OSGC sues Green Bay over permit being revoked

By Nate Wisneski

Kalihiwisa

The Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC) has sued the city of Green Bay after its city council revoked a conditional use permit for OSGC's renewable energy plant last month.

The plant, to be located at 1230 Hurlbut Street, received the conditional use permit from the city in March of 2011. It is designed to take municipal solid waste that would otherwise be placed into a landfill, sort it, and put nonhazardous, non-recyclable materials through a gasification process. It will generate power, which will be sold to Wisconsin Public Service.

"OSGC filed a lawsuit against the city of Green Bay after the city council's October 16 vote to rescind our conditional use permit to build our waste-to-energy facility in the city of Green Bay. The objective of the legal action is to effectively reverse the council's action as a demonstrably arbitrary and unreasonable act," said OSGC CEO Kevin Cornelius. The lawsuit claims the city council acted beyond its jurisdiction and asks for the conditional use permit to be restored, reimbursement of OSGC's statutory costs, attorney's fees, and expenses along with other relief the court deems just equitable. It will also look to hold the city liable for over $4 million in expenses related to the design, permitting, and construction process of the plant.

Oneida Veterans Memorial gets a cultural facelift

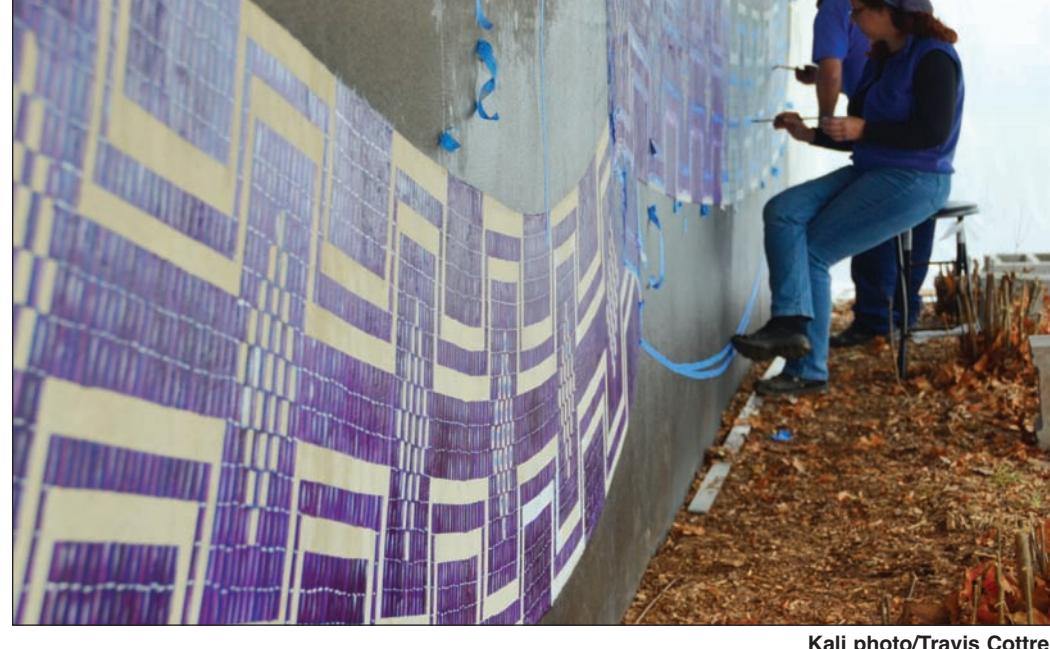

By Travis Cottrell

The Oneida Veterans Memorial Wall is getting a needed facelift, one that will extend the life of the installation and serve as a gateway into the Oneida community. The wall, which rests on the west side of Highway 54, will feature images from Oneida culture.

Michelle Danforth, Oneida Tourism Director, recognized the site as a possible tourism attraction and took the idea to the Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee.

"We first came up with a concept for the wall design

Ho-Chunk open office to serve needs of Green Bay tribal members

The Ho-Chunk Nation held an open house on Monday, November 5 for their satellite office in Green Bay. The office will provide meeting space along with services and information to members in the Green Bay area. The office is located at 1047 9th Street.

because it seemed to be just an unfinished cement wall. The wall is in a position where it acts as a gateway to the community from Green Bay and could serve as a tourist site. But it seemed to be not fully realized," Danforth said.

A design was created that featured wampum belt inspired ribbon that contains 50 diamonds instead of the traditional six-diamond design. The 50 diamonds represent the 50 fires of the Haudenosaunee council. The Oneida Nation logo and "Oneida Veteran's Memorial" will be painted along side the ribbon.

"I originally brought the plan to ONVAC, who approved it, and at the time they were having an all-veterans meeting so I pitched it to them. At the time they were looking to do something to the wall they just didn't what exactly. There were a couple other plans out there, one was to have large brass medallions of the branches of the military, but the problem was that the medallions were very expensive. This current plan was a lot less expensive which made it manageable so this could actually happen," said

Danforth.

The service medallions are still in the works for a more substantial display around the flagpoles to be built when the funds are available.

CemArt, a company that specializes in working safely with cement and large-scale projects, was hired to paint the design on the memorial.

"We looked for tribal businesses to do the work but there weren't any that specialized in painting concrete. Because it is a cement surface we have to be careful during the project because if the wrong stuff is used it could ruin the wall. So we went with CemArt for that reason," Danforth said.

Beside from the aesthetic reasons to spruce up the memorial wall was the fact that the original construction left the wall vulnerable to a high rate of weathering.

"The original design of the wall had these holes or pits in the concrete, by design, to represent the "imperfections of war". But what was happening was that water was getting into those areas, freezing and causing the wall to weather very quickly. So we sealed the entire wall and added one solid line to connect the plates displaying the different wars and bring out the timeline design a little more," Danforth explained.

The painting project is the first phase of the wall design, which will be completed sometime this fall. Phase two will be completed in the spring of 2013 and will feature an eagle statue that will be constructed on the far corner of the wall along with subtle purple flood lights that will bring out the design at night.

A sidewalk that runs the full length of the 175-foot wall is also being planned so that those who use wheelchairs, walkers, or have trouble walking on uneven ground can easily view the entire wall.

"So far from what I've seen the wall just has a finished, polished look and it serves as representation of who we are so that's why I think its important. For us it was either spend this money on signs, ads, or mail outs things like that or we could keep the money here in Oneida and build up our culture and community," Danforth said.

GTC petition denied at OBC meetingBy Dawn Walschinski

Kalihwiaks

Several veterans showed their support for former Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) Director Dale Wheelock at the Oneida Business Committee meeting held Wednesday, November 14.

Discussion over a General Tribal Council (GTC) petition submitted by Wheelock was complicated by the fact that Wheelock could not attend the meeting due to a Brown County issued restraining order that prevents him from entering the Norbert Hill Center where the meetings are held or being in the presence of OBC Chairman Ed Delgado.

The petition called for a GTC meeting to be held to determine if Delgado and Human Resources Area Manager Geraldine Danforth violated Oneida's Code of Ethics when Wheelock was put on administrative leave.

If found to be in violation, the possible result could mean the removal of Delgado as Chairman.

There was discussion on whether Wheelock's petition was valid as it could result in removal of an elected official. To call a GTC meeting, Oneida citizens need to gather at least 50 signatures, and Wheelock had 67. However, to remove an elected official, a citizen needs to gather 30 percent of the election turnout, or in this case 521 signatures. According to Chief Council Jo Anne House, calling for a GTC meeting was an attempt to circumvent the more onerous removal process.

"The petition calls for the removal ultimately of an elected official, therefore it's a removal petition," said House.

About seven people, most wearing veteran jackets, stood up throughout the discussion and spoke in support of Wheelock. Cletus Ninham requested that Wheelock be able to attend the meeting in order to explain his intentions.

"We're asking Dale to just come before this board for an explanation of what's going on," he said.

However, Delgado later expressed concern for his safety.

"I don't want to get shot," said Delgado.

The OBC voted to invalidate the petition. Later in the meeting, the OBC approved a limited waiver of sovereign immunity so that tribal employees could testify at an injunction hearing in Brown County on December 6 concerning the restraining order.

Retail Area Manager Michelle Doxtator reported to the OBC that they will be receiving buffalo on Friday, November 16 to replace those that died of dehydration over Labor Day weekend. Insurance covered the estimated $56,000 cost after the $2500 deductible. Retail also received approval to hire 24 employees for the new Oneida Market and One Stop on Larson Road which will open in December.

Under the Community Development Planning Committee, the OBC approved using $100,000 of excess funds from the Cora House Sewer Project and $270,000 from Community Events to go ahead with development of the Oneida Fishery Restoration. The project will convert a 14 acre sand pit into a tribal fisheries area.

The OBC approved the hiring of an intake coordinator for the Vocation Rehabilitation Program. The position would be 90 percent funded by a federal grant and would free up councilors to focus on their clients.

From 1A/OSGC sues Green Bay

The Oneida Business Committee supports the decision to move forward with the lawsuit. They are urging the city council to reconsider their position.

"The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) and our area business supporters are very disappointed," said OBC Chairman Ed Delgado. "This project has been reviewed and approved by the U.S. Department of Energy, Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Wisconsin DNR, Green Bay Planning Committee twice, and last year's city council. All of those agencies determined this plant will work and not negatively impact the health and safety of anyone or the environment."

Some disagree. Project critics feel the technology is untested and bound for failure, which in turn would lead to it polluting the area and releasing toxins into the atmosphere. Others were disappointed in the perceived lack of input gathered from community members during the initial permit granting process.

According to Delgado, failed attempts to get city council members to reconsider their positions leaves no other options.

"We're at this point because we've tried to get the city to reconsider their decision. We believe the decision was arbitrary and unreasonable. If we can't get them to change their stance, our only course is litigation," he said.

The plant has moved multiple times after finding temporary homes in the Town of Oneida, Village of Hobart, and Village of Ashwaubenon. The Town of Oneida location was not selected due to costs associated with running power line to the Wisconsin Public Service substation. The Village of Hobart location was changed due to the village's demands that the parcel of property the project was set to be on be removed from the trust application process and that the tribe waive its sovereign immunity in regards to the project. The village of Ashwaubenon location was moved after gathering community input and being approached by the City of Green Bay offered a location for the plant.

"Let's not politicize economic development in Green Bay. Let's fix this and move forward together," said Delgado.

Loretta Says... Chicken Coops and Chickens

Loretta Metoxen • Oneida Tribal Historian

Ongoing Kalihwisaks Column • Providing a connection to the past

Talking about chickens doesn't seem to be a very exciting subject—but it can be! When I was growing up on Second Ridge (now Seminary Road), every farmer, large or small, raised chickens for their own immediate use. Chickens lay eggs on a regular basis. Eggs are often a nourishing part of breakfast. They can be boiled in a few minutes and served in that manner for breakfast or they can be made into egg salad for tasty sandwiches. Boiled eggs are a major ingredient in potato salad. No cake is made without at least one egg. Angel food cake has twelve egg whites. Various pies, especially custard pies have several whole eggs. Meringues on lemon pies are made of egg whites.

We usually had 200 White Leghorns, so we could collect two pails of eggs a day. We could consume all the eggs we needed. The rest would be washed and placed in a 12-dozen size crate to be taken to Schroeder's General Merchandise store in Oneida for trade. Roast chicken on Sundays was a special treat. Dad would butcher two or three on Saturday. Butchering meant chopping their heads off. All of us, children included, had to clean the hens. Enough water was brought to a boiling point to pour over the chickens in a 5-gallon bucket or to douse them a couple of times to loosen the feathers. After removing all feathers possible, the hairs on the bird were singed over the open flame on the stove. Next, evisceration (gutting) took place, separating out the heart, gizzard and liver. The gizzard required special attention. I became proficient, at an early age, in dressing chickens.

The best flavored chickens were at least a year old—two years old would be better. Homemade chicken soup was always produced from older birds. We feasted on chicken soup with potato dumplings and chicken in gravy with baking powder dumplings. For fried chicken, Mom would cook the chicken first and then fry it in butter or cabbage and suspend them off the floor with binder twine so the chickens would be supplied with green stuff in winter. Often, Dad would leave the coop lights on so the hens would feed longer.

When Dad bought the farm from the Widow Stuckart, a low log chicken coop was present. It was so low that I could not stand up straight in it and it had an accumulation of years of manure. Dad set out a plan to build a new coop. With the help of neighbors, forms were built for the footings. Then, everyone pitched in to mix the cement. Small field stones were dropped in the cement that was poured in the footings from the wheelbarrows. I don't know how the size was determined. It seems to me that it was about 50 feet long by about 25 feet wide. Dad accumulated used lumber to nail to the 2 X 4s over which was applied drop siding. I had to pound out nails from the used lumber and straighten them, so they could be used again, if possible.

Uncle Carl and several of his boys helped finish the roofing job with cedar shingles. I remember the kegs of roofing nails. I helped lay all the shingles. Half of this building was the chicken coop. The other half was a blacksmith shop, horse barn or heifer barn depending on the need at the time. Doves liked to nest in the straw loft above the chickens.

Animals like chickens, too. Dogs may get in the habit of eating them. A farmer will shoot a dog that does this or robs the nests of eggs because once a dog gets this easy meal, it will not stop. Fox, weasels and mink are notorious for killing chickens in their coops at night. Occasionally, a pine snake would be curled up in a nest. Pine snakes eat eggs and baby chicks.

In 1967, I bought 200 day old chicks. When fed and watered well, they grow quickly into fryers in about 4 or 5 months. When big enough, I butchered 40 in a day, cleaned and dressed them, using two connected wash tubs. I had to pump the water from the spring for this operation. When finished, I prepared them all for freezing to be placed in a rented locker in Freedom because I did not have a freezer. These chickens were White Rocks, a meatier bird than Leghorns.

There are all kinds of chickens. The smaller bantams or bantys raise themselves. They will hide their nests and then come out with their brood in twenty one days. That's how long it takes to hatch chicken eggs. Rhode Island Reds, White and Barred Rocks all lay brown eggs. Leghorns lay white eggs. Some chickens called Aranaucas lay blue and green eggs. There is no difference in their nutritional value. A chicken can be set when she starts "clucking". About 15 to 20 eggs can be placed in her nest. She will regularly roll the eggs to keep them uniformly warm. Ducks will hatch in 24 days.

It is impossible to purchase a frying chicken or a roasting chicken at the supermarket today of the same quality that we had when we raised our own. Even those chickens that are advertised as being raised on Amish farms do not meet the mark of those we raised ourselves.

Help Your Child Succeed in School: Build the Habit of Good Attendance Early

School success goes hand in hand with good attendance!

DID YOU KNOW?

- Starting in kindergarten, too many absences can cause children to fall behind in school.
- Missing 10 percent (or about 18 days) can make it harder to learn to read.
- Students can still fall behind if they miss just a day or two days every few weeks.
- Being late to school may lead to poor attendance.
- Absences can affect the whole classroom if the teacher has to slow down learning to help children catch up.

Attending school regularly helps children feel better about school—and themselves. Start building this habit in preschool so they learn right away that going to school on time, every day is important. Good attendance will help children do well in high school, college, and at work.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

- Set a regular bed time and morning routine.
- Lay out clothes and pack backpacks the night before.
- Find out what day school starts and make sure your child has the required shots.
- Introduce your child to her teachers and classmates before school starts to help her transition.
- Don't let your child stay home unless she is truly sick. Keep in mind complaints of a stomach ache or headache can be a sign of anxiety and not a reason to stay home.
- If your child seems anxious about going to school, talk to teachers, school counselors, or other parents for advice on how to make her feel comfortable and excited about learning.
- Develop back-up plans for getting to school if something comes up. Call on a family member, a neighbor, or another parent.
- Avoid medical appointments and extended trips when school is in session.

When Do Absences Become a Problem?

Note: These numbers assume a 180-day school year.

Greg Matson
Vice-Chairman

Greetings Peoples,

Money In The Bank....

Let's look at the rez as a bank then let's look at our resources as money. Now...think about it, we got "MONEY IN THE BANK".

The problem is that we are not looking at it this way... we tend to look at it as if the only way we can raise money is through gaming or hotels. The way we need to look at it is by creating the opportunity for our resources to contribute to the effort of raising our financial resources. Let me give some examples...we train our youth and team them with our experienced skilled labor and we can not only save money but we begin to compete in the local market and create a venue...that's "MONEY IN THE BANK".

The Land

That's "MONEY IN THE BANK" let's say we look at our land differently. Let's lease the land with a stipulation...only lease to individuals that are growing what we need. I.e.; tomatoes, potatoes, beans, squash, corn, etc...we then create a market place for these products after we address our own needs with a reasonable profit instead of a questionably high price. We are then filling our needs without loss and we sell to the market that's "MONEY IN THE BANK".

The Need

We need to educate our students based upon what we need...bus drivers, truck drivers, veterinarians, potato chip makers, natural soft drink manufacturers, natural medicine producers, and on and on. Anything we use, we should be producing...that's MONEY IN THE BANK.

Please...someone tell me why this doesn't make sense? Why can't we make sense to make cents? I keep hearing some of my fellow Council members making statements that reflect...the tribal membership has too much entitlement. They say we need to bring in outside help to address our needs in creating diversity to our economy. They seem to feel that we are no longer capable of addressing our own needs. I don't believe this to be true. I believe we can do anything as individuals or as a group if we put our minds together in a good way. I believe that there is a challenge out there for all of us to work together in a good way with a good mind...including members both over 21 and under 21 years old. A challenge exists for GTC to step-up... be part of visioning and let's create a community economy that we need and not allow a few people to make the decisions for you. They may only move forward what they want. Who can you blame then?

Wise Strategic Choices

We have challenges in the immediate opportunities before us all. We must choose wisely in these strategic decisions. Your voice thru a phone call, email, attendance AND participation at a meeting or petition from both those over 21 and under 21 years old remain key in our BC dialogue/communication as your BC to represent you and your needs and the future.

"The future is in all of our hands." We need to choose wisely and we welcome your intelligent voice in these matters.

OBC Forum...

Shekólih,

For this article I would like to share my perspective with you on two upcoming important meetings, the first is the General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting on Monday, November 19, 2012 and the second is two GTC work meetings, scheduled for December 17 & 18, 2012.

On Monday, November 19, you will be asked to make decisions on 6 different petition items: 1. to dismiss court costs assigned in the amount of $2,300; 2. Determine if GTC meetings should be held only within the reservation boundaries; 3. Review and decide on a higher GTC stipend with regularly scheduled meetings in lieu of per capita payments (except elderly and youth); 4. Direct the BC to implement a new complaint process for Childcare; 5. Reduce rent charged by the Oneida Housing authority by 33%; and 6. Return maintenance of poplar lane to the Town of Oneida. Each of these petitions will impact Oneida in various ways including: policy or law changes, financial impacts to operations and our right to exercise our sovereignty.

We know we are not all going to agree on every issue being brought before us, but I am asking that each of us to take the time to read the packet and ask your questions. For example, the petition sponsored by me (holding GTC meetings on reservation) is to ensure you, the GTC, are the ones who get to decide if holding GTC meetings off the reservation is what you want. As explained in the packet you received, when the decision was first made to hold a GTC meeting at Shopko Hall, many tribal members considered this option unacceptable and in about 4 hours, 85 signatures were collected to ensure you had a right to

Melinda Danforth

voice your opinion about this matter before the GTC and I agreed to be the sponsor of the petition so that your thoughts on this issue could be heard by everyone. Regarding the childcare petition, there was an investigation done by the Audit Committee on the concerns brought forward by the parents; however, a summary of the results of that investigation were not included in the packet so you do not have the information readily available to you for the GTC meeting. Thoroughly understanding the request before us is only one part of the equation; the second is ensuring your voice is heard in future plans as well.

On Dec. 17 & 18, we will all have the opportunity to participate in developing and/or affirming the tribe's vision for the future. The sessions will be held at the Radisson Hotel & Conference center from 4pm - 9pm each day. I encourage you all to participate, this will be a great opportunity to dialogue about how you see our reservation (physical environment), our services and economy for the next 5, 10, 15 + years.

From this visioning session, the BC will be able to better understand your thoughts about where we are at now and where you would like us to go in the future so that as we develop the tribe's annual budget, our priorities in those budgets reflect what your thoughts are.

Finally, with the gun deer season starting this weekend, I want to wish all the hunters a safe, healthy and bountiful time. The deer hunting season is a time for member in our community to provide sustenance for our families and create memories that will last a lifetime – good luck everyone!

OBC Forum...

I hope this time of the year finds you in great health and good spirits. I have spent the last couple of weeks continuing my work on housing and economic development matters and the site selection of the SEOTS facility.

As the Community Development Planning Committee (CDPC) Chair, my office has worked on solidifying a contract with a consultant who will bring forth action plans for housing development initiatives for the Reservation. These initiatives will include bringing forth several recommendations on various types of housing projects which will not be solely reliant on any single funding source.

Over the last three months I have been working diligently to try and get the SEOTS building for the Milwaukee Oneidas completed. This is a project that started, according to many, some three years ago in the planning stages and yet the selection of the site location has yet to be finalized. Unfortunately, the dream of a new facility has been daunting rather than liberating. I have been proposing a campus style feel for SEOTS, one where we can bring in resources that are not only valuable to the Native American community but also generate rental revenue to help sustain the SEOTS programs.

At the November 8,

2012, CDPC meeting there was supposed to be a finalized discussion to get the ball rolling on the completion of the SEOTS building. We needed to forge a long-range vision over the next few weeks around a dynamic campus style setting for SEOTS and multiple interconnected opportunities (housing, jobs, etc.). There were many possibilities but none of that now seems within our grasp. Instead of final decisions at the CDPC meeting, there was criticism directed at those that were trying to get something done and more unnecessary delays. Delays were chosen over performance and viable solutions were ignored. The dots were not connected and as a result we avoided the straight path towards a solution. It is unfortunate that we are now back to square one. The delays have resulted in lost opportunity, wasted efforts, a higher cost to the Oneida people all while leaving a feeling of an overbearing sense of disservice to the Oneida people.

Vince DelaRosa

This project has been a stain on our leadership as we sit here talking in circles about a square building. While there are hundreds of other important issues to deal with here there now appears to be another endorsement to go in yet another series of concentric circles. Who could imagine entering the fourth year of discussion on building a new building that has already been supported?

Needless to say, the last couple of weeks have been extremely frustrating but as one of your leaders but I will continue to fight for what is right and look forward to your feedback on these matters.

Respectively,
Vince DelaRosa

Public Hearing Notices

11:30AM • Norbert Hill Center (BCCR)

December 6, 2012Purpose:
Adoption of the General Tribal Council Meetings Law

The General Tribal Council Meetings Law (Law) creates a schedule of General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting dates; sets a general agenda for those meetings; outlines the petition process; sets standards of conduct for meeting attendees; and outlines the duties of those who help prepare for and assist with GTC meetings. The Law requires that at least four GTC meetings be held each year (annual, semi-annual, and 2 special meetings). In addition to these four meetings, a budget meeting is also required to be held as necessary. Additional GTC meetings can be called in accordance with the Constitution – by the Tribal Chairman or through petition. The Law limits GTC meeting attendees to those individuals who are: (1) enrolled Tribal members who are eligible to vote or (2) non-enrolled individuals who have a business-related need to attend the meeting and are approved by GTC.

The process includes analyses of the petition being conducted, deadlines for when a petition must be presented to the GTC and required communication between the petitioner and the Tribal Secretary's Office. A petition received at least sixty days before a GTC meeting will be placed on the upcoming GTC meeting agenda; the petition must be considered by GTC within six months after it is submitted. GTC meeting attendees are required to be respectful and of others, be free from the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs, and remain in compliance with Tribal law – anyone violating these provisions may be removed from a GTC meeting.

December 6, 2012Purpose:
Adoption of the Public Use Land Law

The Public Use of Tribal Land Law (Law) was developed to prevent the improper access, use and trespass to Tribal lands. Under the Law, the Environmental Resource Board would be responsible for adopting a Land Access Map which will clearly define whether Tribal land is:

- open to all persons
- limited to those persons who have a lease or permit to use the land; or

- limited to Tribal members, their spouses and descendants; members of other federally recognized tribes; authorized employees of the Tribe; or individuals who are accompanied by a Tribal member, or the spouse or descendant of a Tribal member.

In addition, the Environmental Resource Board would hold public hearings before amending the Land Access Map. This public hearing process is similar to the process used by the Land Commission to rezone property or amend district boundary lines under the Zoning and Shoreland Protection Law. The Law also defines trespass by describing activities that are a violation of the Law. Violators of the Law will be subject to a fine and the Environmental Resource Board will conduct hearings for anyone who choose to contest a fine issued under the Law.

December 6, 2012Purpose:
Amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy

The purpose of the amendments to the Independent Contractor Policy is to regulate the hiring of persons to complete work in order to minimize the costs of independent contractors. The proposed amendments to the Law are as follows:

- Authorizing, and identifying specific situations where a Tribal employee or a business owned by a Tribal employee may be utilized by the Tribe as an independent contractor.

- Clarifying that this Policy does not apply to elected or appointed Tribal officials or employees of Tribally-chartered corporations; it just applies to internal employees.

- Deleting an order of preference (i.e. Tribal members first, Tribal member spouses second, etc.) to be used in selecting independent contractors.

Instead, the Policy requires the order of preference set out in the Tribe's Indian Preference Law to be applied.

-Deleting numerous procedural requirements that appear to be more appropriate as departmental Stand Operating Procedures or internal rules and guidelines.

December 6, 2012Purpose:
*Amendments General Tribal Council MeetingStipend Payment Policy

The purpose of the amendments to the General Tribal Council Meeting Stipend Payment Policy (Policy) is to fulfill the resolution passed by General Tribal Council (GTC) on November 21, 2011 which directed:

- General Tribal Council meetings be limited to members age 21 or over until a meeting facility that holds 2,500 or more people can be identified
- Tribal members who leave the ballroom area and related bathroom facilities during the General Tribal Council meeting are not eligible for a meeting stipend.

The proposed amendments would also update and streamline the Policy to allow flexibility in the processes of how eligibility for stipend payments is determined and how stipend payments are made.

Public Hearing Process Testimony:

Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.

Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or Tonya Boucher, Legislative Reference Office at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

If you would like to obtain a copy of the above proposed law or have any questions as to the public hearing process you may contact Tonya Boucher at the Legislative Reference Office, via GroupWise tboucher@oneidonation.org Or call 1-800-236-2214 or 920-869-4240. Tech Support Staff recognized

One dozen tech support employees were acknowledged during an appreciation luncheon at the Skenandoah Complex on October 18th. Julie Eckberg, Tech Support Specialist II, felt it was necessary to recognize the additional staff who came on board less than five years ago.

"Know that you are appreciated", said Eckberg as she pointed them out.

MIS has 55 employees between Gaming and Enterprise MIS. Following is a breakdown:

- 4 Customer Service Center
- 2 Administrators
- 8 Managers/Supervisors
- 13 Desktop Support
- 10 Networking
- 10 Programming
- 3 Telcom
- 2 Operations
- 3 BSA's

The most recent staff were asked to express what drew them to the MIS field. Their feedback was positive and is as follows:

Elvis Bartlett:
Desktop Support

I have always had an attraction to computers even as a kid I would scrap and rebuild old computer and electronic systems. I have been working in the MIS department for about 6 months. I decided to apply with the tribe because I felt indebted to the Tribe for paying for my education. My plan has always been to become an educated professional and bring my skill set back to the Oneida Tribe.

Jason W. Doxtator:
Supervisor of Networking

What drew me to MIS? – While working at the Brown County jail as a Corrections Officer, I saw a computer technician working on a computer and I thought, "Hey, that looks like fun." So I decided on a career change into the IT Field, specifically Computer Networking. So I went back to school to complete my Associates Degree in Computer Network Systems and my Bachelor's Degree in Information Systems Security.

Having worked for Oneida previously, I knew overall, it was a good place to work. I felt a sense of duty to Oneida. I felt that I owed it to Oneida to come back and work for them since they paid for my education.

I started out in the MIS Department as a Student Intern and in my time as an intern, I really enjoyed all of the different technologies we got to work with and all of my co-workers were very friendly and extremely helpful. Over the years, I have been able to work in some different areas of the MIS Department and have thoroughly enjoyed overcoming the challenges that have been presented.

Josephine Skenandore:
MIS – Client Server Programmer

I started out working in the billing department in my twenties and had to learn the Billing software.

I caught on to it so well I ended up teaching others within our department. This was the beginning of my interest in software, now I work as a System Analyst for all types software and I enjoy what I do.

Jason Mielke
Oneida Nation Gaming MIS

I have always enjoyed working on PC's, from the very first part I switched out. I was then hooked on how computers worked ever since.

Jeremiah Pelky
MIS – Customer Service Center

I was interested in MIS because of my passion for computers, and my enjoyment in troubleshooting and solving problems. Now that I've been here for nearly a year, I don't want to leave. I love the pursuit of progression and the prevalence of teamwork throughout the department.

Forrest Pelky
MIS – Client Server Programmer

Per your article, technology has always been a part of my life. It's actually helped defined me as a person. Growing up I was always the tech, geek, or whatever, but everyone knew that a tech question should probably pass my ears. So naturally, when I wanted to give back to our community I knew that working for MIS was the way. I could repay all the opportunities that being a part of our tribe had given me with my expertise.

I caught on to it so well I ended up teaching others within our department. This was the beginning of my interest in software, now I work as a System Analyst for all types software and I enjoy what I do.

Jason Mielke
Oneida Nation Gaming MIS

I have always enjoyed working on PC's, from the

Elizabeth Holl
MIS Gaming Desktop Support Specialist

I went into MIS for the challenge. Puzzles and solving problems were always interesting. Couple that with my love of technology and here I am.

Tony Doxtator
Systems Administrator

I am a graduate of ITT Technical College where I received an Associates

Degree in Computer Networking Systems. I have been with MIS for 6 years and am currently pursuing certifications to further my career with Oneida. One of the things that makes my job interesting is trying to keep up with the latest and greatest technologies, it keeps the job challenging and exciting.

Mike Mousseau
Systems Administrator

I've had an interest in IT early on in high school and it continued after I graduated by attending NWTC and completing the Network Specialist program. The complexity of the technology is what's draws me to it, I enjoy solving puzzles and not having the same repetitive job duties day after day and working in IT is the perfect fit! Everyday there's something new, something different, always evolving and never stays the same for very long.

The Prize of Freedom

On November 11, we honor our veterans for their unwavering service and sacrifice. This Year of the Veteran we commemorate, acknowledge, and affirm the contributions made by our veterans to secure the liberties we continue to enjoy.

Veterans served with courage and honor. But why were they willing to fight? They served because they believe not that war is good, but that sometimes it is necessary. They served not for the glory of war, but for the prize of freedom.

Who were these men and women who fought for the prize of freedom?

I read with great appreciation just a few days ago of one such individual who, like so many, went to war not knowing if he would come back. He dared risk it all for the prize of freedom.

James Des Jardins, Green Bay, was a young fighter pilot whose plane was shot down in the German countryside in November 1944. He had been Missing in Action since. Just days ago, after all of these years, James Des Jardins was identified and his remains were returned to his family, a family that 68 years earlier had mourned and buried his older brother, also a pilot shot down during World War II. But this day, the day when James returned home, it was a day of celebration, not just for James' homecoming, but for everything he sacrificed to defend. His family celebrated the gift James left for them: freedom.

Einar Ingman, Kewaskum, was an Army corporal who served in Korea. When the leaders of the two leading squads of the assault platoon of his company were wounded during a mission, he assumed command and combined the squads. He then located and charged an enemy machine gun that was attacking his men and threw a grenade at it. He killed the remaining crew with his rifle. He charged a second enemy machine gun. He was hit by grenade fragments and gunfire and seriously wounded. Before falling unconscious, he killed the entire enemy guncrew, compelling the remaining hostile troops to retreat. For his valor and actions beyond the call of duty, Ingman received the highest military honor, the Medal of Honor. Next week the Department will celebrate the gift of freedom. Corporal Ingman gave us as we unveil a monument at the Wisconsin Veterans Home at King to Wisconsin's 62 Medal of Honor recipients.

These are just two stories of selflessness and gallantry among thousands, stories of men and women who revered freedom. They defended our right to live in peace. And they deserve to be celebrated.

So this year, let's celebrate the nearly 400,000 veterans living in Wisconsin and those who are no longer with us. Let's celebrate the men and women who stood up for you and me. They have made our world safer, more democratic, more peaceful. They defeated the forces of fascism, imperialism, and terrorism. This is the prize of freedom.

Today, and every day, let us celebrate the Wisconsin men and women who have served our country, appreciate their sacrifices, and take a moment to honor the legacy of these heroes and especially those who made the ultimate sacrifice.

John A. Scocos is the Secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs. He is an Iraq War veteran.

Remembering a Friend

Shako.li,

It troubles me to read of a friend of mine that has passed on recently.

I wish to express my condolences to the family of Richard A. Baird or as I grew to know him "Charlie Brown".

I'll always remember him as a good friend who used to go roller skating with me and fixing our bicycles together as kids. May the Great Spirit carry you and welcome you. Rest in Peace, my friend. I'll miss you.

Oneida Housing Authority Audit

In the October 4, 2012 issue of the Kalihwisaks, Oneida Tribal Chairman Ed Delgado reported there are problems at OHA.

On October 15, 2012 Lou Ann Green and I went up to the third floor of the Norbert Hill center to read the audit. What we saw was shocking.

The audit reporter that 100 water heaters were ordered but 20 were missing. This represented a loss of $20,500. In another finding, 145 furnaces were ordered where only 111 units needed furnaces. An infra-red camera had been ordered to the tune of $7,675. It was missing. There was no accounting as to which homes the water heaters and furnaces went in to.

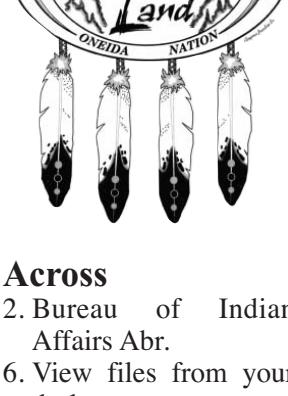

If you want to read the audit yourself, call the Norbert Hill Center and ask for the Internal Audit Department and set up a date and time. Write the Audit Chair Brandon Stevens and request to see the audit at that time and date. If you are shy about going by yourself, take a friend with you.

A big thank you to Chairman Ed Delgado for informing the people and not allowing a cover-up.

Kolitsch gained work experience at Packers internship

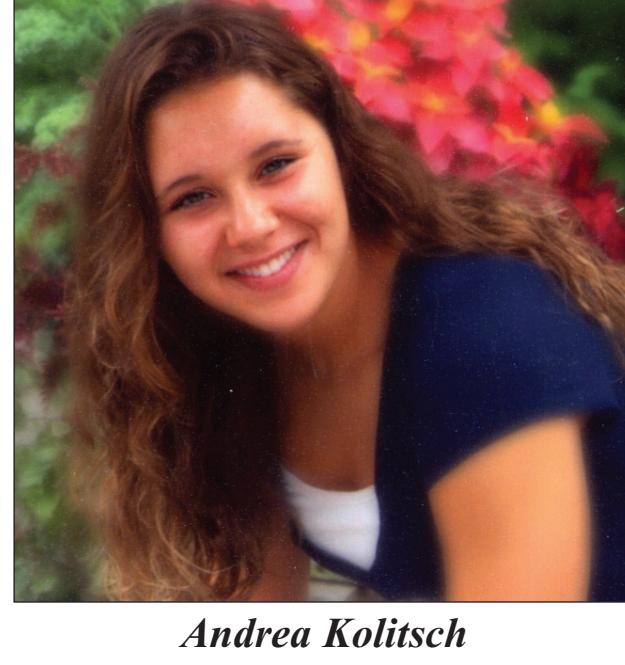

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwiaks

When Andrea Kolitsch returned to the University of Wisconsin-Lacrosse for her sophomore semester this fall, she had a unique experience to share thanks to her internship with the Packers during their spring training.

"I learned how big the Packers organization is and how many people are involved in it," said Kolitsch. "Watching the Packers play on TV, you wouldn't think about how many people are involved in making the Packers organization so successful."

Kolitsch received the internship through a program offered by the Packers to the Oneida Nation for the first time this year. Manager of Partnership Services Sara Webb saw the internship as a way to extend the two entities partnership.

"(The Oneida Nation is) a little different than some of our other partners. We thought it made sense and we thought it was a good opportunity for both parties," said Webb. "We look at it as an experience builder for typically college aged students or people who have just graduated. It gives them some experience in real life work situations."

Kolitsch helped with setting up displays, giving tours to Packer sponsors, and helping to entertain the sponsors during spring training practices. She had an opportunity to get to know some of the fans.

"There was this one old man who he was a season ticket holder since like the beginning of the Packers, and it's really cool to talk to someone like that. Wow, you're like part of history," she said.

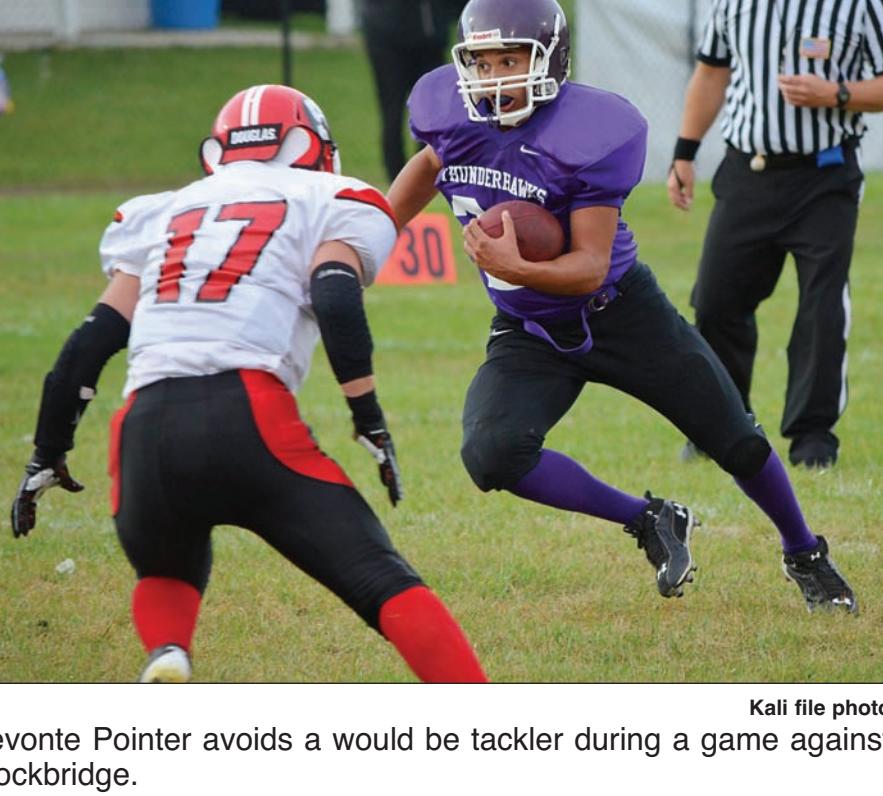

Kelly Popple worked with the interns and said

Kolitsch was a very easy going person to work with.

"She was always just willing to help wherever needed, always was offering to come and help on those special events. If we needed extra bodies, she was always willing to be here," she said.

Webb looks forward to extending the internship opportunity to Oneida next year.

"(Kolitsch) did a great job for us. She worked really hard and we're looking forward to working with Oneida in the future on other training camp interns," said Webb.

Pointer new career rushing record holder

By Nate Wisneski

Records are made to be broken. The career rushing record at the Oneida Nation High School was the latest to fall.

Thunderhawk quarterback Devonte Pointer holds the new record after finishing his two-year career with 1,000 rushing yards. He also ran for 11 touchdowns and threw for seven this past season as his first year as the starting quarterback. He was named the teams Offensive Player of the Year.

"He's a hard nosed runner that doesn't go down after first contact," said Thunderhawks head coach Bryan Peterson. "He's so smart."

When you ask Pointer about some of his favorite plays from last season, you see that Peterson wasn't lying.

"One play I threw a guy and ran for 15 more yards, then I spun around a guy," Pointer said.

All conference teams have not yet been announced yet but expectations are high for the new record holder.

I am pretty sure Devonte will finish first team all conference," Peterson said. "I can't see why not."

Pointer new the record was close and also had other lofty goals.

"I wanted to get 100 yards every game and set the rushing record coming into the season," said Pointer.

He did both, averaging a robust 142 yards a game and smashing the career rushing record by 169 yards. This was done with Pointer missing 2 1/2 games during the season.

He probably would have destroyed the record if he didn't miss those games," Peterson said.

With the season over, Pointer is now able to look back at his accomplishment.

"It feels pretty good. People say they are going to break my record. I tell them to try their best," he said.

"No one is really close," he is quick to add.

Thunderhawks eye season with roster depth

As the month of November rolls in the cold weather the high school basketball season gets set to tipoff. This season the Oneida Thunderhawks will have something the basketball team hasn't had in quite some time; depth.

The T-hawks will suit up 14 players this season. Four returning players, three of which are seniors, in addition to ten new players will construct the 2012-2013 varsity team.

This newfound depth will provide some new challenges for Head Coach Scott Murray.

"We have four returning and ten new guys. It is the largest roster I've had during my time here and it's exciting. But the new players present a challenge. We changed the way we approach practice, we start out with a lot of fundamentals rather than getting right into actual game situations. We will start out with the development of the fundamentals and get them on track that way," Murray said.

But as the season approaches the returning seniors are prepared to do what it takes to get the team moving in the right direction.

"I am looking forward to working with new players that I haven't worked with before and that makes it a new experience because you don't know how other players play. As a senior leader I need to be more of a leader, help each other out and just work harder to get better," said senior guard Devonte Pointer.

As a team the top goal on the list for the upcoming season is to match the success of last year's squad.

"My main goal for my senior year is to win more games than we did last year and improve our chemistry," said senior Diego Metoxen.

"My goal is to make us better than last year. We had 17 wins last season and I think we can beat that, at least by one," added senior Mike Mills.

Having a large roster may come with new challenges, but depth is a good problem to have when it comes to basketball.

"The new depth does help the team because the one thing that makes you better is competition. In the past when you only have eight guys you can't even go five on five, now it's battle royale. I told the team, including the seniors, that it's open season. Everyone has to earn their spot. So now with the numbers it creates competition and that's a good thing," said Coach Murray.

The prospect of being a competitive basketball team has the Oneida players excited to get the season started. The boy's basketball season will begin on Tuesday, November 20 against Menominee.

Hunters: Remember Firewood Rules

MADISON — The Department reminds Wisconsin hunters heading out to deer camp to use firewood where they are camping or to purchase wood from a certified dealer. This is crucial so that hunters do not bring emerald ash borer (EAB) or gypsy moth into the woodland area through their firewood, which could destroy those woods or those nearby.

"EAB and gypsy moth are two of the most destructive forest pests in North America. Add in oak wilt and other diseases and you have a real risk of losing a lot of trees where you hunt," says Melody Walker, chief of the Pest Survey program at the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection. "The deer that like to graze on acorns on your land might not be around if the trees that produced those acorns are dead and gone."

It is illegal to move firewood out of areas that are quarantined for either of those insect pests, because the wood could be harboring eggs or immature insects called larvae. Pests and diseases that kill trees can move from place to place on firewood. EAB and gypsy moth, as well as other pests, can easily survive Wisconsin winters.

Fifty-one counties in Wisconsin are quarantined for one or both pests. A map showing the quarantined counties is available online: <http://datcp.wi.gov/uploads/Plants/pdf/CertifiedFirewoodDealers.pdf>. Although firewood can be moved within the quarantine area, it is best to buy it where you are camping or from certified dealers.

Remember:

- Gather or buy your firewood at your destination.
- Use all the firewood you obtain and don't take any home with you.
- Consider buying firewood from state-certified dealers. A list is available at (<http://datcp.wi.gov/uploads/Plants/pdf/CertifiedFirewoodDealers.pdf>)
- If camping on DNR-managed land, firewood cannot come from more than 25 miles away unless it is state-certified.

Additional information about EAB and gypsy moth can be found online at www.emeraldashborer.wi.gov or at www.gypsymoth.wi.gov

Review Online Coupons Carefully

MADISON — Consumers who sign up for emails from daily deal websites are offered products, services, meals and travel at heavily discounted rates. The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP) advises consumers to do their research on the service provider prior to clicking the purchase button.

For example, Wisconsin consumers have complained about chimney cleaning services that were purchased through Groupon from a company called Fireplace Doctor. According to Groupon, more than 270 consumers in Milwaukee purchased the deal.

Despite being a Florida-based company, Fireplace Doctor advertised its services on the website under the names "The Fireplace Doctor of Madison" and "The Fireplace Doctor of Milwaukee."

Many consumers confused Fireplace Doctor with a legitimate local business with a similar name. Among complaints received by consumers who purchased the deal are claims of homes left in a filthy state after a chimney cleaning and a consumer who paid $350 but received no services.

If you use daily deal websites, follow these tips:

Read the fine print.

Make sure you read the terms of the deal and that you understand any redemption restrictions.

Look for reliable merchants. Research the company you intend to buy from. Call the Wisconsin

Consumer Protection Hotline at 800-422-7128 to find out if we have received consumer complaints against the business.

Is it really a deal? Verify that the offer actually is a good value by comparing prices for similar services or merchandise on other websites or by calling around to competitors. Consider the cost of tips if the deal is for a service and shipping if you are purchasing a product.

Be aware that some companies have difficulties fulfilling their deals when demand is high, so know that you may have shipping delays or find yourself competing with other purchasers for available time slots for services and classes.

Know your daily deal site. These sites differ in how and when they charge consumers for their purchases and how they handle refunds and returns.

Keep your receipt and copies of any communications. If you have problems with a daily deal site or with the service provider, ask to speak with a manager about your problem. Document the interactions. If you are unable to come to a resolve and you choose to file a complaint with the Consumer Protection Bureau, this documentation will be important for your case.

For more information or to file a consumer complaint, visit datcp.wisconsin.gov, send an e-mail to datcphotline@wisconsin.gov or call the hotline toll-free at 1-800-422-7128.

The Medicare age is still 65

Distributed By Ken Hess

Social Security Public Affairs Specialist for Wisconsin

If you're in your sixties, you probably know that the age to receive full retirement benefits has changed. But it's important to remember that the age to begin receiving Medicare has not — it is still 65. Even if you have decided to wait until after you are age 65 to apply for retirement benefits, most people should start getting Medicare coverage at age 65.

If you would like to begin your Medicare coverage when you first become eligible, we suggest that you apply within three months of reaching age 65. You can do it online in as little as 10 minutes at www.socialsecurity.gov/medicareonly.

At the website, you'll find more than just the online Medicare application. You'll also find information about Medicare, and have the opportunity to watch some short videos about applying for Medicare online. One is a family reunion for the cast of The Patty Duke Show. In another, Patty Duke and George Takei go boldly where you should be going — online.

Why go online to apply for Medicare? Because it's fast, easy, and secure. You don't need an appointment and you can avoid waiting in traffic or in line.

As long as you have ten minutes to spare, you have time to complete and submit your online Medicare application.

People who started receiving Social Security retirement or disability benefits before age 65 do not need to apply; they will be automatically enrolled in Medicare.

There is no additional charge for Medicare hospital insurance (Part A) since you already paid for it by working and paying Medicare tax. However, there is a monthly premium for medical insurance (Part B). If you already have other health insurance when you become eligible for Medicare, you should consider whether you want to apply for the medical insurance. To learn more about Medicare and some options for choosing coverage, read the online publication, Medicare, at www.socialsecurity.gov/pubs/10043.html or visit www.Medicare.gov.

To learn more about applying for Medicare only using the online application, please visit www.socialsecurity.gov/medicareonly.

Your Social Security statement is a gift to yourself

Distributed By Ken Hess

Social Security Public Affairs Specialist for Wisconsin

It's very likely that during the holiday season you've been spending a bit of time and money getting gifts for everyone on your shopping list. Why not take a moment and give yourself a holiday gift? I have a suggestion, and while it won't cost you a penny, it could be one of the best (and easiest) financial steps you ever take for your future.

Give yourself the gift of your own Social Security Statement. You can get yours online at www.socialsecurity.gov/mystatement.

The online Social Security Statement is simple, easy to use, and provides estimates you can use to plan for your retirement. It also provides estimates for disability and survivors benefits, making the Statement an important financial planning tool.

Your Statement also allows you to determine whether your earnings are accurately posted to your Social Security records. This feature is important because Social Security benefits are based on average earnings over your lifetime.

To get a personalized online Statement, you must be age 18 or older and must be able to provide information about yourself that matches information already on file with Social Security. In addition, Social Security uses Experian, an external authentication service provider, for further verification. You must provide identifying information and answer security questions in order to pass this verification.

Social Security will not share your Social Security number with Experian, but the identity check is an important part of this new, thorough verification process.

When your identity is verified, you can create a "My Social Security" account with a unique user name and password to access your online Statement.

In addition, your online Statement includes links to information about other online Social Security services, such as applications for retirement, disability, and Medicare.

This holiday season, it's likely you'll be hearing some of your friends and family saying "you shouldn't have" as they receive their gifts from you. That's something to look forward to. But be sure that you don't find yourself saying "I should have" when it comes to planning your own financial future. Get your online Social Security Statement and look it over. Continue to look it over yearly. It may be the best gift you can give to yourself in the long run.

Your free gift is waiting at www.socialsecurity.gov/mystatement.

How "Ticket to Work" helped Terry Anderson build a better life

Distributed By Ken Hess

Social Security Public Affairs Specialist for Wisconsin

The summer of 2007 felt like a bad dream for Terry Anderson. Reeling from a recent cancer diagnosis, she was downsized from the company where she'd worked for 11 years. "There was no severance. I had no insurance," she said. "I was terrified."

Terry began receiving Social Security disability benefits and took an extended period of time away from work. Later, Terry learned about 'one-stop career centers' that provide free employment-related support services through Social Security's Ticket to Work program to people receiving Social Security benefits. She decided to see what the Iowa Workforce Development Center, her local one-stop, had to offer. There are more than a thousand one-stop career centers across the nation.

The one-stop staff explained that the Ticket program is designed for people who receive Social Security disability benefits and are committed to achieving self-sufficiency through eventual full-time employment. Through the Ticket program, Iowa Workforce helped Terry coordinate her career preparation and job hunt. She updated her computer skills and built confidence in her prospects for long-term success. "They offered workshops on interview skills," she said. "I had my resume refurbished. I learned fresh strategies. At first, I was too proud to ask for help. I'm glad that I did."

While Terry was eager to move on, she was apprehensive about finding work and losing her benefits. Terry learned about special Social Security rules called "work incentives," that help people who receive disability benefits transition to the workforce and become financially self-sufficient.

For example, people receiving disability benefits can keep their Medicare coverage and their cash benefits while gaining work experience during the Trial Work Period. Terry was relieved to learn about another Work Incentive called 'expedited reinstatement,' allowing her Social Security cash benefits to restart without a new application if she has to stop work within five years because of her disability.

Another helpful Work Incentive, known as a Plan to Achieve Self-Support (PASS), allows Social Security disability recipients who meet the income rules for Supplemental Security Income (SSI) to set aside money to pay for items or services they need to reach a specific work goal. These can include educational expenses, training, job-related transportation, business startup costs, tools and equipment, child-care costs and even the cost of job interview clothes.

By approving a PASS, Social Security agrees to exclude certain income that would normally lower an SSI payment amount. At the same time, the person agrees to go to work, with the goal of eventually leaving disability benefits behind and becoming financially self-sufficient.

In 2009, Terry found work as a Loan Servicing Specialist and a second job in retail where she trains cashiers and enjoys interacting with customers. Terry was grateful that Social Security helped her "get through the storm." She built a better life through work. She no longer receives Social Security disability benefits. "Now I'm healthy. I have two jobs. I love both of them. Life is good."

With support from Ticket to Work and Iowa Workforce Development Center, Terry found her path to self-sufficiency. To learn more about the Ticket to Work program, call the Ticket to Work help line at 1-866-968-7842 (TTY/TTD, 1-866-833-2967) or visit www.socialsecurity.gov/work.

Victoria's Secret apologizes for use of headdress

By Felicia Fonseca

Associated Press

FLAGSTAFF, AZ ~ Victoria's Secret has apologized for putting a Native American-style headdress on a model for its annual fashion show, after the outfit was criticized as a display of ignorance toward tribal culture and history.

The company responded to the complaints over the weekend by saying it was sorry to have upset anyone and that it wouldn't include the outfit in the show's television broadcast next month, or in any marketing materials.

"We sincerely apologize as we absolutely had no intention to offend anyone," the company said.

Historically, headdresses are a symbol of respect, worn by Native American war chiefs and warriors. For Great Plains tribes, for instance, each feather placed on a headdress has significance and had to be earned through an act of compassion or bravery. Some modern-day Native American leaders have received war bonnets in ceremonies accompanied by prayers and songs.

"When you see a Lakota chief wearing a full headdress, you know that he was a very honorable man. He was a leader. He did a lot of honorable things for his people," said Michelle Spotted Elk, a Santa Cruz, California, woman of mixed heritage whose husband is Lakota. "It also has religious significance. With them, there's not a division between spirituality and their leadership."

Victoria's Secret model Karlie Kloss walked onto the runway last week wearing the floor-length feathered headdress, leopard-print underwear and high heels. She also was adorned with fringes and turquoise jewelry during a segment meant to represent the 12 months of the year - fireworks in July, rain gear for April and a headdress for November.

Kloss herself posted on Twitter that she was "deeply sorry if what I wore during the VS Show offended anyone."

Thousands of people have commented about the outfit on the company's Facebook page.

Some praised Kloss' attire as artistic and urged those offended by it to "get over it."

Several expressed appreciation to Victoria's Secret for halting its marketing approach for the clothing, and others reached back in history to explain their feelings.

"We have gone through the atrocities to survive and ensure our way of life continues," Navajo Nation spokesman Erny Zah said in an interview Monday. "Any mockery, whether it's Halloween, Victoria's Secret - they are spitting on us. They are spitting on our culture, and it's upsetting."

The Victoria's Secret stir follows a string of similar incidents. Paul Frank Industries Inc. and the band No Doubt ran into criticism earlier this year for their use of headdresses in clothing and parties, and in a cowboys-and-Indians-themed video, respectively. They offered apologies as well.

Last year, Urban Outfitters Inc. set off a firestorm of criticism with its line of Navajo-branded clothing and accessories - particularly underwear and a liquor flask, which the tribe said was "derogatory and scandalous."

Abaki Beck was among a handful of Native American students who hosted a discussion last week at a private liberal arts college in St. Paul, Minnesota, on Native American culture in fashion and sports. She said companies first must learn from the mistake of ignoring Native American history and then make an effort to engage with Indian Country.

She wanted more than a short apology from Victoria's Secret instead of what she said sounded like an automated response.

"But perhaps that is an unrealistic hope," said the 19-year-old member of the Blackfeet Nation of Montana. "It is all about business, after all."

Jennie Luna, who is Chicana and Caxcan, said society largely is ignorant toward indigenous spirituality and doesn't understand what should not be marketed commercially. She and others say more education about Native American cultures is needed.

"We are people; we're not a fashion statement," Luna said. "We are people who are facing serious issues, and for them to further perpetuate the type of stereotypes and disregard for a community's way of life is unacceptable."

ReGina Zuni's advice to companies looking to market Native American culture is to hire Native Americans who have knowledge of tribal traditions, cultures and customs.

However, her reaction to hearing about the Victoria's Secret headdress wasn't outrage about the clothing itself, but about the lack of attention on health care, education, housing and other issues in Indian Country.

"To each his own," said Zuni, of Isleta Pueblo in New Mexico. "But seriously, if people want to grab media attention on Indian issues, this is not the issue to advance and place in the spotlight."

Metoxens witness extent of Native support at canonization

By Travis Cottrell

Kalihwiaks

Oneida Tribal members Kirby Metoxen, and his father Russell made the trip to Rome, Italy to witness the canonization of Kateri Tekakwitha, the first Native American saint. Before they left the United States they were unsure of what to expect or if the trip would even be worth taking. But what they experienced at the Vatican made the trip well worth the effort.

The trip went as smooth as could be for the father and son travelers. Along the way the duo was able to benefit from a few opportune encounters.

"At the airport in Chicago we ran into a Bishop from Africa who was also going to the Vatican but for another reason. We told him why we were going there and he knew all about it and he said 'When you get there go to the United States Bishops Administration building.' We had to go there and get tickets into St. Peter's Square otherwise we wouldn't be able to get into the canonization. We didn't know this so it was a good thing we ran into him," said Kirby Metoxen.

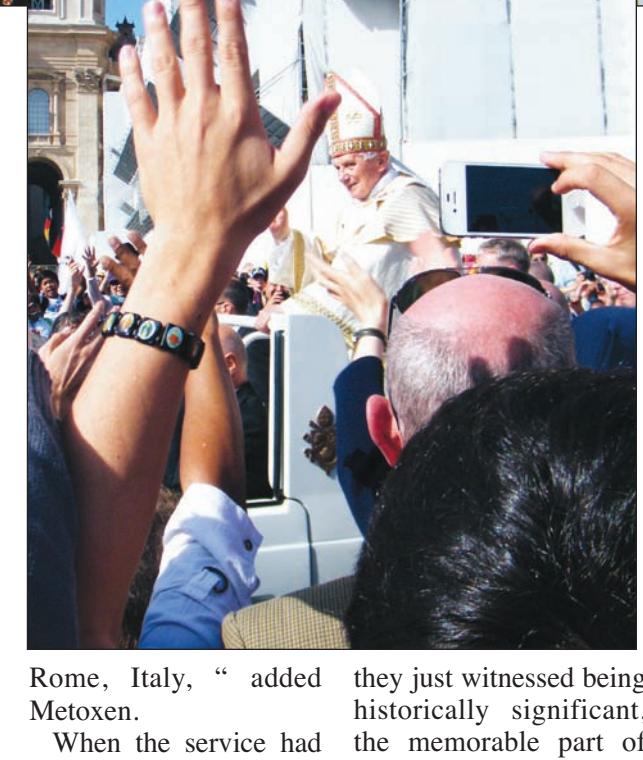

The eight-hour flight from Chicago to Rome was a success; the airline even offered Russell a first class seat at a discounted price. Upon arrival in Rome the first thing they did was go to the United States Bishops Administration building and get their tickets for the canonization.

Photos submitted by Kirby Metoxen focused on getting my dad and myself there that I didn't think on it," Metoxen said. "At the service there were prayers said in the native language of all seven of those being canonized. For Saint Kateri a Mohawk woman read a prayer in the Mohawk language and it filled me with pride to hear an Iroquois language being spoken at the Vatican in Rome, Italy," added Metoxen.

When the service had concluded and thousands of people worked their way out of St. Peter's Square, Kirby and Russell met another father and son from a Canadian tribe. The father and son seemed to reflect what the Metoxens were feeling at that time; despite what they just witnessed being historically significant, the memorable part of the trip was experiencing it together.

"The highlight of the trip for me was to have traveled with my dad to that place for that historical event. The light I saw in him while being at that caliber of an event was well worth it," Metoxen said.

Oneida Conservation Officers undergo rigorous training

The fall season is upon us and the hunting activities are in full swing with the opening of the hunting seasons. Everything from small game and turkey season are underway, along with waterfowl and archery season for deer. During these seasons the Conservation Officers patrol the Oneida Tribe's lands and have numerous contacts with sportsmen participating in hunting activities. These contacts can result in dangerous situations that could include illegal weapons, drugs, or other contraband.

To help ensure the Conservation Officer's safety during a high risk contact, many training techniques are implemented to improve the Conservation Officer's skills and abilities. To dealing with high stress situations, one of the primary training regiments deals with the firearms assigned to the Conservation Officers. Each Conservation Officer is required to qualify with their duty weapons bi-annually, to ensure that each Conservation Officer is certified and proficient with their weapon.

In October of 2012 the Conservation Officers attended firearms qualification with the United States Fish and Wildlife Service (USF&WS) to complete their training. The Conservation Officers received certification with their sidearm, shotgun and AR-15 rifles. The Conservation Officers completed time trials with each of these weapons, along with critical scoring certification to ensure accuracy. During the certification trials the Conservation Officers were also monitored and trained on proper techniques to deal with weapon malfunctions, ammunition failures, as well as speed loading techniques and proper trigger manipulation.

The Conservation Officers also had the opportunity to participate in low light shooting situations to provide a different perspective and experience less than ideal shooting situations.

The firearms qualification and certification are requirements that the Conservation Officers need to maintain bi-annually. This training also promotes efficiency with the equipment assigned to the Officers.

One can hope that there never comes a time that the Conservation Officers need to utilize these weapons in the line of duty, however, in the circumstance that a weapon needs to be employed to handle a situation, the Conservation Officers want to ensure that they are properly trained in the best use practices.

After over 30 years of endangered species protection, the wolf was delisted from the Endangered Species list on January 27, 2012. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USF&WS) made the announcement regarding the updated status of the wolf in the Great Lakes region. With the decision of the USF&WS, Wisconsin State Legislation passed Bill 411 into act 169, allowing for the harvest of wolves in the State of Wisconsin. Wisconsin Sportsman had been granted the opportunity to apply for a harvest permit to hunt and trap wolves throughout the state of Wisconsin.

Oneida fall sports season kicks off

The fall season is upon us and that means Oneida Sportsmen take to the fields to harvest deer, turkeys, and other small game/waterfowl species. As of October 31, 2012 the Oneida Conservation Department (OCD) has issued a total of 617 Oneida Sportsman License.

Oneida Sportsmen have registered a total of forty (40) deer during the archery season, twenty-three (23) bucks and seventeen (17) antlerless.

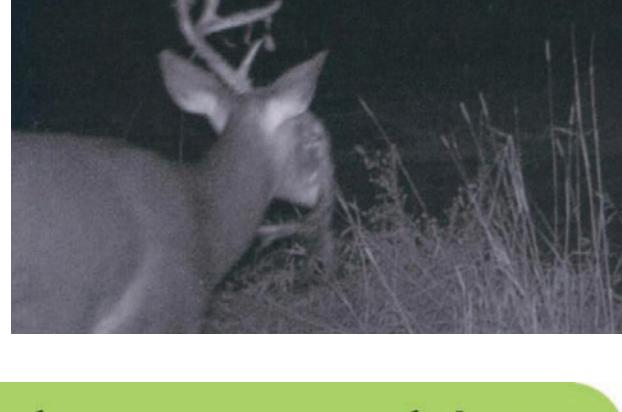

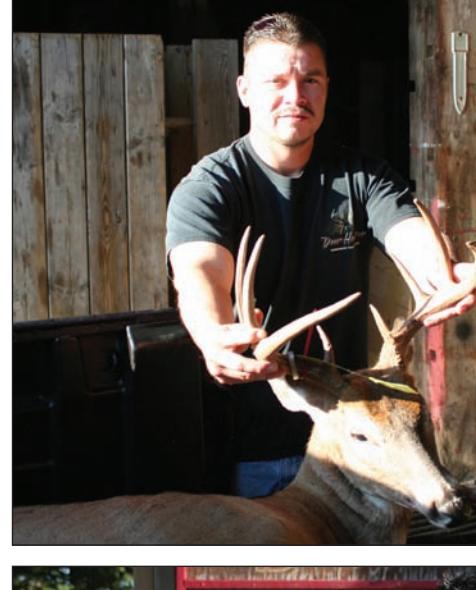

Jeremy Wheelock harvested an 8 point buck in September, 2012, with a dressed weight of 168 lbs.

Tim Skenandore harvested a 9 point buck in October, 2012, with a dressed weight of 170 lbs.

With all the Oneida Sportsmen gearing up for the fall hunt, questions arise about bag limits, hunting regulation changes, and open or closed seasons. One season has drawn a considerable amount of attention and concern, which is the Wisconsin Wolf season. As we look at the history of the relatively short period of protection to the wolf and the steps that lead to the proposed season, there is a definite need to evaluate the Oneida Tribe's role for additional protection.

After over 30 years of endangered species protection, the wolf was delisted from the Endangered Species list on January 27, 2012. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USF&WS) made the announcement regarding the updated status of the wolf in the Great Lakes region. With the decision of the USF&WS, Wisconsin State Legislation passed Bill 411 into act 169, allowing for the harvest of wolves in the State of Wisconsin. Wisconsin Sportsman had been granted the opportunity to apply for a harvest permit to hunt and trap wolves throughout the state of Wisconsin.

The Oneida Tribe is committed to the continued protection, popula-

Wis. DNR urges hunters to donate venison

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources is urging hunters to donate venison to feed the hungry.

In the past 12 years, hunters have donated 80,000 deer that were processed into more than 3.6 million pounds of ground venison. It was distributed to food pantries across the state.

Brad Koele, the DNR's wildlife biologist coordinating the venison program, says the hunters, meat processors and volunteers have been incredibly generous but they need help again this year with donations.

The bow season started Sept. 15, the gun season starts Nov. 17 and the muzzleloader season starts Nov. 26.

A list of participating meat processors and instructors for donating are available on the DNR's website.

News from the Community Education Center

By Connie Danforth

Office Manager

The start of Fiscal Year 2013 has seen the Oneida Nation Community Education Center roll out a wide array of changes and improvements to its facility and services. Over 60 computers have been upgraded to the latest technology, which means visitors to the CEC now have access to brand new computers with the latest Windows 7 operating system and Microsoft Office 2010 software. Computer class offerings have also been upgraded to reflect the new computers. The Computer for Beginners class has been completely updated, and a new Windows 7 class has been added to the schedule. Other software, including QuickBooks 2012 Accounting software and Adobe Photoshop photo editing software, has also been upgraded, and classes redesigned accordingly. The updated QuickBooks 2012 class will be offered November 7, 8, 14, & 15, 2012, and updated Adobe Photoshop will be offered in December.

The CEC has gone wireless!

Wireless internet is now available to visitors who want to access the internet from their tablets, smartphones or laptops. After a CEC staff member logs in their device, a visitor can enjoy wireless internet access from anywhere in the building. The new wireless internet also enables the CEC to offer tablet and e-reader classes.

The new "Which Tablet is Best for You" workshop offers hands-on experience with an iPad, Nook Tablet, and Kindle Fire, along with expert advice to determine which tablet or e-reader best meets individual needs. More new classes on how to use these devices will be added in the near future.

Math and Spelling Refresher Workshop

Another new workshop, offered every other Monday, is the Math and Spelling Refresher Workshop. CEC staff worked closely with the Human Resources Department to develop this workshop, which gives anyone interested in applying for Tribal employment the opportunity to prepare for the pre-employment testing given by the Human Resources Department. The Refresher covers the skills needed to pass the written math and spelling tests, and offers practice tests for self-study and to determine readiness. The 10-key calculator portion of the workshop offers the opportunity to practice on the same 10-key calculator as used in the test, along with expert instruction on how to use it. Keyboard instruction and practice is also available on the computers via the Mavis Beacon Teaches Typing program. The dates of the next few upcoming Math and Spelling Refresher Workshops are November 5, November 19, December 3 and December 17, 2012. Workshops will be held from 1:00 pm until 3:00 pm each of these days, on a drop-in basis.

Customer Service class

Continuing the CEC's commitment to helping community members develop employability skills, and beginning a new partnership with Northeast Wisconsin Technical College, an NWTC Customer Service class is currently being offered at the CEC. The class runs Tuesdays through November 27, 2012, and will provide essential job skills to Tribal members and Tribal employees alike. Future classes offered in partnership with NWTC include Medical Terminology, Healthcare Delivery Systems, Introduction to Health Records, Health Data Management, and CPR/First Aid.

TrANS program

Another successful collaboration occurred recently between the Oneida Human Resources Department, the College of Menominee Nation and the Wisconsin Department of Transportation on a successful TrANS program. TrANS, (stands for Transportation Alliance for New Solutions) is a public-private model to prepare the underemployed with skills needed for skilled jobs in the construction industry. The TrANS program was held at the CEC, with teachers provided by the other partners. In May, 2012, the program graduated 10 people who immediately began work with the Oneida Housing Authority and who are all still employed. The CEC hopes to provide more opportunities of this kind to address the needs of Oneida Tribal members to prepare for skilled employment.

G.E.D.

The Community Education Center has helped many to earn their G.E.D. certificates, and will continue to assist with preparation for this high school equivalency test. But while the CEC's commitment to G.E.D. preparation has never wavered, the G.E.D. itself will soon be changing, and the CEC's services will be updated accordingly. The new test will include extended Math concepts, including Trigonometry. All tests will include short answer and sorting, instead of just multiple choice answers. The essay portion will remain, and the whole test will be computerized. The new format of the G.E.D. test is expected to take effect in January, 2014. For students who are still in High School, but need to make up credits in order to graduate on time, the CEC will also continue to offer PASS units for enrolled Oneida students at no charge.

CEC Bus Trip

Just for fun, November 10, 2012 marked the first CEC Bus Trip! A coach bus took thirty-six individuals to Chicago for the day – first to Navy Pier, then to Michigan Avenue for shopping, and finally returning to the CEC by midnight. The CEC is planning many other bus trips open to enrolled Tribal members, Tribal employees and their families. Bus trips to a Milwaukee Brewers baseball game, shopping at Mall of America, and a day at Great America are all being planned for 2013.

Parent Learning Lab closed

Although the CEC has always been an adult-oriented education center, it was with regret that on October 1, 2012, the CEC closed the Parent Learning Lab until future notice. The CEC can no longer accommodate children under the age of twelve, unless they are participating in a class or program for their age group. In spite of the inconvenience to some parents, this change is anticipated to improve the experience for most CEC visitors.

Early Intervention Program

Supervisor;

Ana Balbuena

Disability Coordinator

Oneida Early Intervention recognizes the early childhood years are the building blocks for a lifetime of learning. The program is committed to children with developmental delays and disabilities under age six and their families. We value the family's primary relationship with their child and work in partnership with those families and other Birth to Six providers to support knowledge, training, skills and advocacy that will nurture their child and empower families.

The Gathering

Our Birth to Six Program this month

would like to introduce you to a great training and an upcoming Child Find opportunity for all community children.

"The Gathering," a child development day for all children birth to three was held November 9, 2012 at the Social Services Community Room. It was a great opportunity for parents to get their children screened for developmental progress and to learn about other services for children that the Oneida community has to offer. This is a collaborative event with Head Start/Early Head Start, Oneida Community Health Center, and Child Care Services.

being proactive in meeting the needs of children and future school success.

Lunch and Learn

This year Oneida Early Intervention started monthly Lunch and Learn trainings. These events are held every second Tuesday of the month from 12:10pm – 12:50pm. Box lunches are served and it is limited to 12 participants. Registration is required. We are pleased with the participation thus far and invite your input for further trainings. Topics will be announced monthly. Register by calling 920-490-3893.

Happy Fall from the staff at Oneida Early Intervention.

Higher Education highlights

High School students got to meet with college recruiters at the High School College Fair held October 18.

By Cheryl Van Den Berg

Manager

High School College Fair

The 2012 High School College Fair was held on October 18, 2012 at the Radisson and it was a wonderful success! There were approximately 160 students that participated from area high schools and included 28 college representatives, Armed Forces and the Wisconsin College Access representative.

This year's co-sponsor was Lawrence University of Appleton. Their financial support was a great help in making this event possible. Other recognition includes the Oneida Planning Department staff for their personal involvement. They were instrumental in providing student raffle items and being visible to high school students. Other thanks go out to the Youth Education Service (Y.E.S.) staff and Oneida Transit and Casino Shuttle in coordinating the student's attendance. The High School College Fair is an annual event and this year's event was coordinated by Sherry King, Oneida Higher Education Advisor.

Future events include a spring "Adult College Fair" May 13, 2012 at the Radisson which will provide area colleges and universities that may be of interest to the working/adult population. The office will also be providing community Financial Aid Workshops this coming spring.

Where Are They Now?

Anthony Cornelius: ONHS Graduate

By Diego Metoxen

THT Times

Anthony Allen Cornelius is an alumnus of Oneida Nation High School. He is currently attending Silver Lake College in Manitowoc, WI. Cornelius is studying to become an athletic trainer. He is an enrolled member of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin.

About being an enrolled Oneida tribal member, Cornelius said, "I don't know that much of the Oneida language. I can't even say I know the basics because the language and culture is so complex."

On the weekends, Anthony comes back to Oneida and works in landscaping. On weekdays, he resides in the dorms at Silver Lake College. Cornelius has a big family consisting of 7 sisters and 4 brothers.

As far as personal interests, Cornelius listens to rap and R&B. His favorite musical artists are Drake, Lil Wayne, and Frank Ocean.

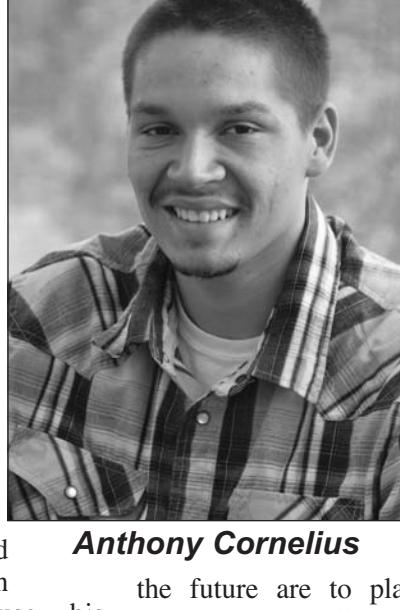

"I just like their style of music," said Cornelius.

His favorite colors are read and purple. He likes red because he always just liked it. He likes the color purple because it's Oneida's colors. Cornelius' favorite food is chicken wings because they are delicious. His favorite TV shows are Pawn Stars and American Pickers because his brother got him hooked on them. His favorite movie is Dark Night Rises because he has always been a Batman fan. His dream vacation is to go to Florida and just spend money.

His favorite sports teams are the Green Bay Packers and the Miami Heat. Cornelius claims that he has always been a Packer fan, and he likes the Heat because of LeBron. Predictably, Cornelius' heroes happen to be Brett Favre and LeBron James.

"Those dudes are legends," he said. Cornelius' plans for the future are to play four years of collegiate basketball and then play basketball overseas. His dream job is to be a professional basketball player.

Cornelius has some words of advice for ONHS students. "Focus on school now, pay attention, and make friends. It will take you a long way. The less resources you have, the less doors are open for you."

He added, "Do everything you do for a purpose. Don't let what you can't control stop you from doing what you do. Just be you."

Cornelius' plans for

ONHS Student Leader Choices

By Heather Stevens

THT Times

As the Senior Class President and Vice President of Oneida High School's Student Council, I have to help make decisions that not only affect our class but the entire school as well. All of the decisions regarding the homecoming week's events were made by the Student Council. It's hard to come to an equitable decision on activities and events when we all have different ideas of how the events should be handled.

While making these decisions, we continuously debated on whether everyone was going to enjoy themselves. Each student representative in Student Council was elected by his or her classmates. After the Student Council members from each class were chosen, the entire school elected the Student Council leaders. It is a simple human fact that not every single person will enjoy every single planned activity or event. When this happens, eventually the unhappy students will criticize, belittle, and flat out complain about our choices. This makes it even harder for the Student Council to decide on which activities to plan for, promote, and organize. We brainstorm and discuss whether or not to have a homecoming dance, a Lock-In, a Pep-rally, or a bonfire.

Not only does the Student Council think of the student's enjoyment, but we also have to consider the budget we are given and the enjoyment of the community members that are also invited. In other words, we have to weigh which of the activities the students will enjoy, the community will enjoy, and which activities we can afford.

My goal is to make this one of the best school years Oneida High School has ever seen and the most successful one as well.

Student of the Month: Jessica House

Jessica House

THT Times

Jessica House is a 17 year-old senior at Oneida Nation High School. She's been attending Oneida since her sophomore year. Before ONHS, she attended West DePere Middle School for 6th grade and was homeschooled for the rest of the years.

While she's still in high school, Jessica has set some realistic goals for herself.

"I want to learn to read better and earn A's in all of my classes," said House. "I'm an okay reader, but I want to get better. I will feel that I have accomplished something amazing if I can ace my classes and learn to read better at the same time."

"Reading is incorporated into all of our classes at the high school," said House, "and that's why I want to be a better reader. When I go to college, I know that the professors are going to make us read a lot and I want to be ready."

Her plans after graduation are to attend college and major in Elementary Education. Jessica hopes to come back and teach future students of the Oneida Nation School System.

"I love working with kids, and I want to be successful at something. Becoming a teacher would be great."

Jessica's current role model is her mother, Toni House. "My mom always knows what to say, grows from her mistakes, and is strong minded. She taught me to be the person that I want to be instead of who other people want me to be, and I try to follow her advice every day."

Thanksgiving information

By Hector Miranda

THT Times

Thanksgiving is observed on November 22 this year, and it is also a time to give thanks. The first Thanksgiving was celebrated in 1621. The Thanksgiving meal often includes turkey, stuffing, potatoes, cranberry sauce, gravy, pumpkin pie, and vegetables.

Thanksgiving is the day that Pilgrims met helpful Indians who gave them food, farming techniques, and other strategies to overcome the harsh New England cold. This day should not be confused with Native American Day. Native American day is observed annually on the fourth Friday in September, not at the end of November.

The United American Indians of New England established Thanksgiving as its National Day of Mourning in 1970. Long before settlers came to the East Coast of the United States, the area was already inhabited by many Native American tribes.

What to do when the OCHC is closed

Have you ever wondered what the difference is when the On call nurse tells you to go to Urgent Care or sends you to the Emergency room? Many people have asked the same questions! We hope this short description may help you make a more informed, cost effective decision the next time you get sick and want to avoid going to the emergency room or are unable to get an appointment through the Oneida Community Health Center. If you are unsure whether you need to seek medical attention at any of the services, contact your primary provider or the On-call staff after hours.

There are two types of services available for after hour care located outside the Oneida Community Health Center that you may want to save and hang on your refrigerator or other convenient places in your home for quick reference:

Urgent Care

Mid-Range Cost

- Urgent care centers are more cost effective than emergency room visits.
- The waiting time is usually much shorter than an emergency room.
- The Oneida Community Health Center currently utilizes Prevea Urgent Care Centers.
- Urgent Care Centers handle conditions that require immediate attention and medical situations that may cause serious problems or discomforts if treatment is delayed.

- Some examples of conditions that require urgent care are:
- 1. Ear infections
- 2. Sprains
- 3. Vomiting
- 4. High fever
- You must receive prior approval from the on-call nurse before going to any urgent care center. The After Hours phone number (920) 869-2711.

Emergency Rooms

High Cost

• Emergency rooms are equipped to handle life-threatening injuries and illnesses and other serious medical conditions. An emergency is a condition that may cause loss of life or permanent or severe disability if not treated.

- You should call 911 or go directly to the nearest emergency room if you experience any of the following:

Chest pain
Seizures
Inability to swallow
Serious burns, cuts or infections
Uncontrollable bleeding
Shortness of breath
Broken Bones
Paralysis
Severe abdominal pain following an injury
Poisoning or suspected poisoning
Confusion or loss of consciousness - especially after a head injury.

ATTENTION

Controlled Substances WILL NOT be Covered at CVS Pharmacy

Prescription drug abuse has become the Nation's fastest growing drug problem. For those who abuse, we have taken action to prevent addiction and potentially, even death. In our Controlled Substance policy, we are striking a balance between reducing abuse of prescription drugs/controlled substances, and ensuring access for legitimate use.

The Oneida Community Health Center (OCHC) does not prescribe or approve controlled substances after regular business hours.

1. No narcotic/controlled substance prescriptions will be (paid for) after-hours at CVS Pharmacy.
 2. CVS is our "after-hours" approved pharmacy (located on Mason & Military in Green Bay).
 3. The patient may choose to:
 - a) Fill the prescription at any pharmacy and pay for the medication on their own.
 - b) Fill a minimum quantity and pay for the medication on their own.
 - c) Ask the Emergency Room Physician for a sample pack of the meds, because the prescription will not be paid for by OCHC.
 - d) May choose to wait and fill the entire prescription at OCHC, during regular business hours, or
 - e) Present their insurance card and pay the appropriate co-pay.
 4. All reimbursement requests for narcotic/controlled substance prescriptions will be determined by CHS during regular business hours.
- NOTE: The Registered Nurse On-Call does not make this determination.

Information for patients who utilize OCHC On-Call Nurse

Registered Nurses (RN) are available for patient phone calls – 24 hours a day/7 days a week. When the clinic is closed the RN is home. They do not have access to medical records or pharmacy information.

When to call and speak with the RN after clinic hours:

- You/your child have an urgent health care need/question that cannot wait until the next open day of the clinic.
- Don't call the RN when you are having a life threatening issue. For example, chest pain, difficulty breathing, or bleeding profusely from wound. Access the nearest emergency department to get medical attention as soon as possible. Call 911 as needed for intervention. Call the Contract Health Services Department to report the visit within 72 hours to ensure coverage.
- The RN's on call also work 40 + hours per week at the OCHC medical clinic, in addition to providing on call services. Calling in the middle of the night with a concern that is not urgent is not appropriate.
- On call staff does not determine Contract Health eligibility. You need to contact the Contract Health Department when the clinic reopens to check on eligibility.

Governmental Services Division

This week the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin and the United States of America recognized a very important and meaningful date. It is a national, state and tribally observed holiday...Veterans Day. This day falls on November 11 and was officially named "Veterans Day" June 1, 1954 as a way for the United States to honor all military veterans. Why does it fall on the 11th? In 1919 when Veterans Day was actually known as Armistice Day, Germany signed the armistice that slowed the hostiles of WWI in the 11th month (November), on the 11th day during the 11th hour.

The federal government has programs in place to help American Veterans cope with issues they may carry with them due to their experiences during past and present military conflicts. Currently there are around 24 million living veterans. The Governmental Services Division (GSD) also provides services to military veterans right here in our community. This help is provided by the Veterans Services department which falls under GSD. They are here to help any veteran in our community have the opportunity for a better life.

The mission of the Veterans Services Department is "To Provide Quality Services and Assistance in the Delivery of Entitlements and Benefits Due our Oneida Veterans". They provide assistance with obtaining information on Federal benefit programs, benefits for survivors and dependents and State programs. These include but are not limited to disability compensation, individual employability, non-service connected pensions, vocational rehab, burial benefits, headstones and markers. Other assistance is also provided when dealing with the WDVA (Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs).

Did U Know that right here in our community over 800 individual veterans in FY2012 were provided assistance and direction in obtaining or learning about the benefits they could receive at a federal, state or local level? These benefits and services addressed physical, mental and economic needs for the veteran and his/her family members where qualified.

If you or someone you know is a Veteran that needs information that will improve their Quality of Life, help is readily available by calling (920)490-3988 or stopping in at 1240 Packerland Dr. Cottage#2. Remember, if it were not for our veterans and active military personnel, all of our lives would be much different; and not necessarily for the better!

Did U Know that the personnel employed in the Veterans Services office here in Oneida are accredited by the National Association County Veterans Service Officers, Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs and the Military Order of the Purple Heart(MOPH) and they approve the contents of this article?

Postal Service Offers Holiday Shipping Tips

Oneida, WI — With less than 60 shipping days left until Christmas, the Postal Service is offering shipping tips to help customers make sure their holiday gifts reach their destinations in time.

"The Postal Service expects to deliver close to 18 billion cards, letters and packages between Thanksgiving and New Year's Eve," said Oneida Postmaster Cheryl Koenig. "That's a lot of mail and we want to help our customers by making their shipping easy during this holiday season."

The following tips will help customers when shipping packages:

- There are special conditions and restrictions when mailing toys and other electronic devices containing batteries. Please consult the local Post Office for more information about shipping batteries domestically or internationally.

- Place a card inside the package that contains both the delivery and return addresses. This ensures the safe return of an item that could not be delivered should the mailing label become damaged or fall off.

- Include both "to" and "from" information on packages – and only on one side.

- Always use a return address.

- Select a box that is strong enough to protect the contents, like one of the Postal Service Flat-Rate boxes in small, medium and large sizes.

- Avoid reusing mailing boxes as they can weaken during the shipping process.

- Stuff glass, fragile and hollow items with newspaper or packing material to avoid damage.

- When mailing framed photographs, take the glass out of the frame and wrap it separately.

To save time, customers can also order free boxes online by visiting the Postal Store at www.usps.com/shop by December 3rd and use Free Package Pickup.

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

Meet the Candidates for the Outagamie County FSA Committee election

Appleton, WI, November 13, 2012 –

The Farm Service Agency (FSA) office in Outagamie County is currently holding an election for a position on the local County Committee to represent producers in Outagamie, according to Vicki Wiese, director of the FSA office in Outagamie. The FSA county committee system, established in the 1930s, gives local farmers a say in how farm programs are administered at the grassroots level.

In early November, ballots were sent to all eligible voters (landowners and operators) in Center, Freedom, Kaukauna, Oneida, Osborne and Seymour townships to elect an active producer from Outagamie County to serve a three year term on the local FSA County Committee starting January 1, 2012.

"We have two active producers from the Local Administrative Area #2 area on the ballot -- Mike Van Asten (current member) and Pat Cornelius," Wiese said.

For more details on County Committee system or the election process, call the Outagamie FSA office at 920-733-1575.
