all new kindergartners starting next fall to be tested on how well they can read. It also requires prospective elementary and special-education teachers starting in 2014 to take a new reading instruction test before they can obtain their teaching licenses. The new law also requires students performance measures to account for half of a teacher or principal's evaluation.

State Superintendent Tony Evers joined Walker for the bill signing. He said the new law will help the state better identify incoming kindergartners struggling with reading and improve reading achievement for all students.

The law was developed following recommendations of two different bipartisan task forces that included teachers, administrators, Evers, the governor's office and others.

PIERS AND DOCKS: Walker signed a bill that would ease restrictions on pier and dock construction. Currently, the DNR issues general or individualized permits for such construction. General permits are broad, one-size-fits-all authorizations. Individual permits convey customized permission for specific projects.

The new law grants the DNR the authority to issue general permits for any activity that requires an individual permit, easing the regulatory path for shoreline property owners and developers.

Many Stops Along the Way For CMN Student of the Year

Therese Coon

Area resident Therese M. Coon was honored at the American Indian Higher Education Consortium (AIHEC) student conference held in late March in Rapid City, SD. The national event is held annually for tribal college students from across the U.S. During the program, Coon received Student of the Year honors for her accomplishments at the College of Menominee Nation.

Coon, a sophomore at CMN's Green Bay campus, is a Green Bay resident and a member of the Oneida Tribe. Along with recognition as an American Indian College Fund Student of the Year, she received a $1,000 Adolph Coors Foundation scholarship.

Nomination material for Coon identified her as an adult learner who brings "a wealth of maturity, experience and knowledge to her studies" and is highly regarded by the College's faculty, staff and students. She was cited as one who "excels in challenging courses and adds a great deal of insight and depth to any classroom discussion."

A former journeyman metal fabricator and law enforcement officer, Coon is currently completing studies for Associate Degrees in Public Administration and in Biological and Physical Science. Following graduation from CMN in June, she plans to continue work toward a bachelor's degree in Public Administration. Her long-term goals include a master's degree and "employment that would allow me to promote environmental protection through research and using the core principles of sustainability."

Coon, who grew up in the Manitowoc area, came to higher education after a varied career in several fields. She has worked as an Upward Bound tutor, dispatcher for the Manitowoc County Sheriff's Department, patrol officer for the Menominee Tribal Police Department, journeyman metal fabricator, master welder, and child support specialist and caseworker.

"My educational journey began," Cook says, "when I became physically unable to do the required work as a journeyman metal fabricator or return to my past career in law enforcement. Needless to say, I was devastated because I enjoyed the physical and intellectual demands of these past careers, as well as the quality of life that it provided for my family. With the support of my husband and family, I decided to seek a college degree knowing that it would be another life-changing event."

Married, the mother of four adult children and grandmother to one, she has maintained a high grade point average throughout her College years and is no stranger to the academic Honors Roll. Along with classroom achievements, Coon has been fully involved in campus life at CMN's Green Bay campus on South Ridge Road. She has worked as a student tutor in math, biology and business; served as a volunteer in the VITA tax assistance program; held the lead role in a College's theater arts production, and participated with the campus chapter of the American Indian Business Leaders (AIBL) student organization.

Coon says that her experience at CMN has given her "the tools and aspirations to reach beyond the norm" and the nomination for the Student of the Year award "came as a surprise" that left her "honored and humbled" and feeling "very fortunate to be able to attend the College of Menominee Nation."

CMN President Receives Tribal College President Award

Dr. Verna Fowler, founding president of the College of Menominee Nation, Keshena, has been chosen for the Tribal College President Award in recognition of her contributions to American Indian education during her career.

The President Award was announced at the American Indian Higher Education Consortium's student conference held in March in Rapid City, SD, and presented by American Indian College Fund President and CEO Richard B. Williams.

Dr. Fowler said, "I am extremely grateful to the American Indian College Fund and the American Indian Higher Education Consortium. If it were not for those two organizations that were the pioneers, that had the initiative and the drive, and the determination... none of us would be here today. I also owe a lot to the tribal college presidents, both the current and the past, who set a path and called us all to a higher excellence in education.

"Way back in 1912 the Menominee sent a letter to the Bureau of Indian Affairs asking for a tribal college. It was finally these two organizations that came along and brought it to fruition."

Dr. Fowler established the College of Menominee Nation in 1993. CMN's flagship campus in Keshena and an urban campus in Green Bay, currently serve more than 700 students in Bachelor's and Associate degree academic programs, and in technical and trades diploma program. The College, which is open to all, is chartered by the Menominee people and accredited by the Higher Learning Commission, North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

An enrolled member of

the Menominee Tribe, Dr. Fowler earned a master's degree in 1986 and a doctorate in 1992, both in education administration from the University of North Dakota. In 1999, she was appointed by President Bill Clinton to the White House Initiative on Tribal Colleges and Universities and was reappointed by President George W. Bush in 2006. In 2010, she was chosen for the George Washington Carver Agricultural Excellence Award by the U.S. Agency for International Development for work connecting indigenous peoples in the USA to peer groups in Latin America through sustainable forestry and agriculture based on indigenous perspectives.

Area Collegians Take Part In National 'Bowl' Competition

College of Menominee Nation students attending the American Indian Higher Education Consortium (AIHEC) student conference held March 24 to 28 in Rapid City, SD, included residents of several Northeast Wisconsin communities.

Larry Madden, a CMN freshman in the Liberal Studies program and member of the Mohican Tribe, was awarded the Coca-Cola Foundation Scholarship during the conference. Madden is a resident of Sturgeon Bay.

Representing the College in academic competitions during the program were the following:

• Science Bowl – Sophomores Ashley Ghent, a Biological and Physical Sciences major from Shawano, and Menominee Tribe members Paula Wilber, freshman, Liberal Studies major, Gillett, and Dee Cobb, senior, Early Childhood/Elementary Education major, Keshena.

• Knowledge Bowl – Doug Littlehat, a Navajo and junior Business Administration major residing in Keshena; Sarah Lyons, a Menominee sophomore in Business Administration, Shawano; Appollonia

Gomez, a Choctaw and freshman in the Natural Resources program, Keshena, and Menominee Tribe members Paula Wilber, freshman, Liberal Studies major, Gillett, and Dee Cobb, senior, Early Childhood/Elementary Education major, Keshena.

Academic coaches from the CMN staff attending with students were Jennifer Morris, STEM Resource / Demonstration Coordinator, and Heidi Cartwright of the CMN Criminal Justice faculty and advisor to the AIHEC student organization

Test scores improve for Milwaukee voucher schools

By Carrie Antlfinger

Associated Press

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Students who received vouchers to attend private or religious schools in Milwaukee improved their performance in mathematics and reading last year but still lagged behind public school students, according to a report released Tuesday.

The Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction found that in the second year of testing last fall, about 40 percent of Milwaukee voucher students showed they were proficient or advanced in math, up nearly 6 percent from last year. Nearly 49 percent of local public school students and 78 percent of public school students statewide reached that mark.

On reading scores, about 56 percent of voucher students were advanced or proficient - an increase of about 1 percent from last year - compared with about 58 percent of Milwaukee public school students and nearly 82 percent of public school students in Wisconsin.

State Superintendent Tony Evers said math and reading achievement need to improve for all students. He pointed to Wisconsin's application for a waiver from No Child Left Behind, hoping to join other states that have already been granted breathing room from the landmark educational requirements.

"In our request for waivers from No Child Left Behind's broken system for evaluating schools, we advocate for accountability for results for all publicly funded schools," he said.

The Milwaukee choice schools tested more than 11,400 students. This year, the state also tested 60 students from the Racine voucher program. About 51 percent of those students were proficient or advanced in math, compared to about 62 percent in Racine public schools. Overall, student achievement in mathematics increased and achievement gaps between some races narrowed this school year compared to six years ago - despite the increasing number of children in poverty.

Still, John Johnson, DPI's director of education information services, said more work needs to be done.

"The gaps are too big in terms of achievement for students with disabilities, they are too big in areas of race, students with socio-economic disadvantaged backgrounds," he said.

The state plans to start a new test in the spring of 2014-2015 school year for third through eighth grades and high school juniors. The current tests measure students' performance at only one point in the year and the new system will have higher expectations and measure progress throughout the school year.

This year nearly 42 percent of students who took the tests came from families with incomes low enough to qualify for free or reduced-price lunch, which has been increasing. The numbers are higher for minority groups: about 81 percent of black students, 77 percent of Hispanics, 68 percent of American Indians and 52 percent of Asian students are considered low-income.

The 78 percent of students statewide who showed proficient or advanced math skills is up about 5 percentage points from 2005-2006. Black students showed the largest improvement, closing the gap by 7.5 percentage points compared to white students between 2005-06 and 2011-12. It also closed by nearly 5 percent for American Indians, more than 6 percent for Asians and nearly 7 percent for Hispanics. It only closed about 1 percent for disabled students compared to nondisabled students.

Youth Creating Change on Global Youth Service Day

GREEN BAY, WI - On April 20, dozens of preschool students from Mayflower Nursery School, ages three to five, will take to the streets to clean up the litter and trash in their neighborhood and park. The youth join millions of other young people around the world who are creating community change as part of Global Youth Service Day, the world's largest and longest-running service event.

Over 50 organizations in Northeast Wisconsin, including schools, Universities, after-school programs, non-profits, volunteer centers, national service programs, and faith-based organizations have joined the Global Youth Service Day movement by hosting service projects for Global Youth Service Day. An estimated 3,500 children, teens, and young adults, ages 5-25, and adult allies and champions will be helping make Northeast Wisconsin a "greener," healthier, more literate and safe place to live through youth-led service projects on April 20-22, 2012.

The projects address several issues ranging from health, education, human services, and environment. Young people who want to register for existing projects can do so online at www.newgysd.org/rsvp/

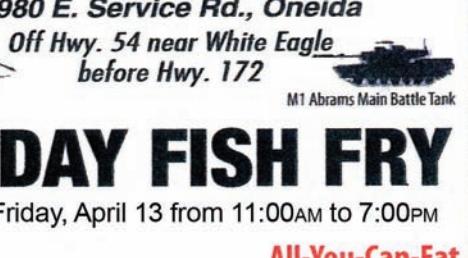

Now in its 24th year, Global Youth Service Day (April 20-22, 2012) is celebrated in more than 100 countries, and recognizes the positive impact that young people have on their communities 365 days a year. Organized by YSA (Youth Service America), a leader in the international youth service movement, Global Youth Service Day offers youth, ages 5 to 25, the resources and support to plan meaningful projects that improve their communities.

"Congratulations and thanks to the young people of Green Bay, WI for their work to improve their community," said Steven A. Culbertson, YSA president and CEO. "On Global Youth Service Day, the world stands in awe as we see what's possible when kids take the lead as problem-solvers."

"Young people are constantly told they are tomorrow's leaders. Global Youth Service Day is an opportunity for young people to show the world that we are making a difference right now through service projects that are created and led by youth." said Emily Garcia, regional coordinator of Global Youth Service Day and marketing coordinator at the Mauth Center.

YSA (Youth Service America) improves communities by increasing the number and diversity of young people, ages 5 to 25, serving in substantive roles.

Kolitsch leaving others in her wake

By Nate Wisneski

Kalihwiaks
University of Wisconsin - Lacrosse freshman Andrea Kolitsch wanted to make a name for herself in college and after her first season on the Eagle's swim team she is well on her way.

Kolitsch picked Lacrosse because no one in family had yet attended the school.

"I didn't look into any other school besides (University of Wisconsin) Stevens Point. My mom went to Stevens Point and I didn't want to copy her," she said.

The Bayport High School standout got her start in the swimming pool thanks to her mother.

"When I was young, my mom was a swimmer, she signed me up for swim club when I was seven and was swimming since then," said Kolitsch.

Kolitsch swims the sprint freestyle and butterfly individually and on the relay teams. She loves the sport but it does have its downside.

"It's love-hate, you get bored staring at a black line and it tests your attention span, but then when you stop its like wait this is all I know," Kolitsch said. "The social part of it is so much fun, I love everyone that I swim with. When you win all the training pays off and it's rewarding."

Kolitsch's hard work is definitely paying off. Along with All Conference honors while at Bayport she has also set the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (WIAC) record in the 100-yard butterfly. She was also part of the WIAC winning relay teams for the 400-yard medley, 400-yard freestyle, and 200-yard medley.

Her relay team also received NCAA Division III All-American Honorable Mention in the 400-yard medley and 200-yard freestyle events.

Like most college freshman, the challenge of time management can be burdensome. But as a student athlete that challenge has been compounded by a swim practice schedule.

During the swim season she practices two hours a day five days a week along with weight lifting for an hour two or three times a week.

"It's really demanding, you miss a few classes. It makes you work harder because you have multiple things to practice, not only your athletic ability but your academic talent as well," said Kolitsch. "You work hard in all aspects of your life."

Do's and Don'ts to be a responsible cyclist

You may have noticed the construction of new pedestrian paths along Seminary Road and Old Seymour Road in front of the Turtle School. These trails are part of a large community improvement project to provide a safe way for people to get around the Reservation. They are open to non-motorized traffic only. They will connect the Cornelius Circle Housing Site with the Turtle Were It Ends Housing Site, the Turtle School, the Norbert Hill Center, the Duck Creek Trail, the Site One Housing Site, the Episcopal Church, the Parish Hall, the Elderly Service Building, the Assisted Living Building, the Health Center, the Elder Village site on Henry Road and the Green Valley Housing Site on Florist Drive. There are many more trails in the planning process. Drivers please remember that pedestrians have the right of way in a cross walk. Also, spring is here and people are dusting off their bikes and hitting the road. Please be courteous and share the road. Here is a reminder for everyone who uses the roadways.

Here's some Do's and Don'ts to be a responsible cyclist. By Kenji Sugahana

1. Be courteous and share the road. Being courteous gains respect and helps make the roads safer for all cyclists.
2. The law allows you to ride two abreast, but it may not be the courteous or safe option. If you hear a vehicle approaching from behind, ride single file. Don't ride three abreast.
3. If you're blocking a whole line of cars and there's a place to safely pull off be courteous and stop.
4. Don't wander all over the road. Try to ride predictably and as far right as safely as you can. This does not mean to ride in an area that is littered with road debris or places you at risk.
5. Do take the lane if it is safe to do so if there is a blind corner, high-risk junction or narrowing of the road.
6. Use common sense - don't pee in people's yards or hang out across the entire road if you're waiting for a regroup.

7. Stop at stop signs and signals. By law, cyclists must obey all traffic control devices.
8. Signal your intentions if you can safely do so. If you are turning, point in the direction you plan on going. If you are slowing, put your hand out behind you.
9. If you wave a car around you, don't get impatient. Remember that it is their decision to make as to whether it is safe to pass.
10. If you're in a group, take leadership, set a good example and do your best to make everyone ride courteously.
11. Pay attention! While it is the responsibility of drivers to avoid hitting you ride defensively to minimize risk!
12. Remember the 5% rule. 5% of drivers are jerks. Don't let that 5% get to you. Take a deep breath and move on.
13. Be friendly. If someone is courteous to you and does the right thing, wave and smile. Everyone likes to be acknowledged for doing the right thing.

Here's some Do's and Don'ts to be a responsible driver.

1. Be courteous and share the road. As a driver you may think the road belongs to drivers, but nobody owns the road. By law, a bicycle is a vehicle, so treat it like one.
2. Use your turn signals and check your mirrors before making turns. Cyclists can travel faster than you think.
3. Be patient behind a group of cyclists. If you crack your window you may hear "car back." That is a signal that cyclists are telling other cyclists to go single file as they know you are behind them.
4. Pass with care. You can legally pass over a double yellow but you must do so where it is safe. You should leave enough room so that if the cyclist should fall in front of you or swerve to avoid an object, you won't run over them. If there is a collision you could be held liable. Don't "buzz" or drive as close as you can to a cyclist. It is illegal.
5. Remember that cyclists can legally take the entire lane. You may think that it is a selfish action, but they may be preventing a collision. They really aren't trying to
6. Don't drive too closely behind a cyclist as you may not be able to stop in time if they come off of their bike or adjust to a road hazard abruptly. It would be the exact same as tailgating another driver.
7. Exercise caution and be patient. Remember it is your responsibility to avoid hitting the cyclist, not the responsibility of the cyclist to avoid getting hit by you.
8. Be aware that on downhill sections cyclists can often go faster than cars through curves. Try to avoid passing on downhill sections unless you have an extended clear line of sight.
9. Remember that cyclists can legally take the entire lane. You may think that it is a selfish action, but they may be preventing a collision. They really aren't trying to
10. Be patient. A gain of 30 seconds in your arrival time is not worth seriously injuring or killing someone. A family somewhere is appreciative that their father, son, mother or daughter returns home safely.
11. Pay attention! Don't text or use your cell-phone while driving. Distracted driving places all road users at risk.
12. Remember the 5% rule. 5% of cyclists are jerks. There's nothing you can do about them. Take a deep breath and move on.
13. Be friendly. If someone is courteous to you and does the right thing, wave and smile. Everyone likes to be acknowledged for doing the right thing.

CWD found in northwest Wisconsin deer

By Todd Richmond

Associated Press

Chronic wasting disease has leapt into far northwestern Wisconsin despite a decade-long battle to keep the deadly deer ailment contained in the southwestern corner of the state, wildlife officials said Monday.

Department of Natural Resources Lands Division Administrator Kurt Thiede said test results have confirmed a doe found in the wild just outside Shell Lake last fall was infected.

The discovery threatens to send a new round of shockwaves through Wisconsin's $1 billion hunting industry and further strain the Department of Natural Resources' relationship with hunters and landowners who never bought into the agency's strategies to contain the disease when it first turned up in southern Wisconsin in 2002.

"This is the DNR and the sportsmen's worst nightmare," said Larry Bonde, vice chairman of the Conservation Congress, a group of influential sportsmen who advise the DNR on policy.

"CWD has caused such a stir in the hunting community. The relationship between the DNR and landowners got so damaged. Now moving to a whole new part of the state, it could re-spark some of that discontent."

Chronic wasting disease produces microscopic holes in animals' brain tissue, causing weight loss, tremors, strange behavior and, eventually, death. It was discovered in Wisconsin near Mount Horeb in 2002, marking the first time it had been found east of the Mississippi River. Fear of the disease dampened hunting efforts dramatically that year, as 70,000 fewer people purchased hunting licenses than in 2001.

The disease remained contained in southern Wisconsin and license sales rebounded slightly during the rest of the decade as chronic wasting disease faded from the headlines. The discovery of the infected Shell Lake doe promises to thrust the issue back into the public eye.

Looking to stave off another wave of public anger and fear, DNR officials immediately issued a statement reassuring hunters the agency didn't plan to make any changes to this fall's hunting seasons. They promised to begin an intensive sampling effort, collecting deer road kill for testing and asking bow and gun hunters within a 10-mile radius of the doe to turn in tissue samples this fall.

They also warned residents in Washburn, Barron, Burnett and Polk counties to expect a ban on baiting and feeding deer this fall.

Thiede said someone contacted the Washburn County Sheriff's Department on opening day of the November 2011 gun hunt to report a deer on private land that looked sick and had lost patches of its hair, Thiede said.

George Meyer, executive director of the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation, said the DNR must try to cull the herd in northwestern Wisconsin.

Tsyunhékwa Welcomes our Community to the coming Spring of 2012

By Jeff Metoxen

Tsyunhékwa Director

With the beginning of our 2012 seasons we hope this finds our community looking forward to our upcoming spring, although we have had such a mild winter to this point.

Annual Seed and Plant Distribution: It will be held again in May, the notices will be posted and sent out in the coming weeks. It continues to provide us support and inspiration to see that for the last few years our annual S&P has distributed all of its contents in the first few days of operation. Last year as has been in the past few, all our products were sold within the first week.

Workshops: Our annual list of activities will be posted very soon. We are always trying to meet your needs and request through our activities, if there is something specific you would like us to consider please contact me directly.

Farm Fresh Eggs: They are available at Retail, Oneida Apple Orchard and can also be picked up at our Ag site, 139 Riverdale Drive. Production has been a little low this winter, yet we predict production will rise again for the coming seasons. We are looking to increase the number of layers we have and working on the necessary changes we and the chickens' needs for such an expansion.

Cannery: Community Day has been established as Fridays in the Cannery. When you need to use our facilities please contact them directly to schedule your appointment. The Cannery has been using the new self-contained steam jacketed kettles since their installation last year, thanks to the funding from the First Nations Development Institute. The kettles provide us the opportunity to provide an increase in the products we are able to process and provide to the Community.

Services: With another growing season approaching, remember to contact us for your tilling needs and sign up for our limited space in the Community Gardens off Highway 54 near Green Bay and our other location of Three Sisters in Green Bay. Contact our Ag Site for eligibility requirements.

For the last few years many of our articles have been providing information on our Community's Food Security and Food Sovereignty. In this article we shared updates and highlights of the work we apply to these areas.

Food Security: When all people at all times have access to sufficient, safe, nutritious food to maintain a healthy and active life.

Food Sovereignty: The right of peoples, communities and countries to define their own agricultural, labor, fishing, food and land policies which are ecologically, socially, economically and culturally appropriate to their unique circumstances.

Opening the Lines of Communication

By Mark W. Powless

On Saturday, February 25, at 10:00am, Councilman Vince DelaRosa visited Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) to hold a community meeting with Oneida Tribal members. In attendance were 27 Oneida Tribal members, including some members of the SEOTS Board and SEOTS Staff. For the attendees the visit was welcomed as an opportunity to hear about the current projects of the Councilman and overall Oneida Business Committee. It was also a chance for membership to ask questions and share feedback.

Officially, Mr. DelaRosa is the SEOTS Business Committee liaison. As the liaison, the Councilman helps to ensure there is an effective line of communication between the SEOTS community and the Oneida Tribe. Recent actions of the Councilman include requesting a Milwaukee area housing assessment. The purpose, is to "provide a starting point for assessing the likely extent and nature of housing needs" for Oneida membership in the Milwaukee area.

During the community meeting, the Councilman touched on the housing issue, as well as his future office hours at the SEOTS office, increasing the ability of the SEOTS Board to improve the well-being of membership, and community involvement in the process to shape a new SEOTS building for the
