Mark Fischer Among the Aspens Sculptor

Article Credit: www.ggbcf.org
On Tuesday, June 7, 2022 the Greater Green Bay Community Foundation, in partnership with CODAworx, unveiled “Among the Aspens.” Among the Aspens is a public art installation commissioned by Oneida Nation artist and Turtle Clan member, Mark Fischer, for the Foundation’s new location at 400 S. Washington St., in downtown Green Bay, Wisconsin.

Fischer, a nationally renowned and award-winning sculptor, shares his mother’s Native American culture, stories, and love of nature symbolically.

Safe Shelter Volunteer Donation Request

Safe Shelter, located at 2155 Hutson Rd., which opened this past November, has provided emergency shelter to up to 16 families at any given time. Since then, they’ve been able to help 13 families overcome their obstacles to find housing on their own. Unfortunately, as soon as one family moves out, another from a waiting list of 42 families, is there to replace them. The demand to provide for homeless families, and individuals, is as great or greater than it’s ever been.

The 8.3% pandemic inflation rate has placed an increase on the price of housing costs along with food and everyday products. A two-bedroom home rental, according to rentdata.org, increased more than the current rate of inflation, from $832 in 2018 to $924 in April, 2022. This extra nearly $100 a family must spend only adds to the anxiety for families along with other difficult hurdles. Most Safe Shelter residents typically have only high school diplomas, low credit scores, and, sometimes, convictions that disqualify them from a lease agreement.

Safe Shelter was founded on cultural values and shows the eagle in its logo, as if perched above her nest, along with the six diamonds nestled together. The 6th diamond from the Oneida Wampum belt symbolizes Oneida historical help to the Tuscarora people in their time of need. Today, those diamonds represent the Safe Shelter’s strength, unity, and tireless effort to help the less fortunate.

They cannot do it alone and need your monetary and physical donations, along with your volunteer help, to achieve their mission to end homelessness. Go to SafeShelterGB.org to learn more about what you can do to give comfort to those that don’t have a place to call home. Become a mentor, provide meals, or even give a warm embrace to those that are struggling.

through art. His work Among the Aspens includes three bronze and copper aspen trees ranging from 12 to 16 feet. They will serve as a striking focal point for the Foundation’s public plaza designed by local Landscape Architect Jeremy Kox.

“Just as aspen grow in harmonious family groups that talk to each other, they teach us the importance of unity, endurance, and communication,” said Fischer. “A group of aspens is considered a singular organism with an extensive root system, teaching us that we too are all interconnected.”

In celebration of our diverse, interconnected, and collaborative community, Fischer incorporated interlocking branches representing generations of individuals supportive hands. In addition, each trunk is adorned with raised bronze symbols representing the past, present, and future of our community.

“The commission of public art reflecting our community’s rich history and diverse perspectives has been a priority from day one of this project,” said Dennis Buehler, President and CEO, Greater Green Bay Community Foundation. “It has been an honor to work with an artist of Mark’s caliber. His new work is reflective of a community rooted in a rich history while challenging ourselves to grow more inclusive practices.”

Bay Bank And FACC Team Up To Help Small Businesses

As the only tribe-owned bank in Wisconsin, it was only natural for Bay Bank to reach out and forge a strong relationship with the First American Capital Corporation, Inc. (FACC), a Native Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) organization, certified by the U.S. Department of the Treasury.

While Bay Bank offers a variety of loans and products to businesses, FACC works with many businesses initially unable to qualify for a traditional business loan.

“We share a similar mission — to help Native Americans through economic development,” said Nathan King, Bay Bank’s vice president. “We want to help FACC build its capacity since they can help more small businesses.”

FACC Co-Executive Director Gary Mejchar said working with Bay Bank allows the organization to assist more businesses, including expanding or newly formed tribally owned enterprises. FACC has been especially active in helping and growing construction industry-related firms, a market sector FACC has considerable experience and expertise working in. Those businesses will likely benefit from the 2021 federal infrastructure law since a portion of contracts will have participation goals for qualified businesses with Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE) certifications. FACC aids businesses with the DBE and other local/state/federal minority certification programs.

“We can do more together,” Mejchar said. “There are some things Bay Bank cannot do, but we can,” such as providing in-depth pre-loan and post-loan technical services with clients, such as loan readiness assistance and help businesses grow capacity so they eventually qualify for the credit standards of commercial banks. Likewise, Bay Bank, for example, provides both business and consumer banking services, while FACC can only serve business clients.

Another link between the two organizations is Bay Bank President Jeff Bowman, who helped found FACC and currently sits on the organization’s board of directors. “That’s a great connection between us,” Mejchar said.

Referrals also go between the two organizations. Bay Bank may recommend a customer without enough equity to receive a traditional business loan work with FACC first. Once FACC clients grow and can work with a traditional bank, Bay Bank hopes to be that option, King said.

“FACC fosters economic development in Native communities. They provide great technical assistance that helps businesses grow,” he said.

Based in a Milwaukee suburb, FACC also provides its clients with business development services, such as assistance with business planning, business management assistance, and financial management assistance, along with application assistance for minority and disadvantaged business certifications.

Although Bay Bank works closely with FACC, King said it also has good relationships with the state’s three other Native-run CDFIs: Wisconsin Native Loan Fund in Lac du Flambeau; First Nations Community Financial in Black River Falls; and NiiJii Capital Partners Inc. in Keshena.

(Oneida Reservation) – The Oneida One Stops in partnership with US Oil and Exxon Mobil rewarded 6 local schools with checks for $500 each. The checks are part of the Education Alliance program and the funds were presented to Oneida High School, Oneida Middle School, Oneida Elementary School, Mac Arthur Elementary School (Green Bay), Pulaski High School, and Pioneer Elementary School (Ashwaubenon).

The schools were nominated by Oneida Retail for the grant and each school was selected by Exxon Mobil. The grant is intended to help each school maintain/create science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) programs within the school.

“We are excited to be able to assist these local schools with the grants,” said Phil Wisneski, Oneida Retail Spokesperson. “STEM is a key component to succeeding not only in the classroom, but in the workforce as well.”

Exxon and Mobil are fueling young minds and helping create “aha” moments through the Educational Alliance. Since its inception, they have committed over $35 million to this national program, which funds math and science programs at schools in need.

Through the partnership with the Educational Alliance, Exxon Mobil and Oneida One Stops help give students the tools and technology they need to connect what they learn in the classroom with what they see in the real world.

Department of Education awards UW-Green Bay $1.91 million to continue programs for first-generation students

Assures continuation of programs for five years to assist low-income, college-bound students

(GREEN BAY) The University of Wisconsin-Green Bay’s TRIO program—Upward Bound (UB)—has been renewed and will receive $1.91 million in funding from the Department of Education Office of Federal TRIO Programs. This grant assures the program’s continuation for the next five years, through 2027.

This program was introduced to aid first-generation and low-income families. UW-Green Bay Upward Bound serves high school students from the Green Bay Area Public Schools. Within the Trio Programs, is also the Regional Center for Upward Bound Math/Science Program (RCMS) which was established in 1990 to address the need for science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) instruction serving students from 20 high schools throughout Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan. The RCMS program is currently in its fifth year of funding and the University will submit the renewal application for this program this month.

Eighty students at a time are allowed in each of the two programs. To qualify for either program, a student must be enrolled at a target school (or an eighth-grader at a feeder school), not have finished their junior year of high school, and be at or below the federally determined low-income level, and/or be a potential first-generation student. Two-thirds of the participants within the program must meet both criteria. A student must also have at least a 2.0 GPA (on a 4.0 scale), and have a goal of entering a postsecondary institution.

“We are excited that the funding for our Upward Bound Program was renewed as the University continues to place greater focus on college access and the first-generation student success,” UW-Green Bay Vice Chancellor for University Inclusivity & Student Affairs, Dr. Corey A. King states.

Upward Bound and RCMS offer a residential pre-college program each summer and academic year programming from the time of enrollment until graduation. Students live on campus, take classes tailored to their needs and interests, and experience college life while gaining an understanding of the responsibility and effort it takes to succeed. During the school year, students have access to tutoring and academic counseling to keep them on track for graduation and a future in a post-secondary institution. There’s no cost to the participants. The grant covers all expenses.

The grant is not automatic every award cycle. It has to be reapplied for, and those in competition for the funds must meet stringent requirements to be considered.

“UW-Green Bay is proud of the UB and RCMS Staff for their continued success in these vital programs,” King said. “In addition, the University’s Office of Grant and Research staff were instrumental in ensuring the quality and depth of the grant renewal submission were outcome-driven, fiscally sound, and impactful.”

Oneida Prenatal Program Celebrates 5th Year of Lactation-Friendly Workplace Initiative

In 2018, the Oneida Prenatal Program began working towards improving the lactation spaces in key areas throughout the Oneida Nation. Over the past 5 years, this initiative has been very successful, accounting for 13 newly decorated rooms furnished with all the items a nursing mother would need to provide for her child during her workday. In chronological order, these areas include:

• 2018: Oneida Casino (Main, IMAC, and W. Mason)
• 2019: Oneida Skenandoah Building
• 2020: Oneida Nation Schools
• 2021: Oneida Retail (Hwy. 54, W. Mason, Larson, and Shell)
• 2022: Oneida Family Center (Social Services, Family Fitness Center, and Arts Cottages)

We thank each participating department for making their facility a lactation-friendly workplace. Also, we extend our appreciation to the Department of Public Works and Oneida Wardrobe, who worked so hard to renovate these rooms and provided clean clothing items, respectively. Next year, we will strive once again to make our 6th year successful by identifying another area that will help provide our infants with the First Sacred Food. As always, we welcome your suggestions. Sun Safety Action Steps

Don’t Burn
Overexposure to the sun is the most preventable risk factor for skin cancer.

Avoid Sun Tanning and Tanning Beds
Ultraviolet (UV) light from tanning beds and the sun cause skin cancer and wrinkling. If you want to look like you’ve been in the sun, use a sunless self-tanning product instead.

Cover Up
Wear protective clothing, such as a long-sleeved shirt, pants, a wide-brimmed hat, and sunglasses, where possible.

Seek Shade/Use Umbrellas
Seek shade when appropriate. Remember that the sun’s UV rays are strongest between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Generously Apply Sunscreen
Generously apply sunscreen to all exposed skin using a Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of at least 30 that provides broad-spectrum protection from both UVA and UVB rays. Reapply every two hours, even on cloudy days, and after swimming or sweating.

Use Extra Caution Near Water, Snow and Sand
Water, snow, and sand reflect the damaging rays of the sun, which can increase your chance of sunburn.

Check the UV Index
The UV Index provides important information to help you plan your outdoor activities in ways that prevent overexposure to the sun.

Get Vitamin D Safely
Get vitamin D safely through a diet that includes vitamin supplements and foods fortified with vitamin D. Don’t seek the sun or indoor tanning.

Spring - Review Your Safety Checklist: Family Emergency Plan

The National Safety Council recommends every family have an emergency plan in place in the event of a natural disaster or other catastrophic event. Spring is a great time to review that plan with family members. Have a home and car emergency kit. The Federal Emergency Management Agency says an emergency kit should include one gallon of water per day for each person, at least a three-day supply of food, flashlight, and batteries, first aid kit, filter mask, plastic sheeting and duct tape, and medicines. Visit the FEMA website for a complete list. The emergency plan also should include:

♦ A communications plan to outline how your family members will contact one another and where to meet if it’s safe to go outside

♦ A shelter-in-place plan if outside air is contaminated; FEMA recommends sealing windows, doors, and air vents with plastic sheeting

♦ A getaway plan including various routes and destinations in different directions

Also, make sure your first aid kit is updated.
