Midwest mumps outbreak concern local health officials

By Steve Gandy

Kalihwisaks

The Midwest outbreak of mumps has caused some concern among public health officials at local, state and national levels. The Center for Disease Control has reported at least 20 hospitalizations linked with this outbreak, but fortunately no deaths. According to Michelle Meyers, Interim Community Health Nursing Team Leader, "As of (May 2nd) we have seven confirmed mumps cases in Brown County and zero in Outagamie." Since that time, the totals have risen to eleven in Brown and one in Outagamie.

Mumps is described as an acute viral illness caused by the mumps virus. Symptoms of which include fever, headache, muscle aches, fatigue and loss of appetite; followed by a swelling of the salivary glands typically located on the jaw line just below the ears. Severe complications of mumps are rare, but do exist. The mumps virus can be transmitted through direct contact with bodily fluids and infected tissue. The virus replicates in the upper respiratory tract so coughing and sneezing are common transmission paths. A physician can make a mumps diagnosis. Currently there is no treatment for mumps. "Fortunately, it is not a serious disease. People are usually ill for a week or so," says Dr. Julie Gerberding of the CDC in a recent press briefing.

As of May 9, there were 177 confirmed cases of the mumps in Wisconsin, according to the Wisconsin Dept. of Health and Family Services, which are believed to be linked to the more than 1500 reported cases in Iowa. There has been speculation regarding the cause of the outbreak to be a problem with the vaccine, but officials are quick to point out there is no evidence to substantiate those claims. "I really want to emphasize that while we are of course investigating the outbreak and we will learn more about the efficacy of the vaccine in this particular setting, we have absolutely no information to suggest that there is any problem with the vaccine," says Gerberding.

In fact, Gerberding and the CDC have narrowed the cause of the outbreak down to a lack of complete coverage of the vaccine. So when the infection is introduced into an environment with incomplete coverage the infection can spread very quickly.

The mumps vaccine became available in 1967 and has since been used.

In Iowa, the majority of the cases are reported to be college-aged people. This is due to the proximity in which college students live and interact with one another. This coupled with the lack of complete vaccine coverage has led to Coordinator of the Oneida Food Pantry Gary Smith was happy when he learned that the Tommy Hilfiger Corporation was donating a semi-load of clothing consisting of 20,000 items.

"Now we got a call saying we're going to bring you a truck-and-a-half which is about 30,000 items," he said while taking a break from unloading the 1500 boxes at the Oneida Buildings and Grounds Warehouse on Monday afternoon, May 8th.

The clothing, made up of various sizes for children, women and men, will be given to clients of the Food Pantry first and then to people in need through Social Services and the Health Center.

"It's a Godsend, it really is, so we can help others, that's our goal," said Smith.

Pantry volunteer Craig Gabriel Ninham said the donation came just in time for the summer job season.

New Interior office holds first procurement workshop in Oneida

By Dawn Walschinski

Kalihwisaks

The US Department of the Interior and the Oneida Nation sponsored the first Economic Development and Procurement Workshop at the Radisson Inn May 8-9.

The workshop was the first in a series to create networking opportunities for Native nations in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota with state, federal and private sector entities seeking to contract with tribal enterprises and Native American owned businesses.

According to Anne Mendoza-Jennings of the Department of the Interior, many companies would start at Step A looking for Native American owned companies to contract with and skip right to Step C, declaring that there weren't any out there.

The new Office of Indian Energy and Economic Development was created to facilitate Step B.

"What I really do well is I'm a liaison. I was a contracting specialist, I sort of look for opportunities and try and make at least the right match to get some of these things going," said Mendoza-Jennings.

The workshop featured educational sessions and the opportunity for one-on-one meetings with federal procurement officers and representatives from state governments, the military and businesses.

The goal is to connect existing tribal enterprises and businesses in the Woodlands Region with wider contracting opportunities such as in construction or agriculture as well as develop new businesses.

"What I plan to do is stay right in this region and for a

7th grades enjoy camping at the quarry

Submitted by Oneida Adventure Education

On Tuesday, March 28 the 7th grade Adventure Education Class took part in an overnight camping experience. The students involved in this class experience were Suzy Webster, Jade Doxtater, Jaylee Godfrey, Lily Smith, Adrian Huff, Maurense Beans, and Rethman John. The Oneida Elementary Physical Education and Health teacher, Dale Mueller, helped Kip Miller from the Experiential and Adventures Department with organizing and attending the overnight event. Also, Teresa Holschuh-Sieja and Adam Brown from the Oneida Fitness Center, chaperoned and were a big help in making this a safe and positive learning experience for the kids.

This was the first camping experience for some of the students. They met, gear in hand, at 8am to finish packing their necessary items. Once all the items were stowed, the students were off on the 7th grade Adventure.

A short trip to the Oneida Quarry brought everyone to the camping spot. After setting up the camp area, everyone pitched in to make lunch and share stories. After eating everyone went for a long hike along Duck Creek. The ice was breaking up along the shore so the kids had a great time exploring the surrounding environment. The signs of spring were everywhere and the kids couldn't get enough of the area. After returning back to camp, supper was started. The girls and boys shared the camp duties and everyone ate like royalty. The weather was great and everyone seem to be enjoying themselves. To top off the afternoon, Oakley Arnold from the Oneida Museum came to spend time with the kids sharing some of Oneida's history. Although the kids had much they wanted to explore, they did an outstanding job hearing Oakley's great stories.

Darkness was setting in and it was cooling off quickly. Time to collect some wood! Everyone gathered around the fire, talking and enjoying hand made s'mores. After eating all that sugar, it was time to go for a night hike. The stars were out; what a beautiful spring night! After a short loop around the Tribal land they ended up back at the Quarry. It was time to settle in around the fire where camping adventures were shared along with some ghost stories.

A highlight of the trip was to see the kids really enjoying what camping is all about. Enjoying a fire, nature and spending time with each other without all of the artificial stimulus they experience everyday. As the evening progressed, they started to share a little more. The fire tends to create a certain level of safety and comfort for people. It brings people together as one. They kept adding wood to the fire and they continued to have a lot of energy. Eventually, the kids made their way to the tents to settle in for the evening. It was a little chilly, and there were many different sounds throughout the night.

The boys awoke in the morning and made breakfast while the girls slept in. The next few hours were spent cleaning up and packing the supplies. The students spent a little more time by the Quarry before getting on the bus. It was an enjoyable experience and the kids stated they would like to do a longer trip up north. Hopefully these kinds of adventures can continue in the future for the Oneida students.

A special thank you goes out to all those involved in making this trip possible for these students. For more information, contact Kip Miller 490-3810

Indigenous Language workshop held in Oneida

Kali Photo/Steve Gandy Tribal Chairman Gerald Danforth addresses participants prior to the beginning of the Indigenous Language Institute workshops.

By Steve Gandy
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Nation recently teamed up with the Indigenous Language Institute and IBM to put on a three day workshop from April 27th - 29th. The workshop, held at the Oneida Nation Community Center, focused on storytelling with technology by combining indigenous text and images. The ILI instructors provided a hands-on environment to teach the skills needed to create various media including story books, newsletters, and calenders. The workshop also provided real life skills, needed by Native language educators and speakers, with Unicode, Microsoft software and digital hardware.

The goal of this workshop was to give Native peoples the tools needed to create documents and other media in their native language. The ILI instructors played host to sum 48 persons from the Oneida Nation as well from around the United States with the furthest coming from as far as Omaha, Nebraska.

Tribal Chairman, Gerald Danforth, opened the event by saying, "I know there are many critical spokes in the wheel that keep our languages alive and I know that's not an easy task." One of those spokes is the ILI. ILI President, Gerald Hill, said in the February 2006 ILI Newsletter, "Using one's language seems to be an idea whose time has come considering that the ILI technical workshops have been a resounding success with the participants and have produced unexpected results that are virtually immediately usable at home."

The idea of using one's own language is driven home in this workshops which, unlike most technical workshops, focuses on the tools and skills needed to avoid long and tedious use of conventional ways of creating media and documents. Providing the tools needed to avoid memorizing alt-codes or picking out native letters from character maps as well as creating keyboarding software is of great importance when it comes to saving time. As one participant said, "I never even knew this kind of stuff was possible without going through font and character sheets...it sure does save time."

According to the ILI website at www.indigenous-language.org:

ILI was founded as the Institute for the Preservation of the Original Languages of the Americas (IPOLA) by Joanna Hess in September 1992 in Santa Fe, New Mexico. ILI has a Board of Directors whose members are majority Native American.

If you would like more information regarding the ILI you can contact them by phone at (505) 820-0311 or by e-mail at ili@indigenous-language.org couple months afterwards to make sure we really pull it together. This is the very first day of what will probably be ongoing for the next two months, then what we will be doing is putting pen to the paper," said Mendoza-Jennings.

The workshop concentrated on midwestern contacts close to the Woodlands Tribes.

"I'm trying to put together a more closely knit and comprehensive group," said Mendoza-Jennings.

Approximately 80 people attended the workshop to learn more for their tribe, their employer or themselves.

"I just want to find out a little bit more information about what is available through the Small Business Administration," said Oneida Artist and owner of a small business Judy Jourdan.

Coleman Engineering Planning Intern for the Forest County Potawatomi Patricia Pete enjoyed the "bottom up" concept.

"It's like grass roots that we have to pull from people, like what kind of nation do you want to build? Do you want small factory jobs here and so forth, because it's the types of jobs that are going to keep people where they live," said Pete.

Oneida Police Join New "In Case of Emergency (ICE)"

The Oneida Police Department has become involved in a new initiative that was developed by the Brown County Traffic Safety Commission (BCTSC) and AAA Wisconsin. The program is called "In Case of Emergency" (ICE). It is intended to assist law enforcement and medical personnel during a traffic crash or other emergency situation to get immediate medical attention and notify loved ones. Many times these actions could be delayed because law enforcement or other emergency response personnel cannot quickly identify the victim's emergency contacts.

"We are urging all motorists to program their cell phones with their ICE contacts," Interim Assistant Chief of Police, Rich Van Boxtel said. "In the "Contact" section of the cell phone, simply list who you wish contacted in an emergency as ICE."

In the case that the cell phone is damaged during the crash, there are ICE cards available from the Oneida Police Department, other law enforcement agencies in Brown County, or at the AAA offices in Green Bay. These cards are free of charge and ask for the emergency contact name and phone number(s). The cards are to be kept on the visor, center console, or the glove box so the emergency responders can locate the information quickly.

"A lot of kids, they're just starting to work, and they can't afford clothes when they go to look for a job or clothes on the job," he said.

The massive clothing donation was arranged by Oneida Nation member Dr. Norbert Hill, Jr., who has a friend at the Tommy Hilfiger corporate headquarters.

"They're very generous," said Dr. Hill who has worked with Hilfiger's foundation for sponsorship of American Indian Graduate Center activities.

People who are in need of clothing or other aid may contact Gary Smith at 920-869-1041, ext 13 to learn about income requirements for help.

The Oneida Food Pantry helps anyone living within the reservation borders and tribal members living in Brown, Outagamie, Manitowoc, Kewaunee and Door counties.

May 1st will be one year since you've left us. We all miss you. I miss you very much.

I remember all the things we did together. I remember your laughter, your smile and most of all your love. Three little words that mean so much to us. I remember where and when we said it to each other. It was in Wausau, Wisconsin at the pow-wow.

Those three little words had such an impact on our relationship, because we both knew the meaning of it.

We said it to each other the night before you left us. I remember you asking me if I would do a few things for you after you are gone. I remember we kissed each other and said those three words for the last time.

Today my love I'll say those three words to you, only I'll add one more word to it...

I still Love You!

In Loving Memory of my Mother
Mary Ann Waterloo
who left us one year ago, May 1, 2005

We do not need a special day
To bring you to our minds...

The day we do not think of you
Is very hard to find.
They say time heals all sorrow
And helps us to forget...

But time has only proved so far how much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to bear it and courage to take the blow
But what it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know.

I miss and love you very much.
I didn't know how hard it would be without you.
You were not only my mother, you were my Best Friend, someone I could share everything with.
Mom, I know you're in no pain anymore, so that is the only thing I'm grateful for.
'Til we meet again, and I know we will.

Love you lots,
Theresa Mae

Legislature wants authority to review proposed casinos

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — New off-reservation casinos such as those proposed in Kenosha, Beloit and Shullsburg would need approval from the Legislature under a bill approved by the state Senate on Wednesday.

The bill would essentially take away that authority from Gov. Jim Doyle, a Democrat, and add a new barrier to any expansion of American Indian gambling in Wisconsin.

The Senate approved the bill 21-10, sending it to Doyle. A spokeswoman for the governor had indicated after the Assembly passed it last September that he would veto it if it reached his desk.

Current federal law gives the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs the authority to approve plans for off-reservation casinos and the governor has to concur with the agency's decision.

The bill would prohibit the governor from agreeing with a BIA decision unless the Legislature also signed off on the plan. The review would have to demonstrate that the proposed casino would help the tribe while not hurting the surrounding community.

Sen. Mary Lazich, R-New Berlin, said the bill would give citizens a greater say in the state's rapidly expanding tribal gaming industry and take away concerns the governor's decisions could be influenced by campaign donations.

“It's high time that those people have representation from the legislative branch on the issue of Indian gaming,” she said.

OPD formalizes relationship to help find missing children, elderly (Oneida, WI) - The Oneida Police Department, along with all the Law Enforcement agencies in Brown County, have recently formalized a relationship with a national program called A Child Is Missing Alert Program (ACIM). ACIM assists in the search of missing children, the elderly (often with Alzheimer's), and the disabled in the first critical hours of their disappearance.

A Child Is Missing Alert is a nonprofit organization that uses a high tech telephone alert system to canvas a geographical area with telephone calls describing the missing person and asking anyone with leads to call their local law enforcement agency. Alert calls are launched within 15 minutes from the request by the law enforcement agency at a rate of 1,000 calls per minute.

A Child Is Missing Alert has been serving law enforcement since 1997 and to date, more than 11 million telephone alert calls have been made to help find missing individuals. ACIM has been credited by law enforcement with 140 safe recoveries in the last 47 months.

Once a law enforcement officer investigates the situation, law enforcement calls ACIM. Information about the missing person is given to ACIM. The information is loaded and a geographical area is determined using mapping technology. All the listed phone numbers in the area are sent a computer generated telephone call giving all the pertinent information about the missing person. The message then asks them to call their local law enforcement agency with any information. If someone has an unlisted number or only a cell phone, their numbers can be added to the database by calling ACIM at (954) 763-1288, or by visiting their website, www.achildissing.org.

The relationship represents the Oneida Police Departments continuing effort to build ties with local law enforcement agencies. These ties help provide Oneida and surrounding communities with the best law enforcement possible.

“Having this program is a huge asset in finding a person that is missing or lost,” said Interim Assistant Chief of Police, Rich Van Boxtel. “We can tap into the biggest resource that is available to us, our community.”

Kansas Potawatomi may try for new casino in Illinois

By Sam Hananel
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) An American Indian tribe that owns one of Kansas' most successful casinos has bought an off-reservation site near Chicago, where it has long considered building a resort and casino.

The Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation of Kansas purchased the 128-acre parcel last month in Shabbona, Ill., about 60 miles west of Chicago.

Rey Kitchkumme, vice chairman of the tribal council, said the tribe would have no comment until a Tuesday morning news conference near the Illinois land.

Claudia Hicks, village president of Shabbona, said Kitchkumme called to inform her of the nearly $9 million land purchase last week but told her he would not disclose plans until the news conference.

"The speculation is that it's for a casino, but speculation and it actually happening are two different things," Hicks said in a telephone interview.

Efforts to build off-reservation casinos in Kansas have stalled due to opposition from the state's congressional delegation.

The tribe and Harrah's Entertainment run Harrah's Prairie Band Casino on reservation land north of Topeka in Mayetta, Kan.

The Illinois property is in the congressional district of U.S. House Speaker Dennis Hastert, who has previously said he opposes a casino in Shabbona. A spokesman for Hastert did not immediately return a call on Monday seeking comment.

Establishing an off-reservation requires a lengthy review process at the federal and state level that takes years to complete.

The Indian Gaming Regulatory Act prohibits gambling on land acquired after 1988, but the secretary of the U.S. Department of Interior can grant an exception after considering whether the plan is in the best interests of the tribes and not detrimental to surrounding communities.

Exceptions generally are not granted without strong support from the state's congressional delegation.

In January, spokesmen for Kansas Sen. Sam Brownback and Rep. Todd Tiahrt — both Republicans — said the lawmakers would oppose any efforts to establish off-reservation gambling in Kansas.

The Prairie Band Potawatomi and two other Indian tribes in Kansas want to build new casinos near more populated areas and share revenue with the state. That plan has the support of Kansas Gov. Kathleen Sebelius.

A spokeswoman for Sebelius said the governor was not consulted on the tribe's latest plan and had no comment.

Nedra Darling, a spokeswoman for the Interior Department's Bureau Indian Affairs, said the agency has no record of an application for an off-reservation casino in Illinois from the Prairie Band Potawatomi.

The tribe contacted the Interior Department several years ago to inquire about a separate claim to land in Shabbona that includes much of nearby Shabbona Lake State Park. A former agency official issued a preliminary opinion stating the claim may be credible.

Hicks said local opinion on a possible casino is mixed.

"It depends on who you talk to," she said. "I wouldn't necessarily welcome it and wouldn't not welcome it."

Ho-Chunk tribe agrees to make $30 million payment to state

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - The Ho-Chunk Nation agreed to pay the state $30 million in back payments as part of a gaming compact between the two sides, state officials said Wednesday.

The state and Ho-Chunk remain locked in a dispute over another $75 million to which the state says it is entitled.

In 2004 the state Supreme Court invalidated portions of a compact Gov. Jim Doyle negotiated with the Potawatomi tribe in 2003 to expand the type of games it could offer in return for increased tribal fees to the state. The contract was similar to others Doyle signed with tribes, including the Ho-Chunk.

Following the ruling the Ho-Chunk stopped offering the new games and said that meant it was no longer obligated to pay the state its payments due in 2004 and 2005.

Under the agreement, the Ho-Chunk will pay the state $30 million toward its 2004 payment. The two sides will continue negotiations regarding the estimated $75 million the state says it's owed for operations in 2005, 2006 and 2007, according to Sean Dilweg, the top aide to state Administration Secretary Steve Bablitch.

A spokeswoman for the Ho-Chunk Nation did not immediately return a message left Wednesday.

The two sides have suspended arbitration while each pursues an appeal in federal court over how the arbitrator was chosen, Dilweg said. Both sides will continue negotiating outside of the appeals process, he said.

The state has reached a new deal with the Potawatomi and continues to negotiate with the other tribes.

Legislative Review

Vice-Chairwoman's Corner...

Vice-Chairwoman
Kathy Hughes

The Oneida Business Committee is very busy with a variety of meetings covering a diverse group of subject matters. It seems like not a lot of time is spent on any one issue but that's just because there are so many meetings that are held.

Most recently, we took up the discussion on the opening of the sludge ponds, located directly behind the Hotel and Casino, for dumping of the highly toxic waste. The initial contact indicated this was on a fast track, therefore the Tribe needed to put an action plan together very quickly. However, we have now been informed that there will be time set aside for public comment which will afford us the opportunity needed to put in our objections to the plan and the risk to the future of our community with contaminations to both water and air. We want to see clean up of the waterways done, but we don't want the highly toxic waste stored in our back yard.

This month I attended consultation sessions for the Dept. of Health and Human Services, addressing subjects ranging from the Older Americans Act to health care. The State Dept. of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection also held a consultation session at which open grazing, wild rice protection and emerald ash problems were discussed. It gets frustrating attending these sessions and stating the same thing year after year but if we didn't speak out then we would never make any progress. On a federal level with the DHHS we seem to always be asking for more money but underlying that is a recognition of the status of Tribes as sovereign nations. Congress seems to use the "special interest group" designation more often when asking why they should be trying to meet our needs. The State, on the other hand, is doing the consultation sessions as a new initiative encouraged by the Governor, to get input from Tribes on issues involving more than just money. I find these sessions to be very informative in providing direction for cooperative relationships that will benefit the Tribe and its members.

The Committee has been receiving information on a proposed gas pipeline coming through the reservation. The company bringing this additional supply up from Illinois is seeking input from owners whose property the proposed pipeline will be crossing. Further discussions will be taking place before a determination can be made on what the Tribe's position will be on this project. The main factor driving consideration is the competition a second line will generate, supposedly to the benefit of the consumer, by driving the prices down. But there are also environmental considerations that need to be addressed. I encourage you to seek information through the community meetings Guardian Pipeline will be holding over the next couple of months. Information will also be available from the Tribe as we conduct our research for arriving at a decision.

There sure seems to be a lot of interest in what the Tribe is doing since the public posting of the bankruptcy notice of Thornberry Creek. This is land within the original boundaries of the reservation and our land acquisition plan is to reacquire as much of the land within these boundaries as is possible. We hold annual meetings open to the public to disseminate progress with this well publicized plan. Of course we have many needs being addressed with the revenues we receive from our gaming operations and it is not all available for buying back land.

Looking ahead, we have the Annual Family Carnival scheduled for June 2nd and 3rd. This is a good time that gets better and better every year. Bring your family and friends. Encourage your neighbors to join in the fun.

Legislative Update

Greetings,

At a recent Indian Child Welfare conference, the picture above was used by a Canadian tribe to illustrate how their children, each and every one of them, are related and the extent to which that Tribe places value on them. I respect that Tribe's wisdom for keeping that tradition alive. That wisdom demonstrates the interconnectedness many Tribal people have that many other cultures have forgotten or never cared to consider. As a child, the values taught to me were to always consider others as if they were part of yourself. Those values will continue to guide my decisions as an Oneida Business Committee Councilman.

A Tribal Court

The Town of Hobart lies almost entirely within the boundaries of the Oneida Reservation. Their court is housed on land that was issued to us by Treaty. Last year that court conducted approximately 900 court proceedings. Many of those proceedings involved our Oneida people who were dragged into that court and fined by a judge of Hobart. That should not be happening on the Oneida Indian Reservation.

In the Treaty of 1838, our ancestors made a deal with the United States. Part of that deal was that as Oneida people, we would maintain our inherent right to govern ourselves. In today's world, the ability to self-govern requires the ability to regulate what happens within our boundaries.

In September, the General Tribal Council will be presented a proposal that will establish a Tribal Court System for our Oneida Tribe. At that meeting, we Oneida people will have the opportunity to protect and exercise our inherent right of self-governance.

COLA

My office continues to advocate for a FAIR cost of living increases for Oneida employees. If you are an employee, you have a right to contact your favorite, or not so favorite, Oneida Business Committee member and ask them to support a FAIR COLA increases for fiscal year 2007.

Tribal Social Security Plan

Tribal members are advised to attend community meetings regarding the proposed Tribal Social Security, scheduled throughout May and June. My office does not support the plan if it takes away from per capita payments, however, I would support a provision that would give Tribal members options. Nor does my office support any provision which would allow the Tribe to claim any portion of an estate of a deceased Tribal member because of the Social Security Plan.

Exemplary Education

I believe Tribal children have a right to a quality education that prepares them to compete in today's highly technical world. The Federal government does not have a good record for providing quality academic education to Indian children. As a result, tribal governments, tribal education systems, and tribal people are now becoming more involved. As a result, there are Indian schools in Indian Country that are in the process of providing quality academic programs for Indian children. Now there is hope.

The American Indian School, located in a very poor section of Oakland, California, is a school in which 20% of the children are Indian. In that school, 35% of their student body pass the State of California college entrance exams by 7th and 8th grade. As a result, Indian children growing up in poverty have a chance to be successful in college as American Indian School student body outscore more affluent children from more affluent school systems throughout California.

Councilman

On the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota, a community long known for its poverty and the hopelessness that poverty wreaks on people, their school system was recently awarded an Exemplary Education Award by the Exemplary Indian Education Institute because of their initiative to provide quality academic education to their children. Their test scores are rising as their attendance and academic programs improve. Also receiving Exemplary Education awards were the Salt River Indian Reservation School System and the Nepelem Tribe in Washington State.

As an former educator of Indian children for 17 years, it is fulfilling to know that successful Indian education programs are being developed to enable Indian children to compete in today's and tomorrow's world. As a member of the Oneida Business Committee, I hope to work with the Oneida Nation School Board, the Oneida Nation School System, and concerned members of the Oneida Business Committee to bring a Exemplary Education program to Oneida's children, all of them.

Thank you!

Cornelius makes professional fancy shawl dancing debut in The Encounter

By Dawn Walschinski
 Kalihwisaks
 Kahnya Cornelius has been fancy shawl dancing since she was little, now she's dancing on stage in The Encounter, a professional dance production that mixes ballet and pow wow styles. The Encounter debuted in Bismark, North Dakota last month. The performers dance while images taken by professional photographer Robert Meyer are displayed behind them. In the final number called Inclusion, the pow wow and ballet dancers perform together. "At the end we do a round dance and we bring them all together, and we dance to (ballet) music and they dance to our music," she said. The production has received favorable reviews and strikes an emotional cord with audience members, sometimes moving them to tears. While The Encounter artistically displays the culture clash of the first contact between Native Americans and Europeans, the underlining message is of respect and inclusiveness. "We're the same, we both dance to the same music, even though we're so different, we're both the same," said Cornelius who has a solo performance that honors women. The Encounter has played a few times regionally, but there are hopes to bring the production to other theaters in the United States and possibly Japan. "This is just the beginning, they want to make it bigger and go all over," she said. Cornelius has recently completed her junior year at United Tribes Technical College in Bismark. She is pursuing a double major in elementary education and disabilities, but would like to continue working in the production. "I think it was cool. I was something new, interesting," she said.

Oneida Nation High School 2006 Cosmic Prom was a success

Prom 2006 was a blast for all

By Winona Godfrey

ONHS Junior

The ONHS prom was a great success. The students were very happy with the DJ, who DJ's for all the Menominee dances. The students had a blast dancing to the cha-cha slide. There was no room on the dance floor when that song came on.

Cathy Delgado, ONHS group counselor, busted out the electric slide. Cathy also said that if no one got up to dance, she would tell the DJ to play "Thriller" the rest of the night, and for the people who danced the electric slide for the whole song would get a surprise after the song and dance.

Prom court and after-party

By Jonathon House

ONHS Senior

This year, ONHS held its prom at the Radisson Hotel. The DJ was straight out of K-Town (Keshena) there, waah-haay. His names was Buckle Waukau. The music was good and there were no complaints. The food was great!

After the prom, there was a lock-in at the Turtle School. The purpose of the lock-in was to prevent teenage drinking following the prom. According to students who were there, the lock-in was fun. They had sumo wrestling suits, over-sized boxing gloves and a lot of other activities. They also had a bull riding machine!

The freshmen were represented on prom court by Yuntle McLester and Mesaen Wheelock. The sophomore mented that this year was the best prom out of their whole school career. Of course the freshmen wouldn't really know because it was their first prom. But the sophomores, juniors, and seniors said it was the best prom.

For the food they had a little variety; mini burritos, beef wellington deluxe, fruit tray, and BBQ chicken wings. As for refreshments they had sprite, mellow yellow, lipton's iced tea, and water.

The staff also arranged an after-prom at the Turtle school. The chaperones at that event said there were no incidents (fighting, etc.) so the staff were very pleased with that.

representatives were Debbie Santiago and Nic Cantu. For the juniors it was Lois Stevens and Eddie Metoxen. For the seniors, it was Stakwas Danforth and Anthony Gutierrez.

ONHS celebrates Earth Day

By Earl Elm

ONHS Junior

Earth Day activities at high school are a good idea because they get more kids to get active and help out. This year we had a social dance in the BC conference room and then a tree planting in memory of all ONHS students and staff who have passed on. The activity was set up by the student council. The tree is a cedar tree donated by the conservation department and it is planted just east of the main parking lot at Norbert Hill Center.

The first Earth Day was in 1970. Ever since, the earth's air has been getting cleaner. But it took 35 years just to see some result in the earth's air. And we've still got problems. How long will it take to get the air as clean as it could get? It will probably take 70 years to get it that clean.

Phoenix Suburb Wants Wi-Fi – Is it a Trend?

By Travis Dessart-Cornelius

ONHS Senior

Tempe, Arizona, a Phoenix suburb, wants wireless internet available for its residents. If the plan goes through Tempe will be the first city in the United States to have wireless internet through out their entire 40 square mile area.

Officials hope their easily accessible high speed internet will act as a good economic development tool. The network will be setup through 400 antenna boxes mounted on light poles throughout the city. NeoReach Wireless, the provider of this service, will sell access primarily through other providers.

How about Oneida? In our next issue, we'll look at what it would take for Oneida to follow suit and just how far away wireless internet might be for our community.

Mr. Irrelevant – It's not so bad!

By Darrell Skenandore

ONHS Junior and Thunderhawk Times second semester editor

Mr. Irrelevant is an award given to the last guy selected in the NFL Draft. It all began in 1976 when a totally unknown wide receiver from a totally unknown college of Dayton – Kelvin Kirk. – became the last player selected in the draft that year. He was invited to Newport Beach for a week of upside down celebrating.

This year's Mr. Irrelevant goes to a wide receiver from Maine, Kevin McMahan, who was drafted by the Oakland Raiders. He will be invited to Orange County for a week of celebrating which will be consisted of a golf tournament, regatta, and sports banquet. It is also open to the public.

Baseball season canceled

On Thursday, April 27, ONHS baseball players were called into a meeting where it was announced that the baseball season would be canceled.

"It was a combination of things," said athletic director Lance Kelley, citing failing grades and too many players missing practices as two of the primary reasons.

Grades had been an issue

all along and players were working toward improving their grades. However, head coach Gary Lancelle said that at the time the season was canceled there were still ten "F's" amongst the players. The athletic code is pretty clear about failing grades and eligibility.

Still, the players were disappointed.

My Scoop

The end of baseball.

By Joe Christjohn

ONHS junior

The end of the ONHS baseball season was the most horrible thing that happened because everybody was having a good time with everything.

I myself was very disappointed when the season ended because I didn't really know what was going on when the baseball meeting was called. I thought it was to "psych up" for the Menominee game later that day.

Athletic director, Lance Kelley, came into the room and stated that people weren't stepping up and that players still had F's, though some of the players had improved their grades.

Most of the team was mad that the season ended.

K-win Wheelock, a senior, said he was really disappointed because he didn't "have anything to do after school anymore and the team was getting pretty decent. We could have won some games if some [players] would have stepped up."

Isaiah Smith, another senior, said, "It's bad that it ended" because it was his senior year.

Coach Gary Lancelle said, "After waiting six years for a good team, I finally got one, only to be yanked away because of grades. It was very frustrating. We are a school first. Next year's students will understand that the priorities are grades. Remember, I am a teacher first and you guys are about so much more than baseball."

That was what the coach had to say. I'm still kind of mad that the season ended the way it did, especially on a game day. That was some bad stuff right there.

Alana Dallas is the winner of the most overall petals earned in the final facility wide Character Development challenge. She earned 33 petals out of a grand total of 300. Excellent job young lady, keep up the great work. Because of her displays of good behavior, and choice making Alana was allowed to chose a prize from my prize pile. She ended up picking an art kit full of oil, water color, and tempera paints, colored pencils, and pastels. Every child who received at least one petal for displaying positive behaviors is going on the big BBQ trip to Pamperin Park on May 1st. It should be a blast.

Not only that it is the end of the rest of the programs in the learning center this month, due to the fact that I will be having my baby soon, YEAH! The recipient of the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place prizes for the most time spent utilizing homework help is Dante Thomas, Bobby Mills, and Diego Metoxen. Way to go guys. The recipients of the 1st 2nd and 3rd place prizes for the character chain challenge are Diego Metoxen, Jairica Christjohn, and Devonte Pointer. Last but defiantly not least are the recipients of the current events challenge this month.

This month the youth at the civic center were challenged to use their imagination and think outside of the box to create their very own front page on any topic they wanted. The winners of this challenge are Diego Metoxen and Jairica Christjohn. They both put a lot of effort and creativity into their front pages..

Awesome job everyone, the effort put into these last challenges at the end of the school year was great, I am proud of each and every one of you.

Also one last reminder, to the teens. I am still here to help with school, job searches, colleges searches, and anything else you can come up with. So, do not be strangers come on in, ask for Mandy, and we will get started on any topic or task you can throw at me.

March 2006 Monthly Report

Patient Demographics:

Patient complaints logged.....	10

Complainants.....	All Female
Patient Gender	7 Female
	3 Male
Patient Age	2 Children
	7 Adults
	1 Elderly

Unlogged Patient Complaints.....	3
(Informal complaints received without a request to investigate)
Complainants	2 Oneida Females
	1 Oneida Male Administrator

Complaint Categories:

Pharmacy (wait times, communication)	3
Dental (appt. scheduling, back log)	3
Contract Health Dollars	2
Referral Process for OCHC	1
Appt. Scheduling for BH	1
Appt. Scheduling for Medical	1
Billing	1
Disability Authorizations for BH	1
Treatment of Patients	1
New Nursing Home	1
(Treatment of Advanced Alzheimers)
Unlogged - Collections, Dental appt. scheduling, Elderly Independent Living

Trends:

There appears to be a high concern amongst users of the OCHC regarding timing and communication of prescriptions. Most patients seemed to be understanding of the high volumes of prescriptions processed but were frustrated when they tried to be “proactive” in getting scripts filled or refilled. They were communicated a time frame for pick-up and upon their return, the scripts were not ready. Some staff had good customer service skills and communicated the reasons for the delay, others were very “short” and rude with customers. Perhaps some articles in the Kalihwisaks or flyers to be distributed to patients giving “helpful hints” for better and more efficient use of the Pharmacy would be helpful. Investigation into the high volume growth should also occur so that future physical space and staffing can be objectively evaluated and forecasted.

The three month lag in appointment scheduling and working down the “back log” to get into the Dental Clinic are increasingly concerning to the Community. Fortunately, many Tribal members know the importance of good Dental Care and the need to be preventative with cleanings and regular check-ups. Unfortunately, many members are not able to get an appointment in a timely fashion right now and this will lead to increased costs as the dental work needed to be completed is being “put off.” The Institute for Healthcare Improvement has been working with many healthcare providers to deal with “back log” issues. The perpetual cycle will only continue to get worse unless strong, proactive measures are put in place and management has a commitment to reduce the “back log.” This will require additional resources for a time but will reduce more costly procedure costs in the future. Serious consideration should be given to extending clinic hours, increasing providers and/or contracting for services from external sources until such time as the “back log” is diminished.

Eligibility criteria for use of Contract Health Dollars remains a question for many tribal members. A publication for the Community to educate them on eligibility and the use of Contract Health Dollars would be advisable. Members question what they should be afforded under basic Patient Rights – Can they be “threatened” to get “pre-authorization” for emergent care or Contract Health Dollars will not pay?

The other complaints logged this month focus on “process” issues within Departments and how they create barriers or interruptions in service for patients. Many Healthcare Providers are working on process models that involve input from the Patient. Processes are looked at from the “Patient perspective” rather than staff or Administration. This is in line with the Customer Service Orientation that many Healthcare Providers are turning to. The Healthcare Industry has had to move toward a Customer Service environment in order to remain competitive and to meet the demands of their Customer – the Patient. The Institute for Healthcare Improvement; a Partner with the Indian Health Service has expertise in assisting many National Healthcare Organizations in this direction.

Productivity Report:

- 10 Patient complaints were received in the month of March.
- 16 Administrative/Staff Interviews were conducted in the month of March.

an outbreak on campuses and subsequently has led to the spreading of the disease throughout the Midwest. “You have to think of this as a network, and so when someone leaves the original source of an outbreak and goes to a new community where there are susceptible people...they will be next to come in contact with the mumps virus,” Gerberding explains. Spring break, along with Easter and other holidays, a time when people tend to gather with friends and family, have provided a path for the virus to travel outside the original community.

Gerberding also explains that even a very good vaccine can be imperfect, “About 10 percent of people who are inoculated still remain (susceptible) to mumps.” So imagine you have a community like greater Green Bay with a population of about 175,000 and every person was properly vaccinated, there would still be up to 17,500 people that could end up with the mumps.

According to the CDC, adults born before 1957 are considered immune from the virus because it is believed that they were exposed to the mumps while in childhood. Like the

- “down-time” on occasion, Not enough phone lines, age of software (PARS), updated technology assessment needed because of growth
- Regulatory/Safety – Need to look into Hood installation for Pharmacy & Medical to share, look into Clinical Supervision in BH, Receiving area in OCHC cluttered and unorganized creating safety issues, Dispensing of Off-site prescriptions for SEOTS
- Training – Customer Service Training is lacking, staff orientations are not being properly conducted due to lack of resources
- Education – Need to educate Community that OCHC is not an Emergency Center and on the impact that the Employee Group Insurance Change had on OCHC - volumes, growth
- Cultural – Request for Tobacco Burning and Feast at OCHC, cultural training requirement of ___# of hours/year for all staff
- Administrative/Operations–22 issues to refer to management
- Personnel–4 areas of concern to refer to management

Trends in Administrative Issues:

There appear to be many power struggles and a lack of team work at both the OCHC and BH Program. Poor Communication and distrust seems to be a common theme for both entities. Within the Oneida Governmental Structure there has always been an emphasis on getting the input and feedback of Tribal members (both employed and non-employed) in order to improve and enhance services. Respect, dignity, fairness and honesty are values that have been upheld within the Oneida Community since its inception. It appears that Directors have either been apathetic and avoid employee complaints or they have been very rude and intimidating with employees who have voiced concerns and opinions. It seems that “management” needs to implement a process where-by employees can submit complaints and be responded to. The “Blue-Book” does outline a process for dealing with employee complaints but it does not seem to be being utilized in many instances. Formal staff meetings with agendas that address Policy, Procedure or Process changes should be implemented. Staff input into proposals, new concepts, projects or ideas should be put into place. Training on developing teams and teamwork for all management and supervisory personnel is advised.

Continuous Improvement:

- Researched other Ombudsperson’s Programs (Long-Term Care, National Ombudsman Resource Center, State of WI, Association of National Ombudsman)
- Developed Standard Operating Procedures for Program and received input from Oneida Law Office
- Developed Medical Information, Identity and Referral Release forms
- Developed Privacy/Confidentiality Statement
- Developed Complaint Intake Form
- Developed Program Strategic Plan
- Developed Communications Plan

chickenpox, once you had the mumps you are considered immune from repeat infections.

If you are exposed to the mumps you may not even know it, according to a release by the Oneida Health Center, 15-20% of people infected with the mumps will show no symptoms, but if you do, the symptoms typically appear 16-18 days after infection. Once infected and diagnosed, a person should remain isolated for 8-10 days to avoid infecting others. “(Mumps) is a communicable disease, we want people to be isolated, we want to stop the spread, and the only way you can do that is by isolating,” says Meyers

Although the Midwest outbreak is the largest in recent history, mumps are not exactly an unheard of disease, according to a 1995 CDC report, on average the United States reports 4,500 to 13,000 cases of mumps annually, and those numbers are about 90% less than the pre-vaccine numbers of the early 1960’s which hovered around 200,000 cases annually.

If you feel that you may be one of these annual cases contact your health professional for a diagnosis. Meyers says, “You need to know if you have the mumps or not, (your health provider) would be able to tell you, yeah or no, or if it’s just a cold.” You can reach the Oneida Community Health Center at 869-4840.

Mumps: quick reference

Mumps is a viral infection that primarily affects the parotid glands — one of three pairs of salivary glands, located below and in front of your ears. If you or your child contracts mumps, it can cause swelling in one or both parotid glands.

Causes

The cause of mumps is the mumps virus, which spreads easily from person to person through infected saliva. If you're not immune, you can contract mumps by breathing in saliva droplets of an infected person who has just sneezed or coughed. You can also contract mumps from sharing utensils or cups with someone who has mumps.

When to seek medical advice

If you suspect that you or your child has mumps, see your doctor. Mumps has become an uncommon illness, so it's possible that your symptoms are caused by another more common condition. Swollen glands and a fever could be an indication of inflamed tonsils (tonsillitis) or a blocked salivary gland. Other, rarer viruses can infect the parotid glands, causing a mumps-like illness.

Screening and diagnosis

If your doctor suspects that you or your child has mumps, a virus culture or serologic blood test may be needed. This blood test can detect mumps antibodies, which indicate whether you have had a recent or past infection

Prevention of Mumps

In general, you're considered immune to mumps if you've previously had the infection or if you've been immunized against mumps.

The mumps vaccine is usually given as a combined measles-mumps-rubella (MMR) inoculation, which contains the safest and most effective form of each vaccine. Doctors recommend that children receive the MMR vaccine between 12 and 15 months of age, and again between 3 and 6 years of age — before entering school.

Treatment

Because mumps is caused by a virus, antibiotics are not an effective treatment.

A mumps infection must simply run its course which may take 2-3 weeks.

Oneida 4-H youth team up with Oneida Pantry Volunteers

By Bill Ver Voort
OCIFS Coordinator

It was a cold Spring day outside, but our spirits were high in the Nori Damrow Food Distribution Center warehouse on Saturday, April 28, 06'. This is where the Oneida 4-H youth and the Oneida Pantry volunteers came together to pick daffodils, clean white corn and enjoy an old fashion cookout. With over 20 adults and youth in attendance we were able to clean the 200 pounds of white corn that the Oneida Nation Farm had so generously donated to the Falling Leaves 4-H youth.

The Oneida Falling Leaves 4-H club intends to sell the white corn as a fundraiser for the club. This would then allow us to continue to offer educational tours and trips to the 4-H youth and their families. There were many obstacles that had to be overcome to achieve this, but with the help of the Oneida Community Integrated Food Systems (OCIFS) members we were able to move forward with our goal. The Oneida Nation Farm provided us with the product. The Food Distribution Program provided us with the space and the Oneida Food Pantry provided us with volunteers who helped clean the corn and taught the 4-H youth lessons along the way. A huge thank you to all for their assistance and for making it such a fun-filled wonderful event.
