Across the years Oneida Nation citizen and newly elected Oneida Business Committee (OBC) Councilwoman Marie Summers has constantly strived to improve and educate herself both academically and in her career decisions. “I graduated from Milwaukee Area Technical College with my GED and my associate degree in Management Development,” Summers said. “From there I graduated from Concordia University with my degree in Business Administration and I’m currently pursuing a master’s degree in Indigenous Law Legal Studies.”

Her employment career has also brought her a wealth of knowledge here in Oneida and across Indian Country. “I started out at the old Oneida Health Center, worked as a blackjack dealer at the casino, and eventually landed in Human Resources,” Summers said. “From that point forward my career was human resources (HR) driven.”

The global financial crisis of 2008 solidified Summers’ career move. “I took the severance package from Oneida and pursued management positions with other tribes in other states,” Summers said. “I became the HR Director for a tribe in California and helped them open a new casino. That was an exciting career move for me and I gained a lot of experience. From there I took on other HR and HR Director roles with the Navajo in Gallup, New Mexico, for the Quinault Indian Nation in Washington State, and for the Saginaw Chippewa in Michigan.

“My career kept growing and growing,” Summers said. “These were big casinos with big workforces in their tribes and I kept gaining career momentum as I stepped into different positions while working with these Nations, so this has been the biggest drive of my career.”

While the years spent working with and living in other native communities had a strong impact in her professional life, they were slowly replaced with a growing desire to return home. “I had finally decided to walk away from the human resources industry and return home to Oneida,” Summers said. “I began enrolling in law courses and started pursuing my master’s degree. While it’s a master’s degree and not the full Juris degree, the real benefit of it is a lot of the courses I’ve taken surround Federal Indian Law. And all of this revolves around what I’m doing on the OBC right now.

The academic rigors of law courses-es opened other areas of interest for Summers while she worked as a loan officer with Comprehensive Housing and as a trial clerk on the Oneida Judiciary. “I decided to put my name in the running for OBC because I’m open to new opportunities and ideas,” Summers said. “I had no idea where it was going to go or what impact the current pandemic would have. But my campaign started gaining momentum and I began thinking I might have a chance here. By the end of it I was exhausted but I made it. I was very excited that I was chosen by the people because I feel the skill sets and experiences I gained over the years, along with the understanding of businesses and the gaming industry, will help me in this government role.”

As she acclimates to her new role with the Oneida Nation, one area of interest she would like to familiarize herself with is employment law. “I’ve learned while working in Indian Country that having an employment law in place is something that would safeguard us if we ever had to fight an employment issue with the federal government,” Summers said. “I know past councils have worked diligently on an employment law and it was introduced in past terms, but I want to look at that again and possibly introduce it again with my approach and understanding of it.”

“I’d like to share that with our Nation’s citizens and introduce a small piece of it instead of throwing the overwhelming entirety of it at them,” Summers said. “I don’t know how far that would go but I’m willing to take that on for the next three years because I think it’s important to learn about our sovereignty and how it’s under attack in different ways. For instance the State of Wisconsin has a very restrictive say in our Class III gaming, so when they’re looking at legislation we need to be prepared. I feel an employment law would be very valuable to the tribe and would help us argue against any other law if we were faced with it.

“Right now all we have is an employment policy and procedure book,” Summers said. “I believe the whole point was to establish the law but separate the policy and procedure part of it. So this is one of the things I want to work with the Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) on because I know they had also been working in it, but it’s such a long process for our citizens to embrace so we just have to keep trying. I’m hoping this will be one of my initiatives in my term.”

Housing is another issue she would like to see worked on, according to Summers. “I’d like to work with our General Manager (GM) with housing,” Summers said. “I’m going to be looking at and hoping to make some changes to the laws that govern our loan area because the COVID-19 pandemic has shown we are short on housing. With my experience as a loan officer I’d like to take a look at some of these things with the GM and see if we can make some changes to them with Comprehensive Housing, or just housing in general because it needs to be addressed.”

Support is something she’s always had and she’s grateful to her family, friends, and community. “There’s always been a lot of support for me,” Summers said. “People have always encouraged me and a lot of them helped me through my campaign with things like distributing door hangers, campaign signs, and keeping up with my Facebook page. I had an advisor who showed me how to maneuver in the campaign world because I’m a human resources professional, not a politician by nature, but I’m learning that role very quickly.

I have advisors, friends, professional friends, and others who are helping guide me through everything when I need it.”

Summers, who is currently engaged to Orville (OJ) Cornelius, is also grateful for his support through what has turned out to be a very eventful 2020. “OJ proposed to me and it surprised me because I wasn’t expecting it,” Summers said. “I was so distracted with my campaign and starting this role so there has been a lot going on in my world. OJ surprised me and I decided I was ready for this because he’s been such a huge support to me and I love him a lot.”

She is the mother of three adult children and two teenagers, and she has six grandchildren. “Me being a politician is new for them,” Summers said. “We’re all adjusting and they’re very proud. We’re all just hanging together and trying to understand what is happening now that we have a new environment for our family.”

As she embarks on her latest journey as an Oneida Nation Councilwoman, Summers has a few thoughts to share with the community. “I think our new BC has some very capable individuals in these positions and one thing I really pride myself on is the fact that I come from the Oneida Nation,” Summers said. “With all the experiences I’ve had with other nations, there’s no other place I’d rather be than right here in Oneida. We know how to get things done, and in a crisis we know how to make things work, and I believe 100 percent that we’re going to come out the other end of this recovered and with our people back to work. I’m very excited and I hope our people keep the fire strong because we’re going to get through this. It’s just a matter of time.”

A message from Secretary Lisa Liggins

Shekoli,

I am honored to issue my first article as the newly elected Secretary. I'd like to start by recognizing all the support and encouragement I've received during the election process and, especially, these past few weeks since taking office. This would not have been possible without all of you and your support. I'm grateful and excited as I take on my new role as Secretary. Yaw^ko

There are high levels of stress, anxiety, fear and frustration associated with this pandemic. It's imperative, especially in times like these, to be kind to yourself and to others. We continue to see an increase in COVID-19 cases within our jurisdiction. It's important that we work to flatten the curve by being vigilant in practicing social distancing, wearing masks, and having good hand hygiene. Be kind. Stay safe. Stay healthy.

Congratulations to the my fellow Business Committee members, Judicial Officers, and members of our Nation's Elected Entities. The experience thus far has been challenging and amazing. As a Committee,

Oneida Nation Secretary Lisa Liggins

we've been busy getting up-to-date on all the decisions that have been made due to the COVID-19 pandemic. While daunting at times, I'm confident this group has all the tools and abilities needed to transition our Nation into recovery. The Business Committee is participating in a Strategic Planning session to assist us in moving forward; I look forward to working with the group to identify specific actions we need to execute the goals and objectives we set for this term.

My administrative goals for the next three months are: 1) on-board and train the Senior Information Management Specialist, the position I vacated to become Secretary); 2) work with the community, internal departments and the Public Health Officer to see what solutions, if any, we can come up with to hold General Tribal Council meetings in safe way; and 3) for the areas I oversee, assess the reporting structure in the Business Committee Support Office and Records Management and update the functions.

I'm still getting used to my new position. Getting into the habit of sharing updates on my work with the public here in the newspaper and on social media will be quite the change; I am excited to meet that challenge and provide as much communication and information to our community. I appreciate your patience, as I transition in to this new role. If you have questions, please feel free to contact my office [920-869-4421], e-mail me [lliggins@oneidanation.org], send me a text [920-412-7164], or reach me on Facebook [<https://www.facebook.com/SecretaryLiggins>].

Protect you and your family from Seasonal Influenza (Flu)

Now more than ever, it is important to get your flu vaccine to help protect yourself, your family, and community. The flu (influenza) is a serious respiratory disease, and the flu vaccine is the best way to prevent getting the flu. This year, our community is also dealing with the COVID-19 pandemic, which is also a respiratory virus with similar symptoms to the flu. With both the flu and COVID spreading this fall, it is extra important for the community to get the flu vaccine.

What is the Flu?

The flu is a contagious respiratory illness caused by the influenza virus that infects the nose, throat and lungs. Anyone can get the flu, including babies, young adults and the elderly. The flu is spread year-round, so it is important to get vaccinated early in the flu season.

How is the Flu Spread?

The flu is spread through respiratory droplets found in the nose and throat of infected people. When a person who has the flu coughs or sneezes those droplets can be breathed in by people around them or land on objects. If someone touches those objects and then touches their mouth, nose or eyes the droplets can enter the body and infect that person.

What Kinds of Flu Vaccines are Available?

The Oneida Community Health Department is offering two vaccine options for children 6 months and older, an injectable flu vaccine and a nasal vaccine (called Flu Mist) that is sprayed into the child's nostrils. For adults we are only offering the injectable flu vaccine.

How Are this Year's Flu Clinics Different from Years Past?

This year, the Oneida Community Health Department will be offering the first flu clinic on October 13th as a drive-thru only option. This option will be for adults and children 5 years and older who can receive the flu shot in their arm. To keep community members and staff safe, no more than 4 people per vehicle can receive a vaccine. Participants will remain in their cars and be required to wear a mask for the duration of the clinic. The drive-thru clinic will take place in the parking lot of the Oneida Nation Elementary school.

The next two flu clinics will be held on October 29th and November 18th and will be run as in-person only clinics. These flu clinics will take place inside the Oneida Nation Elementary School and will be run as they have been in years past. Participants will be screened for COVID-19 symptoms when entering the building and will need to maintain a 6-foot social distance throughout the clinic. Participants are required to wear a mask for the duration of the clinic.

Man pleads guilty to poaching black bear on MN reservation

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) ~ A man accused of shooting a 700-pound black bear on the Red Lake Indian Reservation in Minnesota and removing its head pleaded guilty Thursday, although his lawyer alleges that only half of the federal government’s story is accurate.

Brett Stimac, 41, of Brainerd, Minnesota, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges of wildlife trafficking and trespassing on Indian land for the September 2019 incident, according to the U.S. Attorney’s office for the District of Minnesota. Prosecutors have said Stimack killed the bear with a compound bow.

The Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians does not permit non-Indians to hunt bear, a clan animal, within the boundaries of the reservation, due to the bear’s spiritual significance to the tribe, prosecutors said.

Stimac’s attorney, Brian Toder, said Stimac originally lied about shooting the bear, but the animal was already dead when his client found it.

“That doesn’t make him not guilty of violating the charges, but the facts are considerably different than when this was first brought to everyone’s attention,” Toder added. “My client came upon a dead bear, is what happened. It had been dead for a while. He did make up a story about how he shot the bear, but he never did. It was just a story.”

Authorities said Stimac killed the bear on Sept. 1 and returned to the reservation the next day with his girlfriend, posing for photos with the bear’s carcass. He posted the photos on Facebook, along with a post claiming the bear was more than 700 pounds (318 kilograms).

Because of the bear’s size, Stimac could not move the bear from the reservation. He went back to the reservation on Sept. 3 and tried to remove the bear’s hide. When he couldn’t do that, he used a saw to remove the bear’s head and paws and harvested about 71 pounds (32 kilograms) of meat, according to court documents.

He left the rest of the carcass and at least one paw behind.
