

Nation's COVID-19 response effort receives Community Impact Award

Oneida Comprehensive Health Division

(Oneida Reservation) - The Brown County United way held its annual celebration on March 11, 2021 and took this time to celebrate their community partners. Oneida Nation was among one of the organizations presented with the Community Impact Award that honors the organization for demonstrating leadership and innovation, while also working with external stakeholders to address priority needs on a population level.

Oneida Nation staff have given tremendous effort to the COVID-19 response and have been at the front-lines, working to keep the Oneida community safe during the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. This Community Impact Award is a great recognition of all the hard work, resilience, and innovation that the Oneida Nation COVID-19 response effort has put forth.

“This award is a wonderful surprise and great recognition of the collaborative work that occurred in our pandemic response,” Oneida Nation Public Health Officer Michelle Myers said.

Brown County Health & Human Services, Brown County Emergency Management, and De Pere Health Department were also presented with this award for their continued collaboration in COVID-19 response efforts.

Hope in the fight against child abuse, neglect

By Mike Hoeft

Oneida Family Services, Indian Child Welfare

The year-long pandemic has made daily struggles even more challenging, yet we've seen signs of hope in our community in the fight against child abuse and neglect.

Our agency is excited for this milestone: the first trial reunification for a family in an Oneida Family Court case. The children were removed from their home and placed with a relative while mom and dad worked on their challenges. After a year in which many of us also suffered losses of jobs, health and loved ones due to Covid-19, this young couple is now reunifying with their children so they can again live under the same roof.

"The whole family really put in the work," said Dakota Webster, the ICW case manager who worked with this family. "At first the mom told us, 'I just want to get my kids back.' Then she realized she needed to get herself healthy before she could be of help to anyone else."

Strong partnerships among community members, Family Service agencies, schools, and law enforcement agencies are essential in the fight against child abuse and neglect.

Our staff is wearing blue on Wednesdays in April to recognize Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention Month and will share family fun activities to encourage connection with the children in our lives.

Our Department is devoted to Healing Families Together and acknowledges that we all have the ability, and responsibility, to advocate for children and families.

"All children deserve to have healthy parents," Dakota said. Our department helps families identify and overcome the barriers and challenges they face, such as housing, unemployment, transportation, and basic needs. The best defense to neglect and abuse is prevention, and a safe, stable, and a nurturing environment. Education efforts pertaining to child maltreatment increase public awareness on ways to prevent and recognize child abuse and neglect.

"I'm proud that we have our own Children's Code and are able as a tribe to be in control of what happens to our Native children. I am also appreciative of the resources that are available through our tribe. It's tough when you don't have resources available to help," Dakota said.

Of her recent case, she said the dad really turned around his life, too.

"They had to reinvent how they communicate as a couple, what they do as a couple and they had to fall in love all over again. It was really cool to see them come through," she said. The mom was already using coping skills when Covid hit and was able to put those skills into use, Dakota said.

Oneida Nation receives $8,718 grant for community composting project

By William Ver Voort

The Oneida Nation has received a $8,718 grant from North Central Sustainable Agriculture, Research & Education (SARE). The funds from this grant will support the efforts of the Oneida Nation to develop a community composting education project based on the use and demonstration of various forms of composting and the distribution of composting educational materials.

The grant will assist the Oneida Nation in creating a project that will improve agriculture and food system infrastructure. We also expect to improve food accessibility and soil health. This project will assist the Oneida Nation in teaching sustainable agricultural practices to our community members who want to learn more about food waste, healthy soils and where their food comes from. With the present and future health issues that are plaguing our people, such as diabetes, obesity and heart disease, it is important to help our community understand the role that agriculture and food plays in their quality of life and in building a healthy community.

Because of the ongoing COVID 19 pandemic, all precautions will be taken to protect participants

To those who showed kindness in remembrance and memories and stories. Conversations about the people who lived in Oneida in the past, stories of everyday life and listening to the happiness and sadness of life long ago.

To all who shared a memory that flowed with humor and laughter of which there were many.

To those who called or sent letters and cards to comfort - from many places both close and far.

To those who brought food to encourage us to keep up our strength.

To those who visited and traveled to say a last goodbye and give comfort.

To those who shared words of sympathy and expressed condolences.

To those who sent flowers, plants, monetary gifts, and memorial items.

To those who lifted our spirits with song. Joanne Shenandoah who called and sang a special song for Loretta. Oneida hymns (CDs courtesy of Carol Cornelius, Neil Cornelius also Edi Cornelius-Grosskopf).

To the Unity Hospice for their compassionate care, sharing their knowledge and helping our Mother through this final part of her journey in a respectful and dignified manner.
