Northern Indigenous Games Day Camp

The Northern Indigenous Games Day Camp with Dan Ninham kicked off its two week run at Lombardi Middle School. Activities will include Indigenous Games (medicine and traditional) taught by Dan Ninham, Arts and Music taught by Annie Humphrey, and Iacrosse which will be taught by Brickman House. This week's camp is for middle and high school children and will run from 12 - 4:30 p.m. today through Friday. Next week's camp (June 25-29) is for children in grades 3-5 and will run Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m. - 4 p.m. These events are free. For more information feel free to contact Sandra Gomez at (920) 272-7611.

Special General Tribal Council meeting convened

By Christopher Johnson Kalihwisaks Sr. Reporter/ Photographer cjohnson@oneidanation.org @cjohns89 (920) 496-5632

The Oneida General Tribal Council (GTC) held a special meeting on Monday, June 18, at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center. The meeting was attended by 1,765 Oneida Nation members. The meeting agenda, which took 48 minutes to adopt, contained a previously tabled Employment Law item brought forward by Madelvn Genskow as well as a Sustain Oneida Initiative update and the creation of a treatment center petition brought forward by Yvonne Metivier.

Madelyn Genskow kicked off the evening by motioning for her Employment Law item to be kept on the table, which passed by a show of hands.

After another motion passed by show of hands to swap the remaining two agenda items, Yvonne Metivier motioned for her treatment center item to be tabled until Bryan Kastelic, a special agent with the Wisconsin Department of Justice, could attend a future meeting to address the ongoing opioid crisis.

The final item discussed was the Sustain Oneida initiative. Oneida Trust Committee Chairwoman Bobbi Webster was on hand to present updated information to the GTC regarding their efforts to formulate a plan to deal with the downward trend in qualifying blood quantum among registered Oneida Nation citizens. Webster explained that current enrollment criteria will not be able to sustain the Oneida Nation in the long term. "In 1934 the federal government passed the Indian Reorganization Act which required a person to have at least one-quarter Oneida blood to be considered Oneida," Webster said. "So those who are not on our rolls and are one-sixteenth or less.....are they Oneida? These are the decisions we must come to."

Future focus groups as well as an economic impact study are all parts of the ongoing efforts to find solutions for the tribe. "How this issue is handled may be the most important decision the Oneida Nation makes this century," Trust and Enrollment Committee board member Norbert Hill, Jr., said.

GTC then voted to accept the Sustain Oneida Initiative update as information only and the meeting adjourned at 8:16 p.m.

Agricultural Expo provides hemp education

By Christopher Johnson Kalihwisaks Sr. Reporter/ Photographer cjohnson@oneidanation.org @cjohns89 (920) 496-5632

The Oneida Falling Leaves 4-H Club presented a Growing Our Future Agricultural Expo on Saturday, June 9, at the Norbert Hill Center. Nearly 500 people attended the family-oriented event which featured activities such as face painting, Henna art, free hemp smoothies, live music, guest speakers and more. The 4-H Club also unveiled a 3-D agricultural version of the popular Minecraft video game they created.

Educating people about the viability of hemp and its many uses was a main focus of the event. "The event went very well," Oneida Community Integrated Food System Coordinator (OCIFS) Bill Vervoort said. "From an educational standpoint I had many people tell me they learned so much about industrial hemp and what we can do with it. But educating the community isn't going to happen with one event. It needs to be a year-round thing."

Cultural Events Coordinator Crystal Meltz, who volunteered at the event, agrees. "I thought the expo went well also," Kali photo/Christopher Johnson

Students from the Oneida Falling Leaves 4-H Club play the agricultural version of the popular game Minecraft they created for the Growing Our Future Agricultural Expo. Other event highlights included guest speaker Kyle Turley, a Brown Countv Bee Association demonstration hive, free hemp smoothies, and 4-H garden tours.

Meltz said. "I took care of the smoothie table and it was interesting to see how many people enjoyed the hemp smoothie shakes. A lot of people wanted to know what the recipe was once they realized how simple it was to make."

The potential health benefits of hemp were on people's minds as well. "I spoke with quite a few people who were really looking for some of the health benefits that CBD oil and other hemp products provide. Educating the public needs to continue because people are looking for answers and to get out of that world. help medically."

One of the highlights of the expo was a guest appearance by former All-Pro offensive lineman Kyle Turley, Turley, who played 10 seasons in the NFL, spoke at length about the numerous injuries he suffered throughout his career and the positive impact CBD extract has had on his post-football life.

"I was addicted to a bunch of opiates and I literally got to my end with it," Turley said. "I was contemplating a lot of bad things and I needed to make a change. Then I learned about CBD extract from hemp which has the opportunity to address a lot of these issues I was taking all those pills for."

While he will never be pain free, Turley firmly believes CBD saved his life. "My testament to the power of CBD is the fact that I am even here," Turley said. "For over four years now absolutely zero synthetic pills have entered my body. I have not been sick in four years. I no longer experience vertigo, seizures, or contemplate suicide and all the other negative things that come with painkillers, muscle relaxers, and sleep aids. Many former players are dealing with a lot of issues because we played a game that created a brain disease. Well, then they give you psych meds which is a whole other issue and the biggest for me in trying

I had to find something different that worked and addressed those issues that were happening to me.

"I have pain constantly," Turley said. "It'll never go away but it's about how you manage that pain. If you take CBD you will see for yourself that your pain is unbelievably more manageable. And as it becomes more manageable you'll be able to get back to the things in life like the gym or your daily walks. You'll be able to get back to doing the things that your mind was keeping you from doing because of depression and pain. CBD is unbelievable against anxiety and stress and helps us get back to being active and being human and doing the things we need to do to stay alive and healthy."

Turley agrees with Vervoort and Meltz that education is the key to helping people understand the benefits of hemp and CBD. "The biggest reason we have such a disconnect today, even with all the technology that we have, is being uneducated," Turley said. "People can truly choose to educate themselves on accurate information that is widely available on the National Institute of Health's website. You're either choosing to be ignorant or vou're choosing to be educated. I challenge everybody for the sake of their community to be educated."

The Thornberry Creek LPGA Classic is looking for additional volunteers to Marshal July 5th - 8th during the 2018 event.

A lifeline to the success of an LPGA event is the army of volunteers made up of willing and enthusiastic people in our community. Being a volunteer is a unique behind-thescenes way to experience a professional golf tournament. It's fun, exciting, and gratifying to know that you are playing a vital role in its success.

What is a Marshal? Stationed throughout the course to ensure fair play among all participants, as well as safety for spectators. The focus is on the tees, landing areas, greens and spectator crosswalks. This committee will also assist in handling the movement of the players during an evacuation (if necessary).

For a registration fee of $55, volunteers receive a tournament shirt and hat, four weekly grounds passes ($300 value), one parking pass, and food and beverage during their shifts. Volunteers that work a minimum of 18 hours during the course of the event are eligible for one round of golf at Thornberry Creek at Oneida with greens fees waived ($25 cart fee still applicable). Additional information, as well as the registration link can be found on the tournament website www.thornberrycreeklpaaclassic.com.

WWII Navajo code talker dies at 94

ST. GEORGE, Utah (AP) – Samuel Tom Holiday, one of the last surviving Navajo Code Talkers, died in southern Utah Monday surrounded by family members who raised money through a crowdfunding campaign to be by his side.

He was 94.

Holiday was among hundreds of Navajos who used a code based on their native language to transmit messages in World War II. The Japanese never broke it.

He was 19 when he joined the Marine Corps and became a part of operations in several locations across the Pacific during the war, according to The Spectrum. A mortar explosion left him with hearing loss, but he would later tell family that he always felt safe during battle because of a pouch around his neck holding sacred stones and yellow corn pollen.

He received a Congressional Silver Medal, a Purple Heart and other recognition for his action during the conflict.

After the war, Holiday returned to the Navajo reservation and worked as a police officer, a ranger and later started his own equipment company. He married Lupita Mae Isaac and had eight children.

In 2013, Holiday cowrote a book about his experience as a Code Talker called "Under the Eagle."

Fewer than 10 Code Talkers are believed to be alive today. The exact number is unknown because the program remained classified for several years following the war.

Holiday spent his later days living at the Southern Utah Veterans Home in Ivins. Utah.

Shortly before his death, family members turned to the crowdfunding site GoFundMe to raise $4,000 to be able to visit him in hospice care. The Navajo Nation said he was surrounded by friends and family when he died.

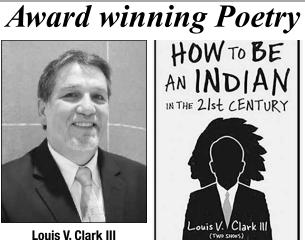

There will be a viewing at the Hughes Mortuary in St. George, Utah, on Thursday and funeral services in Monument Valley on Friday, according to the Navajo Nation Council.

Holiday will be buried at a veterans' cemetery in the Navajo community of Kaventa, Arizona, next to his wife.

The library at the Kayenta Middle School is named for Holiday.

He is survived by six children, 35 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Louis V. Clark III's book of poetry How to Be an Indian in the 21st Century was selected as an Outstanding Achievement Work of Poetry by the Wisconsin Library Association Literary Awards Committee recently.

Tehassi Tasi Hill Chairman

Shekoli,

Congratulations to the many recent Oneida graduates. Head start, kindergarten, eighth grade, high school, or college, I want to recognize all of you. Education is important and we all have different gifts. Education can come through a formal program, taking the time to listen to the wisdom of our el- school graduates featured ders, or reading, research- in this month's Kali-ing and questioning. We all need to continue our learning throughout our lifetime. Graduation is a milestone and deserves recognition. Whether you are continuing your education, joining the workforce, or taking some time to volunteer, I commend you for your achievement. Many of our recent high hwisaks, are continuing to advance their education with funding through the Oneida Nation higher education scholarship program. This program is one of the GTC mandates incorporated into the budget each year in addition to the annual per cap. The Nation's annual mandates are $45.5 million. This brings me to the petition submitted for $5,000 for each tribal member. I am asking the Oneida citizens and voting members of the General Tribal Council to ensure vou are prepared and well educated on the upcoming Per Capita petition and the impact its passing would have on our Nation.

I do not support the Per Capita petition.

Sagoli Swakweku,

With this article I'd like to give you an update on what the Legislative Operating Committee is working on. Prior to being elected to the Business Committee, I didn't know how important our laws were or what the LOC actually did. Having served my first term on council and being part of the Legislative Operating Committee, I knew the laws effected our sovereignty, but now better understand that if we don't create and exercise our laws how that directly effects the heart of what sovereignty means.

When the GTC adopted the Legislative Procedures Act (LPA) in January 2013, the legislative process (the process by which the Tribe makes and amends Tribal laws and policies) changed to help provide the membership with as much information as possible. In keeping with our Oneida

State Settles with Wisconsin O'Connor Corporation

Consumer complaints related to a number of landlord/tenant issues

MADISON – The State of Wisconsin reached a settlement with Wisconsin O'Connor Corporation (WOC) to resolve consumer complaints related to a number of landlord/tenant issues including illegal security deposit deductions and prohibited rental agreement proincludes $500,000 in res-and assessments.

The Department of Justice, on behalf of the judgment, WOC will be Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection, entered into a consent judgment specifically requiring WOC to make changes to its rental agreements, provide new agreements to current tenants, and provide specific notifications to tenants. The judgment requires three years of monitoring – the business will file a report with the Department of Agriculture, visions. The settlement Trade and Consumer Protection every six months actions.

Under the terms of the required to comply with the requirements and prohibitions of Wisconsin rental laws. The business must:

- Remove contractual requirements that tenants give more than 28-days' notice to vacate an apartment.
- Remove contractual provisions that barred month-to-month tenants from ending their tenancy between October and March.

- titution, forfeitures, fees, regarding security deposit Cease deducting future rent, or rent that is not yet due, from security deposits.
  - Remove a provision that requires tenants to pay for replacements or improvements that are "minor in relation to the rent."
  - Remove any provisions that attempt to waive the company's legally required duty to maintain the premises. Existing agreements with these provisions are not enforceable.

• Discontinue security deposit deductions for cleaning, repairs, replacements, decorations, or improvements that are the result of normal wear and tear.

- · Provide clear and conspicuous verbiage in agreements with regard to late fee assessments.
- Provide (on a semi-annual basis) a notice to tenants who incur any late fees.

WOC is required to send a letter to tenants whose rental agreements are unenforceable due to violations of state law. These tenants will be required to continue making payments for rent and reasonable utility fees. Moving forward, unless the tenant agrees to a new rental agreement, their tenancy will be subject to requirements of state law. The $500,000 settlement includes: • $300,000 for restitution and the State's fees and expenses, including investigation costs. Currently the restitution stands at $112,147.18. The exact restitution amount will be determined after WOC produces all outstanding security deposit return letters from January 1, 2010 to June 5, 2018.

- $131,458.55 in civil forfeitures.
- $68,541.45 in fees and assessments.

If the company defaults on the established 6.5year payment schedule and fails to cure the situation within 30 days of default notification, the judgment will be amended to include $1,160,000 in payments to the State less any payments already made.

This settlement agreement also applies to residential rental properties owned by Mary Ann O'Connor.

By entering into this consent judgment, Wisconsin O'Connor Corporation does not admit that it has violated any laws or regulations of the State of Wisconsin

Storm Damage? Watch for Traveling Contractors MADISON ~ The tions, and your insurance is to be done and what half of the customer. The that their insurer has de-permit to operate if you continuous storms have brought flooding, strong winds and hail damage Wisconsin. throughout The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP) asks affected property owners to seek trusted contractors for repairs and to be leery of "storm chasers" that come knocking at your door with aggressive sales tactics.

Always use caution when interacting with storm chasers that show up at your door in the aftermath of a storm, never let them into your home, and do not give in to high-pressure pitches.

Start your search for a contractor by seeking references from neighbors, friends, family, local home builder associations, and your insurance company. You can also contact DATCP's Consumer Protection Hotline (800-422-7128) to check on complaints against a business.

Consider these tips if you seek help with a home repair after a major storm:

- Ask contractors if they are subcontracting your job. If they are, find out who the subcontractor will be and check them out as well.
- Get lien waivers from anyone you pay for home repairs. Lien waivers protect you if the person collecting the money does not pay the suppliers or workers.
- Get a written contract with a start and completion date and warranty information. Also, make certain that the contract states exactly what work is to be done and what materials are to be used. Never rely on a verbal commitment.

- Check with your local building inspector to see if the work requires a permit. Make sure an inspector visits the job site before you make a final payment.
- Request a copy of the contractor's certificate of liability insurance.

In addition, a Wisconsin state law - "The Storm Chaser Law" - aims to protect consumers, businesses and prevent insurance fraud. Highlights of the law include:

- Contractors cannot promise to pay all or some of a property insurance deductible.
- Contractors cannot represent or negotiate with the customer's homeowner's insurer on behalf of the customer. The contractor can, with the consent of the customer, discuss damages and costs with the insurer.

- Before entering into a contract with a customer, the contractor must inquire if the work requested is related to an insurance claim.
- Customers have a right to cancel the contract within three business days of being notified that their insurer has denied all or any part of the claim for work. Contractors must notify customers of this right.

It is important to note that local door-to-door solicitation rules could vary by municipality, and that there are legitimate businesses that may knock on your door with a sales pitch. A good practice to follow is to request a business representative's permit to operate if your municipality has a door-to-door sales ordinance.

For additional information or to file a complaint, visit the Consumer Protection Bureau at http:// datcp.wi.gov, send an e-mail to datcphotline@ wi.gov or call the Consumer Protection Hotline toll-free at 1-800-422-7128.

Foxconn investing in $30 million water recycling system

MILWAUKEE (AP) ~ Foxconn Technology Group plans to invest in a $30 million recycling system that will significantly reduce the amount of water it has to draw from Lake Michigan for its proposed manufacturing complex in southeast Wisconsin, the company said Tuesday.

Taiwan-based Foxconn announced that the ``zero liquid discharge" system will virtually eliminate the return of manufacturing waste water into the nearby lake.

Foxconn said in an emailed statement that the recycling system is expected to reduce water intake by more than 3.5 million gallons (13.25 million liters) per day. It said the system will eliminate manufacturing process wastewater by distilling it. The water can then be recycled, recovered and reused.

Foxconn has a similar system at its facility in Sakai, Japan.

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources in April approved a request from the city of Racine to draw 7 million gallons (26.5 million liters) of water a day from the lake to serve the $10 billion complex. The city's application estimated plant operations and evaporation would consume about 2.7 million gallons (10.2 million liters) daily and the rest would be returned to the lake.

Midwest Environmental Advocates, an environmental law center, filed a petition with the DNR in May arguing its approval violates the Great Lakes Compact, under which water transferred from the Great Lakes basin must be used for public purposes.

The department has granted a hearing on the challenge.

LEGAL NOTICE ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

The Oneida Nation herby gives notice that sealed bids will be received in the Engineering Department office for the following described project.

PROJECT - Oneida Fishery Restoration Phase II. The Oneida Nation is proposing to expand the existing lake to provide a sustainable fishing source and a recreational area for its members. The proposed lake expansion will provide additional fishery and recreational activities for tribal members. As part of this expansion, an access road will be constructed to provide access for construction activities, lake expansion and the future fish camps. The scope of services consists of clearing and grubbing, excavation, roadway construction, culvert pipes, bio-filter construction and landscaping. A complete description of the scope of work is noted in the Contract Documents.

PROCUREMENT OF CONTRACT DOCUMENTS - An Adobe Acrobat® electronic format digital file can be e-mailed upon request to the Project Manager, contact:

Sam VanDen Heuvel – Project Manager Telephone: 920-869-4585

E-mail: svandenh@oneidanation.org

INDIAN PREFERENCE – To the greatest extent feasible, the Oneida Nation shall give preference in the award of contracts to certified Indian Organizations and certified Indian Owned companies. Any contract awarded under this advertisement shall conform to the Oneida Nation's Indian Preference in Contracting law.

PRE-BID CONFERENCE – A pre-Bid conference has been scheduled for 1:00 PM on June 19, 2018 at the Little Bear Development Center. A site visit will immediately follow the conference.

A secondary site tour is available (not required) to any interested companies that could not attend the June 19, 2018 Pre-Bid Conference. The Site Tour will be held on Thursday, June 21, 2018 at 1: 00PM. Interested companies shall meet at the Little Bear Development Center.

SUBMITTAL DEADLINE – The deadline for submitting sealed bids to the Engineering Department is noted in the contract documents and is: before 2:30 PM on Tuesday, July 10, 2018.

Bids will be publicly opened and read aloud at the Engineering Department office.

The OWNER reserves the right to accept or reject any bids which may be advantageous to the OWNER. No bid shall be withdrawn after the opening of bids without the consent of the OWNER for a period of one hundred and twenty (120) days after the scheduled time of receiving bids. Each bidder must deposit, with his bid, security in the amount of 5% of his bid in accordance with the conditions provided in the Instructions to Bidders.

The awarded contractors will be required to obtain an Oneida Vendors License, if firm does not currently hold a license.

Ayes: Daniel Guzman King, David P. Jordan, Brandon Stevens, Jennifer Webster Opposed: Lisa Summers, Ernie Stevens III For the record: Ernie Stevens III stated the reason why I oppose, and I know it's, we're going through our process here, but I feel like we have to start setting precedence as far as, when we know what the answer's going to be, when we know the logic, or illogic, of a petition based on what the petition is for, how it's being addressed. With regards to this situation, I think we're being clear and concise enough about what happened, and about you know the history and what we actually did with regards to the Personnel Commission and the Personnel Selection Committee. I think we need to be a little more direct about that. I think that, that does not, it's not impervious to this process. We're just doing this because it's our process, but we have to fix that process. When we know this is not going to be a logical process to put before the GTC, we should not be hearing these petitions. If anything address and say there's a better way they could submit it, but based on this submission, it's completely illogical based on how and the legal process which we follow with the Personnel Selection Committee and the Personnel Commission.

Water Quality Monitoring – Monthly/Ongoing

The monthly monitoring season began in April this year rather than March due to a much-delaved ice-out. Lab analysis of samples was conducted in May and in June. Benthic macroinvertebrate sampling (sampling aquatic bugs) has also begun. Thus far, the water quality data have yielded no surprises – but sometimes no news is good news. For Oneida streams and lakes, "no surprises"indicates that systems are stable.

Summer Frog Surveys -Ongoing

The first two of three evening frog surveys conducted by Oneida volunteers took place on May 7 and June 5. The May survey encountered frogs at most of the ten sites. Five species have been identified; the most numerous were spring peepers and American toads for the first survey and gray treefrogs for the second survey. Peepers and toads don't typically call together, but for some reason, the toads were active much earlier this year. It seems the mid-April blizzard created some confusion for plants, animals and birds just emerging from winter or arriving from the south. Contact: Melis Arik, walkways/crossings has begun. This will allow the cattle to cross streams and wet areas without creating resource concerns. This will also complete the connection of all the pastures to allow for an efficient rotation of cattle. Also this summer, surface water pipelines will be installed along the new fencing for the cattle to continually have access to water while they are rotated through the pastures. These projects are funded through grants from the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative (GLRI) through the BIA. and from Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

Hazardous Tree Removal Program

What defines a hazardous tree?

Any tree that is dead, dying, or unstable that has the potential to cause harm or damage to people and property.

GOALS:

- To provide hazardous tree removal services for the elderly and/or disabled members of the Oneida Nation who live within reservation boundaries.
- To safely remove hazardous trees in a timely manner.

STRATEGIC DIRECTION: Committing to Build a Responsible Nation

FUNDING:

+ 100% Tribally Funded

CURRENT ACTIVITIES:

- Re-evaluating unfinished work orders that require contracted tree services; particular services that the Conservation Department cannot currently provide.
- Developing methods for rating hazardous trees and prioritizing work orders.
- Developing a process for elders and disabled tribal members to apply for hazardous tree removal services.
- Developing a Standard Operating Procedure for hazardous tree removal services.

KEY RESULTS or BENEFIT TO ONEIDA:

To reduce the number of potential tree failures that may cause harm or damage to people and property of the Oneida Nation.

Culture

The history of the Oneida Boarding School By Loretta V. Metoxen and school supplies. Mr.

Oneida Tribal Historian

The Oneida Boarding School, also known as The Government School, was located on the Oneida Reservation on the site now known as Norbert Hill Center. Eighty acres of land was reserved for "educational purposes" in 1891 commensurate with the allotment of all the rest of the reservation lands to the Oneida members. Oneida men were recruited to help build all the facilities. The school opened in 1893. More than 200 students attended per year. The school was closed in 1919 by the Bureau of Indian Affairs even though the Oneidas opposed the closing. The plant (all the buildings, including the farm operation was sold to the Catholic Diocese of Green Bay in 1924. Thereafter, it was known as the Guardian Angel School for orphans and other children of the Diocese until 1953, when new facilities were built on the same grounds for the Sacred Heart Seminary.

Charles F. Pierce had previous experience in organizing an Indian boarding school for the Sioux, in the West, before having been ordered to Oneida in 1892 to superintend the building of the Oneida Boarding School. He was to oversee the construction of the principal buildings and to make plans and estimates for other buildings as well as the furnishings

Pierce soon thereafter took up the superintendency of Flandreau Indian School in South Dakota and John C. Hart succeeded him at Oneida. Boys and girls attended the Oneida Boarding School from the age of five and six years old until they were teenagers. They were full time students from September through June. At the end of the school year most of the students went home. A big celebration and picnic was held in the grove across the road from the school. It was called "Going Home Day". The parents came with their buggies and wagons to take their children home. Not everyone would go home. There was a farm to run and fields of vegetables to tend. Some of the older boys stayed on through the summer to do the farm work.

The school program was patterned after that at Carlisle Indian Industrial School in Pennsylvania. All students learned and worked at a trade for half the school day and had academics for the other half of the day. The boys learned such things as carpentry, dairying, harness making and black smithing. The girls were taught baking, cooking, sewing and laundry and other domestic tasks. All students were dressed in uniforms made by the girls. Little boys learned how to darn socks.

Although nearly all the students were fluent in Oneida, they were not allowed to use their own first language. In fact, if students were observed using their own language, they were often severely punished. My great aunt told me that she had to kneel on a broomstick for speaking Oneida. The prohibition of speaking their Native languages emanated from Congress. It was part of the effort to "civilize" Indians. Congress passed the Civilization Act which funded many of the boarding schools that had been and were administered by church organizations.

At the close of the school, most Oneida students attended various public schools on the reservation as most of the land was alienated and the emigrant families then required public schools to attend. Additionally, two Catholic schools were also established.

Fight the Summer Slide!

Submitted photo Asha gets in touch with a wonderful plant eating turtle. No one but Dino held the alligator snapper!

"Summer slide" is the tendency for students... to lose some of the achievement gains they made during the previous school year.

Your local public library offers a well-established summer reading program that encourages kids, teens, and adults to read over the summer. Educational, fun enrichment activities throughout the summer are an important feature of the programs—and they're free.

Children...fall behind an average of 2 months in reading during the summer. Summer slide is cumulative...the learning losses building up each summer. Summer learning loss accounts for two-thirds of the 9th grade achievement gap in reading between students from low-income households and their higher-income peers. Students... with access to books over the summer see significantly more gains in reading scores from spring to fall. Differences in children's summer learning experiences during their elementary school years can ultimately impact whether they earn a high school diploma and continue to college."

Please get your children into one of our libraries and impact their lives positively!

"When children select reading materials themselves and read for enjoyment, they receive the most gains in reading achievement, including better reading comprehension, writing style, vocabulary, spelling, and grammatical development. Also, the longer that this free voluntary reading is practiced, the more consistent and positive the results Children and teens tend to read more when adults in their lives encourage them to read, and also when they see those adults reading often themselves. Reading just 4 to 6 books over the summer has the potential to prevent a decline in reading achievement scores from the spring to the fall, so even small steps are very beneficial."

Six Tae Kwon Do students from OFF achieve black belt ranks

Saturday, June 9th Oneida Family Fitness Martial arts program was one of five Tae Kwon Do schools where students were testing. There were 65 Tae Kwon Do students ages 9 and up who were testing for First, Second, and Third Degree Black Belts.

Testing started with the physical requirements of a mile run, 100 pushups and 100 sit ups. Then students puts on their Tae kwon do uniform and must perform blocks, kicks punches, forms, board breaking, sparring, and self Defense techniques for about 4 hours.

The students must also demonstrate their knowledge of Martial Art history, theory, and scientific approaches.

There were three students from Oneida Family Fitness who tested for their 1st Degree Black Belt: Shavln Guillermo, Alex Morrell, and Aaron Lohrey. Going for 2nd Degree black belt were Susan Lohrey and Evan Lohrey. Testing for 3rd Degree Black belt was Mieka Clark. All these students through their hard work and dedication to Tae Kwon Do achieved their black belt and are to be congratulated. There were also a number of students who received their black belt last year and had to do a preliminary test towards their next degree.

All the students train with Master Kevin Schoenebeck at Oneida Family Fitness Center and have been training for many years. Most of the students start when they are 6 or 7 years of age. If you have a child who might be interested in the benefits of Martial Arts stop by Oneida Family Fitness and talk with Mr. Schoenebeck. There are beginning classes starting soon.

High court decision extends legal battle over gerrymandering

By SCOTT BAUER and GARY D. ROBERTSON

Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Democrats hoped a Wisconsin case would be the vehicle the U.S. Supreme Court would use to strike down highly partisan gerrymandering of electoral maps.

When those hopes fizzled Monday, attention turned to North Carolina. A case challenging that battleground state's congressional districts appears to offer stronger evidence of harm.

At issue is whether opponents can identify specific voters who say they have been hurt by gerrymandering the process of a political party drawing state legislative and congressional maps to maintain or expand their hold on power.

The Wisconsin case didn't do that, but the North Carolina case tries to. It includes a plaintiff from each of the state's 13 congressional districts.

Allison Riggs, an attorney representing the League of Women Voters of North Carolina and other voters who sued, said the state's congressional map provides ``the most crystal clear example of why a rule creating limits on partisan gerrymandering is so necessary."

Like Wisconsin, North Carolina is closely divided between Democrats and Republicans, vet Republicans hold a 10-3 seats after the GOP-dominated Legislature created the maps.

They were forced to redraw the congressional map in 2016 after federal courts determined two of the state's districts to be illegal racial gerrymanders. During the latest redrawing, Republicans said they didn't use racial data in forming the maps. Instead, they said maintaining the GOP's 10-3 seat advantage in the state's congressional delegation was one of their guiding standards.

"I think electing Republicans is better than electing Democrats. So I drew this map to help foster what I think is better for the country," one of the mapmakers, Republican state Rep. David Lewis, said during a legislative debate to justify the criteria.

Lewis and other Republican lawmakers have defended their congressional map by saying it splits fewer counties and avoids the severely contorted boundaries that were common under maps drawn since the 1990s by both Democrats and Republicans.

As an example of extreme gerrymandering, the map's critics point to one boundary that splits the historically black and heavily Democratic North Carolina A&T State University campus in Greensboro into two Republican-leaning districts.

the end of June whether to hear that case and another one from North Carolina that challenges gerrymandered state legislative boundaries.

On Monday, the U.S. Supreme Court issued a pair of largely procedural rulings in two other redistricting cases.

It agreed that a Maryland congressional district can remain in use while Republicans pursue allegations of unconstitutional partisan gerrymandering by the Democratic governor and legislature.

In the Wisconsin case, the court overturned a lower court ruling from November 2016. That ruling said the map adopted in 2011 by the Republican-led Legislature and Republican governor violated Democratic voters' rights to representation. Democrats had argued that their voters were packed into some districts and spread among others, which had the effect of diluting their voting power.

The Supreme Court rejected the use of a statewide analysis used by 12 Democratic voters who brought the lawsuit. Instead, the court said plaintiffs must prove that their personal voting rights were infringed by the way challenged maps covering 99 Assembly districts were drawn.

Lead attorney Paul Smith said it will take voters in about 20 or 30 districts to show they The Supreme Court have been harmed by the edge in congressional is expected to decide by current boundaries. To fix those problems will "effectively redraw the entire map," and ``at that point, gerrymandering will be effectively remedied."

Justice Elena Kagan provided an alternative route for the plaintiffs. She wrote in a concurrent opinion that a political party might be able to bring a statewide challenge by arguing that a partisan gerrymandered - stood by the maps they map violates its First Amendment right to freedom of association.

"This case is very much still alive." Smith said while noting both options.

He added: "The bottom line is, there will be plaintiffs with clear standing."

Republicans - who hold a 64-35 majority in the Wisconsin Assembly and 18-15 in the Senate drew and said they expected to once again prevail in court.

Smith said speed was of the essence, given that those elected in 2020 just two years away will be in place for th- next round of redistricting. Robertson reported from Raleigh, North Carolina. Associated Press writer David A. Lieb in Jefferson City, Missouri, contributed to this report.

The Oneida Nation has yet another stellar young athlete hoping to make it in a big-time college program. Floyd King, 18, who recently graduated from West De Pere High School, has received a scholarship to play rugby for Division a practice with him. It I Lindenwood University-Belleville in southern Illinois.

King, who has only been playing rugby for four years, was introduced to the sport by a relative. "I played baseball until my freshman year and just kind of got out of it," King said. "My first experience with rugby was when cousin asked me to come to said. "I play in the front he had the chance to meet row of the pack which is typically made up of your bigger, more physical players."

It's that physical nature to this unique team sport that King loves most about the game. "The physicality of the sport is definitely my main point," King said. "I also really love the camaraderie. This is a different sport. It's not like football where even after the game sometimes you guys don't like each other but at the end of our games there's always big socials so you get to meet and talk to other players. We play hard, physical games but afterwards we'll all be laughing and having fun."

As King's reputation on the rugby pitch grew, Lindenwood-Belleville's head coach who came to watch him play. "A lot of the coaches were telling him to check me out and give me an offer," King said. "Then those coaches came and watched me play and that's when they made me the offer."

An exceptional student as well as athlete, King will pursue his bachelor's degree in exercise science and plans on coming back to the Oneida area once he graduates from college. He also thinks rugby will continue to grow in popularity around Wisconsin. "I sure it's going to keep growing," King said. "I think it would be cool if more native kids picked up the sport but I know it's usually during lacrosse season. But this is something new, something different, but it's a lot of fun and as far as I know there are only four Native American kids who play organized rugby in the Green Bay area.

"It's not just a great sport, it's also a great community, a great family," King said. "There's a lot of support behind it. And everybody's really nice, so it's not just a bunch of big brutes out there hitting each other. This is a sport that you can easily work your way into."

King is the son of Shannon Metoxen and William King of Oneida.

Seniors Don't Have to Fight Fraud on Their Own

15th was World Elder Abuse Awareness Day, and the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP) would like to raise awareness of one of the primary ways that seniors are abused: financial fraud. As a recent example, a Federal Trade Commission report noted that consumers between the ages of 70-79 who fell for scams last year had a median loss of more than $600, and consumers aged 80 and over lost nearly $1,100 - more MADISON ~ June than 2.5 times more monev than victims in their twenties ($400 loss).

> "Numerous scams target seniors at a higher rate than the general public, so DATCP makes an extra effort to inform seniors about the warning signs of a scam," said Michelle Reinen, Director of the Bureau of Consumer Protection. "Our best tool to aid in the fight against scams is education, and we implore consumers to share their knowledge of fraud risks with older friends and relatives."

DATCP is the state's primary consumer protection agency and has authority to regulate unfair business practices. The Consumer Protection Hotline (800-422-7128. datcphotline@ wi.gov) helps to provide answers to consumer questions and the Bureau of Consumer Protection mediates consumer complaints. The Bureau also monitors all complaints for trends and patterns of behavior that require further investigation to enforce state laws, especially those complaints involving seniors.

One of DATCP's key resources educational addresses financial elder abuse head on. DATCP's Senior Guide is a 50+ page booklet that helps older adults identify scams and work through difficult consumer issues. The guide is available as a free download on the DATCP website (datcp. wi.gov) or a printed copy can be requested by contacting the Consumer Protection Hotline.

If you are an older consumer (or the loved one of a senior) who has been targeted or victimized by a scammer or who is facing a difficult consumer matter, DATCP is here to lend a hand:

- Contact DATCP's Consumer Protection Hotline to speak with a staff member about vour concerns. They can offer guidance and help find resources on vour issue.
- File a complaint with DATCP. We can try to help mediate the issue. You can file a complaint online on the DATCP website. If you would like to file your complaint by mail, you can download a complaint form from the DATCP website or call the Consumer Protection Hotline and request a complaint form by mail.

Marijuana growers turning to hemp as CBD extract explodes

By GILLIAN FLACCUS Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, Ore. $(AP) \sim A$ glut of legal marijuana is driving Oregon pot prices to rock-bottom levels, prompting some nervous growers to start pivoting to another type of cannabis to make ends meet one that doesn't come with a high.

Applications for state licenses to grow hemp - marijuana's non-intoxicating cousin have increased more than twentyfold since 2015, making Oregon No. 2 behind Colorado among the 19 states with active hemp cultivation. The rapidly evolving market comes amid skyrocketing demand for a hemp-derived extract called cannabidiol, or CBD, seen by many as a health aid.

In its purified distilled form, CBD oil commands thousands of dollars per kilogram, and farmers can make more than $100,000 an acre growing hemp plants to produce it. That distillate can also be converted into a crystallized form or powder.

"Word on the street is everybody thinks hemp's the new gold rush," Jerrad McCord said, who marijuana in grows southern Oregon and just added 12 acres (5 hectares) of hemp. "This is a business. You've got to adapt, and you've got to be a problem-solver."

It's a problem few predicted when Oregon voters opened the door to leago.

The state's climate is perfect for growing marijuana, and growers produced bumper crops. Under state law, none can leave Oregon. That, coupled with a decision to not cap the number of licenses for growers, has created a surplus.

Oregon's inventory of marijuana is staggering for a state its size. There are nearly 1 million pounds (450,000 kilograms) of usable flower in the system, and an additional 350,000 pounds (159,000 kilograms) of marijuana extracts, edibles and tinctures.

"Usable flower" refers to the dried marijuana flower - or bud - that is most commonly associated with marijuana consumption.

The Oregon Liquor Commission. Control which regulates the industry, says some of the inventory of flower goes into extracts, oils and tinctures - which have increased in popularity but the agency can't say how much. A comprehensive market study is underway.

Yet the retail price for a gram of pot has fallen about 50 percent since 2015, from $14 to $7, according to a report by the Oregon Office of Economic Analysis. Growers and retailers alike have felt the sting.

"Now we're starting to look at drastic means. like destroying product. At some point, there's gal marijuana four years no more storage for it," Trey Willison said, who switched his operation from marijuana to hemp this season. ``Whoever would have thought we'd get to the point of destroying pounds of mariiuana?"

That stark prospect is driving more of Oregon's marijuana entrepreneurs toward hemp, a crop that already has a foothold in states like Colorado and Kentucky and a lot of buzz in the cannabis industry. In Oregon, the number of hemp licenses increased from 12 in 2015 to 353 as of last week.

Colorado and Washington were the first states to broadly legalize marijuana. Both have seen price drops for marijuana but not as significant as Oregon.

Like marijuana, the hemp plant is a cannabis plant, but it contains less than 0.3 percent of THC. the compound that gives pot its high. Growing industrial hemp is legal under federal law, and the plant can be sold for use in things like fabric, food, seed and building materials.

But the increasing focus in Oregon is the gold-colored CBD oil that has soared in popularity among cannabis connoisseurs and is rapidly going mainstream. At least 50 percent of hemp nationwide is being grown for CBD extraction, and Oregon is riding the crest of that wave. Eric Steenstra said, president of Vote

Hemp, a nonpartisan organization that advocates for pro-hemp legislation.

"There are a lot of growers who already have experience growing cannabis, and when you're growing for CBD, there are a lot of the same techniques that you use for growing marijuana." he said. ``Oregon is definitely a hotbed of activity

CBD is popping up in everything from cosmetics to chocolate bars to bottled water to pet treats. One Los Angeles bar sells drinks containing the oil. massage therapists use creams containing CBD and juice bars offer the stuff in smoothies. Dozens of online sites sell endless iterations of CBD oils, tinctures, capsules, transdermal patches, infused chocolates and creams with no oversight.

Proponents sav CBD offers a plethora of health benefits, from relieving pain to taming anxiety. Scientists caution, however, that there have been very few comprehensive clinical studies of how CBD affects humans mostly because the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration still considers cannabidiol extract off-limits, and the government requires special dispensation to study it. Pre-clinical studies have shown promise for treatment of chronic pain, neuro-inflammation, anxiety, addiction and anti-psychotic effects in animals, mostly rodents, Ziva Cooper said, an associate professor of clinical neurobiology at Columbia University who focuses her research on the therapeutic potential of cannabis and cannabinoids. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration next month could approve the first drug derived from CBD. It's used to treat forms of epilepsy.

Christina Sasser. co-founder of Vital Leaf, isn't waiting for government action to market CBD products in stores and online. She sells about 500 bottles of Oregon-sourced CBD oil a month and ships only to customers living in states with state-run hemp pilot programs, to better avoid the possibility of legal trouble.

"Everybody in the CBD world has recognized the risks involved, and I would say the vast majority of us really believe in the power of the plant and are willing to operate in this, sort of, gray area," she said.

Willison was selling marijuana clones to pot startups when he realized last spring he was selling way more clones than Oregon's market could support. The two-story building where he grew 200 pounds of weed a month sits nearly empty, and a greenhouse built to expand his pot business is packed with hemp plants instead.

He breeds hemp plants genetically selected for their strong CBD concentration. harvests the seeds and extracts CBD from the remaining plants that can fetch up to $13,000 per kilogram. His future looks bright again. "The (marijuana) market is stuck within the borders of Oregon - it's locked within the state," he said, as he took a break from collecting tiny grains of pollen from his plants. "But hemp is an international commodity now."

Minnesota PUC opens hearings on Enbridge Line 3 replacement By STEVE Superior, Wisconsin. ity. of opponents in 2016 and Minnesota Power who is Minnesota and surround

KARNOWSKI Associated Press

ST. PAUL. Minn. (AP) ~ Passions ran high Monday as Minnesota regulators opened a key hearing on a final decision on Enbridge Energy's proposal to replace its deteriorating Line 3 crude oil pipeline across northern Minnesota.

A crowd about evenly divided between supporters and opponents lined up early in the morning for limited seating. People held signs outside that read "Minnesotans for Line 3" or ``No Pipelines - Keep it in the Ground" and "Love Water, Not Oil."

The crowd grew to over 200 by the time the Public Utilities Commission began hearing final arguments in the long-running proceedings. The five-member commission plans to decide next week whether the project is needed and, if so, what route it should take.

Calgary, Alberta-based Enbridge built the current Line 3 in the 1960s. It carries light crude oil from Alberta across North Dakota and Minnesota to the company's terminal in Enbridge said it needs replacing because it's increasingly subject to corrosion and cracking and is operating at only about half its original capacity. Tribal and climate change activists oppose the project because the replacement would carry Canadian tar sands oil, which contributes more to climate change than lighter oils, and because it would run through pristine areas in the Mississippi River headwaters area where Native Americans harvest wild rice and claim treaty rights. And they contend the country doesn't need the oil as it transitions more and more to cleaner energy.

After countless public hearings and thousands of pages of filings, there was little new ground for the hearing to cover, though PUC Chair Nancy Lange said the statements would help the commissioners form their questions.

Enbridge attorney Eric Swanson stressed in his testimony that a new state-of-the-art pipeline would be safer, while adding necessary capac-

"Certainly we feel passionately about the project and feel we're doing the responsible thing in

Swanson said. But Bill Grant, deputy commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Commerce, stood by his agency's conclusion last year that Minnesota doesn't need the oil, and that the risks and impacts of giving Enbridge the 340 miles of right-of-way it seeks across the state outweigh the benefits.

bringing it forward,"

As much as anything, opponents and supporters turned out for one last show of force.

Among then was Margaret Breen, 20, of Minneapolis, one of 13 Youth Climate Intervenors, a group of teens and 20-somethings that has official standing in the proceedings.

She said before testifying that she's been working to stop Line 3 for close to a year and a half, ever since she traveled to the Standing Rick Reservation in North Dakota to take part in protests against the Dakota Access pipeline. Those protests drew thousands

2 Wisconsin deaths attributed to storms

ASHLAND, Wis. (AP) \sim Authorities have attributed another death in Wisconsin to the storms that caused widespread flooding in the Upper Midwest.

The Sawyer County Sheriff's Office says severe thunderstorms toppled a large oak tree onto a camper on Lake Chetac, killing a man inside and injuring a woman and two young children Sunday.

The man is identified as 55-year-old James Pluff, of Redwood Falls, Minnesota. Sheriff's officials say the woman and children suffered non-life threatening injuries and were taken to a hospital in Rice Lake.

The storms and flooding also caused the death of a 75-year-old man whose body was found not far from his pickup truck along a flooded road in Ashland County Sunday.

Relentless rain also caused flash flooding in Minnesota and Michigan where sections of roads and highways washed away.

2017, with sometimes violent skirmishes with law enforcement and more than 700 arrests.

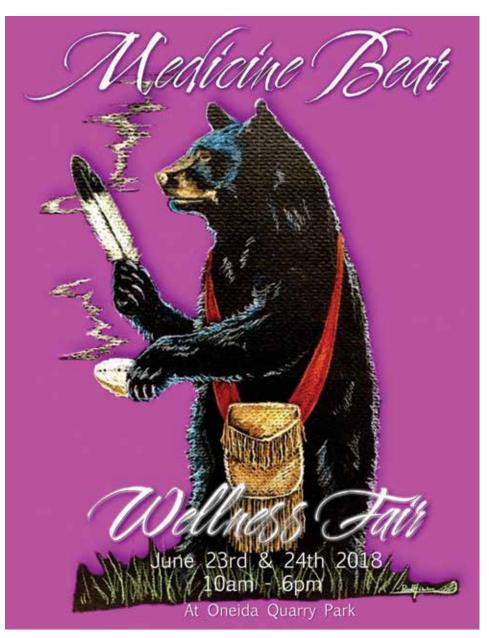

"I'm feeling nervous and optimistic and I'm trying to balance the two," Breen said. "It's the culmination of a lot of hard work, so it's emotional."

Nancy Noor, an executive with the utility chairwoman of Jobs for Minnesotans, said her business-labor-community coalition feels strongly, too.

"It's an important energy infrastructure project that not only protects the environment, but is important to the local economy along the route, and in a long-term sense ensures energy security for Minnesota and surrounding states," she said.

Whatever the commission decides, the dispute is expected to wind up in court.

Winona LaDuke, founder of Honor the Earth, said activists have already established camps in case they launch mass protests along the route like the ones at Standing Rock.
