Apples ripe for the picking at the Oneida Apple Orchard

By Nate Wisneski

Days are getting shorter and nights are getting colder. For Interim Farm Manager and Orchard Manager, Jeff Schofield, it means year 15 of harvesting the fields of apple trees at the Oneida Apple Orchard.

The orchard's 4500 trees are holding double the apples from a year ago where freezing in lower regions of the orchard damaged the previous year's crop.

The larger crop doesn't necessarily reflect ideal growing conditions of this summer. Cool temperatures have set back picking about two weeks. "Considering we didn't get rain for about 60 days, these apple trees are hanging in beautiful," said Schofield.

Ralph Denny sorts and bags Paula Red apples at the Oneida Apple Orchard, located on Highway 54. This year's apple crop is double the size of last year's, which was damaged by a freeze.

"We did have to thin them pretty extensively. We had to do it not to hurt next year's load."

The 40 acres of trees and their apples present a large chore as they need to be harvested before they hit the ground and become unusable by orchard. "We try to get six to eight full time pickers who will pick until at least November 1 or the first hard Business Committee (OBC) Councilman Brandon Stevens has made the "Native American 40 under 40", a list of outstanding young Native Americans who have shown excellence in their community and profession. The National Center for American Indian Enterprise Development (NCAIED) composed the list in celebration of their 40th anniversary.

"I'm definitely honored and humbled by it," said Stevens. "I'm looking forward to meeting all the (NCAI) Tex Hall who has known Stevens since he was a child. While a student at Bismarck, North Dakota, Stevens went out into the tribal communities to reach out to young people through the shared language of basketball.

"North Dakota is one of those areas that is really stricken with poverty and alcohol and drugs," said Stevens. "When I got there, and I was drug and alcohol free ... I promoted that with basketball as a niche ... use basketball as a step in life, use it, don't let it use you. Use it as a positive influence, surround yourself with good people. It was those acts as well as the way he and his wife welcomed people into their home for meals or to just talk that caught the attention of Hall.

"I didn't feel I did anything more than anyone else, but I felt I wanted to do as much as I can, whenever I can," said Stevens. "People helped me, so I wanted to be that person for any of these people that come up."

Hall invited Stevens to talk to the youth in Standing Rock. Stevens did one step better and donated a scholarship he had received to the area's Boys and Girls Club, which was matched by then Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Director Dave Anderson.

After graduating from UTTC, Stevens moved on Representatives from Kraus-Anderson Construction Company, Engberg Anderson, and Standing Stone Design presented plans and cost analysis for the Oneida Resident Centered Care Community to the OBC. The construction bid has a maximum amount of $20,189,283 and is the 15-month project is expected to start this November. The 40-unit project is adjacent to the current Elderly Services Complex. It features three courtyards, a public restaurant, physical therapy rooms, and satellite kitchens. The complex will be connected to the Independent Living apartments and Elderly Services Complex on South Overland Road.

The complex's plans were approved but financial information needs clarification before bonding and lending can be pursued.

The OBC approved a request to have the law office and Legislative Reference Office to prepare a report on retrocession from Public Law 280. Public Law 280 gave the federal government the ability to pursue and try crimes committed by Native Americans on reservations. The report is expected before the OBC by April of 2010.

everyday, I can't understand why the Creator took you away. It's been 13 years and memories still flood our minds.

In public, I hide the tears, but when I'm alone, I cry your name and ask, "Why Creator did you take my brother?" I feel so helpless and pray everyday for my family because it hurts to not know. There's a reason for everything that happens and we're trying to accept life's tragedies.

Your wisdom and kindness stays alive in our spirits and I will follow your beliefs to make you proud of me. I love you!

Creator, grant me the serenity to accept the things I can not change, courage to change the things I can; and wisdom to know the difference.

Deeply missed by family and especially your one and only son Jerrid Skenandore

The Quality of Life Survey - Health Insurance

This is the seventh article reporting on the Quality of Life Survey, a survey that gathers data on various social, cultural, health, economic, educational, governmental and other issues. The key finding being discussed: The majority of all respondents are both satisfied with their personal health and health insurance coverage. Additionally, high marks are given to health care services provided, mental and physical health, primary health care services, nutritional value Oneida the Community Health Center-OCHC. Because this key finding encompasses a large aspect of health care, it has been broken down into three different articles. July's article covered personal health and Augusts' article focused on health care providers. This month will focus on health care coverage.

Tribal members from all over the U.S. participated in this survey, although, an emphasis was placed on members living on the reservation.

65% of respondents are covered by some form of health insurance and 33% are not. On and off Reservation sample members held similar coverage results (66%;

Those ages 18-24 and 45-54 had the lowest rate of insurance coverage at 56%, while respondents 65 and over had the highest coverage percentage at 86%. The remaining age groups' coverage rates ranged from 57% to

The unemployed and students had the lowest coverage rates (37%; 41%), while respondents who are out of the workforce, retired, etc have the highest health insurance coverage at 71%. 59% of those employed inside their home and 66% employed outside the house were covered by health insurance.

Respondents that have an income of $75,000 and above have the highest health coverage rates at 82%. Those with an income of less than $10,000 were least covered at 51%.

71% of sample members indicated they were very or somewhat satisfied with their health insurance program. 19% were dissatisfied while 10% selected "not applicable". 6% of off Reservation respondents chose "not applicable" compared to 12% of on Reservation respondents. These percentages are within in the margin of Respondents who are employed within their home or outside their home have close to 80% satisfaction level with their health insurance plan. Those respondents who are currently out of the workforce are less satisfied—especially the unemployed at 48%.

The majority of all income brackets are satisfied with their health insurance plan, however, respondents in the highest income group was the most satisfied (90%) and those making less than $10,000 were least satisfied (53%). There is increased satisfaction between $10k and $39.9k and then a slight dip in the $40-$49.9k group before increasing again in the $50-$59.9 group and again slightly dipping in the $75k-$99.9k group.

Vehicles must stop for school buses displaying flashing red lights

With the start of another school year, drivers must be extremely cautious when approaching while going to or from the bus.

According Wisconsin law, when approaching a school bus from the front or rear, drivers must stop at least 20 feet from the bus when it is stopped and warning lights. The stop arm on a bus is an added warning to drivers. But the lack of an extended stop arm is not a reason to pass a stopped bus with flashing highmounted red warning lights. Drivers also may not pass a stopped school bus in order to make a right turn in front of it. Drivers on the other side of a divided roadway separated by a median or other physical barrier are not required to stop for a school bus. However, motorists should always watch for children in the vicinity of a school bus.

Besides law enforcement officers, school bus drivers are authorized to report any violations involving illegal passing or turning in front of their buses. The owner of the vehicle, who might not be the offending driver, will then be responsible for paying the citation.

A citation for failure of a vehicle to stop for a school bus costs $326.50 with four demerit points. A citation for an illegal right turn in front of a stopped school bus costs $326.50 and three demerit points. If reported by a school bus driver, the vehicle owner's liability for the illegal passing of a bus costs $326.50 with no demerit points.

"Violations of school bus safety laws are serious and expensive for a good reason. very Drivers must always be aware that children might not be paying attention and don't see oncoming vehicles when they get on or off a bus." says Lieutenant Nick Scorcio of the Wisconsin State Patrol Fond du Lac Post. "As we start another school year, drivers need to remember to stop when they approach a bus with flashing red warning lights and use caution whenever children are in the area."

Sekoli,

In recent weeks, several Tribal members have approached the Legislative Operating Committee, asking us to address certain issues related to the GTC Stipend Payment policy. It seems like the same issues keep coming up: Should GTC members be paid for doing their civic duty and attending GTC meetings? Should members required to remain in the room during GTC meetings in order to get the stipend? And finally, if an issue is not decided at a meeting, but is delayed to a future meeting, should an additional stipend be paid?

To extent, some finances may be a deciding factor for these matters. Let us consider how the cost of running a GTC meeting has ballooned since the stipend payment was introduced.

In 2004, before the stipend policy went into effect, meeting attendance was extremely low, which of course meant that the cost of running GTC meetings was a great deal less than it is today. The total cost for the six meetings held in FY04 was $40,298. Typical expenses for a GTC meeting included $700 for refreshments and a security guard, and a nominal room rental fee and the cost of printing materials, mailings and postage. However, back then several meetings had to be cancelled because the required minimum quorum of 75 members was not met.

By comparison, a single meeting today can run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars with the stipend There is cer-

Accounting and Secretary records, the cost of food alone exceeded $17,000 at each of the last two GTC meetings. Security and police services cost roughly $3000 per meeting – a single security guard might be effective for a crowd of 100 people, but not for a crowd of 1200 to 2000 people. There are also other increased costs relating the general logistics of accommodating a larger crowd. Even without factoring in unbudgeted costs such as maintenance or clean-up, the five GTC meetings held in FY09 have cost over $989,361 so far in 2009.

The issues that have been raised are important. The LOC is currently considering how to amend the Stipend Policy, in such a way that we can encourage maximum participation still while ensuring the most responsible, costeffective use of Tribal dollars. Fiscal responsibility suggests that we need to make sure the stipend serving purpose.

Providing a money incentive to attend GTC meetings has been a successful solution to increasing attendance and participation, but are there better ways to encourage people to attend GTC meetings? Does there really need to be a participation requirement?

And perhaps a more important question: is there a way to encourage greater involvement in Tribal government, particularly in the legislative process, outside of GTC meetings?

The Business Committee remains committed to finding new communication strategies that will offer members a greater opportunity to become involved with the decisions that our government makes. We want to ensure that as many Tribal members as possible are informed about our various legislative governmental efforts. We also want to provide ample opportunities for our people to let us know what they think, and to ask us any questions they might have.

Additionally, we want members to understand that they are welcome to bring forth their own proposed amendments or requests for new laws or policies. The process is simple – an agenda request form must be filled out, and then the matter will be considered at the next LOC meeting, where the submitter is welcome to speak to the request. Agenda request forms are available through Legislative the Reference Office Coordinator, Peril Huff. She can be reached by calling (920) 869-4376 emailing by phuff@oneidanation.or

I thank all of you who have attended public hearings, or who have taken a moment to communicate with the Tribal government in other ways. This feedback helps us determine our plans, our goals, and what courses of action need to be taken to reach those goals. However, we still have a long way to go.

Every member of this Tribe has a voice, and the government needs to hear those voices. The laws and policies we draft and implement and the services we provide - affect all of us.

So please, let us know what issues matter to you and your loved ones. Let us know how we can improve our services, and let us know what you think of our current projects. We look forward to hearing from you!

Translated NC mission records describe tribal life

WINSTON-SALEM, the U.S. government N.C. (AP) _ Documents describing tribal life among the Cherokee in their original homeland are being translated from an archaic German script thanks to funding from the tribe.

Hundreds of diaries, letters and other papers that recorded about 100 years of history between the Moravian missionaries and their Cherokee hosts are the only known account of daily life in the Indian nation before uprooted the tribe in 1838 from what is now North Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia.

"They're telling the story from within the Cherokee mission," said Jack Baker, a Cherokee Nation tribal council member who added such detail is available nowhere else. "It's their viewpoint, but it's an eyewitness account to what's happening within the Nation."

This shared history of Moravians Cherokees was snared in an archaic German script for over 200 years at the Moravian Archives in Winston-Salem, Winston-Salem Journal reported Tuesday.

Translation work started in 1992 but stalled for lack of funds, said Daniel Crews, the archivist of the Moravian Church, Southern Province.

Then earlier this year, the Cherokee Nation offered $125,000 over five years to translate and transcribe the documents.

The Cherokee Nation is made up of the descendants of the survivors of the Trail of Tears, the tribe's forced removal from its Southeastern U.S. homeland to what is now Oklahoma.

The Eastern Band of Cherokee has also offered to help pay for the translation project but has not announced how much it will donate, Crews said.

Blow delivered to NY reservation smoke shops

By David B. Caruso Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) \sim A federal judge has issued a ruling that could doom an Indian reservation's booming business in taxfree cigarettes and spell trouble for other native American tobacco dealers in the state.

In a decision, U.S. District Judge Carol Bagley Amon Brooklyn barred a group of smoke shops on Long Island's Poospatuck reservation from selling tax-free cigarettes to the general public, saying their location on tribal lands didn't exempt them from state and federal tax law.

Only members of the Unkechaug tribe, which controls the reservation, have a right to buy cigarettes there without paying taxes, she ruled, not the many non-Indian customers who flock to the shops for cheap smokes.

The judge stayed the ruling for 30 days to give the shops time to appeal, and Unkechaug Chief Harry Wallace quickly promised that the tribe wouldn't let the decision stand unchallenged.

He accused the judge of ignoring state law and policy regarding taxes and Indian reservations because she dislikes cigarettes.

"She wanted to stop sales at any cost," he said, adding that the ruling would be difficult to comply with, while robbing the stores of their competitive edge. "It would put every Indian store ... out of business."

The ruling is a victory for the city and its mayor,

Michael Bloomberg, who sued the stores over their sale of tax-free cigarettes, saying they were

In its suit, the city claimed the reservation shops had made a mockery of rules restricting the sale of tax-free cigarettes to members of the tribe.

that smoke shops cost the city and state a combined $840 million in tax revenue, much of it lost to smugglers who traveled to the reservation to stock up on cigarettes, then resold them in the City lawyers estimated

"The city will go after every dollar that is owed city taxpayers," Bloomberg said in a statement.

Smoke shops located state-recognized Indian reservations have enjoyed a huge business in cigarettes since the mid-1990s, in part thanks to a string of governors who have refused to enforce state laws that were supposed to set up a system for taxing sales to the general public.

State courts have repeatedly split on whether that policy, known as forbearance, absolves the reservation shops of any responsibility of collecting taxes.

As recently as July, a midlevel state appeals court ruled that smoke shops on land claimed by Cayuga Indian Nation could not be prosecuted under state law for failing to collect taxes on cigarette sales.

Fantastic experiences with New York Homeland Tour

The 2009 Homelands Tour visits a Seneca Longhouse at Gonondagan.

By Mark W. Powless

On August 2, 2009 fifty-seven people departed on the New York Homeland Tour. The intention of the eight day journey was to provide a "a deeper understanding of the significance of our New York Claims, Land History, and our Culture as Oneida people." Tour stops included visits to the Seneca, Mohawk, and Oneida communities plus multiple museums and historical sites. All Tribal members had an opportunity to enter into a drawing to have the chance to be selected for the trip.

process, it was realized that eleven Tribal members from the Milwaukee area were selected to join the expedition. The Tour staff did a great job preparing the Milwaukee area residents, including making special trips to SEOTS to explain the details of the Tour and answer any questions.

From the onset, it was clear that we had a great crew of staff and wonderful and engaging Tribal members to share the trip with. Throughout the week we accomplished all the intentions set forth in the Tour objectives. In addition, we spent time talking, laughing, and selection just getting to know each the Haudenosaunee, but we also had the pleasure to learn about each other. Reggie Doxtater, a member of the Cultural Heritage staff, took the time to create a spreadsheet showing how trip participants were related to each other (if at all). By the end of the trip though, the Oneida value of twahwahtsilay^ (all of us are family) was evident to all of us! We share a common ancestry, a common history, and a common culture. In addition, we as Oneida people face some of the same challenges as we Jim have been conveyed in any classroom or through the pages of any book. For many, the emotional impact was powerful and unexpected. And, equally important, the journey reinforced that whether we are from New York, Milwaukee, or the Reservation, we are all family.

A special thank you to the Tour Coordinator, Jennifer Stevens, all of the Tour staff, the Oneida Land Claims Commission, the Cultural Heritage Center, the Oneida Museum, Loretta V. Metoxen (Tribal Historian), Sandra Schuyler (Registered Nurse), and Kelly strive to become a Nation (Photographer). Thank you for all of your hard work to create a safe, fun, and educational experience for everyone on the New York Homeland Tour of 2009!

Competitive Plus gives edge to youth athletes

Special to Kalihwisaks

A new program for all Oneida youth interested in competitive sports will kick off October 6th. The Competitive Plus, is focused on enhancing the athlete's array of abilities such as speed, flexibility, power, agility, balance, coordination, and skill development so they can compete at the highest level in their desired sport. Athletes will participate in hands-on training in sports performance, medicine, nutrition, team building and professional instruction, with specific training regimens for the individual athlete so they can reach their peak performance and achieve maximum success in any sports arena they may choose, including basketball, volleyball, swimming, track & field, baseball, and golf. The Competitive Plus Program will be an intensive, ongoing training program from 2009 through 2010, designed to enhance participation and success at the 2011 North American Indigenous Games and beyond. Here are some of the things that will be included in the program:

• Personalized training programs

- Athletic performance camps
- Educational sports seminars
- Nutritional education
- Team building activitiesVisualization exercises
- Fitness Assessments
- Wellness profile

The plan is correlated with the Olympic training model and research is being conducted to construct the best possible U.S. Olympic plan that strongly supports our youth in their development. The program will entail three phases:

The first phase, which was in essence a preliminary preparation initiated back in June of 2009, included team camps and clinics that introduced the athletes to the various sports. Professional coaches were brought in to provide the camp with the various individual and group instructions needed for fundamental development in each respective sport, which included youth golf sessions, a girls' volleyball camp conducted by UWGB Head Coach Debra Kirch, and a boys' basketball camp conducted by former UM-Duluth Head Coach Dale Race.

The second phase, starting in October, is to be the main kickoff for the program. That phase will be designed to introduce athletes to the specific group and individual workout regimens that are focused on the physical development of the athlete, such as strength training and cardiovascular fitness. Many of these regimens will be structured for athletes to conduct during the off season, and will teach discipline in doing them on their own time.

The third phase, slated for late Spring/early Summer 2010, combines all of the aspects of the required components of training, diet, nutrition, and team building in preparation for the 2011 North American Indigenous Games. These services will be provided through in-kind services from various staff members, coaches, and other volunteers within the fitness, nutrition, athletics, and team building areas. This will be the phase in which these athletes will begin to utilize their developmental success in the program to strengthen and improve on all the things they have been working on. The beneficial attributes that come from these services consist of young athletes learning and developing the proper skill sets necessary to perform at the highest level possible, gaining valuable knowledge from training methods and theories from professional trainers that can boost performance, skill level and confidence. "We have a lot of talented young athletes in this community, and we want to give them an opportunity to grow both as an athlete, as well as an individual," says Fitness, Adventure Recreation Manager Scott Murray.

Nutrition is another important asset to posses, because dietary intake for young athletes is essential for growth, health, and optimal athletic performance. Such attributes consist of each athlete having their diet tailored to their respective sport, training schedule and individual needs. Competitive Plus participants will learn how to use food and physical activity to enhance athletic ability, as well as personal and professional confidence across the board. Several proven measurement tools will be utilized throughout the implementation of the program to not only make sure that it is working, but also so the successes of these athletes can be shared with the community. Overall, this program is in alignment with the health and wellness initiative for the Oneida community, which focuses on education and physical engagement to improve lives. The Plus Competitive Program will do that and more for this community; it will build athletes, but most importantly, it will build leaders. "Many successful individuals in this community, including myself, have become successful because of their involvement in athletics, which taught disciresponsibility, pline, team building, networking, and many other attributes that prepared them for the real world," says Murray. "This Program will be the kick start for those kinds of opportunities."

For more information on the Competitive Plus Program, contact Scott Murray at (920) 490-3730, ext. 3806. Stay tuned for an exclusive update on the 2011 North American Indigenous Games!

The Oneida Planning Department Environmental Department have teamed up to create rain gardens for tribal buildings. According Environmental Restoration Specialist Betsy Galbraith and Planner Stacie Danforth, the Conservation Field Office at N8047 County Road U is the first tribal building to have a rain garden put in.

"We had the roof water

"(Our departments) are looking to the future and having more of these Danforth. Currently, there are plans to install a rain garden at the new VFW building.

"Normally, you just have water coming off the roof, and it might go into this ditch system and ultimately end up in Trout Creek, but it's not filtered or treated. This provides a purpose for the water and it filters and treats it before it goes in the creek," said Galbraith.

Site II lagoons being redesigned

By Steve Linskens Environmental Manager

In 2006, the Tribe constructed an upgrade to their wastewater system. The household waste that once flowed to the wastewater lagoons near the Flying Leaf (SITE 2) neighborhood off Ranch Road is now being rerouted and sent to the Wastewater Treatment Plant. That means the Tribe no longer needs the lagoons.

The Environmental, Health and Safety Division, Utilities Department and Housing Authority are working with the designated government agencies to ensure the lagoons are properly abandoned and reclaimed. We are collecting community feedback to determine the best use of the abandoned lagoons. One idea we are pursuing is converting the lagoons to a swimming / fishing pond for community use.

Phase One of the project is slated to occur during the fall of 2009. It will consist of cleaning out the lagoons. The lagoon solids are beneficial fertilizer for agricultural land.

This project will be funded by tribal dollars currently held by Indian Health Services and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Watch for community meeting notices this fall. We would like to know what future vision com-

MoneySmart Kid Essay Contest for | Tribal colleges receive $4.7 million in grants

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3, 2009 - Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack today announced that 22 tribal colleges in nine states have been selected to receive $4.7 million through the USDA Rural Development Tribal College Grant program.

"This funding will help tribal colleges make much-needed infrastructure improvements so they can continue to provide job opportunities for local residents and spur economic development," Vilsack said.

USDA Rural Development Tribal College Grants are provided to land-grant institutions for education and outreach to provide essential services to Native American communities and to help meet residents' needs.

In North Dakota, for example, United Tribes Technical College (UTTC) has been selected for a $220,000 grant to help remodel and expand the college's cafeteria. The facility was built more than 40 years ago and does not meet the needs of the current student body, which has increased 173 percent since 2002. The project will expand the facility by 3,500 square feet and double the number of people that may be served. There also will be more space for food preparation, serving, cooking and storage. Small appliances will be replaced with more energy efficient ones. UTTC is a private not-for-profit two-year college established in 1969 by an intertribal organization. It is operated by the five tribes located in North Dakota.

The White Earth Tribal and Community in Mahnomen, College; $219,625 grant

Minn., plans to use a $199,500 grant to purchase and renovate a building the college currently rents. The renovation will include accessibility improvements, the replacement of interior doors, upgrades to bathrooms and the electrical system, and expansion of classroom space. Also, new vestibules will be added to increase energy efficiency. In 2008, Salish

Kootenai College in Pablo, Mont., used a $272,350 USDA Rural Development grant to add three classrooms to an existing art building to accommodate increased enrollment. The building is expected to be completed next month. USDA Rural Development funding has played a significant role in upgrading and expanding facilities on the campus, which has helped boost enrollment. In past years, USDA funds have been used to help fund a performing arts center, a wellness facility at the college, renovation of a day care center, as well as paving and infrastructure work.

Below is a complete list of the selected recipients. Funding of each award is contingent upon the recipient meeting the conditions of the grant agreement.

Pulaski seeks citizens for Excellence Task Force

Board Education has authorized the formation of the Community School District Excellence Task Force that will conduct a comprehensive review of the district and report its findings to the Board.

"We want Excellence Task Force to focus on a number of things, including technology, building mainteof nance, financial status, facilities and other capital needs," said Board President, Cindy Hendricks.

> The Task Force is slated to meet five times on the following Wednesday evenings;

September October 14, October 28, November 11, and December 9. Each meeting will begin at 6:00pm and last until 9:00pm.

Citizens of the Pulaski Community School District can volunteer to serve on the Task Force by calling the district office at 920-822-6001 to submit their name. Approximately 35 people will be chosen for the Task Force. For more information contact Dr. Mel Lightner, District Superintendent at 920-822-6001.

Brown Wisconsin. Approval of this transaction would facilitate the single family residential development of the subject property and provide needed housing for Oneida Nation Tribal members.

Environmental Review: In compliance with provisions of the NEPA, an environmental assessment and FONSI were prepared. It has been determined that this proposed federal action will not have a significant adverse impact on the quality of the human environment; therefore, an environmental impact statement will not be required. This proposed trust to trust conveyance was also reviewed for compliance with other applicable environmental and historic preservation laws, such as the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) and the Endangered Species Act (ESA). The Historic Preservation Officer was consulted in compliance with Section 106 of the NHPA and no adverse effects to historic properties are expected. A determination was made in accordance with procedures established for compliance with Section 7 of the ESA and no adverse effects to federally-listed threatened or endangered species, designated critical habitats, or any other unique or sensitive resources are anticipated. The Oneida Tribal Environmental Department assisted in environmental review. The FONSI is predicated on the development conforming to all applicable laws, regulations, codes, ordinances, permits, permissions, stipulations, agreements, and best management practices. Utilities and water and sewer services should be installed in accordance with established codes and standards and overseen by the Ho-Chunk Nation and/or the Indian Health Service. If a commercial installer is chosen, they must be certified to put in the systems. Any clearing of the site may require a timber-cutting permit. Document Availability Comments: Interested parties can obtain copies of the FONSI and related NEPA documents, as well as submit comments to the above address, in care of the Branch of Natural Resources. Wanted: back issues of the Kalihwisaks

By Reggie Doxtater Historical Archivist

My name is Reggie Doxtater and I am the Historical Archivist. I have been collecting all the old issues of the Kalihwisaks printed and distributed to tribal members. The purpose of this collection is to create a digital archive of the Kalihwisaks to be used in our Oneida Research Center.

After speaking with the Kalihwisaks about these old issues, I was informed they do not keep old issues. They have some issues dating Library, back to 2001 and 2002, but nothing before that date. The Kalihwisaks is currently archiving all the current issues on the Oneida Webpage under the Tribal Paper link.

I have gathered all the copies from the Oneida Museum, Cultural Heritage, Land Claims Commission and Records Management to compile as complete a set of Kalihwisaks issues that I can. To date, I have 744 issues dating from 1974 – 2002. I believe there are several issues still missing from this collection.

It is also my understanding that Kalihwisaks was called the "Scout" before the creation Kalihwisaks. If there are issues of those out there, I would love to have those or make copies of those issues too.

If you have any old issues of the Kalihwisaks dating before 2002, please call me (920) 496-5390 at Cultural Heritage to verify we have that issue. If we don't have that issue, please consider donating it to complete the set. Like I mentioned, we have a lot of issues already. We are trying to obtain all the Kalihwisaks issues we don't have.

system, and commercial buildings could put rain gardens around parking lots.

"When you have a big parking lot, that's even more important when you think of all the runoff and harmful pollutants from cars and waste products," Galbraith.

The Conservation rain garden was planted last fall and is in full bloom in time for the annual Fall Fest being held Thursday, September 17.

"It attracts a lot of butterflies and songbirds," said Galbraith.

Mulch and dense plant growth help suppress weeds, and the garden needs little maintenance. However, gardeners will need patience and an open mind while waiting for blooms.

"It's not going to look a manicured flowerbed or lawn, but it's still beautiful and provides a lot of imporhabitat," tant Galbraith.

The Environmental Department has brochures available for people interested in starting a rain garden. Call 920-469-5330 for more information.

Boy's traditional dancer outfit class

The Oneida Housing Authority will be teaching traditional outfit making for boys ages 5 years and older starting Tuesday, September 15. Space is limited to 10 youth, parents must attend.

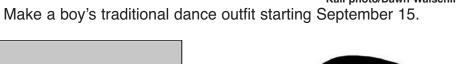

We will meet Tuesday and Thursday nights from 6:00pm to 8:00pm. The class will be held at Flying Leaf Community Center in Site II. Cost for this class will be $25.

On completion of their outfits, we will bring the dancers into the dance circle with an honor song at the 2010 Honor the Youth Powwow.

For more information, call Breezy at 920-869-6669.

Ride Report Kenneth "Ski" Kurowski

Padgett Joe Copperhead Patriot Guard Rider

On a beautiful but warm day, the Patriot Guard Riders gathered at Chandler-Jackson Funeral Home, 208 South Main Street, Abbeville SC, to show honor and respect to Kenneth Kurowski. There were twenty-five bikes and one flag wagon present. Patriot Guard Riders from all over Georgia and South Carolina arrived for the mission. We had four first timers at this mission. One Georgia rider reported that he had ridden 200 miles to be there.

At 10:30, the Ride Briefing was conducted. Unfortunately the family arrived 30 minutes early and the Flag Line had not been established. After the family had a private viewing, the Patriot Guard Riders were asked if anyone want to pay final respects to Mr. Kurowski. Many took advantage of the offer and entered the funeral home to individually render a hand salute to the deceased. The family had a final few moments with the minister and they were greeted by the Patriot Guard Riders standing tall and rendering honors to our fallen brother. All bikes rode escort with the funeral procession. We were lead by a personal friend of Mr. Kurowski to his home where a celebration of his life was conducted. Mr. Kurowski was a member of the Oneida tribe of Indians of Wisconsin. A ceremony called smudging was conducted with each person present and the speaker explained a little about the Native American culture. Mr. Kurowski's pastor then spoke and full military honors were rendered by members of the Marine Corps League. I would like to thank Georgia Ride Captain Art Robb for the use of his flags, PGR member Dennis Dupris for handling the Flag Wagon, RC's Randy Stevens and Wayne Lamon for their assistance and advise, Mentor Roger Fields for being there and helping the new members, Mr. Bruce Dupris for donating the water and all those who attended today to honor Novel H1N1 (referred to as "swine flu" early on) is a new influenza virus causing illness in people, which was first detected in people in the United States in April This virus is 2009. spreading from personto-person worldwide, probably in much the same way that regular seasonal influenza viruses spread. The World Organization Health (WHO) recently raised the pandemic alert to its highest level for the H1N1 virus. The alert has been raised because of the rapid spread of the disease and not the severity of the disease.

Spread of novel H1N1 virus is thought to occur in the same way that seasonal flu spreads and you have a role in spreading infections. A few simple ways to avoid illness include:

- a. Cover your nose and mouth when sneeze. Throw tissues away immediately, do not reuse a handkerchief.
- b. Wash hands frequently with soap and water. If unavailable, alcohol based rubs are also effective
- c. Avoid touching your mouth and nose as germs are spread this
- d. Stay home (keeping kids home) if you are

- e. Follow public health advice regarding closings, school avoiding crowds or other social events
- f. Make a personal emergency plan.
- g. Have an emergency kit stored
- h. Stay informed and be prepared

Decision to vaccinate will likely be made at the federal level in late-September. This information changes and is updated frequently but the latest recommendations for vaccine include:

- 1. Pregnant women
- 2. Household contacts of children aged younger than 6 months of age
- 3. Children and adults aged 6 months to 24 years
- 4. Healthcare and emergency workers
- 5. Individuals aged 25 to 64 years who have underlying conditions that put them at risk complications and/or hospitalizations from the A (H1N1) flu. (Some of the previous underlying conditions included: obesity, asthma, diabetes and chronic lung disease)

The Mass Clinic Planning Team has plans in place to offer H1N1 vaccine to community members in fall if released by drug manufacturers. Further information can be located on the following websites: www.cdc.gov/flu and www.flu.gov

Seasonal Flu and Novel H1N1 Flu 2009

Novel H1N1 virus. Pandemic. Swine Flu. Mass clinics. It's hard to listen to the news or radio without these words popping up on a daily basis. What do they mean? How does it affect me and my family? Why is this a big deal? These are basic questions that everyone is asking themselves.

Flu is an infectious illness that spreads from person to person, mainly through coughing and sneezing of the infected person. Sometimes people may become infected by touching something such as a surface or object – with flu viruses on it and then touching their mouth or nose. Symptoms include:

- Fever
- Chills
- Body aches
- Cough

- Sore throat
- Headache
- Occasionally, vomiting and diarrhea

Novel H1N1 (referred to as "swine flu" early on) is a new influenza virus causing illness in people. This new virus was first detected in people in the United States in April 2009. This virus is spreading from personto-person worldwide, probably in much the same way that regular seasonal influenza viruses spread. It is uncertain what the upcoming flu season might bring, therefore, Centers for Disease Control and Infection (CDC) and State of Wisconsin public health officials are urging seasonal flu vaccination clinics be moved earlier in the season and preparation efforts to plan additional clinics for H1N1 clinics in later fall. World Health Organization (WHO) recently raised the pandemic alert to its highest level for the H1N1 virus. The alert has been raised because of the rapid spread of the disease and not the severity of the disease.

Over the past few years, multiple departments within the Tribe have come to together to form the Mass Clinic Planning Team. We are compliant with these new recommendations and will be offering flu vacstarting September. We will be holding mass seasonal flu clinics again this year at the Oneida Nation Elementary School starting mid September. Please mark your calendar for one of the following dates:

- Wednesday, Sept. 16th, from 3:30-6:00pm
- Friday, Sept. 25th, from 7:30am-10:00am
- Monday, Oct. 5th from 11:30am-1:30pm

This will be a first come, first serve basis for seasonal influenza vaccine. Please wear a short sleeved shirt to access injection site. There will also be educational booths and professional staff available to answer any questions you may have in relation to this flu season or family preparedness. There is no cost associated with the flu vaccine for tribal members or employees. Please come and make comfortable yourself with the process as this will be utilized again if the H1N1 becomes pandemic in our area. If you are unable to make one the clinic times for your seasonal flu vaccine, you can also obtain the vaccine from your medical provider throughout the fall. Any questions can directed to Community Health Nursing Services at 920-869-4840.

Every two seconds, someone in this country needs blood.

- Only 5% of the eligible population give blood. The demand for blood is outpacing the available supply.
- Every day, the Red Cross must collect over 900 blood donations in our region to meet patients' needs.
- Every unit of blood can be separated into several components, helping save the lives of three or more patients.
- All blood types are needed constantly, but there is a special need for O negative, O positive and B negative blood.

We began our 2009 season by planting more than four acres of our heirloom white corn. Saturday, September 26 will begin our 16th annual Harvest and Husking Bee, and it will end the following Friday, October 2. Each day we welcome you to join us from 9:00am till 5:00pm as we thank our Mother Earth for providing us another wonderful harvest, and we continue with our responsibilities in caring for the corn. The corn is in two separate plots in our North fields. Our top field has an excellent stand, but we continue to struggle with our lower fields.

We will be trying different tactics to increase the production on our lower fields with fall plowing and more intensive tilling in the spring for those fields scheduled for our corn next year. The corn is never planted in the same field in the following year. We follow a rotational crop planting. We harvest all the corn so we can process it into our soups. dehydrated corn, mush, flour and bread. As many of you have heard, our Cannery had to stop production to allow conagain in October.

I tried to keep the staff on to help our community with their processing needs, and assist our program in the other components in Agriculture and Retail. However, I decided it was best for our program to lay off the staff until they could come back to full time status in the Cannery. I apologize for my earlier notice that we were going to continue with our scheduled Cannery work shops, but I have to cancel them. Cannery had originally planned to have workshops in August for Pickles, September for Tomato Juice, and October for Corn bread. These have all been cancelled. When we are up and running again, we hope to have some workshops over the wintertime for our white corn recipes and possibly products. However, upon returning from with this down time, our staff will be especially busy restock-
