UWGB speaker Yuntle?kala·ú McLester shares her story

Yuntle'kala'ú McLester wanted to share her experiences in her commencement speech at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay (UWGB) graduation ceremony held May 18. One of those experiences was with failure.

"It happens all the time in life, we can't succeed if we never fail at something," she said.

McLester spoke about some of her struggles to get her bachelor's degree.

"I wanted to make it personal, and for

Viewing the Oneida Nation Tribal Belt

Several tribal Big Bear Media and Museum staff personnel had an opportunity to view the Oneida Nation's Tribal Belt June 3 at Chicago's Field Museum. Michelle Danforth, Christopher Powless, Eric Doxtator, Leah Stroobants, Christopher Johnson, Nate Gerhardt, and Louisa Mehojah made the journey to the Windy City to view and photograph the sacred relic.

According to Oneida condoled Bear Clan Chief Bob Brown, the belt dates back to the pre-Revolutionary War period and made the journey to Wisconsin (then Michigan Territory) with the first group of Oneidas from their ancestral homelands in the early 1820s. The belt was in the care of Chief Elijah Skenandoa who refused to sell the belt for any amount of money. After Skenandoa's death, his grandson sold the belt to collector Walter C. Wyman who in turn sold the belt to the Field Museum.

The group from Oneida made the trip to the Field Museum to view the belt as part of a Big Bear Media project which will commemorate the 200-year anniversary of the arrival of the Oneidas from their homelands in present-day

Dallas becomes first in her field

(920) 496-5632 🖀

Oneida Nation citizen Nancy Dallas recently set a first for herself and for the tribe. Dallas has graduated from Piedmont Technical College in Greenwood, S.C., with her associate degree as a Funeral Director/Embalmer, becoming the first female and only the second person in the tribe to hold this degree.

"I wanted to get into this field because I thought it would be something different for myself and I'd be able to use this in the future to help our tribe out," Dallas said. "I thought I'd give it a shot and see how it would work out. I am proud to say I was notified that I'm the first Native American woman from our tribe to graduate with this degree and I'm also the first Native American to graduate from the Piedmont Funeral Services program."

The challenging two-year program included coursework on cremation and embalming. "I convinced my Director of Funeral Services to bring in a speaker from the National Funeral Directors Association from Brookfield, Wis., to discuss cremation," Dallas said. "Following the training session we needed to take a test within two weeks, and get a passing grade of 80 percent or better, which I passed. I am now able to cremate anywhere in the United States."

She thoroughly enjoyed the program and had her share of favorite classes. "I enjoyed learning about being a Funeral Director, and embalming was my favorite subject," Dallas said. "In our last three semesters we spent a day cremating animals and the next day was spent embalming. Certain courses were difficult because it was like taking classes to become a medical doctor. At times I wanted to give up but I kept strong with the help of my friends and fellow graduates Charlotte Jensen, Julie Peddleton, and Jessica Cardona. The three of them kept me motivated and gave me the strength to finish this degree. I can't thank them enough."

Oneida Transit serving the entire reservation

By Christopher Johnson Kalihwisaks Sr. Reporter/Photographer cjohnson@oneidanation.org @ciohns89 (920) 496-5632 🖀

The Oneida Public Transit Department continues to improve upon an already highly beneficial service that provides public transportation to and from destinations around the entire reservation. The low-cost transportation option is available to anybody, tribal or non-tribal members, who doesn't have access to other forms of transportation.

"We will do some same-day pickups, but we'd really prefer that a rider calls us a day in advance to guarantee a ride," Transit Department Director Carol Moore said. "Our service area is the entire reservation, and in some cases we'll go outside those boundaries."

Elders and handicapped riders are eligible for extended services. "Of course we will take elders and anybody requiring the use of a mobility device further for medical appointments," Moore said. "We have clients that go to St. Vincent Hospital and Aurora as well, but they must be elders or disabled."

The same applies to elders and disabled tribal members who live outside the reservation boundaries who need transportation to the Oneida Community Health Center (OCHC). "We will transport them to the Health Center and back home again."

The Transit Department also works with the OCHC in cases where patients are referred out for services. "The OCHC calls us sometimes for clients they've referred out to Appleton or Milwaukee and sometimes Madison, and the Health Center covers the transportation cost, but that's usually about as far as we'll go," Moore said.

In 2018 the Transit Department's average ride time was 33 minutes, with more than 34,500 trips completed. So far in 2019, the Transit Department has a 95 percent on-time performance rating, with a 99 percent on-time performance rating with drop offs at the OCHC.

The department has a strict policy against transporting anybody who is under the influence of drugs or alcohol. "If a rider is suspected of being under the influence, the driver will contact a supervisor who will make the final determination," Moore said.

Children ages 12 and older may ride independently, however anybody 11 and under must be accompanied by somebody who is 16 or older. Younger children were allowed to ride independently in the past, however safety concerns put an end to that practice. "We do work with Recreation groups and we're able to group them together on one bus so that's not an issue." Moore said.

The Oneida Nation Transit Department's 9-vehicle fleet currently operates Monday – Friday from 5 a.m. until 9 p.m. Again, the Transit Department prefers clients schedule rides up to a day in advance. The final pick-up time on the reservation is 7:45 p.m., and the final pick-up time in Green Bay coming back to Oneida is 8:00 p.m.

Children ages 7 and under ride free with a paying adult. All student rates with a student ID are $1 per way, and adults 19 and older are $1.50 one way. All elders ages 55 and older, and handicapped or disabled people of all ages are $1.00 one way or $1.50 round trip.

The Transit Department recently unveiled an Ecolane Mobile App for smart phones that permits users to book and cancel trips independently in real-time from their phones. Users may also book rides from the web at https://oneida. ecolane.com/selfservice/login. Please contact the Oneida Transit Department at (920) 496-5770 to set up a user name and password to use either of these convenient services.

Oneida Industrial Hemp Project and Hemp Week

Industrial Hemp has the promise to help boost Wisconsin's agricultural economy.

Submitted by Oneida Industrial Hemp Team

The Oneida Nation is a proud participant in the 2019 Industrial Hemp Pilot Project directed by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Consumer Protection. The Oneida Nation has been performing detailed research on the topic of industrial hemp for 2 years, and this year Oneida will be planting

31 acres as a pilot project with several industrial hemp varieties to produce fiber, grain, and CBD oil crops. Industrial Hemp pilots have been rapidly expanding across the United States as the demand for industrial hemp oils, foods, and materials has ramped up dramatically over the past several years. Industrial Hemp is dramatically different from the related species of marijuana, in that industrial hemp has extremely low levels of the THC drug compound. Industrial Hemp is desirable for the healthy and nutritious seeds it produces, the strong materials made from its fibers, and for the CBD compound which has claims on many beneficial health and curative effects.

Oneida Nation staff is diligently purchasing seeds and seedlings, preparing fields, and addressing equipment needs for the 2019 planting season. 4 distinct varieties of industrial hemp will be grown for the 2019 pilot season. In addition to monitoring the actual growth and development of the plant, the methods for harvesting, drying, and storing will also be closely assessed. The crop needs proper attention to prevent spoilage throughout the steps of processing. The Oneida Nation will also attempt to generate their own final product for market retail or other distribution/sampling in the Oneida community.

As part of National Hemp History Week (June 3-9) the Oneida Nation showed the documentary "Standing Silent Nation" about a Native American farmer's struggles to grow industrial hemp before recent legislative changes. Several tribes have confronted legal problems previously while growing industrial hemp, but the pilot projects in Wisconsin and in over 30 other states have now detailed clear regulations for the crop. As legislation also evolves at the federal level, the Oneida Nation will look towards drafting our own regulations regarding the growing and processing of industrial hemp. For more information on the history and benefits of Industrial Hemp please visit https:// www.hemphistoryweek.com/. Oneida Industrial Hemp Team will continue to post info on the progress of our first industrial hemp crops throughout the rest of the year.

Oneida Rapper Malone named Best Rap/Hip Hop artist

(920) 496-5636 🕿

Wayne "Buggin" Malone drove 12 hours to Winnipeg, Canada to attend the Indigenous Music Awards show held Friday, May 17, where he was nominated for Best Rap/Hip Hop Album category for his release of Humanity Vol. 1. Malone faced stiff competition from Canadian rapper HellnBack.

"You hear people howling for him when they announce the nominees and you think 'ah, this trip was for nothing,' and I'm thinking 'ah, man, I hope I win,' and they called my name and I was just surprised," said Malone.

It was the first award Malone has won in 13 years for an album he created after a seven-year-hiatus from recording.

"Our kids can see this guy is 43 years old and he's still putting out albums, winning awards, that's perseverance," said Malone.

While accepting the award, he dedicated it to "murdered and missing indigenous people, and our children, our youth, our future."

"I talked a little bit about what the anniversary date meant to me due to something I got caught up into when I was a teenager. I was locked up when I was 15-years-old, and I ended up at the Oneida Group Home when I was about 17, almost 18 years old. During that time, my crisis in my teenage years, during that time I dedicated and committed my life to just help people, to just to be there for people, support people, bring happiness to people," said Malone. "I ended up going to Lincoln Hills and ended up meeting Kirby Metoxen and Stan Latender. I was in the group home and Gina Powless, Eric McLester, all these people were in my life and I committed and dedicated myself to lighting and helping our people."

Malone uses his music to highlight issues affecting Indian country.

"I use hip hop as a tool to define our struggles for the world," he said. "I Canada as well as looking for opportuconsider myself to be the voice for the voiceless." has also started work on his next re-

He hopes the award will garner more attention for his music and create opportunities to spread his message.

"It's going to focus on the key issues like ... our murdered and missing indigenous people ... and our epidemics with our opioid use and the drug addiction and the suicide rate, it's just alarming, there's just so many things that need to be discussed, and that's what I want to take on the road," said Malone.

Malone is making plans for a tour of gin@gmail.com

Canada as well as looking for opportunities to perform in Wisconsin. Malone has also started work on his next recording Humanity Vol. 2. He thanked his fans for all their support through the years.

Malone is the grandson of Comey Denny Jr.

Last remaining Akwesasne Mohawk code talker dies

ST. REGIS INDIAN RESERVA-TION, N.Y. (AP) ~ The last of the remaining Mohawk "code talkers" who were belatedly honored for their World War II service has died at age of 94.

The WWNY-TV reports that Louis Levi Oakes's funeral was held Saturday on the Mohawk reservation, which straddles the U.S.-Canadian border.

The Press-Republican of Plattsburgh reports that Oakes was one of 17 Akwesasne (og-wuh-SAHZ'-nee) Mohawks to receive the Congressional Silver Medal for his military contributions as a Native American code talker in 2016. Code talkers used their various native languages for military communications.

The newspaper said the Silver Star recipient served in the Army for six years and saw action in the South Pacific, New Guinea and Philippines theatres.

Oakes kept his role as a code talker secret for decades, even to relatives.

Hello all of you. I'd like to introduce mvself.

Evangeline Constance Webster-Delgado was my grandmother's name

Tsyosha?aht Caterina Delgado is my mother's name

Yuntle kala wi is my name and I am of the wolf clan. People of the Standing Stone is the land and earth I come from, and I live where the Ducks are bountiful.

I give my introduction in the Oneida language to establish my relations. Lotinosaunee, People of the Longhouse are matrilineal, we follow our mothers which is why my mother and my mothers mother are included with extension to my clan, my people, and the land I occupy.

As an indigenous woman of Turtle Isyou as my true self, in my identity, and in my traditional clothing. I never had the chance to know my maternal grandmother but she was going to college in Chicago raising nine children on her own and passed away right before her college graduation. Today I honor her by wearing her skirt and leggings as my mother did at her graduation. My mother was also a single mother of three therefore, as the third generation of single mothers, I follow in the strength and power of the women in my life that came before me. Being commencement speaker is much more than me speaking before all of you; it is changing a narrative around women. school so we could make a difference. We can see this movement of women taking place with the amazing leadership that is rising. I'm sure that in order for those women to succeed they had to have failed, a lot.

There have been many times when I failed at college and life but each time I had to reexamine why I was here. When looking at my major, which I changed at least three times, I was trying to find what fit me. It took a while before I arrived at my program in First Nations Studies. All of those struggles through life and school can be reminders that we need to take a step back and reevaluate our lives and our decisions to do what makes us happy. Our wellness prepares us to face anything that comes along in our lifetime. In those difficult times, we look to those individuals that help lift us up, our friends and family, through their stories and laughter.

Since attending this institution I've been faced with hardships from the loss of family members, of friends, of relationships that put me into some of the darkest times in my life. So much that of you who are graduating, for your bril-I questioned if being here at school was liance and resilience. We made it!"

the best thing for me. I could honestly say that I would never had made it without the family, friends, and faculty that were there to simply ask me, "How are you doing, is everything going alright?" The importance of my family and community on campus continued to grow through these interconnected relationships that were forming. My journey through life began to fall into alignment with the things that I had envisioned for myself. While in school I was seeing the horrible things happening in the world with my eyes unveiled but yet, with so much love, empathy, and compassion. Those characteristics I had learned through my traditional teachings but were amplified with what I was learning here.

When we're little we're told to go to right? We were sent to make an impact and continue the ripple of movers and shakers that came before us. I focus on my passion and doing what I love because I want my son to do the same, as he gets older. If we're not doing something purposeful with our lives, then maybe its time to take that step back and rethink our next move. There's always a moment to change and create your own path.

That's why today, I would like to share a Robin Dance song with all of you. The Robin represents renewal of life after the winter frost has gone. I find it fitting because we all are taking the next steps in our lives by graduating today. I choose to sing this song with one of my students I have been mentoring in Oneida music, language, and culture through our youth programs at the Oneida Nation Arts Program, Kaylee Schuyler.

I am continuing that ripple of changing the narrative around women and hope that all those that come after me are welcomed and find family here. Thanks to all

Professor Lucy Fenzl Is Named CMN Faculty Member of Year

Professor Lucy Fenzl has been named the American Indian College Fund "Faculty Member of the Year" at the College of Menominee Nation. The honor was announced during CMN's commencement ceremonies on May 25 at the Menominee Convention Center in Keshena.

In making the award, the College's Chief Academic Officer, Dr. Diana Morris, credited Fenzl for setting high standards, challenging students to think beyond the box, and providing effective instruction across a range of Biological and Physical Science courses.

Morris noted, "To say that she is fully engaged in the life of the College is an understatement. While teaching courses in Biology, Microbiology, and Anatomy and Physiology, she serves on a number of important committees, coaches the College's Science Bowl team for annual national American Indian Higher Education Consortium competitions, and coordinates operations at our Green Bay/Oneida site. She has energized her students with the introduction of the "Tiny Earth" curriculum and its international network of faculty, scientists and students seeking antibiotic discoveries from soil research."

A member of the CMN faculty for the past six years, Fenzl is currently completing doctoral studies in Education Leadership and writing her thesis on "Brain-Based Learning Strategies."

Expert predicts more Wisconsin frac sand mines may close

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ The impending bankruptcy of a major frac sand mining company is a sign of the financial woes that could cripple more Wisconsin-based mines due to a nation-wide oversupply of sand, according to an industry expert.

Emerge Energy Services entered into a debt restructuring deal with its lenders last month, Wisconsin Public Radio reported. The company owns Superior Silica Sands, which has frac sand mines in Chippewa and Barron counties.

CEO Rick Shearer said it's premature to comment on the deal and that restructuring negotiations are ongoing.

The company could file for bankruptcy if a settlement isn't struck out of court.

Up to 75% of Wisconsin mines that supply oil and gas producers might have to close due to the oversupply of sand, said Samir Nangia, energy consulting director at analytics firm IHS Markit.

Nangia said frac sand companies have built up more than a dozen mines closer to oilfields in Texas and Oklahoma within the last two years. Oil drillers are able to get local sand for less than the cost of shipping it from Wisconsin.

Texas mines alone are producing more than 100 million tons of sand per year, which is close to the estimated demands of oil and natural gas producers throughout the country.

"I don't think we're going to get a big enough demand number that simply absorbs all this excess supply this time," Nangia said. "I think what we need is an actual reduction in supply and that means the painful bankruptcy process that you're seeing, which has already started actually, but this is definitely one of the larger companies."

Nangia anticipates that more mines will need to temporarily close, while some companies may decide to leave the state.

Wisconsin frac sand mines could see relief by producing sand for industrial purposes, such as foundries and glassmaking, he said, noting that the sector isn't as profitable as oil and gas drilling.

Paulette Jordan Makes ONHS Graduation Memorable

19 ONHS seniors graduated on Monday, June 3.

While the program was like year's past, it did have an outstanding feature. Paulette Jordan was the keynote speaker

Jordan, a Native American politician, served in the Idaho House of Representatives as a member of the Democratic Party from December 1, 2014 until February 14,2018. She previously served on the Coeur d'Alene Tribal council. In 2018, she made an unsuccessful run for Idaho Governor but caught nationwide attention in the process.

Jordan spoke to the graduates and others in attendance about many important topics. One, about learning from and being inspired by your failures, referencing her own recent disappointment.

Other topics included that the youth will be the future, that women need to be at the forefront of our country's leadership and that when times get rough look around your nation for support. She also offered individual emotional support to many students.

Several students said that Jordan was "very inspirational" to them.

Other speakers that night included the Salutatorian Tiara Barber, Valedictorian Yehli Rodriguez, and the District Administrator Sharon Mousseau. The graduation was emceed by Principal Art Skenandore.

Graduating seniors enter and exited the ceremony with robin and friendship songs by Mirac Ellis and the Oneida Nation High School singing class.

Goodbye 2018-19: Hitting the links a Team-Building Experience

By Billy Doxtator

Being a member of the spring ONHS golf team, has taught this writer a lot.

I've learned that having a positive attitude before golfing helps not only me, but it helps my teammates as well. I've also learned to just have a good time, it's always a good time with my teammates and my coach. We're always constantly joking with each other, always laughing at stuff that's not even funny.

There was never a moment this season when we were mad at each other or if we had a bad golf outing, we wouldn't criticize each other. We would try to help each other. We would give each other positive energy.

All and all it was good time with my teammates and coach and it was a very good season of golfing.

Summer is in sight as another school year winds down. With that comes the end of spring sports.

Every spring sport has faced its challenges with rainy, cold weather affecting just about everything from playing conditions to whether or not games would even be played.

Still, the lacrosse team has hung in there. Our ending regular-season record was 6-2 in the league.

As of this writing, we are heading into the post-season playoffs.

Some individual accomplishments include: Fox Christjohn, Gavin Stingle, and Richard Summers, who all received 2nd team all-conference honors. Also Cj Summers, (this writer) earned 1st team all-conference as a "specialist."

Lacrosse definitely does not stop when the high school season is over. Many of the players on the Oneida team go out and play for summer leagues that take them all over the state and country. For some of the players, lacrosse is a yearround sport.

But as of this writing, the lacrosse team has their first playoff game tonight (5/30) against Madison East Side.

This has been a challenging year for me, balancing family responsibilities with school work has been proven to be more than many people might think of. A lot of students face challenges during a school year. Some are busy with work, trying to earn extra spending money or provide for their families. While maybe others have personal family or mental health issues. Challenges they struggle with alone and might be afraid to speak up or ask for help. As a School, ONHS does support together as one. We want our people to be happy, to succeed in life and enjoy our time on earth, as well as to be thankful.

At ONHS, there is a student services team in place and students are encour-team in place and students are encouraged to approach these people with problems both at school and outside of the school. Immediately available to students are ATODA and Intervention Specialist, Melissa Sanders; Guidance Counselor, Tom Kenote; Family Coordinator, Denis Gullickson; School Nurse, Kristine Labby; PSL Officer, Justine Mehojah and Principal, Art Skenandore.

In Closing, I recommend that you seek the help you need. Please do not let any weight hang over your head and on your shoulders. Speak up and use your voice even if you're embarrassed someone cares for you, even when you don't feel the love it will be there.

Lacrosse Awards

By Malia Jacobs

Thunderhawk Times

Yesterday on May 20th, the boys lacrosse team finished up there regular conference season. They ended the season with a 6-2 record for the regular season. That is a very good record for the boys lacrosse team, considering how small and young the program is this year.

Besides having a great season, a few boys were selected for awards. 4 boys were given awards on this years 2019 Oneida Lacrosse team. Out of the 4 boys, 3 seniors,Richard Summer III, Gavin Stingle, and Fox Christjohn were awarded 2nd team all conference. Then one junior, Cj Summers was selected first team all conference. Cj was ecstatic but yet surprise to be given the award. In his own words he said, "It's pretty great to have made first team all conference. I was not expecting it at all".

Overall, the boys had an amazing season. They are not quite sure if they it into the state playoffs yet, but Cross your finger and hope the team makes it.

ONHS Culture Days Ahead

Summitted Photo

An "new" annual tradition has become the Stomp Dance of Graduating Seniors through the hallways of the Turtle School. The dance is meant to inspire students in elementary grades while recognizing and celebrating the graduating class.

By Shania Barber Thunderhawk Times

A much-loved annual tradition at ONHS took place yesterday. Culture Days 2019.

Each year, Culture Day marks the arrival of spring and the end of another school year. It is also a celebration of Oneida Language and Culture that ONHS students look forward to.

While it is a celebration, there is also competition that can be found in several categories.

The activities are in discussion right now, but may include Oneida Trivia, a fry bread cooking contest, archery, an Iroquois singing contest, lacrosse, peachstone, and a social dance.

Culture Days are an important part of ONHS identity.

BIA transfers approximately 9300 acres into trust status

Interior Secretary David Bernhardt and MHA Nation Chairman Mark Fox hold up the approval letter and shake hands.

WASHINGTON ~ Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs Tara Mac Lean Sweeney announced today the decision for the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) to take approximately 9,300 acres of land near Mandaree, North Dakota into trust status for the Three Affiliated Tribes of the Fort Berthold Reservation, a tribe also widely known as the Mandan, Hidatsa & Arikara (MHA) Nation. In 2011, the Tribe submitted its Fee-To-Trust Application for the Figure 4 Ranch Property, which is currently used by the Tribe for a buffalo ranch operation as well as oil and gas production. The approval of the Tribe's application will return a portion of lands originally included within the reservation boundaries under the Fort Laramie Treaty of 1851 to the Tribe.

"It is a great honor to approve the transfer of these lands into trust status and to support the Tribe's efforts to diversify its economy," said Assistant Secretary Sweeney. "The Mandan, Hidatsa & Arikara Nation has waited over seven years for a decision and I am proud that, with Secretary Bernhardt's leadership, our office was able to overcome the barriers and red tape stalling this important application."

"The MHA Nation is very grateful to Secretary Bernhardt, Assistant Secretary Sweeney, and the Department of Interior staff, especially Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary John Tahsuda, for their successful completion of our land into trust application," said Mark Fox, Chairman of the MHA Nation. "This significant step will positively enhance resource management and economic

Martha's Vineyard tribe, town spar over casino construction

BOSTON (AP) ~ Officials on Martha's Vineyard in Massachusetts are battling a Native American tribe's efforts to build a casino on the famous resort island.

Aquinnah town officials asked a Boston federal judge Friday to require the Aquinnah Wampanoag tribe to apply for a town building permit for their planned casino.

The tribe's lawyers argued it doesn't need town approval because the federal court has recognized its right to operate a casino on sovereign land.

The town's lawyers countered that the town still has a right to enforce certain health and safety regulations. The judge is expected to rule later on the dispute.

Work on the Aquinnah Cliffs Casino began in February after the U.S. Supreme Court declined to take up a legal challenge from the state and town, but construction halted amid the latest dispute.

Come Celebrate with us!!

The Oneida Higher Education Department would like to congratulate you on your recent grdaduation with a light lunch and refreshments (while supplies last)

Her graduation ceremony from Piedmont Technical College was an exciting event for Dallas, especially when she received her official graduation pin from the Funeral Services Program. "I really enjoyed the day of graduation in which we had our ceremony for the Funeral Services program, and then I had (Piedmont Technical College Accounting/Business Instructor) Richard Mandau pin me, followed by our giving our oaths of office at the school," Dallas said.

Dallas is aware she is a unique individual who has received a rather unique degree. "You need to be a special individual that can handle circumstances that happen in the world," Dallas said. "(I'll be) helping families in need and giving them less stress in making funeral decisions."

Increasing awareness of the little-known option of "green burials" is also something she is passionate about, Dallas said. "I would like to be more proactive about telling our people about green burials as many people are not aware of this type of funeral process," Dallas said. "It's an option our ancestors did many decades ago. A green burial is when a person wants to be buried in a blanket or a biodegradable casket, the option is theirs on how they want to be returned with Mother Earth. Only certain cemeteries allow this, for instance people down south people are more poverty stricken than northerners so often they can't afford thousands of dollars for a casket. A lot of funeral homes won't tell you about this option because they'll lose money when people won't buy their caskets."

Dallas would like to continue her education which, in all likelihood, will provide her with plenty of future employment options. "My goal now is to take my National Board Certifications and get my apprenticeship done," Dallas said. "I would also like to finish my Bachelor of Arts Degree in Business Marketing and use that degree to open a funeral home on our reservation. I would like to give our people more choices to go to in a time of need."

Dallas is grateful for the opportunity and support she received while on her academic endeavor. "I would like to thank my family for giving me the support to finish this program," Dallas said. "Especially my parents Milton and Nadine Dallas. My grandparents would be surprised that I graduated with this degree. I would also like to thank the Oneida Nation and my instructors for taking the time and giving me the opportunity to receive this degree and I look forward to using it in a few years."

Dallas is the daughter of Nadine and Milton Dallas. She is the granddaughter of Nancy and Anderson Summers, and Gladys and Raymond Dallas.

Helping Our Youth Learn to Make Healthy Decisions

Submitted by Leah Fuss, MSN, RN of Community Health Nursing

This spring I had the privilege of spending time with the 6B group of 6th graders at the Oneida Middle School. The primary reason for my time with these incredible young ladies and young men was to present the abstinence-based Choosing the Best Curriculum. The six, hour-long, lessons in the curriculum promotes good decision making with personal behaviors, healthy relationships, supportive friendships, and most of all self-respect. Throughout the six lessons the class and I discussed topics related to the emotional and physical aspects of natural growth and development. The first two lessons were a bit chaotic as the students and I got to know each other, but as the lessons continued, we started having fun. The students really seemed to embrace the idea that self-respect could help the students through making a well thought out decision when a difficult choice or situation occurs.

The students explored the consequences of how a lack of self-respect could lead to decisions that may prevent them from reaching the goals they have set for themselves. This group of 6th graders asked questions if they were unclear of a concept, encouraged each other to participate in group discussions, and class activities. Each class period I spent with the students helped me to better understand the importance of treating individuals, not matter what age, with encouragement and respect. As our lessons approached an ending, I was able to obtain a photograph showing us having fun while learning the value of self-respect. If you see the young ladies and gentlemen in the photo, ask them for an autograph, and you will see how their self-respect has bloomed this

Updated Domestic Animal Law now in effect

On May 22, 2019, the updated Oneida Domestic Animals law became effective. Some of the notable changes that are now active include:

- * Revisions to the dangerous animal declaration process. Under the new law, animals that approach or chases a human being or domestic animal in a menacing fashion or apparent attitude of attack; bite inflicts injury, attacks, or otherwise endangers the safety of a human being or domestic animal: is suspected to be owned, trained or harbored for the purpose of dog fighting; and/or has been declared to be a dangerous animal in any other jurisdiction are reasons an animal may be declared dangerous. Declared dangerous animals may not be kept and will be ordered to be removed from the reservation. Owners may contest the dangerous animal declaration by filing a written appeal to the Trial Court
- * Unaltered animal licenses are now 25.00 per animal.

This is important information for pet owners. Please review the law, the fines and penalties, and become familiar with any new requirements that may be applicable. To read the law, go to:

LICENSE AND VACCINATE YOUR PETS - IT'S THE LAW

Part of being a responsible pet owner is to make sure that your animals are current on their license and vaccinations. While there have been recent updates to the Oneida Domestic Animal Ordinance, pet owners that live on the reservation are still required to license their pet annually and to maintain a current rabies vaccination. Failure to do so is violation of the law and can result in fines. Pet owners are encouraged to utilize the services of the Oneida Pet Safety Program.

Program Services

The Oneida Pet Safety Program is designed to help Oneida members vaccinate their pets and to motivate pet owners to spay and neuter their pets—which is important to reduce bites.

Vaccinations, Spaying, and Neutering Services

The program will provide Oneida Retail Gift Cards in exchange for vaccinations, spaying and neutering. Pet owners are responsible for taking their pet to any licensed veterinarian in Brown or Outagamie County. Pet owners must pay 100% of the bill at the time of service. After the pet receives service, pet owners who provide the following information can receive Oneida Retail Gift Cards;

- 1. Proof of rabies certificate
- 2. Copy of your Oneida Tribal Identification Card
- 3. A copy of a current Oneida Pet License if you live on the reservation. You can bring your paperwork to either N7332 Water Circle Place, Little Bear Development Center, or at the Conservation Office, located at N8047 County Rd. U. If you do not have a current license for your animal, you can purchase the license from either location at the time the gift card is picked up.
- -An altered pet is $5.00 to license
- -An intact pet is $25.00 to license
- 4. An itemized receipt of the vet services (i.e. spaying, neutering, and/or vaccinations).
- -Any licensed vet in Brown or Outagamie County will be accepted

High water levels at Oneida Lake

Water levels at Onyota'a:ka Lake remain several feet above normal this spring causing delays in the preparation of many amenities. According to the Oneida Environmental, Health, Safety, and Land Division, these delays have postponed the installation of fishing docks, sand for beach upgrades, buoys, and lawn mowing in the recreation area. These upgrades are expected to occur by the middle of June as the water returns to normal levels.

Healthy Talks and Walks, Plus Lunch starting July 12

By Mark W. Powless

SEOTS Director

According to the 2015 Community Health Survey of Oneida Tribal members in southeast Wisconsin, 34% are considered overweight and another 45% are considered obese. As such, Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) is taking an active role in helping community members reduce their weight and improve their health. The Centers for Disease Control state, "...even a modest weight loss, such as 5 to 10 percent of your total body weight, is likely to produce health benefits, such as improvements in blood pressure, blood cholesterol, and blood sugars." These improvements lead to better physical health, mood, mobility, energy levels, and self-confidence.

Starting on Friday, July 12 the SEOTS Health Talks and Walks program will resume and this year will include lunch. Participants will meet at 11:30am for a health-conscious lunch and basic nutri-

Food Distribution Center

The staff at the Nori Damrow Food Distribution Center are ready to help families and individuals in need of assistance with providing healthy food.

The Oneida Food Distribution began in 1980 thru the hard work and determination of Nori Damrow. It was started under the Great Lakes Indian Tribal Council and then in 1983 it officially became the Oneida Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations (OFD-PIR) in the old Tribal Building on Fish Creek Road. Nori also led the way as the Manager of the program to a new building built where it is presently at N7360 Water Circle Place in Oneida.

Our program is funded through the Food & Nutrition Service (FNS), an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, or USDA as we know it. FD-PIR is managed locally by their Indian Tribal Organizations, which is also known as ITO'S. We are funded 75% USDA and 25% ITO.

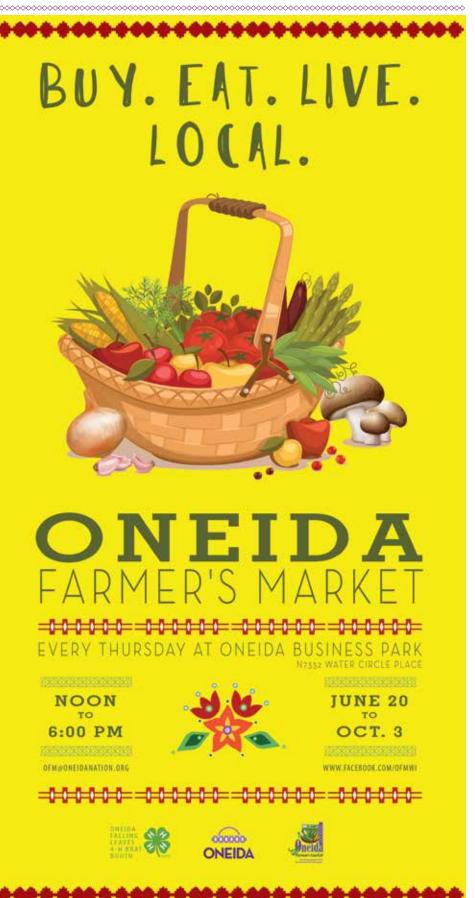

Our agreement is we manage the program according to the USDA 501 Handbook of Regulations as well as the Oneida Nation policies and procedures. We also belong to the NAFDPIR (National Association of Food Distribution on Indian Reservations) organization which meets once a year. This is where we meet with USDA and Tribal Officials.

This has brought about some positive changes in the type of food we want to feed our people. Were divided into four Regions. Our Region is the Midwest Area which includes Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and the Eastern Tribes of New York are included with us.

We started a Cooking and Nutrition Class that we host once a month. Put together by Oneida Emergency Food Pantry, Food Distribution and UW - Extension Food Wise Nutritionists. This is held the first Thursday of the month from 10:30 A.M.-11:30 A.M. in the Food Distribution Kitchen. There is no cost and you can register over the phone or e-mail. In June we will be cooking with Leafy Greens. You can get some ideas on cooking with USDA foods and Pantry foods. If you are interested, please give us a call at 920-869-1041.

Each month participating households receive a food package to help them maintain a nutritionally balanced diet. We offer a nutritious food package consisting of fresh fruits and vegetables as

Evers announces partnership to increase insurance enrollment

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Gov. Tony Evers is announcing a new partnership between state agencies to enroll more people in health insurance plans.

Evers announced the partnership during a state Capitol news conference Monday.

The plan calls for the state Department of Health Services and the Office of the Commissioner of Insurance to work together to educate consumers by informing them about the availability of insurance agents and promoting the use of HealthCare.gov, a federal website with information on the Affordable Care Act.

The agencies will engage with community organizations, health insurance providers and health care systems to strengthen markets and help state residents transition from Medicaid to private coverage. The agencies also will continue to try and convince Republicans who control the Legislature to expand Medicaid, a move they have flatly rejected so far.

Youth and Elder Fishing June 8

Save the Date! 20th Annual Youth and Elder Fishing Day rescheduled to June 8! Although the YEFD event is billed as "Rain or Shine," this year the forecast of rain, temps in the 40s and gusting wind forced the decision to postpone. We didn't want to do it, but it's a good thing we did, as the forecast was mostly accurate – not much rain but the cold wind would have certainly kept folks away.

Here's hoping for a taste of summer, a good turnout, and great fishing on June 8. See you there!

US Supreme Court denies review of Arizona child welfare case FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) ~ The U.S. Supreme Court has denied review of an Arizona case challenging a law that gives preference to American Indians in adoptions of Native children.

The order this week leaves in place a lower court ruling that dismissed a complaint from a Phoenix-based, right-leaning think tank.

The Goldwater Institute sought to keep two children with ties to the Gila River and Navajo tribes from being removed from their non-Native foster

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled the case was moot because the children had been adopted.

The 9th Circuit didn't rule on the constitutionality of the Indian Child Welfare Act.

That question is before a federal appeals court in Louisiana in a separate case out of Texas that represents the most significant challenge to the 40-year-old law.

PCSD offers Summer Food Service Program

Stressing the importance of offering nutritious meals to children during the summer months, the Pulaski Community School District announces the sponsorship of the Summer Food Service Program.

The Summer Food Service Program (SFSP), which is funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and is administered by the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, provides nutritious meals to children during the summer, when free and reduced-price school meals are typically unavailable. Free meals will be made available to children 18 years of age and under. People over 18 years of age who are determined by a state or local public educational agency to be mentally or physically disabled and who also participate in a public or private non-profit school program during the regular school year may receive free meals as well.

The following locations will be serving the free meals this summer Pulaski Community Middle School; Breakfast 7:40-8:15 a.m. and Lunch 11 a.m.- 1:15 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Meals are provided to eligible children regardless of race, color, national origin, age, gender or disability and there will be no discrimination in the course of meal service.

"This program fills a void created when school lunches are not available," said Caitlin Harrison, PCSD Food Services Director. "Helping parents meet the nutritional needs of their children is the strength of this program."

To file a program complaint of discrimination, complete the USDA Program Discrimination Complaint Form, (AD-3027) found online at: http://www. ascr.usda.gov/complaint filing cust. html, and at any USDA office, or write a letter addressed to USDA and provide in the letter all of the information requested in the form. To request a copy of the complaint form, call (866) 632-9992

Wisconsin professor pioneers microgrid technology

By Chris Hubbuch

Wisconsin State Journal

APPLETON, Wis. (AP) ~ Proponents of a less centralized electric system envision a future in which residents, businesses and communities own and operate solar panels augmented with batteries and other generators hooked together in so-called microgrids.

So what exactly is a microgrid?

It's a self-contained electric system that can seamlessly connect and disconnect from the main power grid, said Bob Lasseter, the UW-Madison professor who coined the term in the early 2000s.

Lasseter helped pioneer the technology after seeing a small natural-gas-powered generator with a system to capture heat given off by the engine. Instead of going to waste, this energy could be used to heat and cool a building.

Moving generators closer to where power was needed, Lasseter realized, eliminated a lot of waste from the traditional system of remote power plants connected by long wires.

"I got really intrigued and started realizing that small energy sources ... are actually going to have an impact," he said

Microgrid technology is expected to be a critical part of incorporating large amounts of solar electricity into the grid and making the overall grid more stable, the Wisconsin State Journal reported.

Unlike generators, which produce electrical current by spinning magnets around coils of wires, most solar panels rely on the electrical grid to function.

"If the power goes out it just shuts down," said Tom Jahns, professor of power electronics and electrical machines at UW-Madison.

If there are a relatively small number of solar panels in a system, that's no problem; but when solar starts to outnumber spinning generators, Jahns said, "the system gets more wobbly."

Microgrids also make the system more resilient to natural and human-made disruptions. When the power goes out, a microgrid automatically disconnects and continues operating as an ``island," Jahns said. Microgrids can also help get the larger grid back up and running.

The cost of microgrid controllers is still prohibitive for many applications, but the technology is becoming more commonplace. Navigant Research has identified more than 2,250 projects planned or installed as of the end of 2018.

One such project, built by Menasha-based Faith Technologies, has been running for the last year at the Gordon Bubolz Nature Preserve in Appleton.

On an overcast day in early May with temperatures hovering around 50 degrees, two fields of solar panels were kicking out a little more than twice what was needed to supply an 18,000-squarefoot lodge, an educational center and a handful of outbuildings.

Most of the excess was being used to charge a 100-kilowatt battery, which also drew from a natural-gas fired microturbine that doubles as a heater. An extra 2.5 kilowatts was being fed into utility power lines, although the project is too large to receive payment for excess generation.

"We're very generous," said Caramy Biederman, the project's lead engineer.

With its combination of generation and storage _ there's a fuel cell, powered with hydrogen that is produced with excess solar power, and a backup natural gas generator _ the grid is controlled by a central computer, which balances supply and demand in much the same way as the large grid.

The $3 million system, believed to be the first of its kind in Wisconsin, includes more generation than needed but it allows Faith to experiment with different configurations.

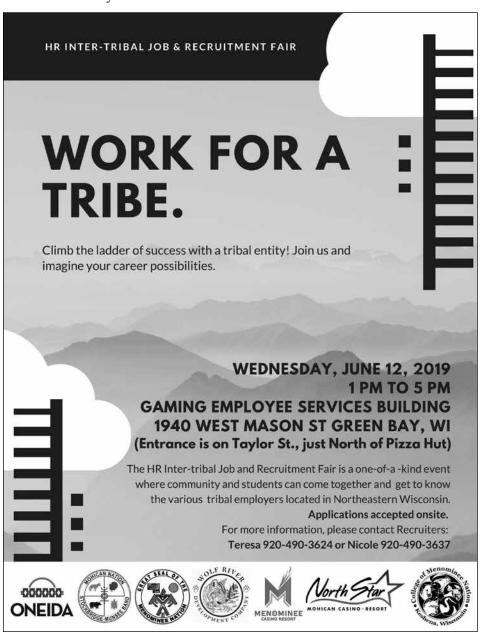

"We basically built several microgrids into one," Biederman said.

For example, it might be more efficient to run the microturbine all-out and store the extra energy; or to use utility electricity at night when it's cheaper and save the batteries for a cloudy afternoon.

Faith Technologies donated the system - along with the new lodge - to help Bubolz be more sustainable and as a way to demonstrate its microgrid systems for potential clients, usually commercial or industrial companies looking to cut energy costs.

Steve Nieland, the company's director of energy solutions, said in most cases a microgrid system can pay for itself in 10 to 15 years.

"Microgrid technology and the grid really are things that work hand in hand together," Nieland said. "We like to think microgrid technology is going to help the grid and provide more resiliency while reducing that carbon footprint."
